Spray Mark

SUITS and COATS
for Misses

Now, more than ever, young women are rebelling against the dreary monotony of the commonplace—the drab uniformity of the ordinary in their suits and coats.

To them, the new Spray-Mark designs for fall and winter come as a relief. They are new—from fabric to fashioning. They are smart—from oddly shaped collars to slim hems.

And considering their obvious quality, they are priced most moderately.

As to the Cost of Diamonds.

Two reasons were ascribed here yesterday for the present high cost of diamonds and their scarcity in the American market. The first was the overwhelming demand for them that grew out of war earnings of one kind or another. The second was said to be the apparent desire of the diamond controlling interests, as well as the principal cutters, to do a 100 per cent. business in money with a 50 per cent. supply of "rough." Whatever the causes, the fact remains that present landing costs of cut and uncut stones have made new high records. A peculiar point is the discrepancy in the carat costs of ordinary-sized and small diamonds. While an average good carat stone may be bought for about $300 now, small diamonds cost from $450 to $500 a carat, depending on their size. Of course, these stones are so small that it takes several of them to weigh a carat, and the cutting cost, consequently, is much higher.

Some Hotel Rates Unwarranted.

If the salesmen who have been paying higher rates to hotels since July 1 can have their way they will put the hotel owners well up on the list of profiteers for the Government to deal with. According to the travelers, the abolition of liquor has not eaten into the profits of the hotels to an extent that would warrant the increase in the tariff. They are also among those which have boosted room prices.

point out, furthermore, that some hostelries which did not let the law that began operation on July the Thirst interfere much with dispensing drinks of a higher batting average than 2.75

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

The quotations are for six months' paper.

Adding No New Models.

At this time of the year the clothing manufacturers, having sold their initial output, would usually be adding some new styles in order to freshen up their lines. Just the opposite plan is now being followed. The manufacturers, instead of looking around for new ideas, are trying to cut down the number of their models to as few as possible. This standardization is being carried out in order to get manufacturing down to its smallest cost and also to speed up production on the lines that are carried.

Mixing Heavy Weights with Light.

If the mills follow their present plans, which call for a drastic restriction of output for the Spring 1920 season, clothing manufacturers believe that there will have to be considerable mixing of heavy and light weight goods early next year. This was done to a certain extent for the 1919 season. One of the chief sources of worry to the clothiers is the decision of the leading factor in the woolen market to make no staples for the next Spring season. By that time it is imagined that the consumer demand may be asking for a conservative type of clothing, which will not be available if fancies alone can be obtained from the mills.

Opposed to License Measure.

In a letter calling upon its members to protest against the proposed licensing of retailers, the National Retail Dry Goods Association points out that such a protest ought to be made now while the bill is in the hands of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce rather than to wait until the measure reaches the House of Congress. Besides compelling merchants to obtain licenses, the bill provides that merchandise be marked with its cost price. The objection which the association raises against such a system is that the general public has little or no appreciation of what distribution means and what it costs. The public, it is believed, could never be brought to an understanding of all the forms of service which go to make up retail distribution, each step of which must be paid for.

Gray Goods in a Curious State.

A curious state exists in the local gray goods market at the moment. Sellers are trying to sell goods higher than they can, and buyers are trying to buy them lower than they can. The result is, of course, few sales. Yesterday second hands sold August-September deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s at 16½ cents, and there appeared to be no doubt that that price could be bettered if a good-sized lot of goods were wanted. Twenty cents would buy almost unlimited quantities of 39-inch 68-72s from the same sellers. For fine-yarn goods about the best that could be done was 28 cents for standard 40-inch combed lawns. In the sheetings there was some trading in lightweight goods, and sales of 5.50s were reported from second hands at 13¼ cents. Thirteen cents was paid for 6.15-yard goods. Sateens and twills also were "off."

Why Jewelry Is High.

While few buyers of jewelry are inclined to quibble over prices, in view of the great demand for it and the shortage of supplies in practically all lines, they sometimes show a disposition to question their fairness. Those who do are promptly enlightened. Without going into the question of what labor and materials cost last month, last year, or five years ago, the manufacturers simply show why present costs are up. Makers of platinum and diamond jewelry, for instance, show how the expert labor required by this branch of the jewelry industry has risen to an almost unbelievable point, how diamonds are seeking a new high altitude record nearly every day, and how the price of platinum has gone up. Yesterday this metal was quoted at $127 an ounce for "hard" and $117 an ounce for "medium," with still higher levels imminent.

Tax on Fur-Trimmed Garments.

Another ruling has been added to the numerous interpretations of the tax governing garments trimmed with fur. Commissioner Roper of the Bureau of Internal Revenue has laid down the latest regulation. When a manufacturer sells an article in which fur is the chief component in value that is not entirely finished or ready to wear to another manufacturer who completes and sells the article, the first manufacturer is liable to a tax upon the basis of his selling price to the second manufacturer. The second manufacturer is also liable to a tax upon the sale, though he gets reimbursed to the extent of the tax he paid the first manufacturer. The same holds true for ready-to-wear manufacturers who use so much fur on a garment that it becomes the component of chief value. Such manufacturers are reimbursed in the same way for what they pay out in taxes.

Silverware Business Is Booming.

Despite the fact that the present high cost of labor and the rising price of silver have forced a slight advance in silverware, particularly sterling, business continues to come in in bucketfuls. Leading silversmiths are said to be anywhere from hundreds to thousands of dozens behind on their flatware orders, for which the call has been especially heavy, with a consequent delay in deliveries. Unless there is soon some unlooked-for increase in the number of workers available in the producing centres, buyers who have not yet put in their Fall orders stand a fair chance of being "skunked" on deliveries. As one trade leader described the outlook yesterday, "No one in this trade has ever seen anything like the present situation. Business is so good that it is distressing. When was it ever that way before?"

Tired of the Same Old Yawp.

Although most of them are used to it by this time, some of the local wholesalers of dry goods are not overpleased with the renewed cry of certain of the high cost of living reducers for the elimination of the middleman. Said one of them yesterday: "When will a lot of these amateur 'reformers' get it through their heads that the elimination of the jobber, if it were possible, would work exactly opposite from the way they figure? Put the jobber out of business in any line and see how many thousands of small and medium-sized retailers would pass out with him. With their passing the output of the mills would be curtailed, which would mean still higher production costs. Mills that now sell only to the jobbers and a few of the very big retailers would have to change their distributing methods at considerable cost. Some of them might go bankrupt as the result of such a change. Where would the cost of living go to then? And whose competition would prevent the big retailers who remained from putting prices sky high?"

and their correspondents throughout the world

The personal introduction, which obtains for the traveller the services and facilities of the Correspondents named in the list attached to the Letter of Credit should, in addition to its financial safeguards, recommend the Letter of Credit, especially in these times, as desirable in the highest degree as a financial arrangement for those contemplating foreign travel.

Unusual Investment Opportunities

MEN in their forties or fifties seeking to become financially independent, can ill afford to neglect to accumulate long-term bonds around present prices. It is the judgment of investment experts that the time is bound to come when many well secured bonds that can be purchased today to yield around 5½% to 6½% will sell at prices which will not yield anywhere near so much income. To men in their forties or fifties this is an important consideration, since every dollar of additional income means just that much more financial independence.

FINANCIAL MARKETS.

Firm Undertone Marks Day of Desultory Trading in Stocks —Time Money Scarce.

In the absence of new influences to direct the course of trading, yesterday's dealings in stocks were quieter than on Monday and prices moved with a great deal of irregularity. On the whole the market had a firmer tone, with a number of issues in sufficient demand to bring gains extending from 2 to 4 points. The generally sluggish tendency of business seemed to show that the bulk of the day's transactions originated within the Street or in professional trading circles outside, public interest being much subdued. Stocks which responded the easiest to buying were equipment, oil, tobacco, and some of the steel and copper shares. In early dealings considerable pressure was brought to bear on the industrial list, but when this failed to bring out increased offerings, a reverse movement set in that had its best display near the end of the session.

The market community had nothing new to promote a fresh speculative campaign, nor was there anything in the day's developments to worry about. As on Monday, the labor situation, in respect to the railroads chiefly, appeared to be in a state whose next stage could not be guessed and entailed the necessity of waiting for directing factors to come from Washington. The initial steps to solve the cost of living problem are being undertaken, but it stands to reason that a little time must pass before positive influences from this field may be looked for from the point of view of the security markets. The money market came in for attention, because of the lack of other matters bearing upon stocks, and it was noted that offerings of time loans had again become few. Call money was in substantial supply at 6 and 6½ per cent. during the morning, working down to 5½ per cent. for loans on mixed collateral later. The trend of trading for some time past has been of the sort to release call money from stock market use, but in brokerage and banking quarters this is looked upon as an event of more application to the present than to the near future. Interior banks are credited with lending a greater proportion of the call money in Wall Street than in other years, and until something may be seen of the extent harvesting and crop moving demands are to have on local money conditions, it is likely that caution will be the watchword of the long account of stocks.

There was more discussion in banking quarters of new financing than at any time since the railroad unions sought to thrust their ideas upon Congress in respect to Government ownership of the roads. Preliminary discussion of large French municipal loans for the Autumn are understood to be under way. The first steps in distributing $35,000,000 common stock of the United States Rubber were taken by the syndicate managers yesterday, and several other large and small industrial security offerings were put under way. Unless unexpected developments occur, it is believed that a round amount of domestic securities will be brought before the public in the early Autumn.

The sterling exchange market was quiet and quotations for the major exchanges were only slightly altered at the end of business hours. Sterling gained a little ground and francs eased off after a firm start.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Railroad Equipment Plan.

In railroad banking and operating circles it had been generally believed that with the return of Jerome J. Hanauer, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who was head of the bankers' committee which drew up a plan for a National Equipment Trust, and who has just come back from a vacation trip to Alaska, the financing of the railway equipment ordered and allocated by William G. McAdoo, as Director General of Railroads in 1918 would be arranged without loss of time. This has already been borne out to some extent by the report that approximately 80 per cent. of the equipment disagreements between the Railroad Administration and corporate railway managers have been settled, and it is generally believed that the details of the actual financing will be arranged within a reasonable time.

Market Shows Better Tone.

Taking yesterday's trading session as a whole, there was a better tone evidenced than on the opening day of the week. In the early morning there was a sagging in prices, but it did not go far, and told of the effort of professional traders to further drive down quotations. As a matter of fact, such efforts have been continued sporadically on every day since the break in the market early last week, but greater resistance is being shown, an evidence of the better position of the market due to the recession. Stocks seem now to be in more courageous, if not stronger, hands than they were a few days ago, and there has been no evidence of a desire to part with them on the first rumor of untoward developments. This makes it rather more difficult for the professionals on the bear side to depress values with a show of selling pressure. The market was riding for a fall, and in conservative quarters it was not unexpected. But now that it has happened, the fact cannot be overlooked that the circulation of rumors of impending difficulties rather than the actual imposition of such difficulties on the country hurried the decline, and that the underlying industrial outlook continues to be toward expansion of business.

Steel Production.

Operations in the steel industry continue to approach closer toward capacity production. Reports from Pittsburgh are to the effect that the mills there are running at about 85 per cent. of capacity. It would be only under the most favorable conditions that a big steel company could operate at 100 per cent. of capacity, the normal figure approximating 95 per cent. On this basis one steel-making section of the country is within 10 per cent. of full operations and others are not far behind. The prediction is made that by Fall operations will be higher than now. The progress of the steel industry during the past two months has fully justified the glowing predictions Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, made last Spring.

American Tel. & Tel. Financing.

Improvement in the trend of prices in yesterday's stock market was reflected by new financing reports which circulated through Wall Street. Among these was one to the effect that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company would soon be in the market for a substantial amount. At the same time counter rumors were about that the company would not come into the market until later in the year. Neither rumor could be confirmed. Still another report was to the effect that the City of Paris was sounding out this market for a $60,000,000 loan. This amount was later mentioned in connection with the retirement of the three-cities French loan which matures on Nov. 1.

A Hopeful Outlook.

A well-known railroad banker when asked yesterday what he thought about the railroad situation in general and the low prices now being quoted for good railroad bonds and stocks, said it was his opinion that America would meet the railroad question fairly and squarely, and that it would be settled on an equitable basis. He said that while he did not look for immediate improvement in railroad securities they would, in his opinion, ultimately sell at higher levels.

Market Indigestion.

It has been rumored in some quarters that the investment market was suffering from a mild case of indigestion and was not absorbing all of the recent issues which have been floated as easily as it might. In this connection it was suggested in banking circles yesterday that probably the investment market would be allowed to rest for some time before there would be any large volume of new offerings.

A Reason for the Rupee's Advance.

Commenting on the increased value of the Indian rupee in pounds sterling, the Guaranty Trust Company says: "Large anti-British Hindu contingents, and notably the Bengalese, are using the silver rupee as a political weapon—persistently refusing to accept rupee notes or sterling credits in commercial transactions. This causes constant embarrassment to the British authorities on the one hand, who find it inconvenient to purchase the little silver available at the high present-day quotations, and, on the other, difficult to overcome the Oriental's demand for the metal with which his prosperity has been linked by ages of custom and tradition. The fixing of the rupee at the new level, in addition to being an official recognition of the intrinsic worth of the silver content of the rupee, is an attempt on the part of Great Britain to settle India balances in gold in lieu of silver. The net effect of this on the silver markets is the elimination of India as a purchasing factor and reduces the world demand for silver by an amount corresponding to India's normal consumption."

Petition for Saturday Holiday.

A petition was circulated on the floor of the Stock Exchange yesterday for a holiday on Saturday, Aug. 16. The Governors of the Exchange will decide at a meeting today. Recent Stock Exchange holidays have been announced to enable brokers' clerks to catch up with the business which has been transacted in an almost unbroken succession of million-share days since early Spring. It was understood yesterday that a large number of members had signed the petition.

Foreign Credits.

The opinion is growing that large industrial companies will themselves arrange long-term credits with European purchasers rather than wait for the establishment of large credits by bankers. It is known that several such have been negotiated, and many other industrial firms are scanning the situation, with the idea of following this example. It, however, has its limitations, but for such companies as can afford to do so offers an earlier entering wedge into foreign markets than would otherwise be possible. It may be that eventually the American idea as to credit will expand to something approximating the more liberal interpretation of the British without sacrificing safeguards. This would be a more desirable outcome, in the opinion of most people.

Oil Shares More Prominent.

The oil shares were in better demand yesterday than for some time and many of them showed good gains for the day. Pan American Petroleum and Royal Dutch, New York, were leaders in the movement. Generally speaking the oil shares would be less affected by labor difficulties than would other groups. Whereas in the steel industry the labor cost is about 85 per cent. of the cost of steel production the percentage of a like cost of oil is decidedly lower. Realization of this fact may have induced some quiet accumulation of the oil shares in the recent break.

Coppers Inactive.

There was no great degree of activity among the copper stocks in yesterday's trading, the conditions being analogous to that which prevails in the copper market. The buying of the metal is not on a large scale for either domestic or foreign account. For all the price holds firm, the large producers holding to 23¼ cents, it has been positively shown that price recessions do not invite business to the copper market, hence the desire to at least maintain present price levels.

FRENCH CITIES SEEK BIG NEW LOAN HERE

NOW OWE US $36,000,000

Expect to Pay This Sum and Receive $24,000,000—Other Foreign Loans Broached.

Plans are under discussion between local bankers and representatives of several cities of France for new financing by those cities on a large scale in this country. It was learned yesterday that inquiries had been received within a few days in respect to the sale of $60,000,000 bonds by Bordeaux, Marseilles and Lyons to be completed in the Autumn. These were the cities which made loans here three years ago to a total of $36,000,000, the proceeds to be used in France to alleviate suffering brought about by the war.

The bonds are due on Nov. 1, and it is proposed that part of the proceeds of the new issue be used to retire the old loans. The new loan would leave $24,000,000 to be remitted to the borrowing cities, presumably for use over there. As far as could be learned yesterday the transaction has not yet passed the preliminary stage and will depend, as far as details are concerned, upon the state of the investment market in the next few weeks.

The flotation of recent foreign Government and municipal loans in this market and indications of similar inquiries in the near future have created the general impression in the financial district that European demands here will be much larger than was thought some weeks ago. The most recent financing of this character was a Swiss loan for $30,000,000, a Swedish loan for $25,000,000, and a Copenhagen loan for $15,000,000.

In 1916 the French cities Bodeaux, Marseilles, and Lyons, authorized initial external loans to the extent of $20,000,000 apiece, of which amount $12,000,000 in each case were sold and are now outstanding. At the date of issue it was announced that the bonds would be payable in this city in gold or in France in francs at the rate of 5.90 francs to the Dollar. This offers a possibility for substantial profit if there should be an appreciation in French exchange by Nov. 1, which, if the rate at that time should be 5.18 francs, the normal rate before the war, would mean that the principal of the bonds payable in France would equal in dollars about 108 per cent.

In considering the effect of foreign municipal loans on this market bankers are not losing sight of the fact that such loans mean that the money leaves this country for expenditure in the country where such municipalities are located, which is directly opposite to foreign Government commercial loans floated here. In the case of the latter the funds remain here to pay for raw materials and merchandise purchased in this country.

Another foreign issue which falls due on Nov. 1 is $150,000,000 three-year 5½ per cent. notes of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. These, it is understood, will be paid at maturity.

Many other foreign inquiries, both governmental and municipal, are reported to be in this market, and while the exchange situation has served as a check on such financing it is expected that further issues will be put out from time to time and probably in increasing amounts.

Bankers still agree that it is necessary to present a solid front to meet the demands which are bound to come from Europe, and while it has been rumored that some of the co-operative plans for such financing have been temporarily held up it is admitted that co-operation is necessary to handle properly the tremendous volume of foreign financing which will be offered, and that such financing will be handled successfully only in that way.

NITTI EXPLAINS NEW TARIFF.

Advance for Revenue, Not to Check American Imports.

ROME, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Francesco Nitti, the Premier, today received Alfred B. Dennis, American Commercial Attaché at Rome. The conversation dealt with the proposed Italian levy upon invested capital, the new Italian tariff which soon becomes effective, and the continuance of import restrictions upon certain classes of American goods.

The Premier said that the new taxation should not be construed as prejudicial to the American investor in Italian enterprises. The new levy, he asserted, would not apply to funds of foreign investors or to capital actively employed in productive enterprises.

The new tariff will not become effective until Sept. 20, and is still under discussion. The Premier said that unquestionably there would be a considerable advance in customs rates upon certain American commodities, but the rates were designed primarily for revenue rather than for protection, and in no case were they intended as a bar to importation from foreign countries.

Premier Nitti is reported to have assured Mr. Dennis that the exclusion of American automobiles and farm machinery was based on the temporary consideration of adverse exchange.

"The cheaper makes of American automobiles do not compete with the high-priced cars of Italian manufacture," the Premier told Mr. Dennis, "nor can your farm machinery, which is being of enormous aid in the development of Italy's agricultural resources, be duplicated in Italian factories. Inevitably, the Italian lira will recover something of its former purchasing power. Thus we may see a corresponding relaxation in the restrictions now imposed upon the importation of American automobiles and farm machinery."

A brief covering in detail the points under discussion, from the standpoint of the American trader and investor, was submitted to Premier Nitti by Mr. Dennis.

GAMBLING IN SILVER IN BULLION MARKET

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—One of the biggest silver gambles ever known in the world's bullion market is now taking place, with the result that the price of the metal has leaped to such heights as to render it profitable to English refiners to put foreign currency into the melting pot and sell it as refined sheet silver. The position is explained by a well-known bullion dealer.

Chinese banks are buying heavily, he says, and this demand from the Far East, coupled with the American grip on silver, has left London very short. Instead of silver coming across the Atlantic to Europe, it is being shipped to the United States and passed into currency. The Mexican revolution disturbed labor conditions and stopped the normal outflow from the mines of Mexico and the United States. No other countries really count, for 90 per cent. of the world's supply comes from the United States and Mexico.

On Aug. 5 the price of the metal touched $1.22 per ounce, and although the price would have to be $1.37 an ounce before it would be worth while for unscrupulous persons to put English crowns into the crucible for a profit, some idea of the continued rise is afforded by the following figures:

The average price per ounce in 1915 was 1 shilling 11½ pence; in 1916, 2 shillings 7⅝ pence; in 1917, 3 shillings 4⅞ pence; in 1918, 3 shillings 11½ pence; in 1919, 4 shillings 10½ pence.

The price is still rising, and London brokers believe it will continue to rise for another week, and that then the fall will occur.

Today and for some time past English firms have been "boiling down" 5-franc pieces, thousands of them having passed through their hands, and the position in regard to Italian and German coins has been much worse. Although it is illegal to reduce gold to bullion, the silver currency of foreign countries may be turned into bullion. In the coins of the Latin countries the recognized proportions of alloy are 10 per cent. copper to 90 per cent. silver for larger currency, while the proportion of silver for smaller exchanges is 85.5 per cent. The 5-shilling piece (crown), when newly minted weighs an ounce; so it can be seen how close the commercial prices of silver are getting to the face value of coins.

U. S. RUBBER SHOWS REVENUE INCREASE

Statement to Stockholders Calls for Expansion of Working Capital.

PLAN COMMON STOCK ISSUE

Earnings for First Six Months of This Year Amounted to $10,815,750.

The United States Rubber Company, during the first half of this year, earned $10,815,750, after provision for all interest charges, depreciation, Federal taxes, and reserves. These figures are contained in a letter to stockholders calling a special meeting to pass on the recently proposed capital increase from $120,000,000 to $300,000,000. Upon ratification of the plan $36,000,000 of the proposed increase in common stock will be issued. A syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. is now being formed to underwrite the issue.

The statement of earnings in connection with the capital increase shows that the United States Rubber Company is enjoying the most prosperous year in its history. Last year, which up to then was the banner year, showed earnings available for dividends of $18,071,042. The figures for the first six months of this year are therefore only about $5,250,000 below the net earnings for the entire twelve months of 1918. In that year the net sales amounted to more than $215,000,000, so that, with a proportionate increase, net sales would be running at the rate of approximately $300,000,000 during the present year. On the outstanding common shares the present earnings are at the rate of about $46 per share a year. This is far in excess of all estimates that have been made in Wall Street.

The six months' balance sheet reveals the fact that the total current assets are $135,013,124 and the current liabilities $30,784,226. Working capital therefore amounts to roughly $100,000,000. The inventory item is greater by $17,000,000 than in the balance sheet of Dec. 31, 1918.

The money derived from the sale of the $36,000,000 common stock will be used, the letter announces, "to pay off all current indebtedness that can be paid, (certain accounts payable and acceptances will always exist,) for new construction planned and in process, designed principally for the increase of the product of automobile and truck tires, for extension of rubber plantations in the East, and to facilitate the carrying of stock under profit sharing for benefit of our employes." The underwriting syndicate will receive 2 per cent. of the issue as its compensation.

BARS BOLSHEVIST RUBLES.

Federal Reserve Board Removes Restrictions on Other Exchange.

The Federal Reserve Bank issued yesterday an announcement in behalf of the Division of Foreign Exchange of the Federal Reserve Board which summarized the system of licenses provided for dealings in foreign exchange, currency, and bullion. It was noted that the Reserve Board had just permitted the issue of a general license permitting the exportation of Russian ruble currency, although the rule against importing rubles still holds good.

"The present situation," said the announcement, "is that all restrictions have been removed from the export of coin, bullion, and currency and from transactions in foreign exchange except as to transactions with or for persons in that part of Russia now under the control of the so-called Bolshevist Government and the importation of, or exchange transactions, in Russian rubles. It should be noted that the War Trade Board has not authorized transactions with or for persons in Hungary."

The Reserve Bank stated that subscriptions would now be received for Treasury certificates of indebtedness known as Series B 1920. The certificates are the second semi-monthly issue of the 1920 series, bearing interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. from Aug. 15 and maturing Jan. 15, 1920.

The St. Louis Coke and Chemical Company has sold, through the Studebaker Brothers Trust Company of Chicago and the Mississippi Valley Trust Company of St. Louis, as underwriters, an issue of $5,000,000 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock.

The proceeds will be used for the erection of new coke ovens and blast furnace plants at Granite City, Ill. Clement Studebaker, President of the company, announced yesterday that the output of metal, gas, and tar has been sold under a long-term contract, to the National Enameling and Stamping Company.

FAMILY NEEDS $1,918 A YEAR

Chicago Stock Yard Workers Estimate Budget for Household.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A budget of household expenses purporting to show that $1,918 is the minimum on which a family of five can live for one year was introduced today by Chicago packing house employes appearing before Federal Judge Alschuler, Federal mediator, with demands for increased wages.

Mrs. Anna McQuillen, who lives near the Stock Yards and who prepared the budget, said it was based on June of this year. She declared table costs were cut to the lowest possible figure and that the amount permitted of no luxuries, vacations, nor savings. Prices last October, she said, made the total cost $1,518.

The demands for increases of from 20 to 30 cents an hour provide 70 cents for common labor, $1.10 an hour for floormen and splitters, and 55 cents for workers under 18. A forty-four hour week, a uniform rate for like operations in all companies, and abolition of piece work by carmen are also demanded. Present scales range from 42½ to 83½ cents an hour.

Judge Alschuler ruled today that Stock Yards employes, who quit work recently because of armed guards and police at the yards on account of race rioting, must return as new employes and lose seniority.

The Butte & Superior Mining Company reports a gross income of $1,153,132 in the quarter ended June 30, a decline of $288,187 from the amount earned in the same period last year. The showing was considerably better than in the first quarter of this year, when a deficit of $118,329 was reported.

SEES 10-CENT FARE ON TROLLEYS SOON

SOME RIDES TO BE 25 CENTS

Railway Problem Is Social; Rests on Employer, Says Detroit Mayor —Selfish Times Blamed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The time is coming when 5-cent fares for street railway rides will be a thing of the past except for short hauls in cities, and when 10-cent fares will be generally charged, Roger W. Babson, statistician, of Boston, today told the Federal Electric Railways Commission.

At the same time Mayor James H. Couzens of Detroit told the commission that the street railway problem in this country was a social condition, which must be solved as such by the people of the communities served. Mayor Couzens declared that unless the problem of transporting workers to and from their homes and work is properly solved it will become incumbent upon the employer to find some certain way of carrying them himself. He could see no solution for the street car difficulties of Detroit but in municipal ownership.

"The 10-cent fare will become universal," Mr. Babson testified. "The fares upon some subways and elevated lines now charging 5 cents will become 25 cents. The 5-cent fare, except for very short hauls in cities, is doomed.

"During the next few years Commissioners will devote their time to getting the companies to give better service and will not bother about fares. Once the street railways had a monopoly; but this is not true today. The auto and jitney have eliminated the monopoly. There is more reason today why a public utility commission should regulate the price of transportation in a city which has jitney service than it should limit the price of theatre tickets.

"One-half of the interurban street car mileage and one-quarter of the city street car mileage will be abandoned. The tracks will be removed and motor bus service will be installed instead. A great proportion of the street railways should never have been built, and the quicker we realize it the better off both the public and the investors will be.

"Municipal ownership may come, but let us first give the street railways a chance to save themselves by quitting our persecution of them and by giving them the same chance that we give any other business corporation. Municipal ownership is desirable only when the same results cannot be obtained under private ownership.

"What the people want from our railroads, street railways, and other public utilities is good service. If a store or restaurants, and theatres always pay only salvation is to improve the service and raise the standard. The best stores, restaurants, and theatres always pay and are always full. These are the ones that the public like. The prices charged are secondary in importance to the service rendered.

"It would be the same with street railways if the Public Utility Commissions would give them a free hand to create such a service. Were I Mayor of a city, I should insist that my city have the finest, swiftest, and cleanest street car service in the world, but whether the fare was 5 or 10 cents would not matter.

"The need of the hour is a new point of view upon the part of every one. Investors, managers, patrons, and public officials. The present bad condition of the street railways—like the present high cost of living—is due to the fact that every one is bent on getting something without paying for it. Every one is thinking only of himself. Too few are trying to render real service. We have reached the end of our rope in street railway transportation, and we soon will reach it along some other lines. The underlying cause of our troubles today is not financial but rather moral. Only a religious revival will solve either our transportation or our cost of living problems."

UNDERWOOD TO APPEAL.

Erie Chief to Fight Conviction for Disorderly Conduct.

Charles Saxe, representing the law firm of John B. Stanchfield of Manhattan, yesterday filed with Magistrate William T. Croak of New Brighton a notice of appeal in the case of Frederick D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad Company, who was found guilty last Thursday of disorderly conduct.

Mr. Underwood recently delayed the departure of the Staten Island ferryboat Richmond seven minutes at St. George terminal by refusing to get off the boat when it reached the slip. He had a ticket for a return trip and contended that as he offered it to a deckhand it was not necessary to leave the boat. As the notice did not give the ground on which the appeal was based, it was returned by the Magistrate to be amended. When it is returned, the Magistrate will forward it to County Judge J. Henry Tiernen.

FIREMEN BUY WAR STAMPS.

447 Men in Department Volunteer to Subscribe Regularly.

The campaign by the New York Fire Department to buy a minimum of $100,000 worth of War Savings Stamps before Dec. 31 was stimulated in July by the formation of War Savings Societies in twenty-six engine houses and fourteen hook and ladder companies. In all, 447 men agreed to buy stamps regularly, joining with other firemen who organized societies in June.

The interest in regular savings will increase steadily until every firehouse in the city has its society, is the belief of organizers of the Labor Bureau War Savings Committee. The move is indorsed by the International Association of Fire Fighters, Local Union No. 94, through which the city's firemen are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

SAYS WORK WILL SAVE US,

Illinois Banker Calls for Greater Production to Cut Living Cost.

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., Aug. 12.—Harder work, higher efficiency, and greater production are the vital needs of the country just now, B. F. Harris, President of the First National Bank of Champaign, Ill., told the farmers at the Chautauqua here yesterday.

"How are we to make, at best, a high-cost living, how are taxes that total 25 to 40 per cent. of many incomes to be paid if we don't work harder, more efficiently, and produce more per capita than ever before?" he asked.

Continuing, he said:

"The present destructive disposition of most labor is selfishly to obtain and make certain a wage greater than and out of proportion to that had by millions of clerks, bookkeepers, and many employes who have more skill, responsibility, and need than they. They pass this increased burden on to the public without assuming any of the risks or hazards of the business or the general situation.

"In the natural order of things, no matter how pure their purpose, we cannot leave educational methods entirely to the teachers, banking bodily to the bankers, big business problems solely to the corporations, not even religion to the clergy, any more than we can leave government to politicians. When any one of these classes, or labor, or farmers, or any set of men, takes entire charge of its activity or reaches out to dominate a whole industry or people, then we have destroyed not alone our ideals but all else.

"Now come the great railroad brotherhoods, the best organized and paid of any labor organization, telling us that they are in no mood to brook return of the railroads to their former owners. But they go further, and say that the roads must be purchased by the Government, but not run by the Government, with all of us and all citizens as stockholders.

"No, they are not even as fair as that, or as the Socialist would be, but they insist, under their 'Plumb plan,' that after satisfactory wages are paid them, together with all other expense, then the surplus, if any, will be given half to them (the 2,200,000 railroad employes) and the other half to the 106,000,000 of the rest of us. One is stupefied at the audacity and narrow selfishness of such a proposal; amazed that 2 per cent. of our population should ask the other 98 per cent. of us to listen to such a scheme. We want and will tolerate no tyranny of the minority in any line of work or government.

"Have we anything to fear from and will socialism, Bolshevism, and anarchy make any headway in the United States? Yes, we have everything to fear if we sit supinely, if our elected leaders permit such propaganda to run riot, meanwhile aggravating the situation by appointing, and thereby encouraging, such men as Herron, Lincoln Steffens, Frank P. Walsh, et al., and releasing, or trying to release, from legal imprisonment the Haywoods, Mooneys, and radicals of their dangerous type."

North Central Texas

The daily production in the North Central Texas Oil Fields has already passed the goal of 200,000 barrels.

Early this year the prediction that the fields would reach such a total was regarded as well-meaning but idle talk. There is every prospect now, however, that the total will pass 250,000 barrels daily before the end of the year.

The speedy development of the Wichita County Fields, and especially the Northwestern Extension of the Burkburnett District and the Desdemona Field, now showing up as one of the best areas of the entire state, is certain in a few months to run up the daily production to a total beyond the most sanguine estimates at the start of the year.

A Story Of A $100 Bond

CHAPTER II.

The family budget—the puzzle was on what basis to figure the various items of expenditure, such as rent, table supplies, clothing, laundry, fuel, light and telephone, help, sickness fund, house furnishings, transportation, education, benevolences, insurance and taxes, recreation, miscellaneous, and lastly, the important item, the amount to reserve for the nest egg.

Properly, this story should start about two years before Jan. 1, 1918, when the happy couple were married. During this engagement period and before this prudent young man started building for the future, the first great object to be accomplished was the accumulation of sufficient capital to furnish a modest home for his bride-to-be and to have an additional nest egg of at least $1000 to be used in any way that the two thought best.

Arranging the family budget took some time and it had to be planned for their particular needs, as a budget that might meet other families' requirements would not necessarily meet theirs. After weighing each item carefully and putting down the amount that seemed adequate and then totalling up all the items, it was found that a nest egg of at least $50 per month could be laid up with their present income. What happened to the $1000 and the $50 monthly nest egg will be told in Chapter III., which appears next Friday.

COTTON IN RALLY AFTER EARLY BREAK

Recovers 42 to 54 Points in Trading in Unsettled Market.

WEATHER REPORT A FACTOR

Heavy Rains in Georgia Help Boost Prices—Heavy Selling in New Orleans.

Recoveries running from 42 to 54 points were made in yesterday's cotton market after a sequence of trading that could not be described as other than unsettled.

Weather conditions played a leading rôle in the considerations. The opening was strong with prices for the active months up to 15 to 28 points. This was influenced in part by Liverpool cables, and by the reports of heavy rains through sections of the Southern cotton belt. The upward turn did not long prevail. There was further selling by New Orleans, presumably of a hedge variety, against spots, and this led a sharp recession.

A factor of influence was the semi-monthly crop report of the National Ginners, which gave the condition of the crop on Aug. 10 at 66 per cent. The Government report for July 25 was 67 per cent. This slight degree of deterioration was hardly of the extent expected. It had been assumed that the boll weevil damage and the surplus of rain had caused greater damage.

The break carried prices well below Monday's closing, but the decline was checked, and from then on prices recovered rather easily, the maximum gain at one time amounting to from 60 to 70 points.

This rally was directly attributable to the Weather Bureau's report, which showed that rain had fallen in heavy quantity at several points in Georgia, the precipitation at Americus and Greensboro amounting to more than two inches, and at Hazelhurst to three and one-quarter inches. The rain was reported as still falling, and there were predictions of a continuation tonight.

At the high, October stood at 32.14, and December at 32.35. The other active positions showed corresponding gains. The professional element, which had been switching in and out all day, began taking profits in the last hour, and this caused prices to ease off at the close.

Wool in the Nation's Business

LESS THAN HALF THE WOOL used in the United States is raised here. The remainder must be imported. This involves transportation from South America, Asia and South Africa and co-operation with the British for Australian and New Zealand products.

The Atlantic National Bank through its correspondents has excellent facilities for the prompt transaction of banking business in those countries. Because of its location convenient to the textile district and the familiarity of its officers with the banking needs of the industry, it offers a comprehensive service to firms in that line.

URGES STATE SENATE TO REVISE ITS RULES

Citizens Union Committee Recommends Actual Vote for Report of Any Bill.

FOR MORE LONG ROLL CALLS

Report Declares That Upper Body of the Assembly Permitted Bad Legislation.

The amendment of the rules of the State Senate, making an actual vote in committee meeting necessary for the report of any bill, as well as the more frequent use of "long roll calls," is recommended in the report of the Citizens Union Committee on Legislation, dealing with the records of the Senators from the New York City districts at the last session of the Legislature, made public yesterday. In commenting on the work of the Senate the report says:

"In the session of 1919 New York City had fewer committee chairmanships than for several years past. It suffered particularly in the organization of the Senate. In the sessions of 1917 and 1915 it had six Senate chairmanships, but this year it retained but two, A. W. Burlingame, Jr., of Kings, becoming Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and Charles C. Lockwood, also of Kings, retaining his chairmanship of the Committee on Education.

"Less attention was paid to bad legislation in the Senate than in the Assembly, and many measures of a particularly objectionable character passed the Senate with scarcely a dissenting vote and with the tacit consent, if not the actual vote, of Senators who should have been ashamed to allow themselves to be recorded in favor of them, only to be defeated by a more alert and vigilant opposition in the Assembly."

The report says that the evils of the short roll call appeared at their worst in the Senate and that "it is inconceivable that some of the capable lawmakers in the upper house would have answered 'aye' on some of the bills on which they are recorded had the roll actually been called." The report recommends that the New York City Senators demand that long roll calls be taken more frequently and continues:

For the Long Roll Calls.

"More long roll calls should be demanded, especially in the Senate. To be sure, they take more time, but the time is frequently well spent and the objection does not hold so strongly as regards the Senate, where only fifty-one names have to be called. Individual members are frequently scared off from making such a demand and pressure is brought on them by the leaders and other members to persuade them not to insist on long roll calls.

"If, however, a few of them banded together and insisted that no matter of first rate importance and no measure involving an important principle of legislation should be passed without a long roll call, it is certain that the effect on Senate legislation would be marked, and it is almost certain that such procedure frequently resorted to would result in the defeat of much bad legislation which now passes almost without protest."

The report recommends that the Senate rules be amended to make an actual vote in committee meeting necessary for the report of any bill and states that a vast improvement resulted when the Assembly rules were changed several years ago to meet this difficulty. The old method, its says, which allowed bills to be reported if a majority of members merely signed a slip passed about the Senate chamber has frequently resulted in scandal and contributes largely to hap-hazard law making.

As Committee Sees Records.

The summaries of the personal records of the Senators as compiled by the committee are as follows:

PETER A. ABELES, (Rep., Twenty-second District, Bronx.)—New member with disappointing record. Diligent without being careful. Showed indications of independent thinking.

FRANK F. ADEL, (Dem., Second District, Queens.)—New member. Intelligent and attentive, with record of votes above the average. Actively opposed vicious water supply bill.

LORING M. BLACK, Jr., (Dem., Sixth District, Kings.)—Again in Senate after several years' absence; he made a fair record of votes and was active in debate. Sponsored several objectionable anti-home-rule bills.

JOHN J. BOYLAN, (Dem., Thirteenth District, New York.)—Attentive and experienced legislator, whose record of votes and bills introduced shows some improvement in his tenth year in the Legislature, but who is not always effective.

ALVAH W. BURLINGAME, Jr., (Rep. 8th Dist., Kings)—Experienced and useful legislator whose usual effectiveness on city bills suffered somewhat by reason of his duties as Chairman of Judiciary Committee. Deserves credit for active opposition to vicious Water Supply bill. Continued good voting record.

DANIEL J. CARROLL, (Dem., 11th Dist., Kings.)—Continued good record.

SALVATORE A. COTILLO, (Dem., 18th Dist., New York)—Conscientious and often independent. Record of votes above the average.

WILLIAM COPELAND DODGE, (Dem., 20th Dist., New York)—New member, earnest and intelligent, with good voting record.

JOHN J. DUNNIGAN, (Dem., Twenty-third District, Bronx)—Industrious but ineffective. Record of votes and bills introduced unsatisfactory.

DANIEL F. FARRELL, (Dem., Fifth District, Kings)—Continued his poor record of former years both on roll calls and in character of legislation introduced.

JAMES A. FOLEY, (Dem., Fifteenth District, New York)—His legislative usefulness has steadily increased, and this year, his first year as minority leader, he made an excellent record in the city's interest. Good record of votes.

ABRAHAM KAPLAN, (Dem., Fifteenth District, New York.)—New member. Alert and conscientious, with record of votes above the average. Showed considerable promise.

CHARLES C. LOCKWOOD, (Rep., Seventh District, Kings)—Experienced member of great value to the city; did good work on educational measures; record of votes very good.

JULIUS MILLER, (Dem., Seventeenth District, New York)—New member; earnest and attentive, with good record of votes.

JOHN A. LYNCH, (Dem., Twenty-fourth District, Richmond)—New member who concerned himself chiefly with district legislation and was not particularly effective; fair record of votes.

PETER J. McGARRY, (Dem., Third District, Queens)—His first year in the Senate showed little improvement over his colorless record in the Assembly; introduced many objectionable bills, but made fair record of votes.

CHARLES E. RUSSELL, (Dem., Ninth District, Kings)—New member of ability, with good record of votes.

HENRY G. SCHACKNO, (Dem., Twenty-first District, New York)—In his first term made fair record of votes and gave some promise of future usefulness.

KENNETH P. SUTHERLAND, (Dem., Fourth District, Kings)—His record discloses no good reason why he should have been promoted from the Assembly to the Senate.

JEREMIAH F. TWOMEY, (Dem., Tenth District, Kings)—Not particularly active, except in behalf of his own legislation. Fair record of votes.

JAMES J. WALKER, (Dem., Twelfth District, New York)—Clever and alert legislator of long experience. Introduced both good and bad bills, but record of votes showed improvement over previous year.

The record of legislators, as compiled by the committee, is to be published shortly for the benefit of the voters.

BERNARD JOFFE FREED.

Released from Charge of Accepting a Bribe in Income Tax Plot.

Bernard Joffe, who has been on trial before Federal Judge Foster, with Morris Rachmil and Abraham Lincoln Samuelson of the Stelling Accounting and Audit Company, on a charge of accepting a bribe to make a false tax return of the income tax due by the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., was discharged yesterday by order of the court, and one of the counts in the indictments against the other defendants was quashed.

This action began at the opening of the defense when William J. Fallon, counsel for the accused men, argued that his clients could not have given a bribe to Morris Rosenblum, an agent of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, to pass a false return because Rosenblum had no authority to pass upon the returns. Mr. Fallon also accused Adolf Pricken, principal stockholder of the Coastwise Company, of "framing up" the defendants in order to win the good graces of the Government officials.

The trial will be continued today.

WHY A HOT SPOT CHALMERS IS STINGY ABOUT GAS.

THE only thing stingy about a Chalmers is its use of gas. It has small appetite. It travels a long day's march on a few gallons.

Every drop of gas that goes in the tank is held to account. There's no waste.

That is because Hot Spot takes the low grade, inferior gas of the day, and prepares it so that the engine can get out all the power that nature put in.

It is aided by Ram's-horn, and the results are de luxe.

Put your foot on the little button of any Hot Spot Chalmers and get a new sensation.

It isn't the 90 H. P. kind, but it gives quick, decisive action and so "silky" you scarcely know there's anything going on "up under the bonnet."

It's action that doesn't burn your pocketbook, nor jar your fenders loose.

One ride usually wins a friend.

THE DANGER IN SIBERIA

Not All Military—Some Propagandist—Valuable American Market in Danger.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The United States Government has authorized the shipment to Siberia for the use of the anti-Bolshevist forces operating under Admiral Kolchak a large quantity of guns and ammunition. It is understood that 200,000 rifles have already been delivered to the Russian representatives and that these weapons, with large quantities of ammunition, are now being shipped to Vladivostok on all vessels leaving the Pacific Coast for that port.

The guns and ammunition were manufactured for the old Russian Government, but shipment was stopped following the overthrow of Kerensky and were taken over by the United States to prevent their falling into the hands of the Lenin-Trotzky régime. The release of these guns was made possible, it was stated, as the result of financial arrangements concluded in this country by representatives of the anti-Bolshevist factions.

In Government circles it is still hoped that Kolchak may yet make a definite stand against the Bolshevist hordes that beset him, but this hope is a faint one. In such an event and should the American-made guns and ammunition reach him in time it might mean the check of the Bolshevist advance in Siberia. Apropos of this, some army officers are not so sure that all is lost for Kolchak. They point out that the Bolsheviki are every day getting farther away from their bases of supply, and that this means longer lines of communication to maintain; whereas, Kolchak's lines of communication are being shortened.

Early Recognition Improbable.

The situation in Western Siberia, however, remains critical in the extreme, and it was learned at the State Department that early recognition of the Omsk Government is improbable. Complete reports from Roland S. Morris, American Ambassador to Tokio, who was sent to Omsk by the department to investigate the situation in Siberia and to report on the Kolchak Government, have not been submitted, but it is understood that his partial reports are responsible for the great pessimism felt by the Administration in regard to the capacity of Admiral Kolchak and his supporters to lead the movement for the regeneration of Russia.

Whether the attitude adopted by the United States toward the Omsk Government marks a divergence between American and allied official views of the Russian situation was a question interesting diplomatic circles here today. It was not believed that President Wilson would look to General Denekin to lead the regenerative movement, in view of Denekin's command of the Don Cossacks, professional and privileged militarists.

A man who is thoroughly informed as to the situation in Siberia, in speaking today of the critical position in which the Kolchak army is now placed and of the fear expressed in Government circles that the Omsk Government is itself in danger of collapse, said:

"The situation in Siberia is certainly very critical, but I have not given up hope and I still think that Kolchak has a chance to make a stand and reorganize his forces, which are admittedly in very badly disorganized condition. But what I wish to make plain at this time is that Kolchak is not contending with the Bolshevikl alone. They are just one of the three troubles that beset poor Russia. The other two are both propaganda in form, and one is German and the other is Japanese.

"The German propaganda is, of course, open and apparent to all. The Japanese—and I do not refer to the Japanese as a whole, but to a powerful military clique among them—is more subtle. The Japanese are not working in the open. They are not claiming anything for themselves now, but will do the claiming later on. It all depends on whether or not the propaganda makes good along the lines as planned.

"In the beginning Bolshevism, which was German born, enjoyed the support of the Germans, but the Germans are now proceeding along an entirely different line, namely, an agitation in which Russian nationalism is the catch-

Hungary to Try Bela Kun and Other Soviet Leaders

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 13.—The Hungarian Public Prosecutor has issued an announcement that proceedings will be begun against all individuals charged with crimes during the Bela Kun dictatorship and that steps have already been taken for their arrest and extradition, according to advices from Budapest.

Another announcement says that it is intended to prosecute Bela Kun and his associates for incitement to murder, robbery, and forgery.

STRIKE CLOSES TWO MORE PLAYHOUSES

Audience at "Follies" Dismissed as Five Principals Fail to Appear.

INJUNCTION IS MODIFIED

Five of the most important principals in the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1919" failed to arrive at the New Amsterdam Theatre for the performance last night, and an audience of nearly 2,000 persons was turned out of the theatre at 8:45 o'clock. The strike of the "Follies" principals followed an order obtained in the Supreme Court in the afternoon modifying, so far as seven principals were concerned, the injunction granted by Justice Lydon on Monday.

The closing of the "Follies" marked the second blow struck by the actors in a day. In the afternoon, while a large audience waited to see "39 East," at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, announcement was made that the entire company had gone on strike.

It was generally believed that the "Follies," owing to the injunctions obtained by Florenz Ziegfeld, would be safe from interference until tomorrow, and Broadway was accordingly taken completely by surprise when the news spread that money was being refunded to the New Amsterdam Theatre audience.

The curtain at the "Follies" rises at 8:30 o'clock, and at that time last night the company was made up and ready to begin the performance. Mr. Ziegfeld, feeling that nothing could happen until the return of the injunction tomorrow, was not even in the theatre, as has been his nightly custom since the strike began.

The order modifying the injunction, obtained by Justus Sheffield from Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon, who had issued the original document, exempted Eddie Cantor, Gus Van, Joe Schenck, Johnny Dooley, Ray Dooley, Eddie Dowling, and John Steele. At curtain time last night three of these seven had reported for work; those missing were Eddie Cantor and Johnny Dooley, the show's principal comedians, and Van and Schenck, a song team. Missing also was Phil Dwyer, an animal impersonator, who was not included in the order modifying the injunction.

Audience Reimbursed.

At 8:45, when it became apparent that the five were not going to appear, Malcolm Douglas, manager of the theatre, went before the curtain and announced that "owing to several desertions" the performance would not be given. The audience received the announcement with a mixture of jeers, cheers, and laughter, and then formed a double line at the box office, several hundred feet long, to receive its money back. It was said that the amount of money refunded was $2,740.

Persons connected with the show said that they had no intimation of what was going to happen. The missing actors, it was said, sent no word to the theatre.

At the Maxine Elliott Theatre in the afternoon the entire company had assembled when they were called out by Luis Alberni, Equity representative in the company. Here all of the company had Equity contracts, and the play had been permitted to run to date because of the fact that it was believed to be under the management of the author, Rachel Crothers, who is not a member of the Producing Managers' Association. The fact that the Shuberts are Miss Crothers's partners in the enterprise, however, is believed to have caused the decision to call the strike.

The closing of these two attractions brings the total number of theatres closed in New York by the strike to sixteen, while two others have been seriously affected. Of the sixteen closed at various times, three have since reopened. At present, accordingly, the strike is keeping thirteen theatres dark in New York, this number being inclusive of the Vanderbilt and Cort Theatres, which were to have opened during the past two days with new attractions.

Last night's rain failed to discourage the picketers, many of whom, with

DEMOCRATIC AID FOR RESERVATIONS REPORTED ASSURED

EXPECT TO WIN LODGE OVER

But He Denies Having Given His Assent—Hitchcock's Attitude Still Unaltered.

RESERVATIONS UP TODAY

Announcement Follows Wrangle Over Delays Between Hitchcock and Republican Committee Members.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The trend toward agreement on reservations to the Peace Treaty reached the stage today where the group of Republican Senators advocating reservations received assurances which they accepted as guaranteeing Democratic assent to their program.

Word reached members of the group, it was said, that as soon as they could pledge a score of Republican votes for reservations to the League of Nations covenant along the lines recently agreed upon by seven Republican Senators, the Administration forces in the Senate would be willing to line up on that basis for ratification of the Treaty.

There was an intimation also that the reservationists had reason to believe that their ranks would eventually include Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and Republican leader of the Senate.

Twenty Republicans, it was declared, would be enough, with the Administration Democrats, to insure the two-thirds vote necessary for ratification. The program on which it is sought to unite these elements contemplates reservations further to safeguard the Monroe Doctrine, to insure domestic control over domestic questions, to amplify the right of withdrawal, and to fortify the power of Congress to decide questions of peace or war under Article X.

It was stated that the information that Democrats were in a receptive mood toward such a proposal did not come from Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the Administration leader, but from a source considered entirely authoritative. The Nebraska Senator himself denied that he had taken part in any such negotiations and said his advocacy of unreserved ratification remained unaltered. Mr. Lodge also denied that he had given assent to the proposed reservations.

Reservationists Taking a Poll.

After they heard from the Democrats today the pro-reservation Republicans began a poll to ascertain just how many of their party they could count on in their negotiations. An early adjournment of the Senate interrupted the move, but within a day or two they expect to have a more definite idea of their strength.

It was asserted that there had been several additions to the reservation group, but no Senator has publicly announced his adherence to the plan since it was agreed on by the original seven Senators. These seven are Senators McCumber of North Dakota, McNary of Oregon, Kellogg of Minnesota, Colt of Rhode Island, Cummins of Iowa, Lenroot of Wisconsin, and Spencer of Missouri.

The exact basis for their hope that Senator Lodge will join in the movement was not revealed by the pro-reservation leaders. It was pointed out, however, that in his address to the Senate yesterday he did not plead for rejection of the League entirely, but outlined objections to the covenant provisions dealt with by the proposed reservations. In one instance he spoke of "changing" one of these provisions.

Friends of the Foreign Relations Chairman have declared that he would insist at least on reservations or amendments "with teeth in them," and itepublican members of the committee who want to defeat the League covenant entirely said tonight that they were confident Mr. Lodge would vote with them on that proposal.

What may have been the part played by the White House in the negotiations between Democratic Senators and the pro-reservation Republicans has not been revealed. Members of the latter group, who have talked with President Wilson, have been confident that he would be willing in the end to accept such a program, but publication there has been no change in his stand for unreserved ratification.

Mexico Expelling Foreigners; 40 Mutineers Reported Shot

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 13.—Twenty-one foreigners, including Americans, Spaniards, Cubans, and citizens of the Argentine Republic, have been expelled from Mexico recently by order of Carranza officials, according to El Dia Espanol, the Spanish paper in Mexico City. Misconduct while in Mexico was given as the reason.

Unconfirmed reports from Chihuahua City brought to the border last night stated that forty persons had been executed as a result of the discovery of the mutiny plot in the Federal garrison there last week. The first reports stated fifteen had been executed.

STRIKE BATTLE ON AT BIG WIRE PLANT

THREE EMPLOYES WOUNDED

Mobs Attack Strikebreakers and Snipers Fire on Officials' Car from Ambush.

Special to The New York Times.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 13.—South Bartonville, a suburb five miles distant, is practically cut off from communication with this city tonight and in the hands of striking employes of the Keystone Wire and Steel Company. Governor Louden has ordered the 10th Illinois Infantry, commanded by Colonel O. P. Yeager, to proceed at once to the scene of disorder.

Three men were seriously wounded by the strikers' gunfire today. Tonight a band of strikers waylaid an automobile carrying Deputy Sheriffs from Peoria, dragged the Deputies from the car and shoved it into a ditch.

The men wounded were shot while in an automobile by snipers concealed in bushes along the road. They are Reuben Sommers, assistant chemist, son of F. W. Sommers, President of the plant; Alvin Sommers, son of John Sommers, Assistant General Superintendent of the plant, and Frank Rudolph, a front gate guard at the plant.

In the car, when it was fired on, besides those wounded, were Edwin Sommers, twin brother of Alvin; W. G. Hume, assistant sales manager; Fred J. Schlatter, auditor of the company; Henry Sommers, chemist; Charles H. Laporte, assistant to the President, John Sommers, and the assistant general superintendent. Reuben Sommers was shot in the left eye and may lose his sight. An artery in his neck was severed and his left leg paralyzed. Alvin Sommers was shot in the ear. Rudolph was shot in the back by a sniper.

Mr. Laporte made the following statement concerning the shooting:

"We drove out of the back gate toward South Adams Street and started up the incline. We stopped to remove the log obstructions in the way. Every one within a hundred feet of the car could see plainly that we were not strike breakers.

"As we started up the hill toward Bartonville, snipers concealed in the bushes along the road opened fire. Alvin Sommers, who was driving, was hit and we pulled him back into the back of the car. Schlatter then slipped over into the driver's seat. We rushed into a doctor's office in Bartonville and as we took the two men into the office the strikers continued to stone us."

The fighting began early this morning, when three truckloads of strikebreakers were brought into the plant. At that time the mob of strikers, who had done picket duty at the main entrance all night long, stoned the strikebreakers as they entered the gates. Mr. Laporte narrowly missed being hit by a rock thrown at him by a woman as he rode to the plant in a closed coupé. The rock shattered the glass in the sides of the car. His entrance into the plant was under cover of a gun in the hands of one of the guards.

As the mob followed his machine to the gate a fire hose was turned on it. Under screen of the water the strikebreakers were taken off the trucks and put into the plant. One of the Deputy Sheriffs opened fire on the mob and it replied with a fusillade. Throughout the day hidden strikers fired on the deputies and strikebreakers inside the plant and attacked trucks laden with strikebreakers whenever they appeared, shooting at them and hurling stones. Sheriff Hines promised to remove the strikebreakers if the strikers would cease firing and remove their lines about the plant, and this was agreed to, but the strikebreakers were not removed.

The ordering of the 10th Illinois Infantry to the scene followed a request for troops by the officials of the plant and a conference between Major W. Russell of the Adjutant General's office, representatives of the company, Sheriff Hines, and Major H. M. Powell of Peoria.

The strike began weeks ago in an effort to force the closed shop. President Sommer reiterated his intention tonight of keeping the plant an "open" shop.

PART OF WAR ON PRICES

Palmer Starts the Suit as an Important Move to Bring Down Cost of Necessities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Attorney General Palmer this afternoon instructed Joseph L. Bodine, United States District Attorney at Trenton, N. J., to institute an action in equity against nineteen of the largest cement manufacturing concerns in the East, the Federal complaint, signed by Mr. Palmer, alleging that these corporations entered into a conspiracy which has doubled, if not trebled, the price of a commodity used in the construction of homes, office buildings, factories, bridges, roads, ships, tunnels, and other prime necessities which in the language of the complaint has largely contributed "to the prevailing enormous cost of necessities now imposing a heavy burden upon the public."

In making the announcement this afternoon, Attorney General Palmer made it plain that he considered this action one of the most important moves made by the Government for the proper control and remedy of the present high cost of living problem. It is charged that these great corporations formed an "unincorporated association" for the control of the cement industry in the East, and that this unincorporated organization maintained offices at 19 West Forty-fourth Street, New York City, from which central office the activities of the organization, the Government alleges, are now directed.

The nineteen corporations against whom the action is brought are the following, with the name of defendant, and location of mills:

Atlas Portland Cement Co., Coplay and Northampton, Penn.; Hudson, N. Y.
Allentown Portland Cement Co., Evansville, Penn.
Alpha Portland Cement Co., Manheim, W. Va.; Alpha, N. J.; Martin's Creek, Penn.; Cementon, N. Y.
Bath Portland Cement Co., Bath, Penn.
Coplay Cement Mfg. Co., Coplay and Saylors, Penn.
Dexter Portland Cement Co., Nazareth, Penn.
The Edison Portland Cement Co., New Village, N. J.
Giant Portland Cement Co., Egypt, Penn.; Nerlolk, Va.
Glens Falls Portland Cement Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.
Hercules Cement Corp., Hercules, Penn.
Knickerbocker Portland Cement Co., Hudson, N. Y.
Lawrence Cement Co., Siegfried, Penn.
Nazareth Portland Cement Co., Bath, Penn.
Penn-Allen Cement Co., Nazareth, Penn.
Pennsylvania Cement Co., Bath, Penn.
Phoenix Portland Cement Co., Nazareth, Penn.
Security Cement and Lime Co., Security, Md.; Berkeley, W. Va.
Vulcanite Portland Cement Co., Vulcanite, N. J.

Court Action of 1912.

From 1905 until 1911, the Department of Justice states, defendants were organized together as members of the Association of Licensed Cement Manufacturers, the members of which were licensed by a corporation organized by certain defendants, and that they were required "to sell Portland cement at certain scheduled delivered prices, with freight paid, the prices being uniform for all licensees for any given point of delivery. Following a court action of 1912 the licensing system in effect in 1911 was abandoned.

"Nevertheless," the Federal complaint continues, "the defendants continued to consider it regular for all to make the same price at any given point of delivery, regardless of difference among them in costs of production and in freight rates from their mills to the point of delivery, and for all to adhere to the prices made by the defendants doing the largest business.

"However, uniform selling prices were not consistently adhered to, and many defendants made lower prices than other defendants in competition with them. Such competition prevailed particularly in the first part of the year 1910, when it resulted in a general reduction in the defendants' prices to dealers, contractors, and consumers to about 65 cents per barrel, exclusive of freight."

As a result of increases in milling facilities the defendants by 1915 had made possible a maximum production of 50,000,000 barrels of cement a year, yet despite their ability to turn out the cement to the quantity indicated, the Government charges the defendants with reducing their output until in 1918 it had amounted to only 23,000,000 barrels, or 27,000,000 barrels less than the maximum capacity of the mills. They restricted the output in 1915, it is

First Food Profiteer to Suffer Under Federal Law Pays $500 Fine for Selling Sugar at Increased Price

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Because of an effort to make an illegal profit of 4 cents a pound on sugar among his small circle of retail customers, Joseph Mossew, a retail dealer in this city, found himself under indictment and facing United States Judge George W. Ray in the United States Court today.

Sealer of Weights and Measures Thomas Dunn of this city received complaints from consumers that Mossew was in the habit of charging 15 cents a pound for sugar. He confirmed the statement, then placed the matter in the hands of the United States Commissioner. The case was promptly laid before the special United States Grand Jury in session in this city and an indictment immediately found. Mossew was arraigned and pleaded guilty to the charge of violating the food laws by profiteering.

It was the first case to arise under the new law and was the first conviction for profiteering in the United States Court. In passing sentence Judge Ray warned the offender that there were certain food regulations and price-fixing statutes that the Government was going to enforce to the limit, and that while a $500 fine would be imposed in this case a repetition of the offense would mean a long term of imprisonment.

The case has caused a sensation and further prosecutions are in prospect.

COMMONS VOTES TO FIX PRICES

Power Conferred on Board of Trade by 132 to 95 After Heated Debate.

WILL BE USED AS NEEDED

Bonar Law Makes Clear no General System Is to be Put in Force.

LONDON, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The House of Commons this evening, after heated debate, adopted an amendment to the Profiteering bill empowering the Board of Trade, after an investigation, to fix wholesale and retail prices. The vote was 132 to 95.

The amendment was denounced among others by Lord Robert Cecil, former Minister of War Trade, who expressed amazement that the Government should accept "an amendment destroying the whole basis of the bill and revolutionizing the trade of the country."

Sir Donald Maclean, a Liberal member, also denounced the amendment, characterizing it as "rank socialism of the most muddled kind."

In the course of the discussion on the bill, Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister for National Service and Reconstruction, indicated that the bill would empower the Board of Trade to fix prices in a case where the community was likely to be bled by any combination, national or international, for the purpose of increasing prices.

An amendment seeking to include profiteering in rentals within the scope of the bill was rejected. An amendment stipulating that the bill should not be retroactive was carried against strong Liberal and Labor opposition. An amendment was accepted defining that the average rate of profit earned under pre-war conditions should not be considered unreasonable.

Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, made it clear that, despite the power given the Board of Trade, there was no intention on the part of the Government to deal with profiteering by a general system of fixing prices throughout the country, because such a course would result in the stoppage of supplies.

BARS ARE STILL UP AGAINST GERMAN WIVES

American Authorities Warn Soldiers That Marriages Are Not Yet Sanctioned.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COBLENZ, Aug. 11.—Persistent reports that Americans are being permitted to marry German girls have led to the issuing of a statement by the civil affairs administration here that only about twenty such marriages have been sanctioned. These cases were those in which it was considered just to protect the interests of German girls.

There have been several hundred applications for permission for marriages, but the general policy has been adhered to of refusing permission at this time. Not a small number of American soldiers have left behind promises to return for or send for their German sweethearts when the law permits them to do so.

There is no disposition on the part of the army administration to lighten the responsibility of Americans where marriage has been promised, but the rule against marriage with women of an enemy country has had to be generally enforced. This has led to no little complaint on the part of some soldiers who are perfectly sincere in their wish to marry German girls and who can see no disloyalty to their country in doing so.

BAKER CUTS PRICES IN ARMY FOOD SALE

HAS CAUSED SOME BREAKS

Postmaster General Tells How Surplus Army Food May be Obtained Through Post Office.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A revision downward in the prices to be charged for several kinds of the army's surplus foodstuffs was authorized today by the War Department, and the official announcement was made that Secretary of War Baker had approved the policy of making reduction from time to time to keep the War Department prices below the prices charged by retailers for similar commodities of like grade.

The new schedule of prices shows that corned beef has fallen from $1.93 for a six-pound can to $1.75, and that roast beef in six-pound cans is brought down from $2.13 to $1.90. Bacon dropped from 35 cents a pound to 31 cents, and sugar cured ham from 31 cents to 29 cents.

These are a few examples of the reductions which the department says are brought about by the distribution of its surplus stocks.

The quotations, like those formerly announced, are f. o. b. storage points. They are the prices at which the commodities quoted will be sold in case lots or original packages to municipalities and through the parcel post. It was stated further that the prices to be charged municipalities and Postmasters will be the prices ruling at the time of shipment, irrespective of the prices embodied in the orders. Orders to sell in accordance with this policy have been issued to excess property officers throughout the country.

Article and Unit.	Old.	New.
Beef, corned, 6-lb cans	$1.93	$1.75
Beef, roast, 6-lb. cans	2.13	1.90
Beans, baked, No. 1 cans	.05	.04
Beans, baked, No. 2 cans	.08	.08
Beans, baked, No. 3 cans	.11	.08
Beans, stringless, No. 10 cans	.42	.40
Corn, sweet, No. 2 cans	.10	.09
Tomatoes, No. 2 cans	.09	.09
Tomatoes, No. 2½ cans	.11	.09
Tomatoes, No. 3 cans	.12	.11
Tomatoes, No. 10 cans	.37	.33
Bacon, issue Bur., 100 crate, lb.	.35	.31
Ham, sug. cured, 100 crate, lb.	.31	.29

Pickles have been added to the commodities, listed at the following quotations: Pickles, 16-gallon kegs, 25 cents a gallon; $4 a keg.

In an order issued to local Postmasters, the Postmaster General gives instructions in detail as to how the orders are to be taken from customers, the foodstuffs requisitioned from the army stations, and then distributed to purchasers.

In order to secure the best results," Mr. Burleson says, "and to be certain that the foodstuffs get into the hands of bona fide consumers, it is necessary to utilize Post Offices as distributing agencies and to leave to the individual Postmaster some measure of discretion as to the actual consumers to whom sales should be made and in what quantities.

"The prices quoted in the list are the united cost to the consumers, to which must be added postage at the parcel post rate on the total gross weight of the order from the zone surplus property officer at the particular office to which his State is assigned. The exact cost of each item to the consumer can be determined by the Postmaster by adding to the 'price per cent, &c.,' the proper amount for parcel post charges.

"All orders from consumers must be accompanied by the cash, which must include the total cost of the order and parcel post charges. No special order form for the use of consumers will be provided. Consumers must order in writing and itemize the foodstuffs desired, so that Postmasters may readily determine the exact charge to be made.

"Carriers in the city or rural delivery service may accept orders in writing. Consumers must keep a copy of the order given to a carrier, upon which the carrier will receipt for cash paid. When the carrier turns an order in to the main office or station he should be given a receipt for the cash by the Postmaster or Superintendent of the station.

"It has first been determined to stop taking orders on Aug. 20, but a new ruling permits the Postmaster to receive orders until the quota allotted for his district shall have been exhausted."

PALMER WANTS BIG FUNDS

Proposes, Also, That Congress Add Other Necessities to Food Law.

OTHER DEPARTMENTS ACT

Plan Standardization, Fair Weights and Measures, and Other Campaigns for Saving.

STORED SUPPLIES SEIZED

Federal Agents in Various Cities Begin Release of Commodities Held There.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Attorney General Palmer made two important moves today in the Government's fight to reduce hoarding and profiteering in the necessities of life.

One was a request to Congress immediately to amend Section 4 of the food control law so as to add wearing apparel to the list of necessities of life specifically mentioned in the law. The other was his announcement that he will immediately ask for an appropriation of $1,500,000, which will largely be used in financing the activities of the Secret Service in running down hoarders and profiteers and for the prosecution of the offenders.

The program of the Government to reduce the high cost of living is based upon the suggestion of President Wilson to continue the food control law after peace is formally declared, so as to leave in the hands of the Department of Justice a weapon with which to combat the activities of profiteers and others who, in the opinion of the Government, are responsible for the present excessive prices of food and other necessaries of life.

Mr. Palmer, in his letters to Chairman Groona of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and to Congressman Haugen, Chairman of the corresponding committee in the House, points out that he considers it of the greatest importance that the proposed amendment should be adopted and made a part of the war-time law before the bill extending that law after peace is passed. This procedure, the Attorney General states, will greatly simplify and at the same time make more thorough the work of Government officials charged with the attack on the high cost of living. It is considered certain that the amendment will be adopted as requested by Mr. Palmer. It is also believed that the Attorney General will get the $1,500,000 needed for the proper enforcement of the law and for the financing of the activities of those governmental agencies charged with the detection of profiteers and the securing of evidence that will stand in court when these violators are brought to trial. There may be some opposition, however, to granting the appropriation, but the consensus of opinion seems to be that the Department of Justice will get the money.

As the food control law now stands, it contains no provisions which make it possible to indict a concern or individual for profiteering in wearing apparel, and, furthermore, Section 4, as it now stands, fails to fix a penalty for the violation of its provisions. Mr. Palmer's amendment would also correct this defect and fix a minimum penalty of two years in prison, or $5,000 fine or both, at the discretion of the court.

"If we are going after the food profiteers," said Mr. Palmer, this afternoon, "we should also go after the profiteer in wearing apparel, which is as essential to the welfare and contentment of the people. There are other matters also needing attention, but Congress is fully alive to the situation and I am leaving those matters to Congress."

"Have you any suggestions to make as to rents as another of the important items involved in the high cost of living problem?" the Attorney General was asked.

"Yes, I have thought of that; but the only place in which we can tackle the rent problem is here in the District of Columbia. The rent question is one for the State authorities to handle."

Referring to foodstuffs held in storage, Mr. Palmer said he had reports from the Governors of several of the States.

Vast Supplies of Food Stored.

"Some of those reports as to the amount of goods stored in these States," said the Attorney General, "are perfectly amazing. In some instances these stocks of goods have been kept in storage longer than the State law permits. Furthermore, the State authorities in some instances are experiencing difficulty in enforcing their laws because of interstate complications, and in such instances they are turning the cases over to the Government. I have instructed the Federal District Attorneys and other Government officials to stand close by the Governors and to aid them in every way and whenever possible."

In answer to a question as to the possibility of all these stored supplies being released to the public, the Attorney General pointed out that such release, if made, will be made along what is termed reasonable lines. He explained this by saying that if all the reserve food supply was released at once it might cause a more serious situation next Winter, due to the absence of a reserve supply which might be needed in an emergency.

Mr. Palmer said that with two exceptions all the State food officials who served during the war have rallied to his support in the present fight, and he expected to have two, who were holding back, lined up in the next few days. In many States the wartime organizations are already functioning and the county and town committees have begun operations to assist the Federal authorities.

Two years ago, it was pointed out, William J. Flynn, the Director of the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, then Chief of the Secret Service, conducted an extensive investigation of the food situation and discovered the location of huge quantities of hoarded supplies. A partial list of some of the hoards discovered by the Secret Service was published in THE NEW YORK TIMES at the time.

Director Flynn will again direct the investigation, and it became known today that he had called upon Chief Moran of the Secret Service to detail temporarily to the Department of Justice some of the agents who were connected with the previous investigation. The information gained by the Secret Service two years ago, it was stated at the Department of Justice today, was proving of great help to the Government now.

"Many of the Federal District Attorneys," Mr. Palmer said, "have wired asking if it is permissible for them to give out the full details in all cases of profiteering and hoarding that are officially brought to their attention. I have informed them that all this information should be given to the newspapers, the names of those involved, the amount of food involved, in fact everything connected with each and every case."

Mr. Palmer then read a brief telegram from the Federal District Attorney at Binghamton announcing the conviction of a dealer there for profiteering in sugar. The man was fined $500.

Frank W. Mondell, Republican floor leader in the House of Representatives and titular spokesman for his party there, asserted today that the Republicans of the House would have to be "shown" before granting the appropriations which President Wilson considers necessary for the various executive departments to unite in waging successfully the Federal campaign against the high cost of living.

"Congress," said Mr. Mondell, "must be convinced of the necessity for the desired funds before it will be inclined to act favorably upon the estimates."

$2,935,000 for War on Prices.

The estimates already submitted, plus the sum of $1,500,000 which Attorney General Palmer today said he would ask from Congress, bring the total amount sought by Federal executive departments to $2,935,000.

Mr. Mondell's announcement came directly on the heels of requests made to Congress today by the Department of Commerce for $410,000, by the Department of Labor for $475,000, the Federal Trade Commission for $500,000, and the Treasury Department for $50,000 extra for use by Treasury Secret Service operatives in hunting out profiteers. On top of these estimates Attorney General Palmer will ask for a special appropriation of $1,500,000.

Mr. Mondell did not say that the appropriations would be refused. But he did say that they would require careful consideration before the House could be convinced that the sums would serve no other purpose than "the excuse for hiring a lot of unnecessary Government agents." Mr. Mondell has made one absolute change of front, for he declared today he had no desire whatever for an adjournment or a recess, but, instead, wished to get along with the work ahead. Republicans, said he, had no high cost of living program in addition to that suggested by the President.

The line of attack adopted by Mr. Mondell was rather closely followed by Chairman Good of the Appropriations Committee. Returning from a conference with Victor Murdock, Acting Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, Mr. Good said that while his committee would have hearings on the estimates within a few days they "would be carefully scrutinized" before the sums were appropriated. He said the departments now had more money than they "knew how to use." The Federal Trade Commission, he declared, already had $1,000,000 for investigating purposes.

There was not much talk of the high cost of living today on the floor. Representative Huddleston of Alabama, Democrat, made a speech, saying the National Coal Association dealers proposed to run prices sky high next Winter if preventive legislation was not enacted.

Before the House Agricultural Committee Frank A. Horn, President of the American Refrigerating Association, testified that his organization would not oppose a reasonable measure regulating cold storage.

The appropriation asked for the Department of Labor, as explained in an accompanying letter, was for the employment of twenty-four experts, and 193 special agents for a period of ten months. No indication how the men would be used was offered.

For Fair Weights and Measures.

The $410,000, which Secretary Redfield asked through Secretary Glass, to use in the campaign against the high cost of living, would be split as follows among various bureaus of the Department of Commerce:

Bureau of Standards for co-operation in weights and measures, $80,000.

Bureau of Standards in connection with standardization of industries, $30,000.

Bureau of Fisheries, for conduct of demonstrations, $75,000.

Total, $410,000.

Explanations were made by the various bureau chiefs as to why they considered the sums mentioned necessary.

"The two vital points in the problem of the high cost of living lie at the factory and in the market," said S. W. Stratton, Director of the Bureau of Standards. "At the factory the products are made, and in the market the products are bought by the consumer. One of the items ($30,000) covers standardization in the industries with a view to economy in production and efficiency in producers. The other item ($80,000) covers the question of full weight, in which every consumer is vitally interested. The temptation to short-weight is very great when prices are high, and the public is virtually without protection on this score except along the lines of strict enforcement of the weights and measures laws."

"The members of the National Coal Association having failed in their campaign to sell their coal at the present exorbitant prices," said Representative Huddleston to the House this afternoon, "have now decided to withhold fuel from the market until snow flies. Then they will put up the price, there will be a shortage of coal, and as the result we will have men, women, and children suffering all over the country. The association claims there is a shortage of coal now because of a shortage of labor and coal cars.

"The whole trouble is that there is no market because the operators are demanding exorbitant prices. There is no shortage of labor or coal cars. The only shortage is found in the Coal Association itself—it is woefully lacking in the principles of common honesty and humanity."

Testifying before the House Agricultural Committee, Mr. Horn, President of the American Refrigeration Association, said there was no occasion for limiting the period of cold storage to less than twelve months. He objected to the Hutchinson bill which fixes ten months as the limit and also to the McKellar bill which specifies even shorter periods for certain commodities. He did not oppose the stamping the dates of storage but expressed the belief that the marking of producers' prices, as recommended by the President, would not be workable.

PROPOSE MARKET CHANGES.

State Reconstruction Commission Makes Recommendations to Governor.

The New York State Reconstruction Commission sent yesterday to Governor Smith the third installment of its report upon food production and distribution, in which it proposes many changes in the present law, aimed to reduce the cost of foodstuffs. The commission questions the value to the community of the public market run on the present plan, but believes that great benefits may be derived from it if it is made a "municipal retail market whose books and methods of doing business are open to the public and which is conducted on a plane of high efficiency and at moderate profits." "Such a market," the report says, "can furnish both a criterion of prices by which the consumer can establish his own price ideals and a recourse to which the public can always go in case their own merchants persist in a too great inefficiency of merchandising or in too exalted ideas of net profits."

Conducted in this way, the municipal market would not attempt to replace all or any large part of the marketing system of a community, which would in itself be an enormous undertaking, but it would furnish a measure of control which is very valuable. It could only do this, however, if the goods were sold at such figures as to return to the market the original cost of the goods plus all charges and loss incurred in getting them into the market, plus a fair competitive price for all services rendered of every sort, rents, interest on money invested, depreciation, plus a fair but moderate profit.

In other words, this municipal market puts itself in precisely the same position that the private merchant does and establishes a standard of prices by maintaining a high standard of efficiency and distribution and a moderate scale of profits. If it does not do these things the prices which it establishes are purely fictitious, and nothing but distance, lack of supplies, or other impediments put into the way of the purchasing public keeps the market with such fictitious prices from having to supply the whole consuming public and from therefore speedily incurring a heavy deficit.

STORED FOODSTUFFS SEIZED.

Government Agents Act—Great Stocks to be Released in Chicago.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 13.—Foodstuffs held in storage by six Tampa wholesale concerns aggregating 326,000 tins of canned goods, 4,000 cases of eggs, with large quantities of sugar, flour, and other commodities, were seized here today by agents of the Department of Justice, acting under orders of H. S. Phillips, United States District Attorney.

Notices of libel were served on the owners, charging that the goods were being illegally held from the market for the purpose of unreasonably increasing prices.

Swift & Co., Crenshaw Brothers Produce Company, Charles M. Moorhouse, José Garcia, José Suarez, and Reina Brothers were owners of the seized stocks.

The haul also included 36,200 pounds of rice, 71,450 pounds of salt, about 30,000 pounds of sugar, 20,580 pounds of flour, and lesser quantities of other commodities. Mr. Phillips said that further seizures were contemplated.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 13.—Eighty-four thousand dozen eggs, stored with the Atlantic Ice and Coal Corporation here for the account of Morris & Co., Chicago, were seized today by the United States District Attorney. Seizure was made under libel proceedings in the Federal Court, which charged that the eggs were unlawfully stored for the purpose of unreasonably increasing prices.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Government prosecutors who are waging war on food hoarders and profiteers will go before Federal District Judges here soon and seek writs to seize surplus food supplies in cold storage and sell them to the public.

Federal officials believe this action, which was announced today by the District Attorney's office, will result in quick price reductions on many articles of food. Owners of the surplus stock would later be prosecuted under the Federal Food Control law for hoarding.

Thousands of tons of meats, poultry, fish, butter, and eggs are held in warehouses by brokers and speculators here, according to reports by the United States Bureau of Markets.

The campaign by Federal, State, and municipal authorities caused further price reductions here today. Butter in tubs fell from 55 to 52 cents a pound, and the wholesale price of poultry from 31 to 28 cents a pound.

Twenty million pounds of California beet sugar expected to arrive here within a few weeks will stabilize sugar prices, according to Henry H. Rolapp, head of the Sugar Committee of the United States Food Administration.

OPEN FIGHT IN JERSEY.

Federal and State Officials Begin Campaign Against Profiteers.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—United States District Attorney Joseph L. Bodine has extended the activities in the Government's campaign against the high cost of living to the counties of New Jersey, and in a telegram today to all the county Food Administrators asked that price-fixing committees be named for each county. In the absence of W. S. Tyler of Newark, who was State Food Administrator, and is at present in New Hampshire, Bodine communicated directly with the county Food Administrators.

State Attorney General Thomas F. McGrann has sent a letter to all the county prosecutors of the State urging that they take steps to cause a reduction in the price of foodstuffs and to prosecute any profiters. In his letter he wrote:

"In this particular permit me to call to your attention Section 13 of the laws of 1913, which make it illegal for corporations, firms or persons, any two or more of them, to create or carry out restrictions in trade, to limit or reduce the production, or increase the price of merchandise or of any commodity; to fix at any standard or figure whereby the price to the public or to the consumers shall in any manner be controlled; to make any agreement either by pooling, withholding from the market or selling at a fixed price, or in any manner by which the price may be affected.

"Under this statute not only the so-called food profiteers, but those persons or corporations who have in any manner conspired or entered into an agreement to bring about the increased prices of clothing, shoes or other merchandise may be proceeded against criminally."

The Prosecutors of the twenty-one counties of the State will meet at the office of Prosecutor Garvan in Jersey City on Friday to consider the matters referred to in the Attorney General's letter.

SAY $7 SHOES GO BEGGING.

Witnesses Tell Boston Jury That Public Demands Costlier Grades.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Shoes retailing for $6 and $7 a pair are a drug on the market, according to witnesses who appeared today at the Grand Jury investigation of the high cost of living. They testified that customers demand a more expensive grade, and that as a result profits have to be made on the finer grades of leather, while there is no call for parts of hides formerly used for manufacturing cheaper shoes.

The needs of foreign Governments after the war began, and the increased demand for shoes after America became a party to the conflict, were among the causes of the increase in price, according to other witnesses. Tanners and manufacturers, it was maintained, were all anxious to have prices drop.

Names Price Fixers in Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—The appointment of price-fixing committees in each of the twenty-one counties of New Jersey, in accordance with a suggestion of United States Attorney General Palmer, was directed today by United States Attorney Bodine in telegrams sent to the County Food Administrators.

ORDERS 400 CARS OF FOOD FOR CITY

Sale of $1,650,000 Worth of Army Surplus Supplies at Cost Will Begin Monday.

HYLAN TO USE THE POLICE

Governor Orders Inquiry Into Milk Prices—Beef, Lamb and Butter Go Higher.

The drive on food profiteering continued in this city yesterday with several added features.

Governor Smith consulted for four hours with ex-Governor Martin H. Glynn and Dr. John H. Finley, whom he has appointed Commissioners, under the Moreland act, to investigate food hoarding and profiteering in the State.

Mayor Hylan entered the ranks of the profiteer hunters with a letter to Commissioner Richard E. Enright, requesting that police Captains in each district have their patrolmen report all cases of profiteering.

The Reconstruction Commission, in a report to the Governor, recommended the establishment of better public markets.

Arthur Williams, the Federal Food Administrator, announced he had been reliably informed that tremendous hoards of sugar were being held in this city for higher prices.

The Department of Public Markets placed its first order with the army for 400 carloads of foodstuffs, aggregating in value $1,650,000, all of which will be placed on sale Monday.

While every one was acting to bring down the cost of living, the price of lamb went up 2 cents a pound, beef went up 1 cent, and butter jumped 2 cents.

Governor Smith brought into his conference District Attorney Edward Swann and Assistant District Attorneys Alfred J. Talley, Edward R. Kilgore, and John T. Dooling. Earlier in the day Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Secretary of the Reconstruction Commission, conferred with the Governor. Before the conference the Governor said he was determined to get to the bottom of the reasons for high prices through the new commission, so as to find a cure for conditions. He was engaged part of the day in an effort to obtain counsel for the commission, and he emphasized the importance of finding the right man for the place, as the commission would have to depend largely upon him. He reiterated that if concrete and definite information were brought to his notice that would justify the calling of the Legislature, he would act at once, but that no such information as yet had been laid before him.

Governor Orders Prosecution.

Later he issued this statement:

After a conference with the District Attorney and several of his assistants, and Commissioners Glynn and Findlay, I have directed District Attorney Swann to proceed at once with the presentation to the Grand Jury of any legal evidence he may have showing any violations of law connected in any way with the recent increase in the price of milk on the part of the milk distributers or any other person or persons in league with them in violating the law, and if there are any unlawful combinations in existence having for their object the hoarding of food for the purpose of increasing the price, I have directed the District Attorney to use all the powers of his office to bring the offenders to justice.

Mayor Hylan's letter to Commissioner Enright read:

Richard Enright, Esq., Police Commissioner, City of New York.

Dear Commissioner: I believe one of the quickest ways of obtaining evidence against retail profiteers is to have an investigation made in each police precinct.

With this end in view, I would suggest that you have the Captains in each precinct direct all police under them to thoroughly investigate and report all cases of alleged profiteering among retailers, no matter what the nature of their business may be, and forward to you a report which can be presented to the District Attorney, so that he can begin a criminal prosecution against any one who has violated the penal law. Very truly yours,

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

These supplies will be sold to the public, beginning Monday, from fifty-five school buildings in Manhattan, forty-three in the Bronx, twenty in Queens, and ten in Richmond, the locations of which will be published Sunday. The prices quoted above are those which the city will pay to the army. The price to the public will be 1 or 2 cents more a pound or can to cover the cost of the handling and "overhead" to the city.

Regarding the report of sugar hoarding, Mr. Williams said one specific offer was reported to have been made of 2,000 tons of sugar at 12 1-3 cents a pound wholesale. This is more than 3 cents higher than should be asked. The Secret Service is working on the case, and criminal prosecution may follow, Mr. Williams said. He urged that any dealer advise him at once if such an offer should be received, so that this practice might be prevented.

"It is especially important," said the Food Administrator, "that sugar shall be plentiful and cheap, to aid in canning and preserving; otherwise great quantities of fruit will be lost. The Food Administrator urges, on behalf of the committee, that no dealer shall charge more than 11 cents a pound for granulated sugar and that he be advised of any attempt to sell above this price."

Move for Lower Clothing Prices.

Mr. Williams also announced that Michael Friedsam, President of Altman & Co., and a member of the Fair Price Committee, had called a conference of manufacturers and dealers in clothing and shoes. It is proposed to establish fair prices in this field, which heretofore has not been covered.

Reports from the Bureau of Foods and Markets of the Federal Department of Agriculture showed that butter, beef, and lamb had increased in price since Tuesday, following an increase over Monday's price. Eggs remained about the same.

William Cutrell, Superintendent of the Butter and Egg Exchange, and Peter H. Alnor, President of the Retail Grocers' Association, blamed the consumers for the rise, saying that since the salaries of so many persons had been raised, they had concentrated their buying upon the better grades of goods, while ignoring the poorer qualities. The supply of the better grades was limited and the price was forced up, they contended.

H. D. Knoop of the Bureau of Foods and Markets said this was partially true of meats. He said there was little demand for the forequarters of beef, while there was an excessive demand for the hindquarters. He said only 12 per cent. of a side of beef consisted of porterhouse steak, while the demand was 50 per cent.

TRUCE IS DECLARED IN PARIS FOOD FIGHT

Government Induces Vigilance Committee to Await Results of Posting 'Normal Prices.'

PARIS, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The Central Markets resumed their usual aspect this morning, with business more active than customary, due to exhaustion of retail stocks and the accumulation of provisions in the markets.

A truce has been declared between the merchants and consumers through the intervention of Joseph J. B. E. Noulens, the Food Minister, who asked the Vigilance Committee to suspend action until it was seen whether the posting of "Normal Prices" would not produce the desired effect without provoking retaliatory measures on the part of the merchants.

The merchants' strike came to an end at the same time, but the truck gardeners reduced shipments to the smallest proportions in view of the uncertainty as to the fate of perishable goods. Both sides now appear to be in accord to give the plan of M. Noulens a trial before resuming hostilities.

The Government is investigating the origin of and the real motive for the sending yesterday of 1,000 telegrams, addressed presumably by commission merchants, to producers in the country advising the producers to cease shipments of provisions to Paris. The telegraph employes, suspicious of the significance of so many telegrams of this character being filed, took the responsibility upon themselves of holding up the messages. For this they were officially blamed, but unofficially were praised today when Premier Clemenceau took upon himself all the responsibility.

In some quarters these telegrams are taken as evidence of a plot by merchant profiteers to attempt to starve Paris out of revenge for the action of the Consumers' Vigilance Committees and in the hope of frightening both the authorities and the consumers.

It was announced at the Ministry of Commerce today that if investigation showed that there was conserted action among commission merchants to check the arrival of provisions in Paris such merchants would be expelled from the central markets.

The disturbances at the Central Markets yesterday, which resulted in the closing of most of the stalls, caused much congestion at freight stations in Paris where foodstuffs are received. In many cases it was impossible to deliver consignments to retailers, and the trucks and wagons returned to the stations fully loaded, mostly with fruit and other perishable foodstuffs. The Food Ministry last night ordered that the goods gathered at the stations be sold at once at the Vilgrain food barracks, which is operated by the Government.

At the Bercy station, in southeastern Paris, the congestion was so great that the railway company was authorized to sell foodstuffs at retail at the station. The loss in fruit and vegetables because of the disturbances is said to have been considerable.

Yesterday abounded in striking incidents. One vegetable vendor was forced by the crowds to reduce the price of his cabbages one-half. He went into a shoe store later and bought a pair of shoes. He put on the shoes and handed the shoe dealer one-half the regular price, saying that he was only doing as he had been done by. He then walked out.

Dooling Fears Milk Famine.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Assistant District Attorney Dooling of New York, who conducted the John Doe investigation into the high price of milk there, after a tour of inspection in Orange County, announced here today that he believed shipments of large numbers of cows to France threatened New York City with a milk famine. He said he would return to New York immediately and report to District Attorney Swann in hope that action to check the shipments could be taken.

ERZBERGER ASSAILS GERMAN REACTIONARIES

Says Their Attacks Are Aimed Not Merely at Him, but at the Republic.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 12 (via Copenhagen.)—Finance Minister Erzberger, interviewed at Weimar and asked if the attacks against him would be answered by new revelations, replied:

"The Government will meet all attacks with proper means. It was not the Cabinet which opened the fight, but the reactionary opposition. My resignation would not benefit the Government's position, because the reactionaries declared war not merely against me, but against the whole people's Government, against all the achievements of the revolution, against the German Republic, as the Nationalists openly proclaimed at their recent convention. Those of us who are in such a fight will not throw up the game as long as we have confidence in the majority."

To the question, "Are you aware that many people believe you prolonged the war after Czernin had made his report to Emperor Karl?" he answered:

"I am aware that the reactionary opposition was responsible for the prolongation of the war, which it now seeks to put on other shoulders. The Entente was always well informed regarding conditions in Austria, as the Entente press recently made clear beyond all doubt. They needed no indirect information from me. Nobody has ever furnished the slightest proof to that effect."

Regarding a private letter which Erzberger wrote to Marshal Foch, he said:

"I have written dozens of such letters in behalf of especially deserving war prisoners and have pleaded for all prisoners, directly or indirectly, unceasingly. Only mean and malicious people can use my attitude on the prison question against me by totally distorting my intentions."

Wilson Orders Alien Stock Sold.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President Wilson in executive orders made public today directed the Alien Property Custodian to sell at public auction shares in control of the Custodian of the Richard Meyer Company of New Orleans, a branch of the Gans Steamship Line of New York, and to reject all bids for the recently offered shares of the C. P. Goerz American Optical Company. The Meyer company stock is to be sold at the same time as the Custodian-held shares of the Gans Steamship Line.

Due on New Theatre Bonds.

Philip J. Sinnott, the referee appointed by the Supreme Court to compute the amount due to the Equitable Trust Company as trustee for the bondholders of the New Theatre, yesterday filed a report. He said $1,750,000 was due as to principal, and $81,156.25 in interest. Mr. Sinnott examined William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., as attorney for his father, who is the registered holder of all the bonds. These, thirty-five in all, are for $50,000 each.

CHARGES A CEMENT TRUST

charged, to about 30,000,000 barrels, to 29,000,000 in 1916, the same in 1917, and to about 23,000,000 in 1918.

"The defendants," it is further alleged by the Government, "created in the latter part of 1915 and in the first part of 1916, and have continued up to the present time, an incorporated association amongst themselves, with offices formerly at Philadelphia and now at 19 West Forty-fourth Street, New York City. They joined the said association as members and paid its expenses pro rata according to the volume of business done by each, and they regularly attended monthly meetings of the association at its offices, in the persons of their authorized officers and representatives. They provided the officers with a salaried manager and a force of clerical assistants and with a force of traveling and investigating engineers.

Production Cut Down.

"The defendants furnished the manager of the said association with full information as to their respective amounts of production and contracts for future deliveries, and instructed him to compile and distribute such information to all the defendants. They also instructed the traveling engineers of the association to make investigations at the request of individual defendants concerning the contracts of any defendant or defendants for future delivery, and to report the facts so ascertained to all the defendants concerned therein. They also instructed the manager of the association to compile, print and distribute to all the defendants uniform books called "Freight Books," to be used by the defendants in computing uniform prices for any given point of delivery, as described below.

"They did all the things specified in the two preceding paragraphs, with the purpose and effect of bringing about restriction of the amount of cement produced, reduction in the amount of cement subject to future delivery at former prices, uniformity of prices for any given point of delivery, and increases of such prices."

It is further charged that many of the "larger and more prominent defendants," through their authorized officers and representatives, repeatedly declared to other defendants that "large production resulted in lower prices and was detrimental to the cement industry." It is also charged that the defendants supplied to the manager of the unincorporated association complete information regarding the production of the various mills, and that they furnished to the association manager details of each contract entered into for the future delivery of cement.

"An effective agreement," it is further alleged, "was brought about among the defendants whereby each canceled a large part of existing contracts for future delivery at former prices, in consideration of similar cancellations by the other defendants; and whereby the aggregate amount of cement under contract to be delivered by the defendants in the future, at prices specified as of the date of the contracts, was reduced from much more than 18,000,000 barrels to about 16,000,000 barrels as of June 1, 1918, about 14,000,000 barrels as of June 1, 1918, and about 4,000,000 barrels as of June 1, 1919. Thus the delivery of a large amount of cement to dealers, contractors, and consumers, at former lower prices, was prevented, and the securing of higher prices by the defendants was facilitated.

"When any defendants were discovered by other defendants to have deviated from the 'delivered prices,' the offender's representative was orally remonstrated with by the representatives of the other defendants, both singly and in groups, and were told that they had failed to co-operate and that they were guilty of bad practice, detrimental to the cement industry.

"As a result of co-operating among themselves the defendants, it is charged, increased their price of cement from about 65 cents a barrel in 1915 to $1.85 a barrel at the present time."

The complainant asks "that it be adjudged that the defendants aforesaid have been and are engaged in a combination and conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade and commerce in Portland cement."

TINOCO REGIME GONE.

President of Costa Rica Reported to Have Fled, His Brother Slain.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Two brief telegrams reached the State Department from its diplomatic representatives in San Jose, Costa Rica, today, one of which was taken to mean that Federico Tinoco, the unrecognized President of Costa Rica, had fled the country, and the other asserting that his brother Joaquin, Vice President and Minister of War, had been assassinated.

The first dispatch to arrive was summarized in this announcement:

"The assassination of Joaquin Tinoco, Minister of War and Marine in Costa Rica since Jan. 7, and Vice President, was reported to the Department of State today. The assassination took place Aug. 10, and the funeral was to be held on the morning of Aug. 11. Joaquin Tinoco was a brother of Federico Tinoco."

A second cablegram received by the State Department today, sent from San Jose under date of August 12, began with the words: "Since Tinoco has gone," and was interpreted as meaning that Federico Tinoco, President of Costa Rica, had left the country. This was the first official word that had been received that Federico Tinoco had gone. During the last week there were unofficial reports current in Washington that Federico had fled.

JAPAN MAY SEND SHIDEHERA

Cabinet Vice Minister to Succeed Ishii, It Is Reported.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—K. Shidehera, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Japanese Cabinet, has been appointed Japanese Ambassador at Washington to succeed Viscount Ishii, according to cable advices received today from Tokio by The Japanese-American, a local Japanese language newspaper.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Although the State Department has not been approached with a view of learning whether Kijuro Shidehera, Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs in the Japanese Cabinet, would be persona grata to the United States Government, as successor to Viscount Ishii, as Ambassador at Washington, it was learned officially tonight that the Vice Minister occupied the leading position among those being considered for the post. It has been believed here for some time that Viscount Ishii would not return to Washington because of political changes in the composition of the Japanese Cabinet.

Mr. Shidehera was formerly counselor of the Embassy here and during the early years of the war was Minister to The Hague.

There were similar demonstrations in the country districts.

LABOR TROUBLES PASSING IN BRITAIN

Lloyd George's Next Statement of Policy Awaited with Great Interest.

"DIRECT ACTION" IS DEAD

Radical Party in "Triple Alliance" Finds It Has Lost Practically All Its Support.

LONDON, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—With the fear of direct action by the "Triple Alliance"—comprising the railroad men, miners, and transport workers—in balloting on a strike removed and the prospect of a speedy resumption of work in the Yorkshire coal fields, the labor situation was distinctly improved today, and the Government and Parliament breathed easier.

According to George Nicoll Barnes, the Labor representative in the War Cabinet, the labor situation gradually is becoming more normal and the nation is to be congratulated on having gone thus far safely along the troublous road. Unemployment, Mr. Barnes added, was down to half the figure of last May, and the workers generally were showing a desire to avoid extreme and illegal measures to obtain their desires.

Premier Lloyd George is said to be particularly pleased with the way things are going, and his promised statement to Parliament next Tuesday, defining the Government's trade policy, is being awaited with great interest. It is asserted that Mr. Lloyd George will undertake that the Admiralty, like the War Office, shall make sweeping reductions in its estimates.

The Minister of Labor announces that a proposal is being considered, "in the interest of the general community," providing for the introduction of legislation making strikes and lockouts illegal unless one week's notice in writing is given to enable an inquiry into the situation causing discord and an attempt at its settlement. This program, it is said, will be strongly resented by a large portion of the laborers.

The Yorkshire miners are not all willing to resume work. Ten thousand men in the Pontefroot district voted today against resuming work, and it is said that in other districts the miners have not yet reached a decision as to whether they will return to their labors. The belief prevails, however, that a majority of the miners will start work Monday.

"Direct Action" Dead.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—"The direct action" policy urged by the extremists among the labor leaders, which was killed by the failure of the police strike, was decently buried today when the Triple Alliance, at its meeting, decided to remit the whole question to the Trades Union Congress next month at Glasgow, where, says The Chronicle's labor correspondent, "a suitable epitaph will no doubt be found for it."

The delegates of the Triple Alliance, who met today in London, were faced with the fact that the transport workers who form the most important third of the organization had decided not to issue ballot papers on the question of "direct action."

Then there were the railroad workers. The executives of the National Union of Railwaymen has power to call out its members on strike without the formality of a ballot, and some of the extremist members of the executives were prepared to stop the railroad system of the country in an attempt to force the Government to abandon Archangel and release conscientious objectors, but the saner counsels of the moderate leaders, such as J. H. Thomas, prevailed, and the railroad workers finally insisted upon a ballot before "direct action" was undertaken. Finally there was a third branch of the Triple Alliance—the miners. The Lancashire miners were dead against any such proposal, and the Yorkshire miners, having challenged the Government and failed after spending the greater part of the accumulated funds of their union, besides sacrificing millions in wages, were not likely to support it. Nottinghamshire and Leicestershire miners were known to be in opposition.

In these circumstances it was apparent to the executive of the Triple Alliance that if the proposal for direct action were put to a vote there was danger of a minority so small as to make the proposers look ridiculous. By referring the question to the Trades Union Congress, the Triple Alliance, says The Chronicle, "shows a welcome disposition to escape from an increasingly embarrassing dilemma."

ERZBERGER WANTS SHIPS.

Says Germany Must Make Haste to Create a New Merchant Fleet.

BERLIN, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—"We must proceed immediately to create a merchant fleet and help Germans abroad with State advances," said Mathias Erzberger, Vice Premier and Minister of Finance of the German Government, speaking before the National Assembly at Weimar yesterday. He promised the Assembly that a bill carrying out these projects would be presented in a few weeks.

Dr. Erzberger added that the loan situation must receive consideration, declaring that the German nation must raise 25,000,000,000 marks yearly in taxes in order to regain a healthy condition.

"The storm will come because it must come," he added. "I am constantly at work on the regular budget, which will be submitted on Oct. 1. The liquidation of our war undertakings must be completed as soon as possible."

"Under the Peace Treaty," he continued, "we have undertaken heavy obligations, which we must observe with an honest will. A big property levy is the first step on the path of imperial financial reform. This will afford a possibility of reducing the floating debt and abolishing the vicious paper régime."

Dr. Erzberger declared that foodstuffs could not remain unburdened. Referring to the use of German labor in the reconstruction of Northern France, he said that this was the only possible means of reparation.

"The entire system of taxation to be completed during the course of the year will be an accomplishment which will be a blessing to the German people and which will help to create a new and strong Germany, built upon justice and democracy."

WILCOX SAYS CITIES SHOULD OWN TROLLEYS

But Must Conserve Investment, He Warns—Bliss Urges Wage Control.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Delos F. Wilcox, former member of the New York State Commission and considered an expert in public utility matters, testifying today before the Federal Electric Railways Commission, asserted as his belief that municipal ownership and operation is the solution of the problem now facing the electric railways of the country.

After giving a comprehensive survey of the causes which had precipitated the present situation, and declaring that urban transportation is a matter of vital concern to every municipality, Mr. Wilcox said that any arrangement made for taking over the street railway properties should take care of the real investment in the properties.

Other witnesses heard today were Chairman O. W. Bliss of the Rhode Island Public Service Commission; Z. W. Bliss, a receiver of the Rhode Island Railway Company, and Mayor Gillen of Newark.

Chairman Bliss declared that final solution of the electric street railway problem would never come until authority to fix wages of employes is vested in the same authority which regulates the rates of fare. He said that although Rhode Island electric lines had been well managed they were faced with an impossible situation with increased costs of labor and material and that they simply cannot solve the problem with no restrictions on wage increases.

Former Chairman Wilcox told the commission today there were four fundamental questions to be determined in dealing with the street railway problem. They were:

First—The character of the investment.

Second—Whatever the business shall be conducted for private profit or conducted for public service.

Third—Whether continuity of service be guaranteed.

Fourth—Whether street railways service be carried on by public or private agencies.

The investment, he asserted, should be non-speculative and the revenue should be so flexible that the investment would receive a proper return with assurance that the physical upkeep of the property would be maintained and the investment not disappear.

"If street railway service is not self-sustaining," Mr. Wilcox said, "there should be subsidies from the municipality and the excess earning put back into the business.

"Certainly service should be assured," he continued. "The street railways strike should be made unnecessary and outlawed."

Mr. Wilcox asserts that labor should be assured of fit living conditions and wages and prompt attention to its grievances and should be permitted to organize to obtain these things and to have an official mouthpiece to get them.

Answering questions by Chairman Elmquist about the possibility of putting the State commissions and municipal authority in better accord, Mr. Wilcox suggested that the State Commission control capitalization, the matter of bookkeeping and accounting and the making of reports and have control over lines not subject to municipal control and over suburban operations.

OUR TRADE IS MAKING GREAT GAINS IN EUROPE

American Factories' Quick Deliveries Outclass German, French and British Competitors.

GENEVA, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—American commercial activity in Europe, which began immediately after the signing of the armistice, continues to advance on a large scale. The secret of the success of the Americans is their prompt delivery of goods, ranging from locomotives to sewing machines, and the long credit given. The quickness of deliveries exceeds even that of the Germans, who had prepared carefully for the after-the-war rush in trade, while English and French firms, with their slower methods, have already been outdistanced.

An example of the prevailing methods is that, while England permits only strictly limited quantities of clothstuffs to be exported, merchants in the United States are sending their goods by shiploads. Also scores of commercial travelers from the United States are reaching the Continent.

The Americans, after having obtained a virtual monopoly in the iron and steel of Europe, are seeking further fields for the investment of capital.

Surf Guards Rescue Three Boys.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 13.—Three boys, Chester Simmons, Varick Stout, and John McDuffy, were rescued with difficulty from the surf here today when the engine of the sea skiff Pelican, in which they were cruising, stalled, allowing the waves to throw the boat into the breakers, where it turned turtle. Three beach guards, Edward Cline, Daniel Thompson, and Robert White, effected the rescue. The boys attempted to use their oars after the engine stopped, but the wind was too strong for them.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—A gift of 25,000 shares of stock in the Pacific Improvement Company, valued at $1,500,000, has been made to the University of California by Edward Searles, a Massachusetts capitalist, it was announced here today. Searles, who married the widow of Mark Hopkins, one of the builders of the Central Pacific Railway, has made many substantial gifts to Western educational institutions.

COUNTING UPON US TO SAVE ARMENIA

Peace Conferees Expect New Massacres if America Refuses a Mandate.

HARBORD'S TRIP SIGNIFICANT

Wilson Believed to Think Highly of Him as a Possible Governor General.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—There is a significance in the departure this week of Major Gen. Harbord for Armenia, which was not revealed in the recent bare announcement of the determination of the United States Government to send him. Perhaps more than any other American—surely more than any other American soldier—General Harbord is associated in President Wilson's mind with the idea of American mandates for Armenia and Constantinople. Henry Morgenthau, former American Ambassador to Turkey, who believes that America should take such a mandate if it can get it on a big enough scale to offer a real opportunity for achievement, and other Americans in Europe of the same mind believe that Harbord would be a good man for the post of American Governor General, or whatever the chief American representative there might be called in case the mandate was accepted.

Two months ago, when it was decided to send an Inter-Allied Commission to Armenia, General Harbord was asked if he would be willing to take that post. He said he would not, expressing his belief that a man going there as the representative of the four great Western powers would be too much handicapped by lack of direct authority to render any service beyond the mere temporary one of insuring supplies. So Colonel Haskell of the American Army was sent on that mission. He has done good work as the representative of the Allies, and he will continue to do so, his mission not conflicting in any way with that of General Harbord.

Americans here who favor an American mandate for Armenia and Constantinople lay much stress upon Harbord's twelve years of service in the Philippines, where he had much to do with the civil as well as the military administration, and where he spent much of his time successfully dealing with the Mohammedan elements of the population. Furthermore, the General is greatly interested in Armenian and Turkish affairs. But the question of his appointment is all in the future, depending on many things—primarily on whether America takes the mandate.

General Harbord's present mission is to investigate and report to the American Government on the present conditions and probable future of Turkey. Such a report may serve as a guide to the American people and Congress in determining their future attitude to the problem of the mandate.

If this attitude were known now to be definitely in favor of taking the mandate, that fact might serve to stave off the slaughter of Armenians, which the Peace Conference looks upon as an assured thing as soon as the British troops are withdrawn. As already stated, this withdrawal is scheduled to begin Aug. 15, England flatly refusing to reconsider its decision or again postpone the date. There are 60,000 British troops in Armenia. It is estimated that it will take a month to get them all out. It is at the end of that month that the massacres of Armenians are expected to begin, the expectation being based on the attitude, threats, and actual preliminary planning of the Turks.

The Armenians themselves are taking such precautions as they can for self-protection, but cannot long hold out against the Turks, as there will be no way of getting supplies to them except through hostile territory.

At the present moment there is not the slightest indication of anything being done by the European powers to avert the slaughter, the coming of which they all expect. Neither France nor Italy is disposed to furnish troops to take the places of the British forces, and continue the military protection of the Armenians. No American troops are left in Europe available for that purpose, and even if there were any, nobody here would have authority to send them to Turkey, as the sole power to act in this matter rests with Congress.

But in default of troops there is one other thing which some Americans in Paris and some statesmen of other countries are sanguine enough to believe would be sufficient to restrain the Turks from massacring the Armenians. That, as already said, would be the assurance that America was willing to accept a mandate for Armenia. England, France and Italy all hope America will do that. Turkey itself is supposed to be ready to accept such a solution of her problem as far preferable to the risk of partition by Europeans.

Those advocates of such action by America are basing their hopes chiefly on two things. One is the specific references to Armenia by President Wilson in his Boston speech on his first return from Europe. The second is the fact that for generations church people in America have been interested in helping the Armenians and have contributed many million dollars for their welfare. But the whole thing rests with Congress and the people and the least that the advocates of a mandate expect from them is early assistance in one way or another, so that prolonged uncertainty will not be one of the factors causing the destruction of the Armenian people.

Of course, this belief that assurance of an American mandate would serve as well as troops in averting atrocities is based on the assumption that if the Turks knew that America was going to administer large sections of their country, possibly Constantinople itself, they would not dare in the meantime to begin a reign of terror.

When this question of mandates for backward or weak nations was first broached last Winter a member of the French Foreign Office told me that America could achieve great success in Armenia with a single gunboat in the Black Sea and a police force of 10,000

DEFINES HARBORD'S MISSION.

State Department Says He Will Study Means of Ending Chaos.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Secretary Lansing today confirmed the report that Major Gen. James G. Harbord, who was General Pershing's Chief of Staff in France, and commanded the marine contingent in the battle of Belleau Wood, has been sent to Asia Minor by the American Government to investigate the state of affairs in that part of the world and see what might be done toward relieving the situation of the population.

General Harbord has been instructed to get the exact facts as to the state of affairs in Asia Minor and see if there is any possible method by which the present chaos there can be reduced, and if the nations can take any steps to protect the lives of the people, who are being massacred by the hundred. That these are the instructions to General Harbord was ascertained today from a high official source. General Harbord will penetrate into Armenia if conditions permit. Armenia is the principal sufferer from the depredations and attacks made by the Turks.

The fact that General Harbord is going to Asia Minor, and, if possible, into Armenia, does not necessarily mean that it has been settled that this country is to take a mandate under the proposed League of Nations over Armenia. It was declared authoritatively at the State Department today that the problem of mandates under the proposed League of Nations would not arise until after the Versailles treaty had been ratified.

This declaration was the first official intimation concerning the question of mandates since President Wilson laid the Versailles treaty before the Senate, and in submitting the treaty on that occasion the President refrained from committing himself regarding the United States serving as a mandatary under the League of Nations, for Armenia or any other territory.

PLAN TO GIVE BULGARIA USE OF THRACIAN PORT

Council Said to be Considering Internationalizing Most of Western Thrace.

PARIS, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The Supreme Council of the Peace Conference held no meeting today.

Premier Clemenceau left Paris tonight for La Vendée to spend a week's vacation. His place as head of the Council will be taken by Stephen Pichon, the Foreign Minister.

Consideration was given by the Council to the Thracian question yesterday, but no decision was reached. Apparently the plan, urged by Captain André Tardieu of the French delegation, to internationalize three-fourths of Western Thrace, thus giving Bulgaria free access to the sea, is meeting with considerable favor.

The Echo de Paris says the Council is preparing to give Bulgaria an opening to the Aegean Sea through either Dedeagatch or Kavala. The territory surrounding the port selected would be neutralized, if this plan were adopted, and placed under a status similar to that of Danzig.

HALIL PASHA ESCAPES.

Former Turkish Marine Minister Expected to Join Kiamil Pasha.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 13.—Halil Pasha, former Minister of Marine and uncle of Enver Pasha, former Minister of War, has escaped to Asia Minor with Kritchelk Talaat, another leader of the Committee of Union and Progress. It is believed he will join Mustapha Kiamil Pasha in Erzerum.

Halil Pasha held office during most of the war. A Constantinople dispatch announced on Jan. 13, 1918, that he had died, but this was never confirmed. Mustapha Kiamil Pasha, former Grand Vizier, Foreign Minister and President of the Council of State, was in command of Turkish troops in the Lake Van region in 1916 and was defeated by the Russians, retreating to Erzerum. He was later arrested and charged with responsibility for massacres of Greeks in Asia Minor. Early this year his forces at Erzerum were reported to be concentrating for an attack on the Allies.

A Paris dispatch on July 7 stated that Mustapha Kiamil Pasha and Essad Pasha might attempt the formation of a separate Turkish Government. On Aug. 4 advices from Constantinople reported that the Turkish Cabinet had ordered the arrest of Mustapha Kiamil Pasha and Reuf Bey on the charge of convoking a Separatist Congress and organizing armed bands in the Smyrna and Erzerum districts.

Y. W. C. A. WINS LILLE MEDAL

American Organization Is Honored for Work in France.

PARIS, Aug. 11, (by Cable.)—The American Young Women's Christian Association was presented with a gold medal by the City of Lille today, in recognition of the work which that association has done for France.

The ceremony was held at Y. W. C. A. headquarters in Lille, the medal being presented by the Mayor of Lille to Miss Harriet Taylor, Director of Y. W. C. A. work overseas. Prominent officials of the city, members of the committee assisting the Y. W. C. A., and secretaries of the association were in attendance. Mrs. Evelyn W. Fox, Director of Y. W. C. A. work in Lille, assisted Miss Taylor.

The American Y. W. C. A. is in charge of recreation for girls at the large camp which has been opened at Etaples to care for 10,000 children from Lille during July and August.

The War Work Council of the Y. W. C. A. also announces the arrival of the first unit of Polish Gray Samaritans in France. This unit is lodged at Hotel Trianon, a Y. W. C. A. hotel in Paris, and will start for Warsaw Wednesday, where they will be guests of Mme. Paderewska in headquarters which she has secured for them. This initial unit consists of four counciliers and twenty girls of Polish birth, who have been trained for reconstruction work in their own country by the Y. W. C. A.

RUMANIA DENIES OPPOSING ALLIES

Troops Entered Budapest in Supposed Compliance with Their Wishes, Bratiano Says.

REPLIES REACH COUNCIL

BUCHAREST, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—The Rumanian army entered Budapest in what was believed to be compliance with the wishes of the Allies, Premier Bratiano of Rumania said today in a statement given to The Associated Press. He said the movement was undertaken in an effort to stamp out Bolshevism and that there was not the slightest disposition on the part of the Rumanians to take any territory beyond that considered essential to Rumania's achievement of national unity.

"Our troops will be withdrawn within the frontiers fixed by the Rumanian treaty of alliance with the Allies," Premier Bratiano said, "whenever there is established in Hungary a stable government that will afford protection to the Rumanian frontiers and give any effective guarantee that the armistice or treaty terms will be observed.

"While we were awaiting the arrival of allied troops the Bolsheviki attacked the Rumanian troops on the Transylvanian front. After several days of hard fighting, in which Rumania received no material help from the Allies, the Bolshevist forces were beaten decisively. The so-called Government of Bela Kun was overthrown, although at heavy sacrifices on the part of the Rumanian army. In order to render the victory effective the Rumanian troops occupied Budapest and restored order where only anarchy had prevailed.

"It is rather strange to find Rumania treated as an enemy, not as an ally, and charged with the violation of the terms of the armistice simply because we defended ourselves when attacked. We did single-handed what the Entente asked us to do with them several weeks before, that is, go to Hungary and end the anarchy which threatened not only the peace of Rumania but that of all Europe.

"Rumania has achieved national unity, and does not want more territory from Hungary. She wants only a just peace and restoration of order so that her army may be demobilized and return to work, to aid in unifying and rebuilding the country out of the wreckage of war. These results cannot be secured so long as we are compelled to fight single-handed against Bolshevism on two fronts and so long as our every effort at self-defense and restoration of order is embarrassed and misrepresented."

Orders to Generals at Budapest.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The Rumanians won another victory in their clash with the Peace Conference today when the Council of Five sent instructions to the Interallied Commission and Generals, including Bandholtz at Budapest, not to issue any military orders to Rumanians, but merely to make recommendations and to investigate the situation there and send a report to Paris.

The Rumanian General commanding at Budapest had previously refused to recognize any authority from interallied Generals, stating that they had no credentials and no right to give orders to the Rumanian Army.

The Generals will not order the Rumanians to withdraw from Budapest when order is restored, but will recommend that the Peace Conference order the withdrawal.

PARIS, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The replies of Premier Bratiano of Rumania to the notes of the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference concerning the activity of Rumanian troops in Hungary have reached Paris and were being decoded today by the Rumanian delegation.

The Interallied Supreme Council was summoned today to meet at 2:30 o'clock to consider the Hungarian situation.

While the full and exact texts of the Rumanian notes are not available the members of the Rumanian delegation say that they are of a conciliatory nature. It is said that Premier Bratiano has instructed the Rumanian officers at Budapest to hold an immediate conference with the allied Generals there and to make every effort to avoid complication.

Constantine Diamandy, Rumanian High Commissioner at Budapest, according to a message received today from the Interallied Military Commission in the Hungarian capital, informed the members of the commission that he would not consider its instructions as orders. The allied Generals, thereupon, telegraphed to Paris asking if they were right in considering instructions from the Peace Conference as military orders.

M. Diamandy, the message adds, said he was authorized to carry on negotiations with the Interallied Commission, but would not obey its orders.

The orders which M. Diamandy refused to accept, it is learned, were based on instructions from the Peace Conference to the Interallied Commission ordering it to carry out the disarmament of the Hungarians in accordance with the terms of the armistice of November, 1918.

The Rumanian commissioner denied that his Government had supported the movement which placed Archduke Joseph in control in Budapest. He said he would study the representations made concerning requisitions of foodstuffs and material by the Rumanians.

M. Diamandy, the message continues, also denies that the Rumanian Government had sent an ultimatum to Archduke Joseph. He said it had only sent an informal document through a liaison officer. As, however, the document Rumania sent the Archduke insisted upon the frontier established by the Allies between Hungary and Rumania in 1916 when Rumania entered the war, the conference regards the communication as distinctly an ultimatum intended to supersede the action of the conference.

German View of Rumania's Action.

BERLIN, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Dispatches from Budapest say it is becoming clearer that the Rumanian advance into West Hungary to the Austrian border was caused less by fear of peasant uprisings than to prevent Austria from seizing West Hungary and stopping or putting pressure on the voting in this section.

Negotiations with regard to the creation of a new government have made certain progress, the advices assert, but have not been concluded. The Szegedin Anti-Communist Government is now demanding co-operation with the workmen, but only with those who are Christians and who are pursuing "Christian politics." It has not been settled whether the Socialists will agree, since they fear anti-Semitism.

The basis of a thoroughly Democratic Government has already been established, in which the present Government will be invited to participate, the dispatches declare.

Former members of the Hungarian Parliament are conducting independent negotiations, and it is planned that the two houses of Parliament shall meet a commission of the new Assembly, which will be elected to take over legal authority, so as to maintain the legal continuity of Hungarian constitutional life.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—The new Hungarian Administrator, who is called "The Royal Prince Joseph" by the official Hungarian news agency, had a conference with the political party leaders today and ordered them to work out a plan for restoring conditions to normal. The leaders immediately went into session and will report later to the Administrator.

The Ministry has ruled that the property of clerical institutions seized by the Soviet Government shall be immediately returned to the owners. The Soviet ruling, under which objects of art were made public property, also has been annulled and the art works are to be returned to their owners.

War Minister Schnitzer has issued an appeal for the creation of a national army. Soldiers have been forbidden to discuss politics. The regulations which were in effect prior to the October revolution again have been put in force.

POLAND NOW FEARS BOLSHEVIST INVASION

Mobilizing 250,000 Men to Meet Onrush Expected as Result of Kolchak's Reverses.

WARSAW, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Brig. Gen. Joseph Pilsudski, Chief of State, and Premier Paderewski today reviewed a large body of recruits for that portion of the new Polish Army of 250,000 that is being mobilized against the Bolsheviki.

Diminution of the pressure, as a result of the reverses suffered by Admiral Kolchak, head of the All-Russian Government of Omsk, is expected here to provoke another attempt by the Bolsheviki to invade Poland.

The whole national effort is being concentrated upon strengthening the Eastern front.

The Polish Government says that being on the front line against the Bolshevist invasion of Europe, Poland should receive assistance from the other nations. The capture of Minsk a few days ago improves the position of the Polish troops, since it disrupts Bolshevist communications between the north and south through control of the railroad.

One serious element of the problem Poland is facing is the fact that she will have insufficient breadstuffs to carry her through next year, as the crops have been considerably damaged by weather. On the other hand, in Ukraine, within a hundred miles from the present Polish front, a very large surplus of breadstuffs is promised. If the allied Governments approved, the Poles say, they could occupy and hold that area and thus support their population during the next year.

If the Peace Conference at Paris insists that Poland must not occupy Ukraine, the Government authorities here say it will mean she must seek financial aid abroad in order to feed her people.

The Polish Government appears to take only a secondary interest in the situation which has arisen in Hungary through the Rumanian invasion and the assumption of power by one of the Hapsburgs. This interest is confined to evident satisfaction that the centre of Bolshevist agitation in Hungary has been stamped out.

Herbert Hoover, head of the Interallied Relief Organization, continued today his first hand investigation of economic conditions in Eastern Europe.

Mr. Hoover, who is accompanied by a staff of experts, arrived in Warsaw late Monday night. He spent today in conference with the Polish Ministers on food and coal prices and other questions involved in the general economic situation, and as Premier Paderewski's guest witnessed a review of the Polish troops.

Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour of his arrival, Mr. Hoover was met at the station by General Pilsudski, Mrs. Paderewski, and several members of the Government with a military guard of honor and bands. A great crowd assembled in the square about the station cheered enthusiastically.

FRANCIS SEES LEAGUE AS CURE FOR RUSSIA

Ambassador Urges Ratification as First Step to Solution—Assails Railroad Nationalization.

Ratification of the League of Nations covenant as the first step in solving the Russian problem was urged by David R. Francis, United States Ambassador to Russia, at a luncheon given by the Advertising Club yesterday. Ambassador Francis declared that establishing order in Russia was the first duty of the world today, and that inasmuch as the Peace Conference at Versailles had not settled the question, it would have to be accomplished by the League of Nations.

In the midst of his recital of wrongs suffered by Russia at the hands of the Bolsheviki, Ambassador Francis referred to the policies of the railroad brotherhoods in advocating Government ownership.

"If we are to maintain the respect of Europe," he said, "we must learn to govern ourselves. No class in this country can rule all other classes. We have gained the admiration of the world by settling our differences with the ballot box, and if we are to preserve our self-respect we must continue to do so.

"The spirit of this nation, the spirit that won the war, will not put up with those who threaten violence. Now I have mentioned no names, but you all know to whom I allude. I reiterate, the spirit of the American people will not tolerate violence. We have the means for correcting grievances. The Supreme Court construes the laws of the land. When we lose respect for the legislative and judicial branches of the Government the end is not far off."

Returning to the Russian revolution, he said:

"Russia has not changed her form of government so much as the governing personnel. No tyrant ever has had the power that is Lenin's. This Lenin, by the way, is a peculiar man. I met him once. He is an honest fanatic. Personally he is an honest man, but you know that an honest fanatic in a bad cause is more dangerous than an intelligent knave. It is impossible to have peace in Europe with chaos in Russia. Returning on the George Washington with President Wilson, I told him that the Russian situation was one of the most difficult of the present problems, and he agreed with me. Lloyd George told me, too, that any solution of peace would be impossible until the Russian problem was settled.

"I have a formula which I believe may be a solution, but I fear that it may not meet the approval of the United States Senate, since it is predicated upon ratification of the League of Nations covenant. The first step in settling Russian affairs is ratification of that covenant. The allied nations as a unit must be back of any effort to help Russia. For a single nation to attempt to deal with the situation would only mean that Bolshevism would be strengthened."

BELGIANS IN MALMEDY.

Occupy Prussian District Granted to Them in Peace Treaty.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 13.—Belgian troops have occupied the Malmedy district of Rhenish Prussia.

The Belgian War Office announced on Sunday that the occupation of the Malmedy district by Carabineers and cavalry would take place Tuesday. This district is granted to Belgium in the Treaty of Peace.

slogans pasted across their open umbrellas, paraded up and down in front of the Winter Garden, the Cohan and Harris Theatre, the Selwyn, and the Knickerbocker, the four houses in which shows are being presented despite the calling out of Equity actors in the companies.

Interest now centres in the announced production of "Those Who Walk in Darkness" at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre tonight. The Shubert Theatrical Company during the afternoon obtained an injunction from Justice Lydon preventing the players "from interfering in any way with the performance of the said play," and it was asserted by the managers that the fault in the Ziegfeld injunction, which enabled the Equity counsel to obtain a modification and thus halt the show, has been corrected in this new injunction. This injunction is returnable on Monday.

Lee Shubert, in the affidavit which accompanied the application for this injunction, stated:

"The Actors' Equity Association has brought about a reign of terror among actors and actresses in theatrical circles in the City of New York by personally and continually soliciting actors and actresses under contract to managers to break the said contracts by threatening such actors and actresses with social and professional ostracism and bodily harm. It has become practically impossible and unsafe for actors and actresses who desire to comply with their contracts to do so, and those who do perform are compelled to do so under mental conditions which prevent the proper exercise of their talents."

Chicago Actors Return.

The managers were much encouraged by dispatches from Chicago, where the players in two closed shows returned to work last night, pending a decision on the injunctions granted the manager of "Up in Mabel's Room," which will be argued tomorrow.

"East Is West," which has been unofficially announced to reopen last night, failed to do so, and it was stated that Clifford Brooke, the English stage director, will not be in the cast when the play reopens.

It was reported that George M. Cohan would leave for Washington at midnight on business pertaining to the strike.

The reopening of "At 9:45" is now announced for tomorrow night at the Playhouse. In the cast will be William A. Brady, the producer; Zelda Sears, Amelia Bingham, Charles Hopkins, Marie Goff, John Cromwell, and Harry Green.

David Belasco, it was authoritatively learned, yesterday resigned his membership in the Lambs.

In regard to the closing of "39 East" at the Maxine Elliot Theatre in the afternoon the following statement was made by a representative of Rachel Crothers, the author and producer:

"Miss Crothers gave each member of the company an Equity contract when the play was produced weeks and weeks ago. She personally owns and is producing the play. Yet at 2 o'clock, without warning, upon a call signed by Berton Churchill for the Actors' Equity Association, every member of the cast walked out of the theatre, leaving the audience dumfounded at such a remarkable action, with the orchestra in the pit ready to play the overture, and with no grievance whatever against Miss Crothers, who employed them. This is a sample of the value of an Equity contract. Miss Crothers does not belong to the Managers' Association, is ill in a hospital, and unable to protect her interests."

More Quit Equity Body.

Resignations from the Actors' Equity Association, announced last night by the managers, included the entire "Civilian Clothes" company, (an Oliver Morosco production scheduled for presentation at the Morosco Theatre early in September;) John Steele of the Ziegfeld "Follies," who was included in the modification of the Ziegfeld injunction; Lionel Braham of "Chu Chin Chow"; Gladys Hanson, George Parsons, and Ralph Sipperly, playing in "A Prince There Was" in Chicago; Effingham Pinto and Frederick Graham.

It was announced also that practically all of these players would join the new E. H. Sothern organization, but Mr. Sothern yesterday denied that he was forming a rival organization to the Actors' Equity Association, and said that he was merely endeavoring to bring together a representative body of players in the hope that they could effect a settlement of the present strike. He was, he said, heart and soul with the actors in most of their contentions, and it was in the hope of aiding the actors that he was asking other players to co-operate with him.

The Actors' Equity Association announced that a rally will be held in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Speakers at this meeting will include Ethel Barrymore, Marie Dressler, Dudley Field Malone, Ed Wynn, Frank Fay, William Harrigan, and De Wolf Hopper. Jefferson de Angelis will preside.

The actors announced also that Frank Bacon, co-author and star of "Lightnin'," had appeared at Equity headquarters and announced that he was with the actors in the strike. Mr. Bacon had previously been quoted as saying that he was ready to resume his rôle in "Lightnin'." This play has been in rehearsal, but no date has been announced by the management for its reopening. A sign posted in the lobby states that the players have gone on "a short vacation."

Rehearsals Abandoned.

It was announced also by the actors that the Shuberts had found it impossible to conduct rehearsals any longer of the new Winter Garden offering, "The Passing Show of 1919," owing to the gradual defection of one principal after another, and many of the chorus people.

Telegrams indorsing the stand of the actors were received from Adele Rowland, Henrietta Crosman, Lillian Russell, and Effie Shannon. Henry Herbert, playing "John Ferguson," announced that he would give one-half of his salary to the strike fund while the strike continued, and donations of $1,000 were received from the Stagehands' Union, and $250 each from Dudley Field Malone and Eddie Foy.

Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary, last night made the following statement:

"I see George M. Cohan says he will fight the actors, not that he will try to bring about harmony. I think this shows Mr. Cohan's regard for his fellow actors better than anything I can say. He also says he will keep on fighting even if he loses every dollar he has and is compelled to run an elevator. Let me inform Mr. Cohan that even if he did run an elevator he would have to join the union.

"As to David Warfield, I would like to say that he has not resigned from the Equity. He was not a member thereof. A few years ago he was elected a member of the Council and showed so little interest in the Equity that he attended only one meeting. Later he was reported to have spoken slightingly of the organization and it was suggested that he resign from the Council. He did, and resigned from the organization also.

"I would also like to call attention to the fact that we are using the same methods now to defend the life of our association as we used for the Government in selling Liberty bonds and in aiding the various Red Cross drives, &c., during the war."

An Equity member said that to date eighty members of the chorus of the new Hippodrome show have joined the Equity Chorus Association. This show is now in rehearsal, and expects to open at the Hippodrome in two weeks or less.

Corbett Joins Actors.

James J. Corbett applied for membership in the actors' association yesterday, and made a speech at the Forty-fifth Street headquarters last night. Flora Zabelle (Mrs. Raymond Hitchcock) also filed her application.

Merchants on Forty-fifth Street, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue, offered to give ten per cent. of their receipts during strike time to the actors' relief fund, it was announced by the Equity Association. This is the block in which the actors congregate daily, in front of strike headquarters.

Harry Sothern and his wife, Alice Sothern, were cheered yesterday when they appeared at Equity headquarters to apply for admission. Mr. Sothern is a nephew of E. H. Sothern.

The actors' street demonstrations included a parade of 400 former service men, Equity members, in uniform. At the head of this contingent were Lieut. Col. Earle Booth, Major Reginald Barlow, Captain Everett Butterfield, Captain William Harrigan, and Lieutenant Grandon Peters. There were also the usual automobile parades, including another tour of Wall Street.

HOPKINS HINTS AT TERMS.

Proposes Board but Will Not Meet Equity Association.

A hint of the terms on which the managers are willing to aid in ending the actors' strike was contained in a statement given out last night by Arthur Hopkins on behalf of the Producing Managers' Association. The managers, Mr. Hopkins said, will "submit matters of contract fulfillment to a joint board of actors and managers, with an outside umpire."

Mr. Hopkins's statement was as follows:

The Producing Managers' Association cannot deal with or recognize the Actors' Equity Association, for the reason that it has ceased to be the representative of the actor and has become his dictator.

A member of the Actors' Equity Association can no longer freely enter into any contract with a manager which he is certain of fulfilling. His first obligation is to the Actors' Equity Association. He signs an oath and gives a bond that at all times he will abide by the dictates of the association.

If he is ordered to break a contract he will break it or be expelled from the association and called a "scab."

The contract between actor and manager ceases to be a contract between two parties. The Actors' Equity Association is the third party and the predominant one. No matter how profitable and pleasant the relations between the individual actor and manager may be, these relations are at all times exposed to immediate destruction by a third party. The Actors' Equity Association has demonstrated that it will not hesitate to destroy these relations. The present strike is a complete demonstration of that fact. The hundreds of actors working peacefully under the Actors' Equity were ordered out at an hour's notice. Great havoc and great suffering were wrought at the Equity Association's nod.

The theatrical business is unlike most others. It is built on special, unique, and individual service. The peaceful continuation of this service must be removed from any danger of interference or there can be no theatre. The Producing Managers' Association wants to deal with the actors collectively as to the form of contract. It welcomes any organization of actors whose fundamental principle shall be the fulfillment under all conditions of the individual contract.

The Producing Managers' Association again offers with any dependable actors' organization to submit matters of contract fulfillment to a joint board of actors and managers, with an outside umpire. The Producing Managers' Association will bind itself to stand always on the one great fundamental that the theatre can only live when contracts between individuals are supported in their enforcement by every agency of the theatre.

Bring us an actors' association that is founded on the same principle. We will offer it a form of contract that is better than the former Actors' Equity Association contract.

But it must be an organization in which the managers have faith.

It cannot be the Actors' Equity Association.

The Actors' Equity Association has proven that for all time.

In the past forty-eight hours many volunteer peacemakers have sprung up in the hope of aiding a settlement, but the general opinion of observers is that the two factions are now further apart than ever.

DECLARE TRUCE IN CHICAGO.

All Theatres Open Pending Result of Injunction Suit.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Performances were held here tonight in all the big playhouses by virtue of a truce in the actors' strike, which last night closed the Cort Theatre and Cohan's Grand Opera House, and threatened to spread to other houses.

Both sides in the controversy agreed to halt hostilities, pending hearing on an application for an injunction to restrain the company playing "Up in Mabel's Room" from striking. The application was filed by A. H. Woods, proprietor of Woods's Theatre, and testimony was begun before a Master in Chancery.

Francis Wilson, President of the Equity Association of Actors and Artists, intimated that if the injunction should be denied the fight would be renewed and every theatre in the city closed.

The agreement to await the result of the injunction proceedings was reached following a conference with Judge Walker and counsel for the actors and Producing Managers' Association. The theatrical managers exerted every effort to prevent a spread of the strike. With matinees scheduled at all the playhouses, they started early to line up their forces. They conferred with members of their companies and renewed their pleas for loyalty, supplemented by threats of damage suits against actors who refuse to fulfill their engagements.

Of the seven theatres which gave a performance, last night, five of the attractions are owned by managers not members of the Producing Managers' Association.

The petition for an injunction was directed against Francis Wilson, and Edwin Mordaunt, Secretary of the Equity Association, and the following members of the "Up in Mabel's Room" company: Frederick Sutton, Harry C. Bradley, Enid Markey, Hazel Dawn, Elinor Dawn, H. Dudley Hawley, Adele Rowland and Grace Fielding.

BOSTON STRIKE UNLIKELY.

Equity Leader Advises Players to Obey Injunction Carefully.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 13.—Prospects of an immediate strike at any of the Boston theatres with members of the Actors' Equity Association in their shows were dispelled tonight when definite assurances that the court orders restraining the actors appearing at the local playhouses from striking would be scrupulously observed were given by Hal Forde, an English comedian, in "Oh, My Dear," at the Wilbur Theatre. Mr. Forde is the acknowledged leader of the actors appearing in Boston who are members of the Equity Association, as well as an officer in the organization.

Mr. Forde presided at a meeting of members of the actors' union appearing in Boston shortly before midnight tonight. He issued the notice during the day, calling on every member to attend. Mr. Forde and all the other leaders in "Oh My Dear" were enjoined yesterday by Judge Lawton of the Superior Court from interfering in any way with the production of the show.

"I have called this meeting to tell all members of the Equity Association who are in Boston to follow out the order of injunction to the letter," said Mr. Forde between scenes at the Wilbur tonight.

FILM ACTORS GIVE FUNDS.

Subscribe Several Thousand in Los Angeles for Strikers.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 13.—While local motion picture stars refuse to aid the striking actors by a sympathetic strike, several thousands of dollars were subscribed today among the studios to aid the Eastern strikers. No one is being asked to contribute, but voluntary subscriptions are being taken rapidly.

At the Goldwyn Studios today $1,000 was raised. Cecil De Mille, Director General of the Famous Players-Lasky, said no strike would occur in Los Angeles and that Los Angeles theatres would not be affected by the action of the Actors' Equity Association.

State Strike Menace in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 13.—The Council of Ministers today examined into a threat of Government employes to call a strike. It is understood that the Government is prepared to satisfy immediately the claims of subalterns and to consider other categories later.

HITCHCOCK ACCUSES MAJORITY OF DELAYS

member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Republican members over delay in reporting the Versailles treaty out to the Senate, Senator Lodge, Chairman, announced that the committee would enter tomorrow upon the consideration of reservations with the view of arriving speedily at final action.

Senator Hitchcock accused the majority members of wasting time. He insisted that every member of the committee knew how he would vote as to contemplated reservations or amendments, and that further deliberation was futile. The Nebraskan threatened to call for action on the floor of the Senate to get the treaty out of committee unless an inclination was manifested to expedite it.

Mr. Hitchcock became involved in a sharp dispute with Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, who resented the charge that the majority members were frittering away time. Mr. Fall insisted that the committee had tried to hasten its consideration of the treaty, but that the failure of the Administration to submit data asked for, together with the necessity of waiting for the treaties with Austria-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria, to ascertain how they might be intertwined with the Versailles Treaty, had made necessary further deliberation. He said that undue haste would not be tolerated.

Will Discuss Reservations Today.

Senator Lodge informed Mr. Hitchcock that he was as anxious as the Democratic members of the committee to expedite action by the committee and come to a final vote on the treaty in the Senate. He said that there had been no "artificial delay" by the committee. Mr. Lodge said the committee, having heard all the witnesses available, was ready to launch upon the discussion of reservations, and that this would be hurried along, beginning tomorrow.

Late in the day Senators Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California sent a joint letter to Senator Lodge urging that six witnesses be called before the committee to throw light upon features regarding which Secretary Lansing and others had been questioned, but as to which, the majority Senators said, no sufficiently illuminating explanation had been given. Those whom the two Senators want examined are Colonel House, General Bliss, Henry White, Messrs. Hornbeck and Williams, two Oriental experts with the American delegates, who resigned while the treaty negotiations were on, and William C. Bullitt, who was employed in Paris as an expert on Russian affairs.

Senators Borah and Johnson urged in the letter, it is said, that the committee needed much information touching upon the extent of America's obligation under the League of Nations covenant; together with an understanding of what its obligations would be under the treaties with Turkey, Bulgaria, and Austria-Hungary. They insisted that the Senate ought to acquaint itself fully with the part America was to play in regard to the former enemy nations before taking definite action upon the Versailles treaty.

The two Senators, with Mr. Fall and Mr. Moses of New Hampshire, insisted at the stormy session of the committee that the latter ought to take as much time as it needed to thresh out features of the treaty. They felt, they said, that delay in considering the treaty was better than reporting something out "intangible."

Report Expected in Three Weeks.

As an outcome of the committee developments today it was said at the Capitol that a report to the Senate on the treaty might be expected within three weeks. To consider the proposed reservations, it was said, with debate on each one of them, would occupy considerably more than two weeks, and after that would come the drafting of the ratifying resolution, together with the reservations, in whatever form they were to be drawn up.

It developed that, while Senators Borah, Johnson, Knox, Brandegee, New, Fall and Moses all favored direct amendments to the League of Nations covenant, rather than reservations, the other majority members of the committee, Senators Lodge, McCumber, and Harding, advocated reservations. The more rabid foes of the League, however, it was stated, would not attempt to block action by the majority in reporting out reservations, but would make their fight for amendments on the floor of the Senate, rather than tie up the committee.

Senator Lodge is to confer late in the week with leaders among the various factions urging reservations, among them Senators McNary of Oregon and Kellogg of Minnesota, to ascertain how far they will go in the reservation program. Mr. Lodge, as he indicated in the Senate, wants the reservations to be so emphatic as to constitute virtual amendments to the treaty.

In making it known that he would not oppose the reservation program in committee, Senator Borah said he was "not much concerned" what action the committee took. The real fight, he said, would come in the Senate, where he and others would insist upon directly amending the body of the treaty. Mr. Borah would even vote for reservations in the Senate, he said, so long as they were not included in the resolution of ratification. He would adopt that course so as not to help the Administration Democrats to defeat the reservations. But, after that, he would battle for direct amendments.

Senator Hitchcock declined today to predict the outcome of the reservation fight. All he would say was that at least forty Democrats would vote against the reservations. When told that the Republican leaders were asserting that they would carry the reservations, he replied: "We can tell better what will happen when the fight shapes up in the Senate."

Tomorrow the Foreign Relations Committee will take up reservations apart from the League of Nations covenant. One of these will be on Shantung. Senator Lodge and others of the majority leaders insist that there will be a decisive reservation against the award of rights in the Shantung Peninsula to Japan. Some of them want it eliminated from the treaty by amendment.

Hitchcock Impatient of Delay.

Senator Hitchcock started the dispute in the committee over the delay in handling the treaty when he declared that unless the committee came to some decisive action soon he would take the matter up on the floor of the Senate.

Mr. Hitchcock remarked that every member of the committee knew how he would vote on reservations or amendments, and that it was idle to prolong its deliberations. To this Senator Fall replied that he was tired of the insinuation that the majority of the committee was unduly delaying consideration of the treaty.

"I don't intend to restrain myself hereafter in dealing with these attacks," exclaimed Mr. Fall, angrily. He insisted that the "whole series of treaties" between the United States and the enemy nations ought to be before the Senate before the Versailles treaty was voted upon. He understood, he said, that they were all linked up, in one way or another, with the Versailles treaty, and that the Senate could not vote intelligently upon the latter until all of them were in.

"I want haste as much as any one in getting the Versailles Treaty out of the way," said Mr. Fall, "but I don't want such haste as would make it impossible to ascertain what all of the obligations of the United States will be."

Mr. Hitchcock said he wanted to ascertain what the majority members of the committee expected to do toward getting the treaty before the Senate. To this Mr. Lodge replied that the committee would get into the realm of reservations tomorrow and that every effort would be made to have the treaty speedily reported out.

"I'm tired and sick of it," Mr. Lodge is quoted as saying.

Mr. Hitchcock expressed satisfaction over the assurance of the Chairman that the treaty would be expedited, and the debate came to an end.

King Would Give Thrace to Greece.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, introduced a resolution today declaring that the Senate favored the awarding of Thrace to Greece, with provision for Bulgarian commerce at Saloniki, Kavalla, and Dedeagatch, and making Constantinople, the coasts of the Sea of Marmora and the Gallipoli Peninsula a free State under the League of Nations. The resolution was referred without debate to the Foreign Relations Committee.

Representative Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama charged in the House today that "German money and munition money and manufacturers' money is back of the propaganda to defeat the League of Nations." He said that "money by the thousands is being expended, and newspapers purchased to poison public sentiment," and that men had been hired to assassinate the League.

ARMS TO KOLCHAK NOW BEING RUSHED

word, to deceive the loyal Russian elements. The Germans make use of every mistake, no matter how insignificant, that can be charged to the Allies. The French error at Odessa has proved one of their strongest cards and that incident they cite as proof of their charge that the Allies are not the friends of Russia, while Germany stands ready and willing to help in any way she can.

"When the Bolsheviki overran the Ukraine a great many officers of the old Russian Army sought refuge in Germany and the Germans welcomed them with open arms. They gave them food and lodging and appointed committees to look after them and see to it that they did not want for anything. These officers, many of whom have returned to Russia, were the objects of the most insidious form of German propaganda and I am sorry to say that in numberless instances they were converted to the German view of the situation.

"So today we find the German, who a few months ago was secretly standing behind the Bolsheviki, now openly supporting the Russian nationalist cause.

"On the other hand, in Siberia the propaganda is practically all Japanese, but it is much shrewder than that carried on by the Germans. It is directed, as I have stated, by a militaristic element among the Japanese, which is trying, and perhaps with some success, to get close to a certain militaristic element in the Kolchak Government. They are fomenting in an 'under the table' fashion resentment against the Allies, and if their plan works Russia will, in the west, walk straight into the arms of Germany, and in the east just as straight into the control of this Japanese militaristic element.

"Yet I am glad to say, and I can say it of first-hand knowledge that the loyal Russian people, those of anti-Bolshevist sympathies, are still loyal to their old allies and there still exists among them a strong and healthy distrust of Germany and the Japanese element I am talking about.

"However, a very different situation may be created if allied support is withdrawn from the anti-Bolshevist forces. It is quite possible that an impression might be created among them that they had been deserted by their old friends and then it would be a choice with them of Bolshevism, or of open alliance with the Germans and the Japanese. Under such circumstances, it is more than probable that they would line up with the latter and, that in the end, would mean the dominsion of the great Russian Empire by Germany and Japan. If such a thing as that should come to pass, it would mean that Germany has not lost but has almost won the war.

"It is quite true that the Allies have conquered Germany and that they are holding her, but the day must come when they must let go and then Germany, efficient and quick to recover, will assert herself, and if she can control Russia, and that means the direction of the great resources of Russia in men and material, no great period will elapse before the German will again be the powerful menace she was August, 1914. And then Germany will seek to tie up with Japan, and, if she can get control of Russia and form a working agreement with Japan there is nothing on earth to prevent her from returning to her old pre-war condition. This does not necessarily mean Kaiserism, for the Germans can be just as dangerous without the Kaiser as with him.

"As the situation now stands, it all depends on Russia and what happens in Russia. If Russia gets on her feet again, and to do that the loyal Russian forces must have guns and ammunition, and supplies and credits, then this menace to the whole world will not materialize. But if Russia continues in anarchy and chaos, and these elements I have referred to are able to get a grip on her in the confusion that must necessarily exist under such conditions, then Germany will have won."

ANGLO-RUSSIAN FORCE ROUTS REDS ON DVINA

Dubno and Latsk in Volhynia and Vinnitza in Ukraine Also Are Captured.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Six Bolshevist battalions were destroyed in a successful Anglo-Russian offensive on the Dvina River on Aug. 10, the War Office announced today. More than 1,000 prisoners, twelve field guns, and many machine guns were captured. The statement reads:

"In North Russia, Anglo-Russian troops on Aug. 10 attacked the Bolshevist forces on the Dvina with great success. All the objectives were gained. Six enemy battalions were destroyed, the troops being either killed, captured, or dispersed. More than 1,000 prisoners, twelve field guns, and many machine guns were captured. Our line on the Dvina was advanced twelve miles to Thudinova and Borok.

Ukrainian official reports received in Vienna announce that the fortress of Dubno in Southeastern Volhynia has been captured from the Bolshevist forces by the Ukrainian Army.

The occupancy by anti-Bolshevist forces in Volhynia of Lutsk, southeast of Rovel, is also reported in a wireless message from Moscow, which adds that the Bolsheviki have abandoned the city of Vinnitza in the Ukraine, 125 miles southwest of Kiev.

[Withdrawal of the Bolsheviki from Vinnitza indicates that the Rumanians and anti-Bolshevik have forced the Reds to retire from the line of the river Dniester in northeastern Bessarabia.]

Graceful or Clumsy—Which?

How often do you hear the expression "Isn't he light on his feet?" Lightness means that grace so vital to one's carriage. It surely must be difficult to be graceful when wearing uncomfortable shoes—shoes which transmit every blow of the pavements.

The Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoes absorb those blows and make your step easy, free and graceful. It costs no more to be graceful than clumsy.

BAKER PAYS HONOR TO HEROIC MARINES

Praises the "Unconquerable Tenacity" and "Dauntless Courage" of the Brigade.

FIGHTERS RETURN TO NAVY

Fifth and Sixth Regiments and Officers Are Congratulated for Record Under Pershing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Tribute to the performance of the Marines in France as a "new and heroic demonstration of the unconquerable tenacity and dauntless courage of the American soldier," was paid by Secretary Baker today in a letter to Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy Department. The letter was occasioned by the restoration of the Marine Brigade to the Navy Department after its service overseas under General Pershing.

The brigade, composed of the Fifth and Sixth Regiments, which played a large part in turning back the German forces at Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood, was demobilized today at the Marine Corps camp at Quantico, Va. Many of the members of the brigade, which was made up of men from every State, left for their homes today and others will leave within the next few days.

Secretary Baker wrote:

I cannot permit this heroic force to terminate its association with the army without expressing to you and through you to the officers and men of the Marine Corps, the deep sentiment of the War Department and of the army toward it.

The whole history of the brigade in France is one of conspicuous service. When it was finally incorporated into the Second Division of the American Army, it had early an opportunity to give a heroic demonstration of the unconquerable tenacity and dauntless courage of American soldiers. From then on in successive, almost continuous battles, the Marine Brigade and the division of which it was a part, fought sternly and successfully until victory was obtained for the allied armies. Throughout this long contest the marines, both by their valor and their tragic losses, heroically sustained, added an imperishable chapter to the history of America's participation in the world war.

On behalf of the army, I congratulate the Navy Department, the Major General commanding the Marines, those who have been instrumental in the formation and training of this splendid organization, and the officers and men of the organization itself.

Replying, on behalf of Secretary Daniels and the officers and men of the Marine Corps, Acting Secretary Roosevelt said that the spirit of cooperation that existed between the army and navy never was better demonstrated than in the participation of the Marines in the battles in France as part of the army and under command of General Pershing.

Mr. Roosevelt characterized the Second Division, composed of Marines and regulars, as "one of the greatest fighting organizations the world has ever known," and expressed gratification that the pride of the navy in the performance of the Marines should be shared by the War Department.

INCORPORATE SOCIAL UNIT.

National Organization Plans to 'Hasten the Coming of Democracy.'

Supreme Court Justice Lydon approved yesterday the incorporation of the National Social Unit Organization, of which Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany is one of the founders.

The purpose is to "hasten the coming of a democracy both genuine and efficient by building upon a basis of population units an organization through which the people can get a clear idea of their common needs and can utilize the technical knowledge of skilled groups in formulating and carrying out programs to meet those needs."

The Directors, other than Mrs. Tiffany, are Wilbur C. Phillips, Courtenay Dinwiddie, and Mark M. Jones. The Incorporators include Charles Edleson, Dorothy Thompson, Frederick Dinning Fisher, and Warren R. Lightfoot.

DROWNING SISTERS SAVED.

Policeman and Lifeguard Make Rescues at Coney Island.

James A. McKeon, a patrolman belonging to Long Island City Police Station, Precinct 109, rescued Marion Tamplin, 15 years old, of 53 Diamond Street, Brooklyn, from drowning yesterday when she was washed out by the undertow at Dreamland Park Beach, Coney Island. The policeman saw that the girl was in difficulty, and, without waiting to take off anything but his coat, swam out to her. After a long struggle the girl was brought to the beach, where the policeman and a Dr. August Neumak revived her.

Katherine, a young sister of the girl, also went to her rescue, but she was not a strong enough swimmer and would have been drowned herself had not Herman Moeller, a life saver, gone to her assistance.

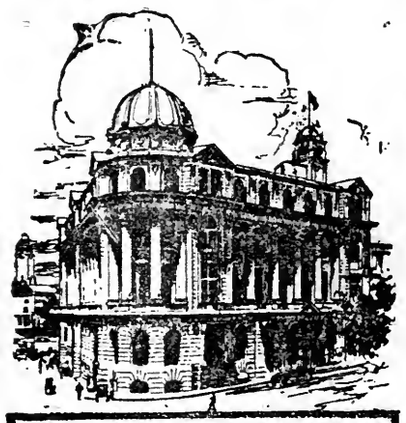
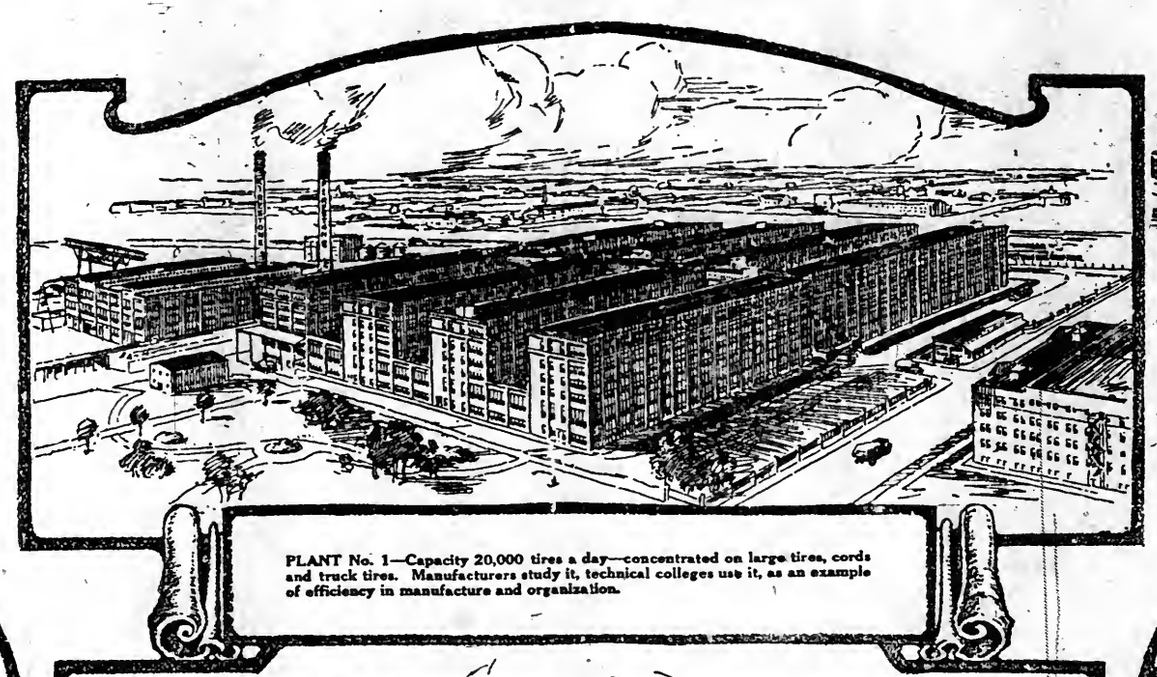
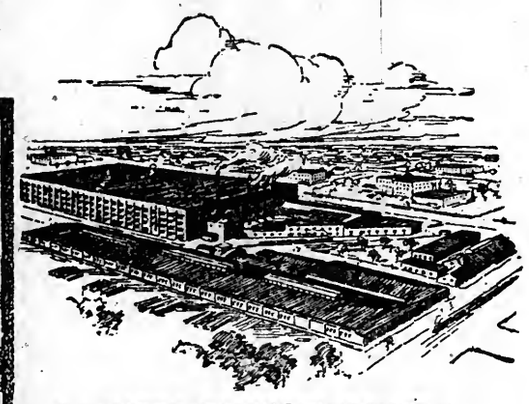
Why Firestone is Giving Extra Value in Tires



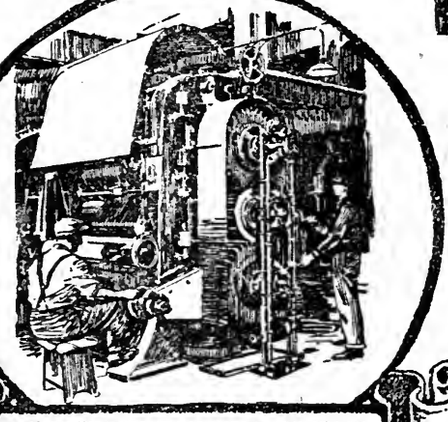
SINGAPORE HEADQUARTERS—Firestone saves car owners $1,000,000 a year by having an organization in Singapore getting first choice of rubber at low cost and shipping direct.



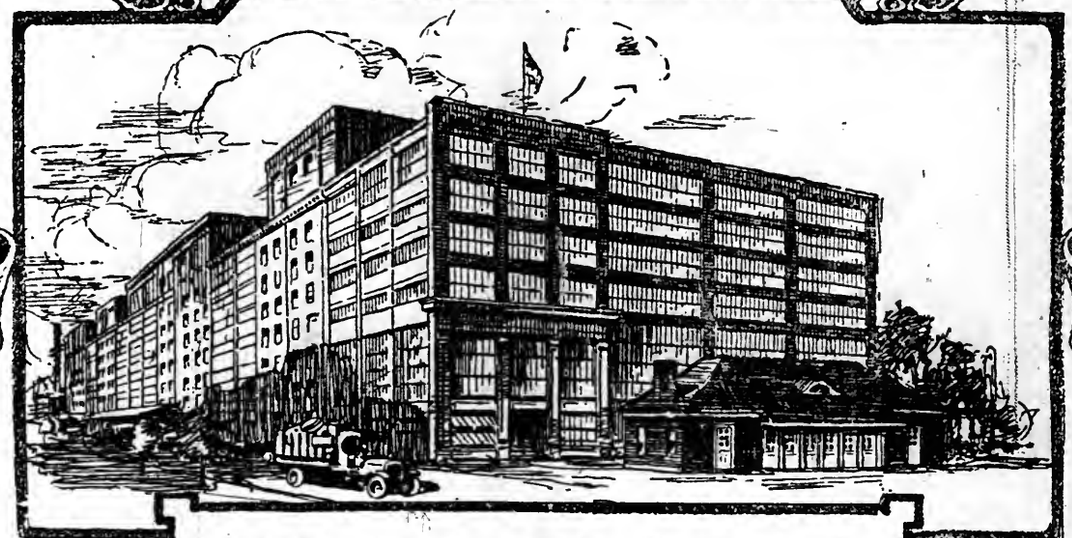
PLANT No. 1—Capacity 20,000 tires a day—concentrated on large tires, cords and truck tires. Manufacturers study it, technical colleges use it, as an example of efficiency in manufacture and organization.



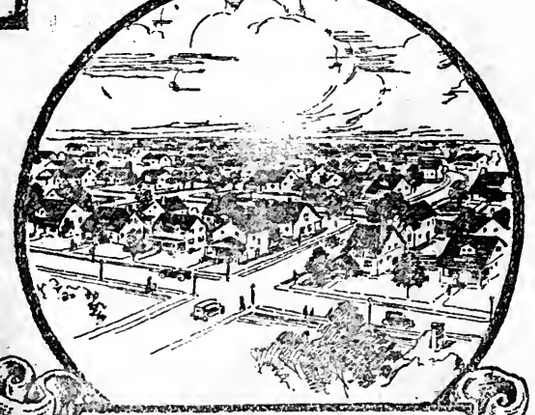
THE FIRESTONE RIM PLANT—Devoted exclusively to Firestone Rims. Vast as is its present capacity it is inadequate to supply the demand for Firestone Rims. Ground is broken for a steel plant double this capacity.



90% OF FIRESTONE WORKERS ARE STOCKHOLDERS in the Company. They have a financial interest in every Firestone customer. Better tires mean more customers. You get the benefit of the best work possible.



PLANT No. 2—Devoted exclusively to 3½-inch tires—capacity 16,000 a day. This new plant with Plant No. 1 gives Firestone largest tire capacity in America. Builds the most nearly perfect 3½-inch tire constructed and saves from 10% to 30% on every factory operation.



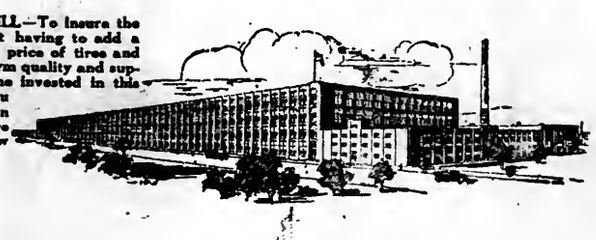
FIRESTONE PARK—A beautiful, practical home community. Firestone men own their own homes. They put more into their work because they are getting more out of it. You benefit in extra miles per dollar.

FIRESTONE CLUBHOUSE—Another step in the Firestone building of an organization that can do things better than others. Firestone advantages attract and hold the best men.

BRANCH HOUSES in 63 leading cities serving 42,000 Firestone dealers, and wide distribution economically handled, is another reason for extra value in Firestone Tires.

FIRESTONE PARK BANK—Firestone makes saving easy and alluring. And Firestone has established a Free Insurance Fund. Men with assured futures work better. You benefit in extra mileage.

FABRIC MILL—To insure the best without having to add a premium to price of tires and to get uniform quality and supply, Firestone invested in this mill. You benefit in long mileage tires at low price.



This is the Firestone Year

TO BRING FINN HERE ON ANARCHY CHARGE

A MEMBER OF THE I. W. W.

District Attorney's Office Investigates Past Record—To Reopen Rand School Case.

Word was received by the District Attorney's office yesterday that Carl Paivo, a Finn, indicted on Tuesday by the Extraordinary Grand Jury investigating anarchistic and seditious activities on a charge of criminal anarchy, had been arrested in Detroit and was on his way to this city in custody of Detective Sergeant Edward Cooper of the Bomb Squad.

Paivo upon his arrival will be arraigned in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court and committed to the Tombs unless able to furnish bail which, it is expected, will be fixed in a very substantial amount.

Gustave Alonen, another Finn associated with Paivo in editing and publishing the Finnish monthly, Luekkatuistelu, which, translated in English, means The Class Struggle, and who was indicted when Paivo was and committed to the Tombs by Justice Bartow S. Weeks of the Supreme Court, was still confined to his cell yesterday in default of $25,000 in which amount bail had been fixed in his case.

Walter Nolles, a lawyer of 41 Union Square, who had been assigned by the Civil Liberties Bureau to defend Alonen, after consultation with the prisoner yesterday, had a conference with Assistant District Attorney Alexander I. Rorke at which the subject of getting Alonen's bail reduced was taken up.

Some witnesses in the case who are being held in the House of Detention will be compelled to offer surety in no less an amount than $5,000, it is said.

It became evident yesterday that Paivo and Alonen are looked upon both by the police and the District Attorney's office as prisoners of the utmost importance. While there has been no evidence, as far as is known, to connect either Paivo or Alonen with the bomb outrages in a number of large cities on May Day and early in June, the District Attorney's office is quietly investigating the antecedents of both.

Paivo, in particular, will be questioned closely regarding the contents of a series of postal cards which were seized by detectives of th Bomb Squad when they raided Alonen's apartment at 864 Cauldwell Avenue in the Bronx during the early morning hours last Friday. Paivo, who, according to the police, departed for the West the day following a hearing of the Legislative Committee investigating seditious activities at which extracts from articles in the Finnish magazine, edited by the prisoners, in which revolution and the seizure of all property by the proletariat were advocated, had been presented in evidence, lived with Alonen at the Cauldwell Avenue address before his flight.

The postal cards, the contents of which is closely guarded by the District Attorney's office, are regarded by the authorities as possibly the most important part of the documentary evidence secured in the raid on Alonen's apartment. The postal cards, according to a person who would be in a position to know, bear post office stamps indicating that they were sent about the time of the bomb outrages in June from cities where such outrages were perpetrated.

The District Attorney's office is preparing to submit the cards to experts in the Secret Service for the purpose of determining whether the commonplaces on the cards may not conceal code messages which, when deciphered, might shed light on the bomb plot.

Both prisoners were members of the I. W. W. Alonen, according to the authorities, was expelled from the I. W. W. because of his ultra-radical and revolutionary views. Paivo, it was said yesterday, is still a member of that organization in good standing. According to a report that reached the District Attorney's office yesterday, Paivo was conferring in Detroit with radicals of so dangerous a type that they have been kept under constant surveillance by the United States Secret Service since the bomb plot denouement last June. When Paivo was arrested, according to the report, a mass of radical literature was found in the room he occupied in Detroit.

There is reason to believe that at least two of the four prisoners captured in the raid with Alonen will give assistance to the District Attorney's office in the prosecution of the two men whom the Extraordinary Grand Jury has indicted. Matti Martins, one of the captives who was discharged upon his arraignment in the Harlem Police Court last Friday for lack of evidence, and Martin Peltola, a butler, who had been held by the Magistrate under $5,000 bail was let go yesterday on his own recognizance, have both been in communication with Assistant District Attorney Rorke.

The charge of criminal anarchy was also pressed against Michael Itey, the fourth prisoner, when his case came up in police court yesterday, but he was held for the Court of Special Sessions on a charge of carrying a revolver without a license.

Attorney General Charles D. Newton announced yesterday that he would move before Justice Hendricks in Special Term Supreme Court on Monday for the reopening of the action begun by the Attorney General's office to annul the charter of the Rand School of Social Science. The case was dismissed some days ago by Supreme Court Justice McAvoy after Attorney General Newton, through his deputy, Samuel A. Berger, had asked for a postponement until the October term on the ground that the Attorney General's office was not prepared to proceed with trial at an earlier date. Mr. Berger yesterday served notice of the action on S. John Block and I. M. Sackin, counsel for the Rand School.

It was announced yesterday that unless something unforseen should occur to call for an earlier session of the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court, called by Governor Smith for the prosecution of anarchistic and seditious activities, the court would not sit again prior to Sept. 2. It was said at the District Attorney's office, however, that there was nothing to prevent the Grand Jury from continuing its work in the absence of the court, even though no indictments can be handed in and placed on file until the court holds another sitting.

A PRUDENT RESOLVE.

Passion may not have subsided altogether in the bosoms of the Republicans of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee, but they are evidently listening to counsels of reason and prudence. The committee has again agreed "to expedite consideration of the Peace Treaty." It is well that that conclusion has been reached. Further hearings will give no help; those already held have given none. Nothing said in the committee room has helped these Republican Senators to make up their minds; it is what they have heard from the country that has forced upon them the conclusion that they must ratify the Treaty without further delay.

In a matter of this unexampled magnitude delay is dangerous. The Republican Senators know it is dangerous. We have beaten the Germans, yet the war is not ended. It is recklessly and needlessly prolonged by the delay in ratifying the Treaty. The obstructionists in the Senate know that if trouble arises in this country or in Europe or in the Far East through putting off the return of peace, a large part of the responsibility will be theirs. We are passing through a time of crisis in the United States. Domestic problems demand instant attention, the country wants the Treaty out of the way and peace restored in order that it may take thought and action about its own urgent affairs. The warning of Senator HITCHCOCK in the committee room yesterday was more than warranted.

The speech Senator LODGE made in the Senate on Tuesday was useful, since it proved that obstructionists have nothing more to say. They have exhausted their resources. Mr. LODGE's position is not free from difficulties. He used brave words now and then, but his "reservations" confess defeat. They are without force, meaning, or necessity. It is perfectly evident that they are put forth as a means of covering the Senate's retreat. Outside the Senate Chamber Mr. LODGE talks of "amendments." He dare not amend the Treaty, the Senate dare not attempt it. He knows that amendments would either kill the Treaty outright or invite unknown disaster by prolonging a state of war. The feebleness of his "reservations" shows that he lacks the hardihood to propose real amendments.

The disgrace and humiliation of the Senate's perverse behavior we can put up with, but not with patience. The consequences of further delay the country does not want to put up with. We shall not have to put up with them if the Republican Senators are wise in time. But of this shameful delay for ignoble and partisan reasons there has already been too much.

AMBASSADOR GREY.

It appears that even the appointment of Viscount GREY of Fallodon does not settle permanently the question of the British Embassy at Washington, since Lord GREY, though Ambassador with full powers, is only occupying the post that has been too long vacant until the British Government can find a suitable appointee who can occupy the position for a longer time than Lord GREY finds possible. Nevertheless, for the next year or two, which may be a period of great importance in Anglo-American relations, this very responsible post will be occupied by a man of proved capacity, and American and British interests should both profit by the conjunction.

Of Lord GREY's qualifications, of his career, there is no need to say anything; our time knows him as a great Liberal, a great diplomat, whose services to political idealism in theory and practice have been distinguished. History may perhaps remember him chiefly as the statesman who in the last week of July, 1914, strove with such unfailing hope and unwearying effort to avert war, and then to localize a war that he could not avert. The unswerving purpose of Berlin and Budapest was too much for him; the Germans had willed the war and the world could not escape it. Nevertheless, the man who was then Sir EDWARD GREY will live in history as the most active of the defenders of civilization who vainly strove to ward off the attack.

A few months ago it was feared that Lord GREY's physical condition would make his further participation in public life impossible. Happily, that is not the case; a world which has applauded the courage with which he met his affliction will applaud his victory and his re-entry into public life.

WAR WAGES ERA ENDED.

The War Labor Board having decided, under the influence of exhausted appropriations, that its usefulness has ended, Secretary of Labor WILSON dismisses it with the country's thanks. They were earned by hard labor under perplexing conditions, and labor, at least, has cause for gratitude. The board decided 1,200 cases, and "in every case "brought before it labor benefited by "increased wages." There is one qualified case, that of the Bethlehem Steel Company, which challenged the War Board's authority. The point was whether the findings of the board should be effective in peace. The result was a draw, the company conceding collective bargaining, and the wages awarded being assumed by the Ordnance Department on war contracts.

The final decisions were in character with what had gone before. In ten traction cases, scattered throughout the continent, increases of 12 per cent. were granted, but there was no suggestion of where the companies were to get the funds. The board itself has expressed regret that it did not have power to raise fares as well as wages. Its influence over corporations and wage earners was greater than over States and cities, and the board found New York State and city the most recalcitrant of all. Without hypercriticism of the board, it is necessary to say that the course which it thought necessary to take has brought the utilities concerned to the same low condition of fortune and credit that the Federal Administration brought the steam roads. The two classes together total a capital approaching the five Liberty Loans, and the total depreciation of their credit is a considerable offset to the inflation of which the country is hearing so much. If the credit of all public utilities were restored, there would be a great addition to the financial power of the country in meeting the emergency before it.

If the board had not been starved out, it might have increased the country's indebtedness to it by guiding it through the labor troubles of peace as successfully as it did through the problems of war. It is a task of even greater difficulty. In war there was only one thing to be considered—the increase of production at any cost. The manner in which that was done covers any criticism implied in the suggestion that an earlier development of a more judicial temper might not have been amiss. For instance, there was no lack of judicial temper or firmness in the manner in which the board washed its hands of the Paterson weavers' demand that the award of last April should be effective immediately instead of on the date originally fixed, Oct. 10 next. The weavers applied to their employers before applying to the board, simply by coming to work at the hour fixed by themselves without consideration of the award, of the convenience of the employers, or of the necessities of the consumers of the goods. That was in violation of the award in their favor; also, the strikers violated an agreement reached with the payers of their wages. It is not possible to work modern industry if self-determination is carried to the extent of dividing labor into factions, some in favor of the rule of reason and the validity of contracts and others against both. In Paterson the radicalism of a few made many idle. Some employers have granted the unreasonable demands, some of the strikers have returned to their senses, and several thousand are still out. If the unions cared more for their good name, they would drop from membership all who violate good conscience by direct action contrary to arbitration and agreement.

CONFESS AND MAKE UP.

If it can be established that there are faults on both sides in the warfare between actors and managers, a long step will be taken toward theatrical peace—which, with such amiable and generous if temperamental people, must eventually mean reconciliation. And as far as one can gather from the published statements, errors are pretty evenly divided.

In any other trade or profession it is inconceivable that men and women should work for four and even six weeks without pay, as actors have had to do while rehearsing. Conditions in the theatre are admittedly peculiar, yet players, like other folk, find it advisable to eat, and have need of a roof and clothing. The contention of the actors that they should be paid for any rehearsals beyond a stipulated three or four weeks seems moderate in the extreme. Their further contention that they should receive pro rata pay for extra performances on holidays and Sundays is likewise in accord with all sound precedent and sensible opinion. But the managers refused both requests; and when the actors offered to leave the question to competent outside judgment, securing Mr. TAFT and Mr. HUGHES as referees, the proposal was rejected. Most people who are in touch with modern advances in the conditions of employment will conclude that the managers have been swayed by an ancient and selfish custom, which is as obviously outgrown as it is obviously bad.

If the actors had rested their case on the claims thus stated, they must eventually have won. Their contention is directly in line with a great world movement. Unfortunately, they seem to have suffered, no less than the managers, from intemperate counsel and bad leadership. In spite of all their explanations, it still appears that they had no right to call out members who were playing under Equity contracts. The argument that the contracts called for arbitration, and that the managers, by refusing arbitration, rendered the contracts void, has a plausible sound, but, for all that has yet been said, it plainly confuses two issues which are utterly distinct. The arbitration stipulated for in the Equity contracts relates to individual differences arising between actor and manager during the engagement covered by the contract. If any manager has refused such arbitration, the fact has not yet been made public. The arbitration which the managers have refused (and most unwisely, as it seems) concerns pay for rehearsals and extra performances—matters wholly in the future and totally unrelated to any existing contract. Doubtless the actors have been self-deceived, beguiled by a telling phrase; but doubtless, also, their action in closing theatre after theatre has worked a great hardship upon managers and authors, upon their fellow-actors, and upon the amusement-loving public. This is the obvious conclusion from the facts as thus far published.

The chance that reason will prevail seems, at this hectic hour, to be not bright. On both sides well-intended advances toward an understanding have already been made and rebuffed. Old friendships are laid in discord; hitherto loyal clubmates have parted in bitterness. The actors have staged their strike with telling dramatic effect, and the managers have played their rôle of unrelenting parent with indomitable zeal. But all this is not necessarily fatal to eventual reconciliation. Artistically there must be vast satisfaction in the performance thus far. And, last as first, are they not artists—managers and actors both? Only one thing remains to a perfect production—the happy ending which they both know to be essential to a truly popular success. Let the unrelenting parent relent and welcome the wandering child—granting generously that, in spite of his wayward conduct, his heart all along has been right. Curtain, and a stirring march from the musicians—who are also glad to be back in touch with the pay envelope.

Both sides have already suffered grave and irreparable losses. The legal situation presents features which are at present undetermined—indeterminable. If the worst comes, it will be bad indeed. The public, too, has its rights. It was diverted for a time by the sidewalk performances; but interest in that died soon. It has need of amusement and is learning to find it elsewhere. Verbum sap.

AERONAUTICS IN AMERICA.

The American Aviation Mission, which went to Europe several months ago to study aircraft development in England and France, has recommended the creation of a Department of Aeronautics at Washington, the head of it to have a seat in the Cabinet. The proposal is made that the department shall practically have control of aviation in the country in time of peace. In the emergency of war the department would furnish the army and navy with all planes, dirigibles, and balloons it required. A member of the mission, which included Assistant Secretary of War CROWELL, said upon its return to the United States that "if we are to catch up "with the European nations, who "have already outstripped us in the "field of aeronautics, and who are "drawing further away every day, "we must adopt this new program "of control." Secretary BAKER disapproves of the plan of a separate Air Department:

> A separation of the air service from the army or navy would require coordination of their activities in time of war, whereas effectiveness in military operations rests upon the concentration and singleness of authority, command, and purpose.

It is far from the intent of the promoters of the plan to hamper "effectiveness in military operations." Their design is to increase it. They would relieve the army and navy of the complicated business of building aircraft and training aviators, but when those services wanted pilots, observers, bombers, and fighting airmen they would be put under the orders of commanding officers for any military operations contemplated. It is true that the Curry bill, introduced in the House of Representatives on July 28, provides for a distinct third service, so far as concerns organization, with the object of having a military force in the air as well as on the land and sea, but in the emergency of war the units of the new service would be (to quote from the bill) "under the com- "mand of the designated commander "of the land or sea forces, or both, "as the case may be." In its report the American Aviation Mission says:

> Any future war will inevitably open with great aerial activity far in advance of contact either upon land or sea. * * * Victory cannot but incline to that belligerent able first to achieve and later maintain its supremacy in the air. One of the greatest military authorities in Europe stated that in his opinion the first battle of the next war would be in the air and would very nearly decide which side would win the war.

The report points out that since the signing of the armistice American aircraft production "has shrunk to a very small volume," and it lays stress upon Great Britain's policy of making herself pre-eminent in the air as well as on the sea. Realizing that private capital will not be invested in the manufacture of airplanes and dirigibles unless firms and companies receive the encouragement and support of the Government, and unless the Government is a good customer, Great Britain makes liberal appropriations to develop aeronautics. Long before the war ended an Air Ministry was established. It will probably not be necessary to establish a special Air Department in the United States, but unless the Government fosters the aircraft industry it will dwindle to nebulous insignificance, in which case a war would catch America even more unprepared than it was in April, 1917.

It is the duty of Congress to give its sober attention to the question of air defense. The Curry bill, with its provisions for minute organization and distribution of activities, looks top-heavy. If it is to go to the statute book there must be much pruning. The country will not tolerate again the scandalous waste of money that marked the attempt to carry out an ambitious aircraft program two years ago. Nevertheless, it would be a worse offense to neglect the development of aeronautics and to fall so far behind other Powers in preparedness for the emergency of war that the requisite equipment would be lacking to support diplomatic negotiations to avert war. As to commercial air transportation, it will amount to very little if the United States Government does not aid in developing aeronautics in this country.

THE UNCONQUERED ENEMY.

By the Treaty the Germans promise to cut down their army to 200,000 men, and after a year, when Spartacus will presumably have ceased to be dangerous, to 100,000. Dispatches from the Rhine have already told how they were evading this provision by the organization of home guards and police reserves, including hundreds of thousands of veteran soldiers and amounting virtually to minute-men ready to be flung into line in any new war. But even this is not enough. Now they are trying to obtain exemption from the requirement to cut down their regular army to 200,000, on the ground that it would be a hazardous undertaking to discharge so many trained soldiers all at once.

The American Army has been brought back to this side of the Atlantic, and most of it has put on civilian clothes and gone to work. This was done in response to an unmistakable popular demand. The American people thought the war was over and wanted their troops brought home. As rapidly as possible the British Army is going back to civilian life, also in response to a popular demand. Demobilization in France and Italy has moved more slowly, because the French and Italians are closer to the seat of trouble and know what it means to be invaded; but even in those countries there is strong pressure on the Government to disband the armies and let everybody forget about the war.

But the Germans are trying, not to disband as many men as they can, but to hold as many as possible with the colors. The Turkish Army was thoroughly beaten a year ago, but the disarmament which was promised seems to have been incompletely carried out. Today we know that Armenia is to be freed from Turkey, but we hear that thousands of armed Turks are in or near Armenia, and that the Armenians have no war material with which to oppose them. We can give Armenia freedom, but the Turks are likely to wipe out the rest of the Armenians.

We have been talking about the disposition of Constantinople. There are allied military missions and food missions in the city, but according to credible reports there is also a considerable Turkish army there. The Turks are not prepared to take their defeat lying down; they made some resistance when the Greeks occupied Smyrna, and it is far from impossible that the nation which gets Constantinople will have to fight for it.

The Bulgarian Army was thoroughly beaten a year ago, but the Bulgarians, too, applied sabotage to the armistice terms. There is still in Bulgaria a considerable force of veteran troops fairly well supplied with munitions, and the Bulgarians will not admit that they have lost the war until they are forced to admit it. There is some danger that before long the enemy whom our armies defeated a year ago will have stronger forces in the field than we.

To America, which is four thousand miles away, this may have no pressing menace; what it may mean in the long run is another question. But it is undoubtedly of engrossing interest to the nations which live next door to the enemy. With conditions such as this, is it surprising that the Rumanians finally took their fate into their own hands and went forth to abolish the standing menace on their northern frontier? The Conference was doing nothing for them; they concluded to do something for themselves. There have been reports in the last few days that the Greeks, menaced by the unquenched hostility of a Bulgaria by no means disarmed, and kept our of Thrace by the solitary opposition of the American delegation, may presently do the same. It is no doubt to be regretted that a Power feels itself, as the Rumanians seem to feel, thrust out of the alliance and compelled to take measures for its own protection; it is particularly unfortunate, since a Power which has to do this sometimes goes too far, as the Rumanians may have done; but those nations which have gone home satisfied with their part in the war ought not to be too critical of those who will be the first to feel the enemy's next attack.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Silence Without a Precedent.

If the British, after capturing the German submarine Bremen, had not had some special reasons for preserving strict official silence in regard to their achievement, and for keeping the crew of the boat in the strictest sort of what in Spanish war days was called "incommunicado," the course pursued would have been hard, or even impossible, to justify.

It has always been held, not quite obligatory, perhaps, but certainly something more than permissible, in war between honorable foes, for each to take some trouble to let the other know, by one means or another, the whereabouts of its missing men if they are still alive. This is usually done by allowing the prisoners to communicate briefly with their relatives, in order that their anxieties may be mitigated and that they may render such aid to them as circumstances permit. The Germans did it to a considerable extent, for the reason, a harsh critic would say, that thus the cost of feeding their prisoners was decreased, and, on general principles, the British should have done the same thing.

As a matter of fact, they did, except in the case of the men taken from destroyed or captured submarines. No information at all regarding them was given out, and every effort was made to prevent such information from reaching the public. So successful were these efforts that nothing but rumors of German submarines lying in British docks gained circulation, and nothing at all definite concerning their crews, not even whether they were dead or alive, was divulged. One result of this policy was that for three long years the fate of the Bremen was a complete mystery, outside of a narrow official circle in England, and of the men who had been on her their families, relatives, and friends heard never a word until, the other day, they were set free and sent home, to be received as risen from the dead.

Meeting a New Danger.

Exceptional treatment was accorded by the British to the submarine crews because the submarine was itself exceptional—something new in marine warfare and a peril of such seriousness that new measures to make it less effective properly could be used. Had the Germans known where their undersea craft were in more than ordinary danger they could have refrained from sending them to such areas. Informed as to the means by which submarines were found and destroyed or captured, they could have invented and used protective devices.

This knowledge, or some of it, the Germans surely would have received had the submarine prisoners been permitted to reveal even their continued existence.

It is claimed, too, that the policy of silence had another effect, also important—that of weakening morale in the German submarine service—and it is even said that thus is to be explained at least a part of the insubordination that marked the German Navy through the latter part of its history. That theory is plausible, but it is not quite convincing. Germans are sentimental, but they are not sensitive, and it is not easy to believe that the demoralization of their navy was thus brought about. There were other and sufficient reasons for that.

Dark Secrets Brought to Light.

All great fortresses are carefully guarded from civilian inspection, and especially from the civilian photographer, and this was done with a special effectiveness in the Germany of other days. Hardly anything, therefore, could better show how changed is the state of affairs in that once intensely and successfully militaristic country than does the fact that in the current issue of THE TIMES MIDWEEK PICTORIAL there is reproduced a long series of photographs that reveal in clearest detail no end of the secrets so long and so sternly kept by the builders and occupiers of the mighty forts guarding the city of Metz.

It is safe to say that no such pictures of such a place ever before were placed in the hands of any public. Before the war their appearance in this way would have filled the German High Command with rage and horror in about equal degrees, for from them an enemy—and every foreigner was a possible or probable enemy to the Germans—could have derived information of priceless value. The pictures would have facilitated enormously an attack on the great forts, for their exact positions and many most important details of their construction and armament are clearly disclosed.

Now the disclosure is of no moment, except as showing that there is come to be as little need to defend Metz as to assail it. Its mysteries are all open to the day, and the amateur photographer snaps his camera as he will where a year ago, and for many years before that, to take a photograph might have meant death, and certainly would have meant long imprisonment.

Welcoming a Prince Up North.

Should anybody be inclined to smile over the excitement into which Newfoundland has been thrown by the arrival there of a young man whose actual superiorities to and differences from other young men of good repute and intentions are yet to be demonstrated, that person should take care to make his smiles entirely kind. Newfoundlanders are no more deluded as to the nature and value of the princes than are other sincerely democratic folk, but they know better than some of the other democratic folk what a helpful thing it is to have ideals personified and made visible.

When they cheer this boy they cheer the great empire of which they are themselves a part, and they express allegiance and devotion, not to him as a super-mortal, which they know quite well he is not, but to him as a symbol. They cheer him as they cheer their flag, for what he and it represent to their minds. They do it, too, as proof that they have not been led astray by the wretched notions of internationalism into scorn of patriotism.

Later, when the Prince of Wales comes here, his welcome will and ought to be not less warm than the one he is receiving in the faithful land whence the codfish come and where brave sailors are bred. He will mean much to us, too, and we need not hesitate to show we know it.

THRACE AND FIUME.

Pleasant Outing Predicted for Our Boundary Experts.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Everybody reading your editorial article "Rewarding the Bulgarians" in today's TIMES will indorse its sensible argumentations. But may I not use the same words and considerations of yours for a more important case of similar character? I refer to the Fiume question.

You contest the right of the United States of stepping in and disposing of Thrace because they "would not fight Bulgaria," but what about the veto (anathema) concerning the Adriatic, after having fought the Austrian colossus with one belated regiment?

The Allies ought not to favor the Bulgarians, who were among their worst enemies, and this sounds all right, provided that one also considers the actual swelling of Greece after her unique part as a friend of the alliance; but, in any case, why then violently favor the Croatians, who were more Bulgarian than Greek?

Moreover, you will concede that "the entertaining disposition in statesmanship" shown by certain American delegates in figuring out the actual population and deciding about racial majorities, with utter disregard of real and historical conditions, was recently very painstakingly used all along the Adriatic, ignoring centuries of Austro-Hungarian oppression and persecution, as well as German Drang nach Osten and Slavic intrusion. While the Fiume question is yet open, let these American delegates be consistent also for Thrace.

They rely on their "experts," who in a round trip "veni, vidi and decide" about racial questions, definitions of boundaries, &c., as old as old Europe.

The last peasant in Europe knows and appreciates the great part of the American people in the war, every student of this fateful period constates the American practical and businesslike superiority in solving immense problems that were out of the grasp of Generals and diplomats, but as to those "boundary experts," after they can show to have been able to pacify Europe with their proposed cutting of the tart, let them take an extended European tour and look out for the brass bands welcoming them South, North, West and East.

Do Without the Telephone.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At a time when any attempt to use one's house telephone, or those ghastly, disease-breeding cells known as public telephones, is to lose one's time, temper, money, and any belief that one might have in a God or the ultimate remission of sins, may I not suggest a remedy which I have tried with some success in the past weeks? It is very simple.

Ignore the telephone entirely. Write short letters. Enclose stamped envelopes for those replies which are urgent. The other replies will come without this inducement. The letter with the return envelope costs but four cents. It gets results, and the scheme is really worth trying.

Life is less of a burden without the telephone, its attendant waiting for hours to be told that the line is busy, and the many idiotic calls from people who wish to know if one is the Main Office for the Society for the Prevention of the Apparently Embalmed.

Help for Family of Five.

Grave Angelina, full of responsibility, in spite of her 9 years; curly-haired Peter, an adorable baby of 3; Joseph and Toney, two lively lads of 6 and 8, with an unusual capacity for spaghetti and remarkable ability for scuffing out shoes—these are Mrs. S.'s assets. Her liabilities do not counterbalance the assets, but they are very heavy, for since Mr. S.'s death from the "flu" even the most persistent toil could not provide for all the needs of the four little ones. Clothes were patched and made over, but eventually they wore out and there was no money to buy new. Nourishing food was costly and they all needed milk and eggs to ward off the evil effects of stale tenement air. The Charity Organization Society has been aiding Mrs. S. with an allowance of $8 a week, which, with her earnings, makes decent living possible. Your help is solicited to continue this relief. Send gifts to 105 East Twenty-second Street, marking them for the S.'s.

Rural Sentiment and the League.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is a sentiment in this country in country districts and small towns, where the nation records her equipoise and balance and is ventilated through the weekly papers. Go after it and results will make Congress quit stuttering on the League of Nations job.

SEAGULLS.

There is a sailor legend
Men tell by the waning moon,
(And I heard them laugh as they told it Tonight in the deck saloon!)

That whenever dies a sailor,
On the deep sea or ashore,
There comes to the birds of ocean
One gray seagull the more.

What eye has found their nesting,
By beach or cliff or bar?
What heart has guessed their questing,
'Twixt sand and sea and star?

And men who know the wonder
Of boundless blue and breeze,
Would they hold with the walls of heaven
Or the shade of earthly trees?

So I know that the sailor legend
Is true, and there come again,
When the gray gulls slant to seaward,
The souls of the sailor men!

MAYOR BOST'S GEMS ARRIVE

Museum Relics Were Worn in Thebes, Egypt, in 700 B. C.

Some of the personal effects of Pedu Bost, Mayor and chief priest of Thebes, Egypt, about 700 B. C., arrived yesterday on the Duca d'Aosta, consigned to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. The jewels and robes of this ancient Egyptian were uncovered by Ambrose Lansing of 153 East Eighty-eighth Street, who is associated with the Egyptian Art Department of the museum, and who has been excavating for more than a year.

Mr. Lansing returned on the ship. He said he had brought only a few of the new things for the Egyptian collection which he found. Most of the relics were left in Italy until arrangements can be made to bring them to the United States.

Mr. Lansing said an interesting discovery of his excavations was that ghouls existed in ancient Egypt as well as in more modern times. When he uncovered the grave of Pedu Bost, at a depth of forty feet, he found evidences that grave robbers had cut their way into the tomb, apparently soon after the death of the Theban official, and had carried away some of his jewels and robes of office.

"I imagine they were frightened off before they were through, as we found many rare relics," Mr. Lansing said. "The excavating in Thebes, which is now known as Luxor, was most interesting. We found from inscriptions on the Mayor's tomb which we deciphered that Amneris, whom opera lovers recognize as the queen in 'Aida,' was the real Queen of Upper Egypt when Mayor Pedu Bost died."

Captain William R. Pitt of San Francisco, who was superintendent of the Red Cross stores in Durazzo, Albania, said 90 per cent. of the people in that country were suffering from illness. Tuberculosis was decimating many sections, he said.

"The masses are wofully ignorant," he added. "The distressing conditions are due chiefly to the lack of adequate transportation facilities."

Walter Farrar, a professor in the Syrian Protestant College at Beirut, also was a passenger. Forty-seven Red Cross workers were on the ship, which carried altogether 63 first-class and 119 second-class passengers.

URGES SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Sir Robert Hadfield, in an interview published in The Chronicle, says that the encouragement of scientific research and invention is the best method of stimulating production. He points out that the workers of America have realized this vital necessity, and that the American Federation of Labor has passed resolutions that a broad program of scientific and technical research was of major importance, and should be fostered in every way by the Government.

"Surely," says Sir Robert, "we are not going to be behind our cousins across the sea. If we are, then our future is indeed gloomy. But I shall never believe this of the people of this country. If we do not wake up quickly and settle our labor difficulties it is to be feared that both the employer and employes will suffer past redemption. It is stated that America has already this year placed constructive work in hand—plant and buildings—to the value of nearly £1,000,000,000. All this means more and more capacity for output and for competition in the markets of the world.

"Any representative of labor who discourages or opposes the progress of the world as represented by inventions and discoveries is a traitor to his country, and should not be allowed to join in its councils, whether political, commercial, or otherwise."

WANT TO KEEP OFFICES.

J. S. Bache & Co. Seek Injunction Against Threatened Removal.

J. S. Bache & Co. of the New York Stock Exchange have obtained a temporary injunction from Supreme Court Justice Luce restraining the Lower Broadway Realty Company, owner of the building at 42 Broadway, in which the Bache firm has its office, from attempting to exclude from the building the firm, its employes and customers. An application to continue the injunction pending the suit will be heard today.

The plaintiff states that under its lease in 1914 the firm has the right to extend the lease from May 1 next for five years at a rental of $30,000 a year. The firm gave notice on April 9 that it would extend the lease, but the owner replied that provisions in the lease that it shall not be assigned to any one else have been broken because the membership of the firm has changed several times since the original lease was made. The owners then demanded immediate possession of the premises occupied by the plaintiff company.

Mr. Bache, in an affidavit, said that the claim by the landlord is frivolous, and that the purpose of the landlord is "to avail itself of the dearth of office space in the financial district to secure an increased rental." He said that the firm has more than 5,000 active accounts, has private wires to branches in many other cities, carries millions of dollars in securities for customers, and borrows millions on call loans. For this reason, Mr. Bache said, the business must go on without interruption, so that the purchase and sale of securities and the calling or extension of loans "can be made without delay as the market fluctuates." The firm cannot readily obtain the necessary space elsewhere, and for that reason asked for the injunction.

"DRY" ERA BOOMS TOBACCO

Prohibition is going to give an impetus to tobacco growing in Cuba, according to Dr. Luis N. Menocal, one of Cuba's most famous surgeons and brother of President Mario G. Menocal of Cuba, who was at the Hotel Majestic yesterday en route to his Summer place at Lake Placid.

"When people are deprived of liquor they naturally turn to some other stimulant, and tobacco is the most likely one," said Dr. Menocal. "For that reason the tobacco growers look for a record-breaking season and are preparing for unprecedented demands in the tobacco market. The next crop has been calculated at about $60,000,000."

Dr. Menocal declared that thousands of visitors from Cuba, held back by the war, were preparing to visit New York this late Summer and Fall and that New York hotels and shopping centres will do a record business as a result. He said that the Cubans were very prosperous just now and that many thousands of dollars will be left here by visitors from that country during the next few months.

DR. COPELAND TAKES SEA VIEW HOSPITAL

Staten Island Institution Transferred for Care of Drug Addicts.

MAYOR ANSWERS PROTESTS

Institution May Be Restored to Its Former Uses After Four Months.

Health Commissioner Copeland took formal possession of the Sea View Hospital on Staten Island yesterday. The institution was turned over to him by the Charities Department without any demonstration from Staten Islanders, who objected to its use as a home for drug addicts. Dr. Copeland went to Sea View with Dr. William H. Connolly, Medical Superintendent of the Department of Charities; Justice Cornelius Collins of the Court of Special Sessions, and Dr. Arthur Braumlich, Acting Director of Hospitals of the Health Department. They were received by Dr. Geza Craemer of Sea View.

Mayor Hylan announced the protests of those opposing the transfer of Sea View in a letter sent yesterday to Borough President Van Name of Richmond. In this letter the Mayor said:

"Sea View Hospital is a great distance from any thickly congested section of the Borough of Richmond and an ideal place to take care of the drug addicts for the next few months.

"The question that we must deal with now is: Are the profiteers in humanity and habit-forming drugs going to ruin the business of the city and continue to sell at a profit narcotics which undermine humanity and drive people to acts of criminality, or whether the Health Commissioner, the Committee on Public Welfare and the Mayor of the city are going to be permitted to clean up this situation and stop the illegal distribution of habit-forming drugs by these profiteers in humanity? Sea View at the most will only be used for about four months."

Commissioner Copeland in discussing this last phase of the plan said that there were at present about 2,000 drug addicts who were in urgent need of care and treatment. If proposed to give them treatment, no matter how long it took. He estimated that the department would require Sea View until about the first of the year. He added that he would keep the hospital until the present congestion of uncared for drug addicts had been remedied.

Dr. Louis A. Dreyfus, President of the Staten Island Civic League, declared yesterday that the league would take drastic steps to prevent the use of Sea View by drug addicts. The reason that nothing had yet been done, he said, was because it was thought best to wait until the Health Department took some action, rather than to proceed against a condition that did not exist.

Dr. Copeland said that in about ten days the first patients would be received at Sea View. This interval of time was necessary, he explained, because the tuberculosis patients now in Sea View have to be classified, and most of them transferred to the new service established. After this is done the work of taking the first 500 drug patients to Staten Island will be begun. Dr. Kraemer will remain at the head of the hospital, and so will most of his staff. A few nurses will be transferred with the tuberculosis patients, and Dr. Copeland said that the department will require about thirty-five new nurses. The grounds of Sea View will be adequately policed, and the residents of the island, he added, will have no cause for complaint. A special effort will be made to prevent bootlegging drugs to the patients.

The campaign of Inspector Coleman's vice squad against drug addicts in Brooklyn who violate the health law and have a larger quantity of drugs in their possession than permitted by the authorities, was begun yesterday by the arrest of the alleged addicts, who were arraigned before Magistrate Fish in the Adams Street Court. They were Frank R. White, 26 years old, of 71 Hicks Street; Charles Pacchio, known to the police as "Leaping Charlie," 21 years old, of 180 Adams Street, and Mrs. Catherine Leolki, 22 years old, of 191 Adams Street.

A raid was made on Mrs. Leolki's apartment, where White had been observed to enter. According to the police, White had enough cocaine of the purest crystal type to make a stack costing worth $400. By his addict card he was permitted to have four and a half grains, the police said, whereas he had actually 1,000 grains. It was alleged that Pacchio had an eighth of an ounce of heroin and two hypodermic needles, while Mrs. Leolki had the same amount of heroin, six needles, and a syringe. All these were held for examination Friday.

LEVIATHAN TO BE A LINER.

She and the Imperator Making Last Trips as Transports.

The Leviathan sailed yesterday from the Port of Debarkation, Hoboken, on her last trip as an army transport. It is understood that she will remain at Brest until General Pershing and his staff, as well as a large part of the 1st Division, start for home. On her return from Brest, it was said, the steamer would be turned over by the navy to the United States Shipping Board to be refitted for passenger and commercial service.

The Imperator, the sister ship of the Leviathan, both of which are spoils of the war, will make her last trip as a transport this week also. While nothing definite has been decided upon in regard to her future disposition it is believed in shipping circles that she will be given to the British. The Finland, now enroute from Brest, will be returned immediately to the International Mercantile Marine for service as a passenger vessel between this port and Antwerp.

PLAN NEW CABLE TO JAPAN.

Japanese Interests Want Better Communication with America.

TOKIO, July 25, (Correspondence of Associated Press.)—Prominent Japanese business men formally decided yesterday to organize a 50,000,000 yen (about $25,000,000) company for the purpose of laying a cable line between the United States and Japan. This decision is the result of dissatisfaction which has been existing for a long time among business men on both sides of the Pacific with the present cable service, which seems unable to handle the constantly increasing volume of traffic.

It is expected that the venture will be supported by business men of the United States as well as by those in Japan, and that the establishment of a new cable line will do much toward promoting trade between the United States and Japan, as well as a better understanding between the two nations.

FREIGHTER HITS MINE.

Shipping Board Steamship Englewood Able to Proceed for Thames.

DOVER, England, Aug. 13.—The American steamer Englewood struck a mine in the North Sea off the Thames River at 7:30 o'clock this morning and sent out a wireless message for help.

The steamer, however, is in no immediate danger of sinking, and tugs are standing by. She is making for the Thames under her own steam. If she takes on more water she probably will be beached at Sheerness.

Officials of the Cosmopolitan Shipping Company of 42 Broadway, operators of the Englewood, said yesterday that they had received no word of the accident to the freighter, which is owned by the United States Shipping Board. The Englewood left New York on July 29 for Rotterdam with 7,000 tons of general cargo. The ship had a crew of forty-seven and was commanded by Captain Andrew Patterson of Jersey City.

TWO RITUALS FOR CARNEGIE FUNERAL

ASSOCIATES TO BE AT BIER

Ironmaster to be Buried Friday in Crypt in Sleepy Hollow Near Grave of Washington Irving.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 13.—The Rev. William Pierson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York, arrived at Curtis Hotel tonight. He is arranging the form for the funeral service that will be held tomorrow morning over the body of his late friend and parishioner, Andrew Carnegie, who died Monday morning at his country place, Shadowbrook, two miles west of here, at Lake Mahkenac.

The service will be an adaption of the Presbyterian burial service. Both Dr. Merrill and the Rev. Benson N. Wyman, pastor of the Lenox Congregational Church, will take part, giving the ritual of Scripture, reading prayers and psalms, which will be sung by the choir of the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York.

A mahogany coffin, covered with black broadcloth, specially made in New York, has plain gunmetal handles and trimmings. The plate is of solid silver. The inscription of the plate in script is, "Andrew Carnegie, born in Dunfermline, Scotland, Nov. 25, 1835. Died at Shadowbrook, Lenox, Mass., Aug. 11, 1919."

The choir of the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York has arrived in Lenox to take part in the service tomorrow. Clarence Dickinson, organist at that church, and also Professor of Music at the Union Theological Seminary, New York, will be at the organ in the great music hall.

The arrangements of the flowers will be by Robert Scott, the gardener at Shadowbrook, who was personally chosen by the late Mr. Carnegie to build his gardens and grow his blooms. All of the favorite garden flowers which the aged ironmaster loved will be used about the bier. There will be a blanket of heliotrope, the flowers from the Carnegie gardens, which will partly cover the coffin. The decorations of the great music hall, where the services will be held, will be largely white flowers.

All day the grounds at Shadowbrook were guarded, and no one not having cards for admittance was allowed to enter the grounds.

Until seven years ago the Carnegie family attended the Church of the Divine Paternity, Seventy-sixth Street and Central Park West, New York, which was Mrs. Carnegie's church before her marriage. Since going to the Brick Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Carnegie and her daughter, Mrs. Miller, became members of that body. Mr. Carnegie went there frequently until he became too feeble to attend the services. The Rev. Dr. Merrill, and the Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, officiated at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Miller in the Carnegie mansion, New York, last April. When Mr. Carnegie organized and endowed the Church Peace Union Dr. Merrill was appointed President of the Union.

Coming to Lenox tonight for the funeral were great men of affairs who had been connected in the steel enterprises with Mr. Carnegie. Charles M. Schwab, foremost of the former lieutenants of the steel king, arrived by automobile from New York. He was accompanied by a friend. Also arriving at Curtis Hotel, where the friends of Mr. Carnegie are being sheltered, were the Rev. Dr. Frederick Lynch of New York, former pastor of the Lenox Congregational Church; Elihu Root, Jr., Mrs. James Swinnerton B. Franks, Secretary of the Carnegie Foundation; Mr. Brooking, Mr. Woodward, Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation; Thomas Ware, Oliver Ricketson, Paul Kelly, Mrs. P. P. Kellar, Miss M. V. Kellar of Pittsburgh.

A press report sent from Lenox today asserting that because of doubt as to the religious belief of Mr. Carnegie the funeral had been delayed is said to be untrue by friends of Mr. Carnegie who have arrived here. Long ago Mr. Carnegie wrote and had published a pamphlet, "The Carnegie Anthology," which expresses his views of benefit of the Church and clearly expresses his belief in God. This pamphlet was published for private distribution.

In his book "The Gospel of Wealth" Mr. Carnegie praises the rich man who replaces an unsuitable country church with a permanent and beautiful structure. In reference to a church he writes: "Once within its massive circle its denizens live there an inner life more precious than the external, and all their ways are hallowed by the radiance which shines from afar upon this inner life, glorifying everything and keeping all right within."

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The body of Andrew Carnegie will be conveyed to the Sleepy Hollow Cemetery by automobile hearse and not by train from Lenox, according to word received today by the cemetery officials. The body is due to arrive Friday morning.

The Carnegie plot is the largest and costliest in the cemetery. It overlooks the Hudson and contains 13,000 square feet, studded with pine trees and covered with shrubbery. The Pocantico River flows along the east side of the plot, while a short distance away is the mausoleum of William Rockefeller and the plot of John D. Rockefeller. Nine hundred feet from the Carnegie plot lies the body of Washington Irving.

The Carnegie plot was bought three years ago by Mrs. Carnegie and her daughter. A crypt of reinforced concrete with hollow tiles was built at a cost of $40,000. It contains space for only two bodies.

CRAMPTON WEDS ON LEAVE.

Board of Education May Investigate Director's Conduct.

Some time ago Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Director of Physical Traning in the public schools of this city, represented to City Superintendent Ettinger that his health was poor, and asked for a leave of absence for its restoration. Upon the recommendation of Dr. Ettinger the Board of Education granted Dr. Crampton the leave with half pay. At yesterday's meeting of the board this action was rescinded on motion of Arthur S. Somers, and Dr. Ettinger was requested to report on the representation made to him by Dr. Crampton, with a view, if necessary, of preferring charges against him.

It is alleged that Dr. Crampton, upon obtaining the leave of absence, went to Reno, where, it is asserted, he got a divorce from his wife. It is further alleged that while receiving half pay from the board he obtained a lucrative position in a Western sanitarium. Recently he came to New York and is alleged to have married a clerk in his office. The wedding is said to have taken place at Hollis, L. I. Several of the members of the Board of Education, it is said, received wedding cards from him.

TELLS OF POLICE WORK.

Commissioner Enright Explains New York Methods to Chicago Officials.

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright was questioned for several hours yesterday by city officials of Chicago concerning New York police. The visitors included the police committee of the Chicago City Council. The Commissioner described the organization detail of the present department and told of the administrations when the police boards were composed of either three or four heads.

"I told the Western officials that under certain circumstances the administration by a single commissioner was the best," said Commissioner Enright. "I invited them to send a special committee here for a careful study of the police organization from the inside, as the details were so numerous and the administration so large and intricate that it was impossible to get a working idea of them from a few hours' interview."

The Chicago officials came here from an inspection of the Buffalo Police Department, and their tour will take them to Philadelphia and Washington. The visitors will be entertained at luncheon at Police Headquarters today by Commissioner Enright and his deputies.

LEAVES JAIL IN TRIUMPH.

Band and Parade Escort Memphis Editor Sentenced for Contempt.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 13.—Edward T. Leech, editor of The Memphis Press, emerged triumphantly from the Shelby County Jail tonight, where he had been confined for ten days for contempt of court. A parade with a band marked his exit, just as it had marked his entrance into the jail.

As a protest against his imprisonment, there was a mass meeting in Court Square in the heart of the business district tonight. Speeches were made by leading citizens, including a former Mayor.

The imprisonment of Leech attracted widespread attention. He was convicted and sentenced for writing and publishing an editorial concerning a court decision on the personnel of the Shelby County election board. The editorial was held to be in contempt of Chancellor Perry.

Governor Smith at Foley Funeral.

The funeral of James Foley, father of State Senator James A. Foley, was held yesterday morning at the Church of the Nativity, Second Avenue and Twenty-second Street. Fifty-eight automobiles followed the hearse to Calvary Cemetery. Governor Smith and Charles F. Murphy acted as honorary pallbearers with Justices La Fetra and Hoffmann, and Philip Donahue. Many of the most prominent Tammany men were present.

RECEIVER ORDERED FOR MORSE CONCERN

HEINZES BACK OF ACTION

Alleged Mismanagement and Misrepresentation in Affairs of Corporation.

Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss yesterday appointed Kerner Easton receiver of the Minneapolis Steamship Company, following charges of mismanagement and misrepresentation made against Charles W. Morse and others in the company by Luther Martin. The court also signed an order restraining Morse and his associates from interfering with the receiver and from carrying out plans to wind up the corporation. The receiver's bond was set at $40,000.

The company is owner of the steamship Minneapolis, a former lake ship which was converted into an ocean carrier. Martin was the record holder of stock in the concern, the actual owners of which are Otto C. Heinze and Arthur P. Heinze. Otto Heinze alleged in an affidavit that Morse induced him to subscribe by saying he was organizing a corporation to buy the Minneapolis, to be capitalized at $140,000; that he and his associates were paying cash for their stock, and that the cost of converting the ship into an ocean vessel would be $20,000.

He declared that Morse, instead of paying cash, got the stock on notes of the company for $120,000, and that the cost of reconstructing the vessel was $100,000. Heinze said Mr. Morse and his associate sold the vessel for $455,000 Dec. 26, representing to the buyers that they had created no liens against it, whereas it is mortgaged to the Equitable Trust Company for $199,000, and $230,000, which includes interest, is due.

This sale was withdrawn later, and a sale for $570,000 made to the American-Canadian Corporation. This transaction also fell through.

Mr. Morse denied misrepresentation or mismanagement, and said he has acted for the best interest of the corporation. The balance sheet of the company shows a deficit of $96,807. Justice Hotchkiss has granted a similar application by Martin with respect to the steamship Huron, also purchased by a Morse syndicate.

RECEIVER FOR STEEL CO.

Seaboard Corporation of Pennsylvania Behind in Obligations.

Federal Judge John C. Knox yesterday appointed Stanton S. Freeman receiver of the Seaboard Steel and Manganese Corporation on the application of Philip E. Wright and other creditors. Mr. Wright alleged that the company has two blast furnaces at Temple, Berks County, Penn., but that they have not been operated for several months, with the result that the book value of the corporation, which amounted to $1,720,694 on Jan. 1, had declined to $950,000.

The application for the receiver also stated that Mr. Wright's claim amounts to $11,419.90 for merchandise, that the claims of other creditors total $150,000, and that the corporation owes to note creditors $558,000, which is guaranteed by the Guaranty Trust Company. It is alleged that the corporation is without funds to meet its obligations, and that it is not known whether the assets are sufficient to liquidate the indebtedness. William R. Hopkins, President of the corporation, concurred in the application.

Will It Affect Other Lines?

The increasing use of kid and other soft leathers for the making and trimming of women's garments is bringing up the question here as to what effect it will have on other lines. Latest fashion reports from Deauville say that whole sports dresses made of colored kid were worn at the recent races there, and the Paris cables tell of leather dewdabs on many of the new frocks. In view of the reported general scarcity of kid, which there is no reason to doubt, the question has arisen as to just what effect this vogue will have on the supply available for the glove and shoe trades. It is also asked if the use of colored outer garments of kid will bring about a revival of the vari-colored kid shoes that were so much in vogue here a few years ago, and also serve to increase the color ranges of kid glove offerings in the near future.

Large Buyers Reducing Purchases.

Although the smaller retailers are said to be going ahead as usual in their buying operations for the coming season, it is admitted in certain quarters of the wholesale dry goods trade that buyers for the larger stores are putting on the brakes. It appears, however, that many of the latter are not lessening their purchases of their own volition, but that they are being subjected to pressure on the part of merchandise men, who apparently see reason for caution in the official fight on high prices and the "work and save" recommendation of the head of the Federal Reserve Board. It is asserted that this action on the part of the merchandise men has in many cases been taken contrary to the judgment of the buyers, who know market conditions first hand and who can see little chance of prices dropping materially enough to affect their Fall showing. Particularly is this the case of buyers of women's garments.

Jewelry Demand Is General.

The demand for all kinds of jewelry at the moment is so active that it is hard to pick a winner, but reports from makers of the better classes of these goods indicate that the call for rings is particularly large and that bar pins are gaining ground rapidly at the expense of lavallieres. Price is no obstacle in the way of sales in cases where prompt deliveries can be guaranteed, and concerns that are lucky enough to be able to ship from stock are "cleaning up." From all accounts, however, there are not many in that fortunate position. The question of obtaining an adequate supply of labor is the only really disturbing factor in the present situation, but in more than one quarter it looms mountain high.

Gray Goods Stiffen a Little.

While sales of 38½-inch 64-60s for August shipment were made in the local gray goods market by second hands yesterday at 16 cents, the lowest level reached in some time, the market was regarded a bit stiffer in that quite sizable bids of 15¾ cents for these goods were not accepted. Other sales from second hands during the day, all of which were for nearby delivery, included 39-inch 80 squares at 26 cents, 39-inch 68-72s at 19¾ cents, and 38½-inch 60-48s at 13¾ cents. Not much was done in the rest of the market, although some business by second hands was reported in 5.50 yard sheetings at 13½ cents. First-hand prices all through the market were nominally firm, though signs of an undercurrent of weakness were said to be visible in certain quarters.

Bearing of Prices on Furs.

As a result of the desire of the garment manufacturers to keep down the price of their merchandise, it is believed that low-priced furs will increase their vogue. Officials of the Metropolitan Fur Exchange are predicting a very active market on reasonably priced skins. It is pointed out that the demand may be expected to broaden out and take in other furs that are in the popular-priced class. For instance, the record prices for nutria and skunk will react, it is understood, to the benefit of beaver and rabbit. For the latter named fur, it is believed that the highest prices yet obtained in the country will be paid during the next auction of the Exchange, which begins on Aug. 12.

Garment Men Oppose Cost Marking.

Backing up the protest which the National Retail Dry Goods Association will lodge against the proposed licensing of retailers and the regulation compelling them to put the cost price on goods, the National Garment Retailers' Association will also formulate plans for attacking such legislation at a meeting to be held next Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock at the Waldorf Astoria. The association has pledged its support to the Government in the effort being made to reduce the high cost of living. It is believed, however, that nothing would be accomplished by the drastic legislation along the line of having the stores mark the cost price on goods.

Not Opposed to Justified Rise.

The method of dealing with advances asked by manufacturers and wholesalers was outlined yesterday by the head of one prominent retail concern. In cases where the relations between the seller and customer have been long standing, this retailer sees no objection to paying an increase over the original price where such an advance is justified. To be justifiable he believes that the manufacturer ought to produce evidence that production costs have been raised to a point where there is no profit to him in turning out merchandise at the price he originally quoted.

House-to-House Canvass.

As indicative of the labor shortage in the needle trades, the experience of one shirt manufacturer seems to indicate that the condition is growing serious. Various means employed to increase the number of operatives in the factory of this concern proved of no avail. Finally the employment manager decided on a house-to-house canvass, which he made in an automobile. The net results of his trip were eight operators, so he has given up this strategy.

Arriving at Historic Quebec
Every hour of this wonderful all-water journey has its revelation of beauty and historic interest—Niagara, the Sublime, Toronto—"The Queen City of Canada," the Venetian-like Thousand Islands, the thrilling descent of the marvelous rapids, the Canadian Metropolis Montreal, the miracle-working shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré—an hour from Quebec, the stupendous Capes "Trinity" and "Eternity"—higher than Gibraltar—are all on this route.

COMMENT ON TRANSIT PLEAS

Mayor Hylan Sees Threat in Request for Police Protection in Case of Strike.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company yesterday announced that it had granted an increase in wages of 10 per cent., beginning Sunday, to its operating employes. Job E. Hedges, receiver for the New York Railways Company, recommended a similar increase to surface car employes in a letter to Federal Judge Mayer, who took the matter under advisement.

Leaders of the Amalgamated Association, who directed the Brooklyn strike and are organizing surface, subway, and elevated employes in Manhattan, said yesterday that they recognized this increase on the part of the two companies as a war move, and that it would not interfere with their plans for organizing the men and presenting further demands. Louis Fridiger, counsel for the association, said that the action of the two companies was a violation of the promise given by the company and union officials to make no change in the present situation until Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon had returned from Washington, where he is to testify today before the Federal Commission on Street Railways.

Receiver Hedges' Statement.

Mr. Hedges made the following statement yesterday:

"A regularly constituted committee of the Brotherhood of New York Railways' Employes presented to me yesterday a demand for an increase of wages of 10 per cent. This demand I presented to Judge Mayer, with my recommendation that such increase of 10 per cent. be granted. Judge Mayer replied to me by the attached letter."

The following reply of Judge Mayer was made public:

United States District Court.
Chambers of Judge Mayer,
Aug. 13, 1919.

Hon. Job E. Hedges,
Receiver, N. Y. Railways,
165 Broadway,
New York City.

My dear Mr. Receiver:

Regarding the request of the Committee of the New York Railways' employes, made of you for an increase of wages to the extent of 10 per cent. to take effect Sunday next at midnight, and your recommendation, in view of present living cost, that the same be granted, I beg to say that I shall take the same under careful consideration and let you know my decision promptly.

I fully appreciate existing conditions of living. At the same time, it is a matter of great importance in the interest of the employes and of the receivership that I should carefully consider the financial result, in view of the present condition of the receivership.

As such an increase could at best be possible only out of such increased revenues as may result from the two-cent transfers permitted by the order of Commissioner Nixon, I feel that it is only right that I should confer with the Commissioner. Such a conference seems to me to be both proper and desirable, in view of his order in respect of transfers and in view of his jurisdiction.

I understand that he is leaving for Washington to testify before the Federal Commission which is examining into the affairs of the street railways and will not return before Friday, at which time I shall promptly take up the matter with him and thereafter at once communicate with you.

Yours very truly,
JULIUS M. MAYER,
District Judge.

Amalgamated Will Go Ahead.

Louis Fridiger, counsel for the Amalgamated Association, said:

"We are very glad that the men will get this increase, although it is a small one. It will make no change in our plans. It is peculiar that these companies, which tell the men that they have not money enough to grant themselves, suddenly find, when the Amalgamated Association comes here, that they are able to do so.

"This move on the part of the two companies is a violation of the agreement with Judge Mayer to do nothing to change the situation until Commissioner Nixon has a chance to return from Washington and confer with Judge Mayer again. It is double-crossing us, but we will stand by our word just the same.

"If we desired to have done so, we could have called out all of the men on the New York transportation systems and tied the city up completely, but we gave our pledge to Judge Mayer not to do so and kept it. The other side, however, has taken advantage of this situation to attempt to discredit us. They seek to make this appear that the grant of an increase was made solely in response to the request of their own men, but it is strange that they do not seem disposed to listen to the requests of their own men, except when we are here organizing. We intend to ask for pay at the rate of 75 cents an hour for our men and this move of the companies will not change our program."

The request for an increase was made to Vice President Frank Hedley of the Interborough by M. J. Mangan, President of the organization of New York Railways employes, which is not affiliated with outside organizations. The request on Receiver Hedges was made by P. J. Connolly, a motorman of the Sixth Avenue elevated, acting President of the organized Interborough employes. The requests were made last night.

Louis Fridiger held a three-hour conference yesterday with Public Service Commissioner Nixon before he started for Washington, and later had a talk with Federal Judge Mayer regarding the settlement of the strike of the B. R. T. employes.

It was stated at the Interborough offices that the 10 per cent. increase would add $1,500,000 a year to the labor cost of operating the subways. The clerical force is not benefited by the increase, which applies only to the men actually engaged on trains and in stations.

Official Comment on Transit Letters.

The letters sent by street railway officials to Mayor Hylan concerning police protection for a threatened strike of employes, which the Mayor forwarded to District Attorney Swann on Aug. 11, were examined by the prosecutor yesterday, who said:

"The language of the various letters and the resolution that the Mayor has forwarded to me bear a striking resemblance to each other in diction and style of expression, and there is also an extraordinary coincidence in their identity of date. The District Attorney, however, cannot prejudge the case before he completes the thorough investigation now in progress."

The Mayor, in his letter to the District Attorney enclosing the communications from the street railway officials, wrote: "Taken together they seem to have a single inspiration and a common purpose, amounting to criminal conspiracy to compel the city authorities by threats of one kind or another to give the railway companies extra fare."

Mr. Swann said that he and his chief assistant, A. J. Talley, were giving careful consideration to the letter of Mayor Hylan and the correspondence sent with it to ascertain if any feature of the latter constitutes "a distinct threat" that is prohibited by the penal law, as referred to by the Mayor in his comment on the letters.

"It is the Mayor's opinion, according to his letter," said the District Attorney, "that these men have offered inducements to the employes of the traction companies with the intent to cause them to strike, the men having been told that if an increase of fares to eight cents is granted to the traction companies they will allow their employes a certain small part of it in the form of a raise of wages."

The communications received by the Mayor were two from Job E. Hedges, receiver of the New York Railways Company, and one from President Fazakerley of the New York Railways Company, and one from an official of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

German Syndicate Buying Argentine Land for Colonists

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 13.—Baron von dem Bussche Haddenhausen, former German Minister to Argentina, who arrived here early this month, represents a German colonization syndicate which is buying land to accommodate Germans who are coming to Argentina, the newspaper El Diario says today.

The newspaper asserts that the Baron and his fellow agents have already bought 12,000 hectares (29,640 acres) and are actively exchanging cablegrams with Berlin.

UPHOLDS 8-CENT FARE.

Report Says Interborough Must Get It to Meet Payments.

Nothing less than an 8-cent fare on the lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company will suffice to pay fixed charges and payments to the city and the company as agreed upon in contracts between them, according to the preliminary report on the condition of the company, which was prepared by Stone & Webster, public utilities engineers. The report was sent out yesterday to holders of Interborough-Metropolitan 4½ per cent. gold bonds by the Protective Committee, of which Grayson M. P. Murphy, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, is Chairman.

The investigation which was made in co-operation with Price, Waterhouse & Co., public accountants, showed that in the fiscal year just ended earnings of the subway and elevated lines fell short of fixed charges by more than $3,800,000. The report estimates that in the four years which will end July 1, 1924, earnings will fall short of fixed charges by more than $10,000,000, and that $7,400,000 will be required before the end of that period for capital purposes.

This makes the total cash requirement of the properties in the next five years $17,454,000 in addition to earnings. The estimate was based on present fares, wages, expenses, taxes, and fixed charges.

On the general traction situation the report says:

We find that the management of Interborough Rapid Transit Company is able and efficient. The condition of the properties is excellent. They have been thoroughly maintained and are in first-class operating condition, and there is practically no deferred maintenance. We should point out that while expenditures for current maintenance seem to be adequate, the reserves for depreciation and obsolescence heretofore accumulated have been exhausted, and no reserves for that account are being made and none are provided for in the estimates of earnings given below.

To enable it adequately to serve its territory and attain the estimated earnings, we believe it will be necessary for the company to make additional expenditures for capital purposes, chiefly equipment, amounting to approximately $7,400,000 during the next five years. This may be reduced, possibly about $3,000,000, by savings from the construction fund.

It is manifest that a five-cent fare falls far short of providing the cost of furnishing a ride, and that a considerable increase in fares is necessary to provide for fixed charges and the payments to the city and the company contemplated by the contracts between them. In our opinion, nothing short of an eight-cent fare on both elevated and subway lines will accomplish this purpose.

The financial condition of this company is not unique. Traction properties throughout the country are faced by similar conditions, due to the great increase in the cost of labor and material as the result of the war.

In the circular sent out by the Protective Committee, bondholders were notified that they might deposit their bonds with the Guaranty Trust Company, without penalty, until Sept. 15, 1919. It said more than 47 per cent. of the bonds already have been deposited. The circular added that the report set the aggregate cash requirements of the company about $1,600,000 higher than officers of the company had reported.

SAY 10,000 PAINTERS QUIT.

Brotherhood, Including Decorators and Paperhangers, Ask $8 a Day.

Ten thousand men have joined the strike declared yesterday by Council No. 9 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers of America, according to figures given out yesterday by Philip Zausner, Secretary of the council. The brotherhood refuses to treat with the Master Painters and Decorators of New York City on the ground that they represent only 10 per cent. of the employers of the city, and demand a wage of $8 per day from individual employers, on a basis of eight hours per day and a five-day week.

One hundred and forty employers, Mr. Zausner stated yesterday, have agreed to the new wage, and as a result 1,500 of the council's members will be permitted to return to work today.

The Association of Master Painters and Decorators gave out the following statement after a meeting held yesterday afternoon:

On April 1, 1919, the Master Painters and the Brotherhood of Painters entered into an agreement whereby the rate of wage up to Dec. 31, 1919, would be $6 per day. This agreement is still in force as far as the Master Painters' Association is concerned.

Now comes an ultimatum in the form of a demand for $8.00 per day for a five-day week. This notice was served on the master painters as individuals, the association being ignored.

The association feels that the present high cost of living justifies an increase in wages, and we are and have been willing to offer a substantial increase. Since the ultimatum was sent out we have tried to get in touch with those in authority in the brotherhood, but without success. They absolutely refuse to meet with us, and there the matter stands.

The master painters have obtained the services of B. M. Squiers, a representative of the United States Department of Labor in this city, and he is trying to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the dispute.

To Aid Building Fund.

Colonel H. A. Guinzburg, Chairman of the Campaign Committee of the United Building Fund Campaign, announces that Arthur Lehman of the Executive Committee today offered to subscribe $5,000 to the building fund for every million dollars of subscriptions obtained throughout the campaign. It is also announced that a luncheon will be given tomorrow at the Hotel Biltmore by William Goldman, Louis J. Robertson, and Henry F. Samstag of the Committee on Trade Canvass to all the Trades Chairmen who are conducting a personal canvass among 102 New York trades and industries for subscriptions to this fund.

PUSH DRIVE TO AID BRITISH SEAMEN

Americans in England Hope to Raise One-tenth of $50,000,000 Fund.

A GET-TOGETHER LUNCHEON

British Guest Says America Owes the Tribute, Having 'Collared' Shipping Facilities.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—W. H. Appleton, Chairman of "America's Tribute to British Merchant Seamen," opened a campaign to raise among the Americans in England $5,000,000 of the $50,000,000 which it is expected will be gathered from Americans throughout the world with a luncheon today at which J. Havelock Wilson and Sir Edward Nicholl, Presidents of the British Merchants' and Seamen's Leagues, were the principal guests. Mr. Appleton explained the project and read a message from President Wilson indorsing it.

J. Havelock Wilson pointed out that the amount to be raised was a vast sum, adding: "Whether we succeed or not, the effort will show the spirit animating America's attitude toward British seamen—and that's what counts." He said that America recognized the great service of these seamen during the war, not only to Great Britain but to the world. He continued:

"You have heard some people in America refer to the English as grasping and selfish. Here, some Englishmen say that America is a nation of hoodlums, out for dollars, and to knock out this country commercially. Now, the object of this movement is to bring together the right-thinking people of both countries."

Sir Edward Nicholl created a ripple of surprise in his reference to the tribute to British seamen, when he bluntly said: "America ought to do it, because Americans have collared most of the shipping."

Sir Edward paused, noticing the profound silence of the listeners, and then added: "By right, I suppose, anyhow, the American have benefited to a large extent in securing shipping." He lamented Great Britain's decreased mercantile marine, and continued: "We must remain the largest ship-owning nation: otherwise we are doomed."

Mr. Appleton read a message from Admiral Baron Beresford, retired, paying a tribute to British seamen and expressing his gratitude for America's appreciation of their pluck and work in the war.

INSPECTOR TUNNEY RETIRED

Inspector Thomas J. Tunney, formerly head of the bomb squad at Police Headquarters, was retired from the force yesterday on a surgeon's certificate of disability, after twenty-two years' service. For more than a year and a half during the war with Germany Inspector Tunney was away from the department in service of the Government. His work in tracing down German plots was very highly commended in Washington when he returned to this city.

Inspector Tunney was very well known at headquarters during Commissioner Woods's administration for his work in organizing the bomb squad, a force of twenty detectives, all of them experts in hunting dynamiters. Under Tunney, who was then a Captain, the members of the bomb squad knew practically every bomb plotter and anarchist in this city. When the United States entered the world war so efficient was their work that American transports were able to leave this port in perfect safety for the other side.

When he came to the department last Fall the work on which Inspector Tunney's reputation had been built was entirely ignored by Commissioner Enright, who placed the ex-army officer in charge of the pickpocket squad. Sergeant Barnitz, who had been second in command under Tunney in the bomb squad, and who was an officer in the navy intelligence section, was assigned to the uniformed force when he came back at about the same time.

After he had left the army the Government asked for Tunney's services again, and he received two months' leave to help finish the work of clearing the nation of all traces of German spy plots. Returning a second time to the Police Department the first of last January, Tunney applied for retirement on the grounds of physical disability, asserting that his Government work had undermined his health. The orders for his retirement came yesterday.

UNION HEAD TURNED DOWN.

Fails to See Queens Borough President on Wage Demand.

Engineers, draftsmen, building experts, and technical men in all branches of the city service are to be called together in a day or so under the direction of leaders of the American Federation of Labor, to consider steps to enforce upon city officials their demand for a $500 increase in pay.

The demand has been made by Local 16,338, Union of Technical Men, and a statement of the demand has been filed with members of the Board of Estimate, according to B. L. Schneider, President of the union. Mr. Schneider sought in vain at the Borough Hall in Long Island City yesterday to see Borough President Connolly of Queens.

Representatives of the union and President Connolly have been at odds since the latter refused to fix a date to meet union delegates to discuss the demands. In a statement late yesterday Mr. Schneider said:

"All factory workers in this State have been advanced 76 per cent. in the last four years. Other organized trades have been advanced 100 per cent. In this period salaries of the technical men employed by the city have advanced 5 per cent. We are requesting only a 31 per cent. increase, or $500.

"President Connolly has said that in some cases an increase of $500 would be justified, while in others it would not. He does not seem to understand that we are asking for a readjustment of salaries to meet living conditions. If some men are entitled to special recognition we will heartily approved that they receive consideration in addition to the flat increase of $500. We hope that Mayor Hylan will soon arrange a conference in answer to our request to him."

SHIP ENGINEERS GET MORE.

40 Per Cent. Increase Is Granted to Federal Board Employes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 13.—An advance in wages approximating 40 per cent. has been granted to engineers employed on Shipping Board ships, it was announced today by Bruce Gibson, Chief of the Engineering Department of the United States Shipping Board, at the conclusion of a conference with engineers.

The new wage rate, it was said, is divided into five classes, based on ship tonnage.

Cespedes Arrives in Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 13, (Havas.)—Carlos M. Cespedes, Cuban Minister to the United States, has arrived in Paris. He will remain here several days before going to Italy.

Viscount Grey Accepts the Appointment Of British Ambassador Here Temporarily

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Viscount Grey, former British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has agreed to represent the British Government at Washington pending the appointment of a permanent Ambassador.

Lord Grey was consenting to go to Washington temporarily, Andrew Bonar Law, Government spokesman, said in the House of Commons today, in order to deal particularly with questions arising out of the peace settlement.

Mr. Bonar Law added that a permanent Ambassador to the United States would be appointed early next year.

The House, Mr. Bonar Law said, would share with the Government in appreciating the patriotic action of Viscount Grey, which, in the opinion of the Government, was of the highest value in its influence on relations between the two Governments and the British and American people.

Commander Kenworthy asked why Lord Grey was not appointed permanently. In reply, Mr. Bonar Law said the Government would be only too glad if Lord Grey would accept a permanent post, but every one who knew of the former Foreign Secretary's disabilities, would share in the satisfaction over his present action.

T. P. O'Connor, Nationalist, of the Scotland Division of Liverpool, and editor of T. P.'s Journal, asked what instructions would be given Viscount Grey to improve relations between Great Britain and America by the settlement and conciliation of the Irish question. Mr. Bonar Law replied that he was sure Lord Grey would do all in his power to improve in every respect where improvement was necessary the relations between America and Great Britain.

Viscount Grey, it is learned, has not yet decided when he will go to Washington, although announcement of his plans is expected soon.

His poor eyesight, which has given him much trouble, caused him to consent to only a short term as Ambassador. A year ago it was heard he might become blind, but since then his eyes have improved although he still does but little reading or writing.

WASHINGTON GRATIFIED.

Many Complicated Subjects Awaiting Discussion Between Nations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Questions rising out of the peace settlement which Bonar Law announced in the House of Commons today would require the attention of Lord Grey, the new British Ambassador to the United States, are understood here to include a readjustment of the complicated financial relations between Great Britain and the United States growing out of loans and credits advanced by America. There also must be an almost immediate recasting of many existing treaties between the two countries, necessitated by the radical changes following the war. Many of these conventions date back for more than a century and were said by officials to have been applied to modern conditions only by the exercise of the greatest liberality of construction. The La Follette shipping law swept away completely one treaty relating to the rights and duties of sailors and port authorities, and this never has been replaced.

In the early days of the war there were many issues between the State Department and the British Foreign Office growing out of the British blockade and many claims for damages by American ship owners and merchants, pending when the United States entered the war, still technically are open. Lord Grey was the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs when these issues arose and conducted the negotiations for his Government.

There has been a suggestion, too, that conditions in Mexico were such as to demand consideration on an international basis in view of the large interests of foreign investors, and especially British, in that country. For a number of years the British Government has refrained from enforcing demands upon Mexico for reparations for the killing of British subjects and for heavy monetary losses inflicted on British individuals, preferring to leave to the United States the adoption of measures to meet these conditions. It is believed now that one of the first duties of Viscount Grey will be to attempt a permanent settlement of the British issues with the Mexican Government after reaching a satisfactory understanding with the American State Department.

Announcement that Lord Grey was to come to Washington was received with keen gratification by Secretary Lansing and other high American officials. There was regret, however, that Viscount Grey's service in Washington was to be only temporary, as it was felt that the successful treatment of the many important international subjects which will devolve upon the new Ambassador could be best assured only through a reasonably permanent tenure in office of the negotiations.

BRITISH PRESS PRAISES GREY.

Chronicle Says He Is Specially Qualified to Treat with Americans.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Aug. 14.—The Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent says:

"The announcement that Lord Grey was going to Washington was received with unqualified pleasure in Parliament and the hope was general that Lord Grey's physical infirmity may be mitigated by time and that he may become the regular British representative at Washington."

The Chronicle editorially says that there is no statesman in Europe whose reputation for honor, disinterestedness and loftiness of purpose stands higher.

He has the cause of the League of Nations at heart, the paper says, "and with his rare tact and knowledge is specially qualified to take counsel with President Wilson and those Americans who are not satisfied with all the terms of the covenant."

The Daily News says: "No statesman in this country commands more genuine respect and regard than the former foreign secretary and it would be hard to find any one whose personal qualities would commend him more to American opinion."

"But," it says, "to choose for an emergency six months' appointment to deal with questions arising out of peace the one statesman who for two years and more has been more conspicuously out of touch than any other with the active political life is, to say the least, a singular proceeding."

The Daily News admits, however, that so far as the question of the League of Nations is concerned Great Britain could have no better representative.

$223,500 SECURITIES VANISH WITH YOUTHS

SATCHELS FOUND EMPTY

One Employe Under Surpended Sentence for $32,000 Theft Only a Few Months Ago.

Harry Willham, 21 years old, a messenger boy, who stole $32,000 worth of Liberty bonds early this year and was released on a suspended sentence by Judge Malone in General Sessions, disappeared Tuesday, it was learned yesterday, with another batch of Liberty bonds, worth $45,500, entrusted to him, this time, by the brokerage firm of Simmons & Slade of 5 Nassau Street.

At about the same time, Benjamin H. Binkowitz, 25 years old, another messenger, disappeared with securities valued at $178,000, entrusted to him by Richard Whitney & Company of 14 Wall Street, making a total of $223,500 taken during the day. Binkowitz was bonded for $100,000 by the National Surety Company. Both messengers are reported to have received salaries of $60 a month.

Willham, who was known as Millhand at the offices of his employers, was sent out with the bonds to be cashed at three stock brokerage houses in the neighborhood. He had eighty-nine $500 bonds and one $1,000 bond. When he failed to return an investigation was started, and the valise in which the bonds had been placed was found empty, lying behind a counter in the offices of Simmons & Slade.

Binkowitz was sent out to deliver to Kidder & Peabody at 13 Wall Street, directly across the street from his employers' office, $163,000 in Victory bonds, $7,000 in Liberty bonds of a previous issue, and $8,000 worth of negotiable securities. When he failed to return a telephone call to Kidder & Peabody disclosed that the bonds had not been delivered. Later in the day the satchel which Binkowitz had carried was found empty on the sidewalk in Exchange Place.

Deputy Commissioner William J. Lahey issued the following statement yesterday:

"If everybody holding valuable Liberty bonds would have them registered, it would be easy for the police to recover them after they are stolen. As a matter of fact, the bonds, if registered, would not be stolen.

"The Police Department has been warning financial houses in Wall Street and the different institutions and brokerage firms that more care should be taken in employing boys, and that their references and standing should be investigated before they are employed and intrusted with valuable bonds. For instance, take the messenger boy Harry Willham. He was brought back from Los Angeles, April 9, after stealing $32,000 worth of Liberty bonds from the brokerage firm of Suethwayer & Cohn of 52 Exchange Place. Shortly afterward he was arraigned before Judge Malone in General Sessions and received a suspended sentence. It doesn't look as if his record had been looked into very carefully. Binkowitz is being investigated as to his past performances.

"These thefts are what are known as 'inside jobs,' and it is utterly impossible for the police to suppress them unless the brokers give us a helping hand."

DELAY COLOMBIAN TREATY.

Fall Submits Reservations to Protect American Oil Rights.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—When the $25,000,000 Colombian treaty held up because of a recent nationalization decree affecting American oil interests in Colombia, was discussed by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today, action was again postponed, and a subcommittee headed by Senator Fall, Republican, New Mexico, submitted a reservation framed to protect American rights.

A copy is understood to have been cabled to Bogota by the State Department.

ST. JOHN'S CHEERS PRINCE AT REGATTA

SAILS FOR ST. JOHN, N. B.

No Decision Reached as to Date and Length of His Visit Here.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 13.—The shores of Quidi Vidi Lake, two miles from the city, where a few weeks ago crowds gathered to watch the start of the first successful nonstop transatlantic airplane flight, were again thronged with enthusiastic Newfoundlanders today when the Prince of Wales, on his official visit to this colony, went to the lake for the annual regatta.

Crowds were waiting long before the royal guest was due and when he arrived every point of vantage was occupied. As he appeared a wave of cheering swept along the line, gathering force until thousands were yelling themselves hoarse.

After a program which kept him up until long after midnight yesterday the Prince slept at Government House in the room occupied in 1860 by his grandfather, King Edward VII., when, as Prince of Wales, he visited Newfoundland. Early this morning the Prince went aboard the British cruiser Dragon for breakfast, and at 10 o'clock made his second official landing in this city. A crowd greeted him, repeating the enthusiastic welcome of yesterday all along the route to the lake.

In attending the regatta the Prince was again following in the footsteps of his grandfather, who was the guest of honor at a similar event sixty years ago.

The Prince and his party occupied a special stand, and greatly enjoyed the spectacle, as the entire course was visible. After three races had been rowed the royal party drove back to the landing place and embarked for St. John's, N. B. The Renown sailed promptly at noon.

On his way through the village of Quidi Vidi, a typical fishing hamlet, the Prince was greatly interested in the fish curing process, which was explained to him in detail. An arch had been erected by the villagers in his honor.

After the Prince of Wales had left the lake a sudden wind squall overturned the rowboat Nellie, and one of her crew, Charles Peters, a returned soldier, was drowned.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—No decision has been reached as to the date of the visit of the Prince of Wales to the United States or the length of his stay there, it was said here today. Definite arrangements will not be made until after the Prince's arrival in Canada, but he is not expected to go to the United States until the close of his Canadian tour, which will take him as far west as British Columbia.

AOSTA MAY VISIT US.

King of Italy's Cousin Also Plans Trip to China and Japan.

ROME, Aug. 13.—The Duke of Aosta, eldest cousin of King Victor Emmanuel and commander of the Italian Third Army during the war, it became known today, probably will soon make a visit to the United States.

From the United States he will go to China and Japan.

A dispatch from Rome on July 12 said that plans for a world tour by the Italian Crown Prince had been revived, and that he would leave for North America in the Fall. The Duke of Aosta is 50 years old, and the oldest brother of the Duke of the Abruzzi, Vice Admiral of the Italian Navy, and well known in the United States.

FINDS SIBERIANS DISTRUST AMERICA

Phil Norton Declares That We Are Unpopular with All Classes.

BLAMES BROKEN PROMISES

Acting Director of Information Committee Sees Japan Penetrating Country Economically.

The United States was the most popular of all nations with the Siberians when we entered Siberia in the first place after joining the Allies, but this country is now hated and ridiculed from Ekaterinburg to Vladivostok, according to Phil Norton of 125 Riverside Drive, Acting Director of the Russian Division of the Committee on Public Information, who arrived here recently from Siberia.

The United States is unpopular for a variety of reasons, which include curious accidents and anti-American propaganda, but mainly because Americans made great promises and preparations to benefit Siberia and then did practically nothing to fulfill Siberian expectations, Mr. Norton said.

At present, Mr. Norton asserted, Japan is penetrating every corner of Siberia economically and obtaining such control of ports, transportation, and marketing facilities that, if American business is inactive another year, American firms will find difficulty in doing business in Siberia except through Japanese intermediaries.

"The people of Siberia were so enthusiastic about America, when our representatives first entered the country," he said, "and such big demonstrations took place in their honor, that the other Allies became jealous. This popularity was lost through a series of mistakes and accidents and turned into indignation and dislike by a propaganda of promises to the people of Siberia, followed by our apparent abandonment of our good intentions toward them.

Resented Prinkipo Plan.

"The word that this country had taken the lead in inviting the Bolsheviki to negotiate at Prinkipo caused a wave of indignation from one end of Siberia to another. The non-Bolsheviki looked on the Bolsheviki as murderers and worse, and revolted at the idea of treating with them. As a matter of fact, the Bolsheviki are worse than they are painted in the most sensational accounts you have received in this country. So far from there being any exaggeration of Bolshevist horrors, no writer has in his most sensational descriptions been able to equal the reality. America has been under suspicion from the time the Prinkipo plan was suggested, and this has been deepened by the absence of any clear-cut policy since then.

"What faith Siberians still held in this country was destroyed by a wholesale breaking of promises. Every American in Siberia for any purpose, when asked what America was going to do for Siberia, would make ambitious promises in behalf of the War Trade Board. None of these promises was ever fulfilled.

"We were going to feed and clothe every man, woman, and child in Siberia, according to American promises. Then the War Trade Board went out of existence, with nothing done.

"Such promises by individuals might not have caused so much damage, but the War Trade Board officially asked the Committee on Public Information to get data on the needs of the multitude of villages in Siberia, in the way of clothing and other necessaries. This was laboriously gathered by the Russians at our request and transmitted to the Publicity Committee, but by the time the data were received the War Trade Board had gone out of business and had no use for the figures. The Committee on Public Information in Siberia was kept busy from then on, explaining why they took such information, if they didn't want to do anything with it.

Suspicious of Our Policy.

"The harm done to the United States by such occurrences was increased by the fact that the United States had no definite policy in Siberia, and the Siberians were kept in bewilderment as to what were our real intentions. They could not make out what we were doing and were all the more suspicious on that account."

Mr. Norton said that anti-American feeling and suspicion of all Americans grew to such an extent that even the Y. M. C. A. and the Red Cross were regarded by the average Russians as sinister anti-Russian movements. The triangular insigne of the Y. M. C. A., he said, was commonly supposed to be an emblem of Masonry, and the impression became widespread that the Y. M. C. A. mission was to undermine the Russian Orthodox Church. The Red Cross workers, he said, were taken for commercial travelers selling hospital supplies.

One American professor who was sent out by the Committee on Public Information to lecture on the American school system was put down as a sort of official book agent. Mr. Norton said that the mission of the Committee on Public Information was purely altruistic, but that the average Russian could not be made to believe this. The altruistic propaganda of the committee, Mr. Norton said, taken in connection with the peculiarities of American policy in Siberia, so puzzled the Siberians that they set themselves to decipher the hidden object of the visitors from America, and were not satisfied until they had evolved the most grotesque explanations of it.

Psychology Misunderstood.

Lack of appreciation of Russian psychology attended nearly every move on the part of this country, Mr Norton said, so that, while aiming only to serve and help Russia, the American program accomplished nothing except to injure America in the esteem of the Siberians.

"For instance," he said, "a large issue of rubles was printed in this country for the benefit of the Kolchak Government. But a switch in our policy occurred and when the ruble arrived they were not allowed to leave the steamer. This was taken as a fresh repudiation of the Kolchak Government. After a long delay the money was finally allowed to enter. How this occurred I don't know, but the Russians were given to understand that the friendly offices of the French had made the money available to them. The French reaped the good will and we both furnished the money and increased Russian dislike of America."

The Committee on Public Information printed a weekly paper of which copies were circulated all over Siberia to counteract anti-American propaganda. By moving pictures in hundreds of Russian villages, lectures and the distribution of literature the committee sought to cultivate the good will of the Russians. The sudden abandonment of these enterprises and the demobilization of the Committee on Public Information, Mr. Norton said, caused the Siberians to believe that America had finally deserted them entirely. Concerning Japanese enterprise in Siberia Mr. Norton said:

Describes Japanese Work.

"Japanese traders are everywhere in Siberia. They and the British are backed by Government insurance, and are making the most of their opportunities. I am not anti-Japanese, and in the main, I admire their work, without approving all their methods.

"It is difficult to understand how thoroughly the Japanese are laying the foundation for their future in Siberia. They have purchased municipal utilities, pretentious buildings, power sites, mines and other sources of wealth. Their buyers and observers are everywhere in Siberia, carrying on a marvelous propaganda, which is winning the friendship of Siberia for Japan in spite of the fact that Siberians fear her. They have made false steps in some cases in flooding the country with inferior goods and in obtaining titles to public utilities, land and mines in these unsettled times by methods which many of the far-sighted Japanese deplore.

"The hinges of the 'Open Door' will be lighters, wharves, warehouses, railroads, and other facilities. In a year America will find these hinges in Siberia all in the hands of competitors, mainly the Japanese. It will mean that one of the richest countries in the world, with a great future before it, will be commercially controlled by our business rivals. The field for American enterprise in Siberia is unlimited if we start now. The right policy for American business is to back Siberians in keeping control of their own port and railroad facilities. The door to Siberia can be kept open by the action of American business men now, but a year from now it will be too late."

Shipping Board Has Received 1,227 Vessels Since War Began

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Delivery of thirty vessels to the Shipping Board during the week ending Aug. 9 brought the total since the beginning of the war to 1,227, of 4,542,278 gross tons, the board announced today.

Of the total deliveries, 870 of 3,696,878 gross tons were steel and 357 of 845,400 gross tons were wood and composite.

MAN TRIES TO ROB BANK IN HEART OF CAPITAL

Fires on Munsey Trust Teller, Then Wounds Himself—Left Here Recently.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A hold-up man entered the banking rooms of the Munsey Trust Company, in the heart of the uptown business section, this morning, and pointing two pistols at the teller, demanded $150. As the teller was making a show of counting the money, the hold-up man fired, missing him, then turned a pistol on himself, the bullet piercing his cheek. Hospital physicians said he probably would recover.

The scene of the attempted robbery was within 500 feet of Police Headquarters.

When ordered to hand over the money the teller dropped behind his counter as the robber fired, the bullet piercing the coat of a clerk near by. The hold-up man then shot himself through the cheek, the bullet shattering a plate glass window.

The man told the police his name was John E. Fetzer of 11 East Street, Defiance, Ohio, and that his uncle, Charles R. Fetzer, at the same address, could tell "why he couldn't get ahead." He is a mechanic, 34 years old. He came here today from New York.

He told the police he picked out Washington because he understood there was plenty of money in the capital and that a hold-up was easy. He said he previously had been in a Detroit hospital suffering from an electric shock. Two money orders issued at Defiance and Toledo, Ohio, were found in the hold-up man's clothing.

DEFIANCE, Ohio, Aug. 13.—John E. Fetzer, who shot himself during an attempt to hold up a bank at Washington, D. C., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Fetzer of 11 East Street, Defiance, and is 34 years old. He has been twelve years away from home, only "dropping in occasionally," according to the parents.

He had the habits of a recluse and was looked upon as a queer character, but gave the police no trouble, they said. When informed of their son's plight the mother cried, but the father was unconcerned and expressed no surprise.

HAS EX-BUTLER ARRESTED.

Oakleigh Thorne Objects to Prose Poem Sent to His Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—C. L. Faulling, butler for Dr. Walker at 327 West Eighty-sixth Street, New York City, and former butler for Oakleigh Thorne of Thorndale, Millbrook, this county, is in the county jail here on the charge of writing annoying letters to Mrs. Edward P. Carle, Mr. Thorne's daughter.

Faulling was arrested in New York City today by Under Sheriff Elmer J. Conklin and brought here and arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser. He denied that he intended annoying Mrs. Carle, whom he had addressed in his letters as Miss Margaret Thorne, and referred to her as "Eve in the beautiful garden of Eden."

He became indignant when Justice Morschauser referred to the forty-three pages of closely written manuscript as a letter.

"It is prose poetry," he said, "similar to the kind that Milton used in 'Paradise Lost.' I did not intend to injure Miss Thorne's feelings, and if she had written to me and told me never to write to her again I would never have done so. Your Honor, all I was trying to do was to picture in words the beautiful place where they live. I named it Eden when I first went there, and it comes the nearest to what I would say Eden was like than anything I ever saw."

DANIELS OFF FOR HAWAII.

ABOARD U. S. S. NEW YORK, AT SEA, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The battleship New York, which brought fame to the American Navy as the flagship of Admiral Hugh Rodman with the British Grand Fleet during the war, began its 2,080-mile cruise today from Los Angeles Harbor to the Hawaiian Islands. Secretary Danies, Mrs. Daniels, and their two sons are passengers. The destroyers Chauncey, Dent, Philip, and Waters are acting as escorts to the flagship.

The battleship and escorts will return to California in September in time to be present at the review of the Pacific Fleet by President Wilson at San Francisco. While in Honolulu Secretary Daniels will dedicate the great Pearl Harbor drydocks.

SUFFRAGISTS IN CAMPAIGN.

Jersey Women to Fight Amendment Opponents at Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—An active primary campaign against legislative candidates opposed to ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment was voted by the New Jersey suffragists in conference here this afternoon. The primaries are to be held next month, with Assembly nominations at stake in twenty-one counties, and also many Senatorial nominations. According to Mrs. E. F. Feichert of Plainfield, Chairman of the New Jersey Association, it will be the first primary campaign the association has conducted.

Mrs. Feichert denied that the action of suffragists at Trenton Tuesday in demanding that Governor Runyon call a special session of the Legislature to act on the Federal amendment indicated a split in the New Jersey forces. Those who made that demonstration, she said, were militants, some of them among the women who were pickets in the White House demonstration, and they had no standing with the New Jersey Association. Mrs. Feichert sent a telegram to Governor Runyon Tuesday declaring that the New Jersey Association was opposed to a special session.

Indorse Hugo for Governorship.

Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo was indorsed as the Republican candidate for Governor next year at a meeting last night of the Republican organization of the Fourth Assembly District at its club house, 436 Orand Street. Ex-Judge Alexander Wolf, leader of the district, presided, and resolutions naming Secretary Hugo as the strongest candidate the Republicans could nominate for Governor were unanimously adopted.

JUDGES FOLLOW NEWBURGER LEAD

Allen and Smith Decide to Make No Contest Before Tammany Primaries.

FAVOR NON-PARTISAN PLAN

Justice Newburger Will Have the Support of Both Men for Re-election.

JOHN F. CRONIN RESIGNS

Democratic County Committeeman Disgusted with Tammany Methods as to Judiciary.

In order to keep the issue of nonpartisanship in regard to the judiciary clearly before the voters this Fall in the campaign of Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger, to whom a renomination was refused by Tammany Hall, and who is a candidate on the Republican ticket, City Court Judges Richard A. Smith and James A. Allen have decided to make no contest in the Democratic primaries. Judge Allen, it is understood, will not make the race at all, while Judge Smith, who was designated in the Democratic primaries along with Justice Newburger by a committee representing the Bar Association of the city, will allow his name to go before the voters only on the Republican ticket.

Judge Allen, in a letter to Justice Newburger, said he had decided not to run for re-election on an independent ticket, as he felt such a campaign would only complicate the issue, and probably confuse the voters. He said, however, that he would work hard for the election of both Justice Newburger and Judge Smith. Judge Smith will file his declination with the Board of Elections today or tomorrow, and along with Justice Newburger will make his campaign entirely as the designee of the Republican organization. He told William F. Schneider, head of the Cleveland Democracy, who is organizing the independent Democrats of the city in the fight against Tammany Hall, that the issue of a nonpartisan judiciary would be kept clearer if he did not run as an independent Democrat against the regular Tammany organization candidate.

The Cleveland Democracy, it was said, will file a petition designating both Justice Newburger and Judge Smith as its candidates for the Supreme Court and City Court, respectively, but will name no other candidates on its ticket. The organization will choose an emblem, which will be opposite the names of its two candidates on the election ballot, and thus furnish an opportunity for independent Democrats who do not want to vote under a Republican emblem, to vote for both Justice Newburger and Judge Smith. The insurgent Democrats, led by Mr. Schneider, will hold a conference at the Hotel Savoy next Wednesday night to discuss plans for the 1920 election.

John F. Cronin Resigns.

John F. Cronin, long a member of the Democratic County Committee, resigned from that organization yesterday, giving as his reasons the treatment Tammany accorded Justice Newburger and the fact that the organization went outside his district to select a candidate for Justice of the Municipal Court. In a letter to Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner, who is still Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, Mr. Cronin said:

"Notwithstanding the mighty protest made by thousands of voters at the last primary election against 'carpet-bagging' in the Eighteenth Congressional District, when the organization leaders forced upon them a non-resident of the district as a candidate for Congress, this year in practically the same territory a candidate for Justice of the Sixth District Municipal Court from Westchester County is again forced upon them by 'powers that be.' I resent this constant insult to my neighbors—this reflection upon them. I insist that there are many capable bona fide residents of our district well able and, perhaps, better qualified for the office, and cannot admit that it is necessary to go outside our district to find proper and suitable candidates for office.

"I feel that I can no longer affiliate myself with the organization responsible therefor, and I, therefore, hereby tender my resignation as a member of this committee from the Sixteenth District.

"In addition to the foregoing reason, I think it proper that I should state that I cannot support the repudiation and turning down by the organization of Judge Newburger, who has been efficient, capable, and painstaking, and which turns up Judge Luce, who was twice repudiated by the people and defeated when he ran as a Prohibitionist candidate."

Mr. Cronin also protested against what he termed the political activity of Justice Wagner. He said:

"Last but not least, I also desire to record my protest against the unseemly conduct of you as Supreme Court Judge, taking active part and meddling in the politics of our district. Not alone are you active in politics as Chairman of this committee, but as President of the Thannawaga Club, the local political organization of the Sixteenth District, designating candidates and finally making promises which you never keep.

"Many had hoped that when elevated in the Supreme Court bench that your activities in political life would cease, and that you would have a due regard for the dignity of that office. Your failure to appreciate this condition, together with those that I have hereinbefore stated, make it necessary for me to protest with my resignation, which I herewith submit."

Mr. Cronin, it was said, will make a fight for the nomination of Alderman in his district against the regular Tammany designee.

Fight Against McCooey Likely.

A Brooklyn situation similar to that of Justice Newburger in Manhattan is expected to bring about a hot contest against John H. McCooey, the Democratic boss of Brooklyn. McCooey refused a renomination to Municipal Court Justice Cornelius Furgueson of the Fifth District, although he had been on the bench for twenty years. Justice Furgueson will run on an independent ticket at the election against the McCooey candidate, John J. Meagher, administration clerk in the Surrogate's Court, where McCooey holds an $8,000 job. Justice Furgueson said he would not run in the Democratic primaries, but he hopes to obtain the Republican nomination.

"I am informed," said Justice Furgueson, "that a non-partisan committee has already secured the names of 1,800 voters in the district who have promised to support me. I have given the committee an assurance that I will make the race. I will not run in the Democratic primaries, however. My situation is parallel to that of Justice Newburger in Manhattan. Despite my record of twenty years of service on the bench, against which no criticism has been raised, and despite the fact that 90 per cent. of the lawyers who practice in my court were for me, I was turned down."

A committee representing the Federation of Independent Voters of Greater New York which, with the Business Men's League claims the distinction of being the original Hylan mayoralty boosters, will hold a meeting soon to decide whether it will indorse Irwin Untermyer, the regular Tammany organization candidate for the Supreme Court or give its support to Justice Newburger.

"It is not true that we have decided to give our entire support to either the Democratic or Republican nominees," said Nat Jacoby, head of the organization. "Part of our support may go to the Republicans and part to the Democrats. It will be just as the committee decides."

38,000 FANS SEE GIANTS LOSE TWO

ERRORS COSTLY IN OPENER

Slim Sallee's Great Pitching Too Much for His Old Team in Second—Gonzales Steals Home.

The greatest throng which has jammed its way into the Polo Grounds since the world's series of 1911 saw Pat Moran's Cincinnati Reds outplay and overthrow the Giants in a double header yesterday, pushing the McGraw clan six and a half games back of the National League leaders. More than 38,000 people saw the Giants drop the first game by a score of 4 to 3, and felt pretty blue about it, but the spirits of this greatest of week-day baseball multitudes were steeped in deep indigo when the Reds took the second game by a score of 2 to 1. The immense gathering yesterday was second only to the crowd which saw the Giants and Athletics battle in the first game of the world's series of 1911, when the National Commission's official count was 38,218.

Harlem never saw such a demonstration in mid-season as the hot-bed of baseball interest which reached a climax yesterday. The two clubs, battling hard for the lead in the pennant race, with the Giants four and a half games behind, stirred Manhattan to a high point of enthusiasm such as has never before been known in the history of local baseball. The remarkable thing about it was that the heavy overcast sky threatened rain at any moment, but the multitude came in droves in spite of the weather.

In Eighth Avenue and on the Speedway speculators reaped a harvest and sold all the tickets they were able to corral during the past week. Reserve seats were selling as high as $5, and $1 tickets were bringing $3. The scalpers said that they could have sold thousands more if they had them. The crowd was so great on Eighth Avenue waiting to get in that the mob broke through one of the exit gates and about 2,000 got in free before the leak could be blocked. Once inside this jam quickly scattered and rushed to seats in the bleachers.

Crowds on Coogan's Bluff.

Up on Coogan's Bluff were hundreds of spectators who were left out after the gates were locked and the sale of tickets stopped. Even at world's series games there have not been so many fans watching the park from the cliff behind the grounds. This vantage point provided a full view of the big scoreboard, through which the fans followed the game. Before 12 o'clock the crowd started to come and every vacant lot within many blocks of the grounds was jammed with automobiles. The subway at 157th Street poured forth thousands and the elevated and surface lines were jammed to overflowing.

In the crush at the gates men lost their hats and wiggled their way in only after their coats had been almost torn from their backs. Once inside, however, the deportment of the crowd was above reproach and there was no incident which in any way disturbed the Cincinnati players. Although the interest in the game was just as great as if not greater than it was in Cincinnati a while ago, there was none of the hysterical outbreaks which marred the Giants' last visit in Redland.

Before the first game had finished the mob had filled every seat in the bleachers which circle the outfield, and it was necessary to raise the green canvas curtains which are placed in front of the centre field bleachers to aid to make a dark background for the eyes of the batsmen. In the lower tier of the grand stand men and women stood five or six deep behind the seats, and in the upper stand the spectators were also standing up after the stand had been sold out. It is doubtful, even at a world's series game, if the outpouring of enthusiastic fans yesterday could be duplicated. Thousands of disappointed fans were turned away from the gates.

The downfall of the Giants yesterday was a terrific shock to the hopes of the New York fans. It was expected that, once more back on their native heath, the Giants would recuperate from the slump which was so disastrous on their last trip through the West. But the batting slump was present and the New York team looked no more like the frisky, spirited Giants of a month ago than the clubs in Philadelphia look like pennant winners.

Giants' Play Is Listless.

The Giants were listless and downhearted. There was no pep and spirit to their work and their batting eyes were dimmed and their batting power curbed before the flings of the Cincinnati pitchers, Dutch Reuther and Slim Sallee. The batting slump of the Giants probably hasn't a parallel in the history of a major league pennant fight. A short time ago, no less than five of McGraw's men were hitting the ball at a clip which ran far above .300. These included Young, Kauff, Burns, Doyle, and Chase. Of these Chase was the only one yesterday who could bring his bat into prominent play.

Cincinnati, filled with the pennant bug, played with a dash and enthusiasm which carried confidence in everything the Reds did. The Reds were in fighting trim and on their toes. While their hitting wasn't very heavy, it was timely and concentrated at times when it dove-tailed with the cracks in the New York defense.

Art Nehf made his Polo Ground début for the Giants in the first game, and was pitted against Walter Reuther. In this first encounter the Giants made mistakes which were costly. Slim Sallee pitched the Reds to victory in the second game against Phil Douglas, also making his first appearance at the Polo Grounds in a Giants' uniform.

The first game bubbled with sparkling plays and the crowd was worked up to a fever pitch many times. There was a remarkable demonstration on the part of the fans in the eighth inning of the second game when the Reds were leading by a score of 4 to 2. The Giants started a rally which threatened to be one of their old-time batting bees, which has swept aside opposition so often this season.

This eighth inning got under way when Fletcher got a pass. A home run has seldom been greeted with more cheering than this gift which Reuther presented to the Giants' captain. Doyle followed Fletcher and shot a high fly to Roush in centre field. Then came Hal Chase. The great stands fairly rocked under the riotous outbreak which greeted the three-bagger which Chase bounced off the right field wall, and sent Fletcher home, bringing the Giants to within one run of the Reds.

Kauff and Zim Fail.

It was a wild, colorful scene which followed. Straw hats were thrown on to the field. Newspapers were torn into pieces and went sailing out across the field like a snowstorm. The mob cheered and howled itself hoarse. It looked as if the old Giants had at last come to life. Benny Kauff was at the bat, and play halted for several minutes while the paper was removed from the diamond. Kauff, in the throes of a slump, was helpless before the southpaw flinging of Reuther. The Red boxman fooled Benny as he meant to fool him, and the best that Kauff could do was to roll a harmless bouncer to Morris Rath at second, who chucked the ball home, and Chase was tagged out between home and third.

There was one more chance. Heinie Zimmerman came to the bat. The enthusiasm of the great multitude was stilled, never again to revive during the afternoon, when Zim struck out. Never again did the crowd believe that the Giants had a chance before this remarkably fast troupe, led by the peppery Moran. Not once during the second game, which followed, were the Giants greeted with that ear-splitting, nerve-racking outburst of vocal tumult which made the vain eighth inning rally one of the most thrilling moments in local baseball annals.

The Giants were the first to score in the first game and when they rushed two runs over the plate in the second inning it looked as if the New York team was back in its batting form. Chase opened the inning with a single off Reuther and Kauff flied to Rath. Zimmerman singled to right field and when Neale made a wild return of the ball, Chase went to third and Zim to second. Frank Snyder, the Giants' catcher, brought the great gathering to its feet shouting when he lambasted the ball to right for a single and sent Chase and Zimmerman across the plate. Here Snyder made a tactical error. When the ball was thrown in to head off the runners, Snyder had plenty of time to go to second on the throw-in. This he failed to do and from what transpired afterwards, this lapse on Snyder's part proved costly.

Nehf forced Snyder at second and Burns got a pass. Young was safe on Daubert's error and filled the bases. If Snyder had gone to second when the opportunity came up he would have been able to count. Fletcher came up with the bases full and brought forth nothing but groans and sighs of disappointment when Heinie Groh chucked him out at first for the final out.

Reds Get Busy in Third.

All this happened before the Reds got started. They came out of their shells in the third. Reuther was the first man up and fanned. Rath walked and Daubert hit an easy roller to Nehf. Here the new Giant pitcher got all mixed up and was undecided whether to throw to second or first. He finally decided to toss to first, but his throw to Chase was bad and Hal couldn't reach it. Nehf's error marked the Giants' downfall. Groh got a pass, filling the bases. Roush hit a sacrifice fly to Young and Rath scored. Nehf was plainly befuddled and in his nervousness he hit Neale and again loaded the corners. That was another deadly mishap, for Kopf, the next Cincinnati citizen up, prodded a hit to centre and sent Daubert and Groh over the plate. From that moment the Reds were never headed.

The crowd seemed to delight in hurling boos and moans at Heinie Groh every time he did anything, but the little third baseman had his laugh on the crowd when in the fifth inning he caught one of Nehf's curves amidships and whacked it on a dizzy course to right centre field. The ball rolled to the deepest corner of the gardens, and Groh completed the circuit to be greeted at the Cincinnati bench with a crowd of his pals who were wild with joy. That homer settled the argument for the Reds, for it offset the advantage which the Giants might have gained by the one run which was harvested in the eighth inning rally, which has been mentioned before.

There was only one thing about the Giants' play in the first game which sent sparks of enthusiasm through the crowd. A couple of catches in centre field by Kauff were beauties and deserved all the loud acclaim they received. In the third inning, with two aboard the sacks and two out, Sherwood Magee jammed a drive to centre field. Kauff came tearing in, and making a long dive for the ball, he just caught it with one hand as he tumbled head over heels. Again, in the ninth, with two aboard and two out, Kauff did the same thing when he came racing in and plucked Groh's dangerous wallop out of the daisies with one hand and rolled over, only to come up with the ball.

Gonzales Steals Home.

Sallee and Douglas were against each other on the pitching slab in the second encounter. As in the first game, New York took the lead. In the third inning, after Zimmerman had been tossed out at first by Groh, Gonzales, the Cuban backstop, rocked a double to right and went to third on a wild pitch. The wily Cuban evidently realized that there would be no forthcoming hits to bring him home, so he took the situation in his own hands and stole home, with the Giants' only run of the game. Once again the Giants' hopes brightened, only to be dimmed again in the third inning.

Roush sent a bouncer to Chase at the opening of the third, and Hal fumbled the ball just long enough to give the runner a life. Neale sacrificed him to second, Doyle to Chase. In making this play Doyle again wrenched his back, and was forced to retire in favor of Baird. Kopf rolled to Fletcher, who also fumbled, and the runner was safe at first, while Roush went to third. Kopf stole second, no one seeming to care to block his purpose. Sherwood Nottingham Magee, the Reds' left fielder, who is just back in action after a long layoff because of illness, cudgeled the ball to right, and sent Roush and Kopf over the plate with the victory. Both Sallee and Douglas pitched good ball after that, and there was no more scoring.

New York's failure yesterday to get even one game of the double bill has dimmed New York's chances considerably. They have another chance in this afternoon's double header and still another tomorrow. The Giants were not fighting yesterday—that is, not fighting the way they fought earlier in the season. They were a subdued, quiet lot when the afternoon was finished yesterday. There is still a chance, but if they expect to combat successfully with the Reds they will have to shake off the batting slump and brighten up the infield play considerably.

Rain started to fall at the end of the first game, but it was not enough to interfere with the playing of the second tilt. The interest in the combat was at such a feverish pitch that few of the 38,000 spectators left before the last man was out.

BROOKLYNS TRAIL, THEN TRIM CUBS

Defeat in Opener Drops Dodgers to Fifth Place—Mamaux Wins Second Game.

Al Mamaux saved the Brooklyn Dodgers from a double setback yesterday afternoon at Ebbets Field, when he crashed a single against the right field fence in the thirteenth inning of the nightcap encounter with Fred Mitchell's Chicago Cubs. The blow, coming with two down and the teams deadlocked at two all, chased Chuck Ward home from second base with the marker which gave the Dodgers an even break on the day's pastime. Brooklyn took the second clash by 3 to 2. The Cubs, hitting Big Jeff Pfeffer effectively in two innings of the opening game, took the curtain raiser by a margin of 4 to 3.

Mamaux twirled one of his best games of the season in the closing combat and his victory-producing thump in the superstitious inning made him an idol in the eyes of the 2,000 fans who witnessed the long-drawn-out battle. Despite the work of Mamaux, however, the Dodgers slid uncomfortably into fifth position, because, while the Flatbush lads were getting an even break in the day's spoils at Ebbets Field, the Pirates downed the Braves in a fourteen-inning session at Braves' Field. This collection of circumstances resulted in Pittsburgh's advancing to a lead of half a game on the Dodgers, who now top the second division.

The Cubs were let down with five hits by Mamaux, who pitched air-tight ball in every frame but the eighth. In this session, Fred Mitchell's athletes collected three of their total hits, which, with a brace of passes, enabled the Cubs to tie the score. In the rally, the Cubs' battery, Claude Hendrix and O'Farrell, was lifted to make room for a pinch-hitter and a runner, respectively. Bailey went to the mound for Brooklyn's eighth and was derricked just when it seemed the Dodgers were destined to break the tie. Martin took the hill with two down and men on first and second, but turned back the threatened score. The Cub twirler was in danger frequently thereafter until the thirteenth round, when Mamaux propelled his winning blow to the right field fence.

Dodgers Start in Lead.

The Dodgers gained a one-run lead in the opening inning. With one down, Johnston beat out a hit to Herzog. Griffith rapped a single to centre, sending Johnston to third, and, when Robertson's peg to Deal went to the grandstand, Johnston continued to the plate.

Hendrix was effective then until the fifth, when a single and a successful double steal gave the Dodgers another marker. Ward started this frame with a single to left. Miller dumped a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate, and Hendrix tried for Ward at second, but Chuck beat the throw. Mamaux attempted a sacrifice, but Ward was forced at third, Merkle to Deal. On Olson's grounder to Hollocher, Mamaux was forced at second, Miller taking third. Olson didn't hesitate long around first base before tearing for second and, simultaneously, Miller broke off on a dash for home. Olson drew O'Farrell's throw and, before the ball could be relayed back by Herzog.

The Cubs evened the count in the eighth when they bunched three blows on Mamaux. Barber started with a single to centre, but was forced at second by Deal. O'Farrell drew a pass and Carter was sent in to run for the backstop. Dode Paskert was here called from the obscurity of the dugout to bat for Hendrix, but fanned. Magee lashed a single into left centre, scoring Deal and sending Carter to third. Hollocher was purposely passed, filling the bases, and Herzog belted a single to right, scoring Carter.

After Konetchy had been thrown out in the thirteenth, Ward singled to centre. Chuck took second while Miller was being disposed of at first, and Mamaux sent one of Martin's shoots crashing against the right-field stockade, chasing Ward home with the winning run.

Rain fell intermittently during the closing game but did not interfere with the play. Tommy Griffith carried off the day's fielding laurels with a brace of catches on hard-hit foul flies by Hollocher in the eleventh and thirteenth innings, which captivated the crowd. On both occasions, Griffith raced from his position in deep right over to the grand stand.

Cubs Play With Eight Men.

There were signs of a storm all through the opener, but the only unpleasant happening was a Cub outbreak against Pfeffer in the second and third innings. The Chicagoans sewed up the game in these two frames, and, despite their bitter fight right up to the finish, the Dodgers could not change the complexion of the game. In the excitement of those four runs the Cubs went wild with joy. So wild, in fact, that in the third inning they tried to beat the Dodgers with eight men. It happened this way: In his turn at bat in the third Max Flack was hit on the hand by Pfeffer. Later Flack scored Chicago's third run and took his place on the bench. When the side had been retired the Cubs took the field, but there was no Flack in right. Nobody noticed the missing link until after Robertson had caught Ward's fly. Then the discovery was made and an investigation disclosed that Flack had gone to the clubhouse to have his hand treated. Magee was rushed to the gap and Ward ordered to bat again, to be put out twice in the one inning.

Fred Merkle and Davey Robertson were the principal figures in an onslaught on Pfeffer in the second inning. Robertson singled to centre and scored on Merkle's triple to right centre. Later Merkle scored on Deal's sacrifice fly. In the third Flack was hit, stole second, and scored on Hollocher's triple to right centre. When Herzog sacrificed, Hollocher scored. Pfeffer tightened then and carried Jim Vaughn along in an interesting pitchers' duel.

In the sixth the Dodgers nicked Vaughn for a marker when Johnston singled, stole second, took third on Myers's infield hit and scored on Konetchy's blow to left. The remaining Brooklyn runs came in the eighth, when Griffith drew a pass, Zach Wheat tripled to right centre, scoring Griffith, and Myers lifted a sacrifice fly to Robertson, on which Wheat registered.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Southworth's home run to right centre, on the first ball pitched by Rudolph in the fourteenth inning, gave Pittsburgh a 3 to 2 victory over Boston in the first game of the series today. SKEETERS IN EVEN BREAK WITH LEAFS

Donovan's Men Drop Opening Game, 3 to 2, Then Hit Hard for an 11-to-1 Victory.

Bill Donovan's Skeeters and George Gibson's Maple Leafs hooked up in a double header in the beginning of Toronto's farewell visit in Jersey City yesterday afternoon and made it an even break. The Canadians came out on top in the initial round by a score of 3 to 2, while the home team took the windup portion by the decisive figure of 11 to 1.

Heck for Toronto and Dan Tipple for the skeeters had an interesting battle at the start, Heck excelling by restricting the Donovanites to six hits while the Leafs clouted Tipple for ten. The rivals were deadlocked when the eighth frame opened, and Paddy Bauman's foozle on George Whiteman's grounder gave the Leafs the life that was improved by working Whiteman around with the victory run. Schulte sacrificed, a wild pitch put Whitey on third and a scratch hit off Bauman by Spencer sewed up the battle.

In the farewell portion Rube Zellars puzzled the Leafs all the way and they had to be content with five hits, a single by McInnis followed by Anderson's triple in the seventh inning saving the visitors from a shutout.

Peterson, who did the pitching for Toronto in the second game was a mark from the start for Donovan's boys and they hammered him for twelve raps, three for extra bases.

BEARS WIN GAME IN RAIN.

Less Than Fifty Persons Witness Buffalo's Downfall, 6 to 4.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—Newark defeated Buffalo, 6 to 4, in ten innings here today, before less than fifty persons. The game was played in a steady downpour of rain and, once started, the umpires let it go until completed.

The Bears won the game in the tenth after two were out, aided by two errors and a wild pitch. Madden singled and took second on a wild pitch. Jacobs walked and Walsh was safe when Carlstrom dropped a perfect throw from McCarron, filling the sacks. Breen hit a little roller to Harris, which should easily have retired the side, but Harris could not field the wet ball, with the result that Madden crossed the plate with the winning run.

OTHER PAPERS ARE SERVED ON JOHNSON

Must Appear Before Referee for Examination — Cannot Use Sinking Fund for Defense.

President Ban Johnson of the American League encountered additional opposition from the Yankees yesterday, another injunction and also an order to appear before a referee having been served on him. These litigations, together with a meeting of the Board of Directors which will be held today, is going to furnish the American League leader with one of the busiest weeks of his career.

The injunction order was issued by Mr. Justice Richard P. Lydon of the Supreme Court and restrains President Johnson from using any portion of the Sinking Fund of the American League for or in defense of the injunction proceedings now pending in the Carl Mays case. A hearing on this injunction has been set for Friday morning at 10:15 o'clock, when Mr. Johnson will be given an opportunity to show cause why this injunction should not be made permanent.

The New York club also obtained an order from Justice Lydon for a hearing before George J. Gillespie, as referee appointed by the court, for examination before trial. This order was obtained to enable the owners of the New York club to examine President Johnson upon the circumstances surrounding his purported suspension of Carl Mays, with particular reference to the absence of any notice of such action to the player. Johnson is also to be examined as to the nature and extent of his interests in the Cleveland club, and the nature and extent of that club's indebtedness to him. The referee is also empowered to examine Johnson upon the nature and circumstances of his controversy with Harry H. Frazee of the Boston club.

This latest move in the controversy between Johnson and the New York club caused a shock among baseball men last night, for it means that much of the inside knowledge of baseball affairs in the American League will be aired in court on Friday.

While it seemed likely a few days ago that the Mays case might be amicably settled, it is now believed that Johnson has taken the attitude that he has unlimited powers as leader of the American League. The affidavits in the proceedings yesterday were furnished by Charles A. Comiskey, President of the Chicago White Sox, and formerly a close friend and adviser of Johnson.

Through his attorneys it is understood that Johnson doubts the power of the Board of Directors of the league to take the action which they contemplate today, when the board will lift the indefinite suspension of Mays. The meeting was called for this morning according to the constitution and by-laws of the organization. This attitude of Johnson is taken as an indication that he means to fight the action of the board and a long drawn out baseball war is in sight.

A. A. U. TITLE GAMES ON FRANKLIN FIELD

University Council Raises Ban and Championships Will Be Held Sept. 12 and 13.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—The Council on Athletics of the University of Pennsylvania today decided to permit the use of Franklin Field for the amateur athletic union national championships, Sept. 12 and 13.

The council adopted a resolution last Summer that Franklin Field should, in the future, be closed to outside competitions, but as no other track in the city was obtainable the Pennsylvania athletic authorities raised the ban rather than have the meet go to some other city.

Two departures from the custom of previous years are disclosed with the above announcement, which, incidentally, have long been expected. The national A. A. U. track and field championships this year will be conducted over a period of two days, Sept. 12 and 13, instead of three days, as in the past, and the games will be held a week later than is usual. This latter change is necessitated by the fact that Sept. 12 and 13 are the only dates available at Franklin Field. It will be the first time that a national championship track and field meet has been held in Philadelphia.

The plans of the A. A. U., Mr. Rubien declared, provide that the nineteen events on the junior championship program be run off Sept. 12, and on the following day the nineteen events on the senior title program will be conducted. Although it has not been definitely decided yet, it is practically certain that the relay championship tests will be divided between the two days. A date and place for the all-around title test will be announced later. This competition, with the relays, has occupied the third day of the meet in the past, but the necessity of confining the meet to two days has forced a departure from this custom. The week's respite in the date of the track and field games is expected to furnish an abundance of time to prospective competitors to get in their preparatory work.

Franklin Field, where the meet will be conducted, is one of the leading athletic centres in the country. The field contains a one-quarter mile track, with a 220-yard straightaway, and is ideal in every respect for a titular meet.

The New York A. C. is whipping a formidable team into shape for the meet. The Boston A. A., Illinois A. C. and Chicago A. A. have all assured the A. A. U. officials that they will be capably represented. Leading athletes from various sections of the country, including a majority of the winners in the recent interallied games in France, are expected to strive for titles on track and field, so that the A. A. U. leaders are looking for a history-making set of games.

Curves and Bingles.

Yesterday was the thirteenth day of the month and the first game of the double-header was the thirteenth game the clubs have played this season. Cincinnati now has won 8 and the Giants have won 5 in the Reds-Giants war, for the season.

A fine looking gray-haired woman caught a foul ball in the upper tier of the grandstand yesterday. She made such an accomplished play that one of the fans near her remarked, "She must have been a fine bean-bag player when she was a girl."

The Cincinnati Club looks a lot better than when it played one game here during the last series. Bubbling over with enthusiasm and confidence, the Reds now look like a hard club to beat. In fact, almost impossible.

It was the old world's series scene in Harlem all over again. The speculators made a good guess when they bought up so many tickets in advance.

The Chicago Cubs think that the Giants' slump is so serious that they hope to beat them out for second place. Over in Brooklyn yesterday when the scoreboard showed that the Reds were winning, they were cheered so loudly that the passers-by thought that Zach Wheat had made a home run.

Peter Schneider, the Yankee pitcher, has been sent to the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast League.

A few seasons ago, no one would ever have dreamed that baseball could have drawn a crowd of 38,000 on a weekday in mid-season. The game has a popularity now that its founders never imagined.

Those Cincinnati fans who went to the Polo Grounds expecting to see the Cincinnati players greeted with pop bottles and abuse must have been agreeably surprised. Every good play the Reds made was as generously applauded as a gem by a home player. New York baseball fans are the fairest in the country.

All that was needed to make it look like a world's series was the presence of Ban Johnson and August Herrmann in one of the boxes. Mr. Johnson will be unable to see any of the games, however, as he has several important engagements with Colonel Jacob Ruppert.

Manager Pat Moran has a fine coaching aid in Nick Allen, the catcher. Nick planted himself at third and instilled a whole bushel of ginger into the proceedings. Jimmy Smith, who used to be with the Giants, also did some loud talking on the coaching lines.

Among the former Giants on the Reds may be mentioned Pat Moran, Heinie Groh, Jimmy Smith, Eddie Roush, Bill Rariden, Slim Sallee. Not to mention Jake Daubert of Brooklyn and Jimmy Ring and Ray Fisher of the Yankees.

Fisher and Ring will probably pitch for the Reds today, while McGraw may use Benton and Toney.

AUSTRALIAN AND AMERICAN TENNIS TEAMS TO MEET IN DOUBLES FINAL

AUSTRALIANS REACH FINAL IN DOUBLES

Visitors Will Play Johnston and Griffin for Right to Challenge Champions.

THRILLS IN SEMI-FINALS

McLoughlin and Bundy Put Up Spectacular Fight Before Yielding to Fellow-Californians.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Australia and America will fight it out in the final round of the national doubles championship tomorrow afternoon, Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson having come through the upper half today by a straight-set victory over Frederick B. Alexander and S. Howard Voshell, 10—8, 6—2, 14—12, while the lower bracket produced the names of William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin, who conquered their old rivals, Maurice McLoughlin and T. C. Bundy, in three out of four sets, 4—6, 14—12, 6—0, 8—6. If the Californians fail to stop the mad rush of the invaders, the national champions, William T. Tilden, 2d, and Vincent Richards are still in reserve, to be challenged by the winners in Saturday's grand climax.

In spite of dull atmospheric conditions, this was a glorious afternoon for the tennis fans, who crowded the flag-bedecked grandstands of the Longwood Cricket Club to their capacity. Although only two matches were staged, they contained a total of 108 games and 697 points, which means exactly 697 rallies to thrill the hearts of those who love to see a racquet hit a ball. Of the seven sets played four ran to deuce games, two of them reaching the identical scores of 14—12. It was by no means perfect tennis, but it was always spectacular.

California's four-cornered battle was staged first, and it produced quite as much excitement as any of the past meetings of these native sons, who at one time were the chief rivals for the national doubles title. McLoughlin and Bundy presented almost as strong a front today as when they struggled in defense of the Davis Cup in 1914, and the stubbornness of their defense came as a distinct surprise to Johnston and Griffin, who had not yet played enough together to be at their best. McLoughlin was absolutely deadly overhead this afternoon and his smashes seemed to have as much punch as ever. His low volleys also frequently amazed the crowd with their quickness and accuracy. His driving and lobbing were very steady, and his service was strong enough to win consistently.

It was the best tennis that the comet has shown in the East since losing the championship. Bundy also surpassed himself today, making brilliant volleys and recoveries of smashes and finding the openings unerringly. His chief weakness was in serving, for his reverse twist had no terrors for the opposition and lost more often than it won. Griffin also had trouble with his service today, being greatly handicapped by a tendency to foot fault on the second ball. This cost him no less than ten double faults during the match, quite aside from its direct effect on other departments of his game.

Johnston Best of the Four.

Johnston's value to his team is conclusively proved by the stroke analysis, which shows that he was the only one of the four to earn more points than he lost on errors. He was not only the steadiest of the quartet, but also the biggest scorer. His forehand drive had terrific speed and often crashed right through his opponents' attempted volleys. He was severe overhead and strong on service, and his low volleys were gems of clean-cut accuracy.

There was perhaps a little too much of the conventional alternation of lob and smash in this match, but at least the two combinations acted like real teams, with mutual understanding and definite plans of action.

Johnston began the service and lost immediately, as did McLoughlin, Griffin, and Bundy in succession after him, a curious opening for a first-class doubles match. Griffin's upset was due to three successive double faults, all called by the foot-fault judge. But, starting the second round of service, with the games 2—all, Johnston found himself and delivered a love game, McLoughlin equalizing with two fine smashes for 3—all. Another foot fault and Johnston's netting of an easy kill brought the second break against Griffin, and Bundy's good volley, following a fine lob and smash by McLoughlin, put his side ahead, 5—3. Johnston won his service once more, but was set 6—4, when McLoughlin put over a love game, which included another spectacular volley.

A Game of See-saw.

The Johnston-Griffin partnership went right after the second set and led at 3—0, when both in turn beat the opposition with accurate drives. But Johnston ran into a streak of bad volleying and lost his service, McLoughlin driving through him for the final point, and it was 2—all when the same player won his own delivery. Another break through Griffin made it 3—2, Johnston slipping as Bundy half-volleyed for the finishing placement. The set was squared against Bundy, however, Griffin winning with a pick-up which topped the net cord. In this game Johnston managed to play a smash off the back stop, but McLoughlin was on the job and smashed the freak lob for a final kill.

Johnston served a perfect game, his clean drive down the centre being followed by three smashes by Griffin, one down the alley, one across court and one down the middle which McLoughlin could not return. The latter also won again, with Bundy smashing for the decisive point, and it was 4—all. Griffin lost again, after another foot fault, by misjudging Bundy's good lob, but Johnston got it back with a great drive to the base line, Bundy helping with two errors.

The same situation occurred again two games later, both Griffin and Bundy losing, the latter without scoring a point. The score then mounted with the service up to 12-all, the last game credited to McLoughlin and Bundy being a long deuce session in which the set point was several times on the carpet. Two marvelous recoveries by Bundy were of no help in the next, for he missed a far easier one and the odd game was Griffin's when McLoughlin netted off service. With the unlucky 13 called in his favor, Johnston drove successfully over the net cord and put another fast one right between the clashing racquets of his opponents. Bundy volled out, and when McLoughlin netted the next one off another fast drive by Johnston the long session was over at 14—12.

Deuce Set Follows Love Set.

The third set was exactly the opposite. Johnston and Griffin rushed through it at top speed, breaking through McLoughlin in the second game and scoring six in a row. Three wonderful drives by Johnston through McLoughlin and a cross-court shot past Bundy were features of the final game of this set, while, just before it, the 1915 champion electrified the crowd with an impossible backhand half-volley of McLoughlin's sizzling forehander.

It seemed all over after this brilliant display. But McLoughlin and Bundy were still full of fight and they surprised every one by running into a lead of 5—2 in the final set before they could be stopped. Johnston and Griffin suddenly came to life with two successive love-games, and then tied up the set after a tremendous deuce session against McLoughlin, both making remarkable gets of smashes and scoring in turn on clean placement shots. Griffin lost once more in spite of a marvelous volley by his partner, but a love-game was scored off Bundy after the latter had had his racquet knocked from his hand by McLoughlin.

Johnston won a deuce game, responding to Griffin's shout of "Kill that ball," and the final break came against McLoughlin. A double fault put him in the hole, and, after two hard drives had scored, the server misjudged Griffin's return, which landed just inside the corner for the set and match, 8—6.

Brookes and Patterson Extended.

Brookes and Patterson were carried to their limit in two of the three sets which they won from Alexander and Voshell, and a little more steadiness and team work on the part of the Americans might have told a different story. They had a fine opportunity in the opening set, which was played on an outside court, breaking through Brookes for a lead of 6—5, after service had led all the way. But Alexander lost his own delivery with a double fault, and the opportunity did not come again. Voshell eventually lost a deuce game for the set, 10—8, Alexander netting a volley close up, and Patterson smashing the last one backhanded.

Service won in the second set up to 2—all, but there the Australians drew away, Patterson serving two clean aces in the game, which made it 5—2, and cleaning up at 6—2 on errors, after some splendid rallies.

But the Americans made their real bid in the third set, and lost this by only a hair's breadth. They broke through the service of Brookes at the start, and led at 2—0, 3—1, and 4—2. Then came a disastrous break, when Patterson lobbed over Alexander's head and immediately afterward reached out for Voshell's volley and killed the ball, squaring the set at 4 all. An extraordinary rally, ending in a successful volley by Brookes, started the Australians on a love-game for the odd 5—4, but Alexander served it up to deuce with a smash, an ace, and his opponents' errors.

Brookes took a love-game and Voshell equalized with a deuce session, serving three aces, after having been beaten by a heavily topped lob which Patterson intended for a drive. Service continued to win alternately up to 13—12, with the visitors always the first to score. Then Patterson perpetrated another of his accidental lobs in attempting a backhand drive, and immediately volleyed successfully on the same side. Alexander added to his own misery with a double fault, and when Voshell netted a low volley his side was beaten, 14—12.

Patterson the Shining Light.

Patterson was the shining light in this match, and his powerful shots were a constant delight to the gallery. He won consistently on service, and by taking reckless chances at the net brought off all kinds of spectacular kills. Brookes was less brilliant, but uncanny in his anticipation of the ball's flight. Again and again he ended a rally by turning up unexpectedly right where the sure opening had seemed to be.

LYCETT AND THOMAS WIN.

Australians Score in Both Singles and Doubles at Cedarhurst.

Australian tennis players made an auspicious debut yesterday in the Metropolitan district in the invitation tournament being conducted by the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, L. I. Randolph Lycett and R. V. Thomas, after being eliminated from the championship doubles at Longwood, arrived at Cedarhurst in time to play their initial matches in the singles and doubles, advancing through the third round in singles and the first round in the doubles. In expectation of the arrival of the Australians the committee had left places open for Lycett and Thomas in the second round of the singles. The play in doubles began yesterday.

The visiting players advanced through the second round on defaults and went through the succeeding flight in straight sets. Thomas encountered the stiffest opposition, being forced to extra games before scoring over Walter Wesbrook in straight sets. The scores were 6—4, 7—5. Lycett triumphed over Arthur S. Cragin in convincing fashion at scores of 6—4, 6—2.

DECLINE SCRATCH RACES.

Australian Swimmers to Compete Only in Handicap and Title Events.

Miss Fannie Durack, Australia's leading swimmer and holder of many women's swimming records, and Miss Mina Wylie, her fellow-countrywoman, who also holds several records, will swim in only limited invitation handicap and championship races during their tour of this country. This was decided yesterday at local A. A. U. headquarters.

In giving her reason for declining to swim in scratch races Miss Durack frankly stated that she feared the abilities of America's women swimmers, stating that unless she had plenty of time to train before racing her chances againts such stars as Miss Charlotte Boyle, the Misses Ruth and Eleanore Smith, Mrs. Claire Galligan Finney, and Miss Ethelda Bleibtry were doubtful. For this reason, Miss Durack stated, she preferred being defeated in handicap races to trailing her rivals in a scratch event.

It was mutually agreed that a limit of 10 seconds be placed on rivals of the Australian stars, and that only leading swimmers be invited to compete against the visitors. Miss Durack and her teammate will make their first Eastern appearance at Manhattan Beach Saturday when they swim in a carnival under the auspices of the Women's Swimming Association. Miss Durack will compete for the national A. A. U. quarter-mile title and possibly in a 110-yard handicap swim, while Miss Wylie will enter a 100-yard breast stroke event.

The Australian stars will also compete in a meet at the Robbins Dry Dock in Brooklyn during the week of Aug. 16-23. The exact date has not yet been set. On Aug. 30 the pair will appear in competition at Rye Beach, Rye, N. Y.

POINSETTE VICTOR IN GOLF TOURNEY

Defeats Purcell in Final for Herald Cup, 5 and 4, and Wins Public Links Title.

Tall and thin like Jim Barnes, and playing almost as well as the famous professional, A. F. Poinsette of the New York Newspaper Golf Club won the Herald Cup and the public parks championship yesterday over the Van Cortlandt links, defeating Walter Purcell of Dunwoodie, former title holder and cup defender, by the margin of 5 up and 4 to play. It is now definitely decided that the cup itself is a hoodoo, in that it seems impossible for any golfer to win it twice in succession and gain permanent possession of the trophy.

This year two former winners fought their separate ways into the semi-final round, and one of them, Purcell, was actually all square at the turn in the final round. But two decades of golfing precedent is a hard thing to overcome, especially when the defendant is a left-hander, and it was felt that Purcell bowed as much to tradition as to superior golf when he was humbled by Poinsette.

The lanky youth uncovered some very fine golf, however, and demonstrated that he is the highest-class production of the Van Cortlandt links since Elmer Loving left the amateur ranks to join the pros. Playing out the bye holes in rather careless style, he had a medal score of 70, which might well have been a 68 with a little pressure to urge it on.

Also Defeats Medalist.

In addition to his match with Purcell in the afternoon Poinsette fought an extra-hole match with Bill Wallace, winner in 1908, in the morning round. Wallace labored under the added weight of having been the medalist in the qualifying round, and as such was foredoomed to defeat. He should have known it from the start, and perhaps he did, but he played as though he refused to believe it, and with a nice 3 on the home hole in the morning round he squared the match and carried Poinsette to an extra green.

Wallace started well in the morning by taking the lead at 1 up on the second hole when Poinsette was over the green on his approach, but the newspaper golfer brought things even with a good chip and a nice putt for a birdie 3 on the third. They exchanged the fifth and sixth holes, and came to the ninth tee all square. Wallace had a good tee shot here, with Poinsette a bit longer. After the Brooklyn player hit a brassie well down toward the green, Poinsette took a mid-iron and hit out of bounds. His third erred in the opposite direction, and he was on the green, not too near the pin in 4. Wallace was nicely on in 3, and should have won handily but the lanky lad laid him a three-quarter stymie which Wallace played poorly, and the match was still square.

Poinsette jumped into the lead with a fine 2 across the lake on the eleventh hole, having only a six-foot putt after his tee shot, but a second shot in the rough and a short out on the twelfth squared the match again and the players went to the hill holes all square. They halved all the holes to the sixteenth, where Wallace hit a hard spot on his approach and went over the green, taking a 5. This gave Poinsette a lead of one hole to the home green, where he pulled his tee shot to the left and saw his opponent square the match with a good 3. On the extra hole the newspaper golfer laid his second dead to the pin, and settled the match with a short put for a birdie 3.

Another Extra Hole Match.

Purcell also had an extra hole match to get into the final round. He tackled R. H. Brooke of the New York Golf Club, and not only lost the first hole, but much to his surprise, and to the surprise of the gallery, he was 2 down at the turn. He picked up one of these holes at the twelfth, and coming to the hill holes he squared the match with a 3 on the thirteenth. He lost the fifteenth, but captured the sixteenth and seventeenth in 4's, and was 1 up to the home green where Brooke sank a 3 and squared the match again. On the extra hole Brooke was short of the green, and Purcell won with a good 4.

A large gallery braved the threatening skies and followed Poinsette and the left-hander in the final round. Purcell had a hard row to hoe, and was continually playing the odd. He played some spectacular golf on the first nine holes, yet the best he could get was an even break. Poinsette came to the eighth 1 up, and laid Purcell a stymie with his tee shot over the brook. Purcell was on the very edge of the green, and he needed a jump of a yard to clear the other ball. He took a mashie and not only got over the stymie but actually holed out with his mashie shot for a 2. On the ninth he had to sink another twenty-five footer for a half in 4. Both golfers were 37 to the turn.

Poinsette took the lead at the tenth and was never seriously threatened thereafter. Both were off the tenth green on their approaches, but the left-hander had a hard down-hill chip shot to play and ran over the green, while his opponent put his third within inches of the cup. On the eleventh Purcell's skill on the greens deserted him and he took three putts for a lost hole. He was 3 down at the twelfth when his second caught the rough by the lake and he came out short.

Ends at Fourteenth Hole.

On the thirteenth Poinsette hit a beautiful tee shot within ten feet of the pin, and had an easy win with a 3 when Purcell found trouble. This left the newspaper golfer 4 up with only 5 to play. Both got good drives from the fourteenth tee, but on the approach Poinsette was inside Purcell, and when the left-hander missed his putt for a 3, the tall youth hit his ball confidently against the back of the cup, and when it clicked against the bottom he was the winner of the Herald Cup and the public parks champion of this city for the year.

MEADOW BROOK FOUR WINS.

Beats Rockaway Poloists—H. P. Whitney Shows Old-Time Form.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Meadow Brook and Rockaway Hunt Club's crack polo teams, who played on Aug. 2 for the county championship, with Rockaway a winner, again tried conclusions today on the Hempstead Plains, with Meadow Brook reversing her recent defeat and winning from Rockaway by a net score of 10½ to 3 goals. It was a remarkably fast match. For the first half it was closely contested.

Harry Payne Whitney, a former international player, played the first four periods under Rockaway's colors, displaying his old-time brilliant form so effectively that the score at half time stood: Meadow Brook, ½ goal; Rockaway, 1½. Whitney then retired and misfortune followed Rockaway, despite their defensive play.

Playing for Meadow Brook were C. C. Rumsey, Thomas Hitchcock, W. J. Watson Webb, and Devereux Milburn.

Rockaway lined up in the first four chukkers with F. H. Prince, Jr., E. W. Hopping, H. P. Whitney, and Malcolm Stevenson. In the last half Elliott C. Cowden played No. 1 for Rockaway, with Hopping, Stevenson, and Prince in the order named.

CAPABLANCA WINS AT CHESS

Cuban Master and Kostich in Lead in British Victory Tournament.

HASTINGS, England, Aug. 13.—With twelve masters, representing England, Holland, Serbia, Cuba, and Mexico, competing in the Victory Tournament, the International Congress of the British Chess Federation is in full swing at the Drill Hall here.

After two rounds, José R. Capablanca of Havana, and Boris Kostich, the Serbian champion, the two masters who carried off the first and second prizes in the last tournament at New York, are in the lead.

SANFORD MEMORIAL IS WON BY UPSET

Man o' War Furnishes the Real Thrill of Race, but Is Beaten by a Neck.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The Glenn Riddle Farm's great two-year-old, Man o' War was next to the outside heels of a rival in his first six races, met with his first defeat here today in the running of the Sanford Memorial. He was forced to bow to Harry Payne Whitney's Upset in a neck-and-neck finish in this six-furlong dash, but he had the satisfaction of quite definitely triumphing over the widely heralded Golden Broom, which he easily beat into submission and which finished third, four lengths back.

Though defeated, Man o' War was not discredited. On the contrary, the manner in which he ran this race stamped him, in the opinion of horsemen, as the best of his division without question. Though failing to get his nose in front, he stood out as the best horse in the race by a large margin, for he had all the worst of the racing luck. Beginning with a very bad start, he came on to give battle to a horse which had a start of three to four lengths on him. There was scarcely a witness of this race who did not believe after it was all over that Man o' War would have walked home, with anything like a fair chance.

20,000 See Race.

The Sanford Memorial, for which John Sanford donated a cup on this occasion because of the presence of Man o' War and Golden Broom, was by far the most interesting event that has been held during the Saratoga meeting. One of the largest crowds of the meeting, about 20,000 persons, saw the running of the race.

After two of the original entries had been scratched, John E. Madden added Captain Alcock, and seven horses went to the post. As was expected, Man o' War was an odds on favorite, the prevailing price being 1 to 2. Golden Broom was offered as 2 to 1 while Upset, regarded at all times as the third choice, was 7 to 1 to win but only 2 to 5 to show.

Golden Broom had an inside position, with Ambrose again in the saddle, while Man o' War was next to the outside with Loftus up. Golden Broom, which seems to be a very shy and green colt, had to be led out of the paddock with a pony and so conducted throughout the parade past the stands and to the starting post. Upon arriving there he began to act up, apparently through anxiety to be away winging.

For those who had hoped for a pretty run race without anything to mar it, it was unfortunate that Mars Cassidy was ill and was not able to act as starter. C. H. Pettingill, one of the placing judges, acted in his place and did very badly all day, getting only two really good starts on a program of seven events.

One of the worst starts was that in the Sanford Memorial. Golden Broom broke through the barrier three times, while Upset, which was near him, also was trying to beat the barrier. Man o' War acted very calmly but was on his toes. Pettingill spent several minutes trying to get the horses lined up and then sent them away with only those near the rail ready for the start. The start was responsible for the defeat of Man o' War, it turned out.

Golden Broom to the Front.

Golden Broom, showing the speed which he had twice flashed here, was away with a bound and was two lengths in front in the first sixteenth. Upset, also away like a shot out of a gun, took after the leader with G. W. Loft's Donnacona running third. Man o' War, one of the fastest breakers among the two-year-olds, and one which had always been able to break with the first of the field, was left almost at the post. As the horses straggled away Man o' War was next to last to leave, having to get set after the others were under way.

Golden Broom cut out a decidedly fast pace, Ambrose having in mind the easy victory he gained as a front runner a few days before. He also had in mind, no doubt, the fact that just such a pace, sustained to the wire, was needed to beat the favorite. At the first turn Golden Broom was leading with Upset second, two lengths back, and Donnacona third, and at that point it seemed Mrs. Jefford's fine colt would win.

In the meantime Man o' War was beginning to show what a really great horse he was. Off almost last, he gained his speed in a few strides, and then started to pass horses all along the back stretch. Armistice and The Swimmer were soon disposed of, and making the turn the Glen Riddle Farm's racer drew up to fourth. At this point Donnacona gave up the chase, and on the last part of the turn into the stretch Man o' War took third position, about two lengths back of Upset.

The Whitney colt was running a fine race, but had not yet gained on Golden Broom. A few strides down the stretch Golden Broom suddenly gave up the race, and Upset raced past him. In another instant Man o' War had dashed by his chestnut rival and it became a question whether Upset could last to win. Man o' War received a fine ride from Loftus, who gave the colt every assistance within his power. Steadily Man o' War drew up on Upset. A hundred feet from the wire he was three-fourths of a length away. At the wire he was a scant neck out of the first position and in another twenty feet he would have passed the Whitney horse. Golden Broom lasted to take third, while Captain Alcock rushed up for fourth. All but the first three were badly beaten.

Conceded 15 Pounds to Winner.

What made the race of Man o' War so impressive was the fact that he came from so far behind and that also he conceded fifteen pounds to Upset. On the very performances of the two today the Whitney horse would not appear to have a chance to win under an even break.

Of next importance on the card was the Watervliet handicap for three-year-olds, which brought out some star performers. This race was won by R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Hannibal, with J. K. L. Ross's War Pennant second and the Oneck Stable's Thunderclap third.

H. P. Whitney's Blue Laddie, which had not run since the meeting here last year, was another starter. Blue Laddie was a great two-year-old and was respected today. It proved that he was far from ready for such strenuous competition. After going a quarter of a mile he stopped and finished next to last.

Hannibal got away to a flying start on the mile journey and never relinquished the lead. Loftus, on War Pennant, charged him in the stretch and attempted to come up, but Hannibal was full of running and galloped in with four lengths to spare.

WRIGHT WINS TITLE AT CHICAGO TRAPS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 13.—Frank S. Wright of Buffalo, N. Y., was crowned king of the trapshooters in the American singles championship held at the South Shore Country Club in this city today. He won the title against the winners of State championships throughout the country, and defeated in the tie which followed the downing of the regular 200 birds, J. W. Ackard of Montana and R. D. Morgan of Maryland. The trio tied for the prize at 199.

The shooting throughout the afternoon was of the highest class, and, like the shooting of the last two days, showed that a new level has been reached in the sport. Ackard went through his first seven strings of twenty-five each without a miss, and it was not until his last string that he fell down. The miss was a clean one, however, and his chances for the title went glimmering. Morgan missed one bird in his fifth string and Wright one in his seventh.

In the shoot-off, Ackard fell out on the first string, missing one bird, while Wright and Morgan broke their quota. Morgan missed the first bird of the second string and Wright went through without a miss. In the day's shoot, Wright broke 249 out of 250 targets and Morgan 248 out of the same number. Numbers of scores for the singles championship were in the 190 class, among them the winners of the matches of the day before.

Frank Troeh, who broke 200 straight in the eighteen yard event yesterday, nearly duplicated his score today, finishing with 197. In two days he has broken 597 out of 600 targets and has again proved himself a most consistent performer.

Three men missed but two birds in the event. They were J. L. Osborn of Massachusetts, J. A. Skinner of Michigan, and Walcott Henderson of Kentucky. There was no shoot-off for second place.

The East vs. West team match went to the West by one bird, the total scores being: West, 1,954; East, 1,953. In this event Frank Troeh again broke 200 straight, leading the nearest Westerner, Joe Jennings, by two birds. E. L. Edens of Arizona was the second Westerner in this event with 197, while Walcott Henderson of Kentucky took the same score for the East. The lowest score in the team match was 194, which was made by eight of the twenty men engaged.

Nick Arie of Houston, Texas, brother of former national champion Mark Arie, took the national doubles championship, breaking 91 out of 100 clay pigeons. J. S. Day and A. C. Skutt tied for second place with 87 each. E. V. Kirby and J. B. Troeh tied for third with 85 apiece.

Ten-year-old George Andrew Miller of Brewton, Ala., won the boys' championship of the United States. This youngster stands about six inches shorter than his gun and has arms about as big as the circumference of the barrel, but these facts did not prevent him from breaking 49 out of 50 birds and defeating a number of other lads under 18, some of whom were almost twice as tall. H. E. Woodward of Houston, Texas, took second place, breaking 47 out of the 50 play pigeons. Besides Miller, young Clarence Andrews of New London, Iowa, was the only junior to break twenty-five straight targets.

Peter Mayer won the veterans' championship at 50 targets, scoring 46. The youngest old man allowed to enter must be 70.

SHOOTS A PERFECT SCORE.

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 13.—The first stage of the United States Marine Corps rifle match for the Marine Corps cup, valued at $2,000, was shot at 600 yards at the navy rifle range here today. BAY STATE GOLF SEPT. 8.

Open Championship Tournament to be Contested at Worcester.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The State open golf championship tournament will be held at the Worcester Country Club on Sept. 8 and 9, having been set forward a week so as not to conflict with the Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Engineers' Club, Long Island. It will be a 72-hole medal competition.

A Brooklynite has just dug up an interesting expression from one of James Russell Lowell's essays written back in 1870:

"An umbrella is of no avail against a Scotch mist. It envelops you, it penetrates at every pore, it wets you through without seeming to wet you at all."

In sending it to us, he was good enough to add:

"When I read this I thought of what a pity it was Lowell did not live long enough to know the other kind of *"Scotch Mist"—the kind that is sold at your Four Corners—so he could have defied what seemed to hold so much terror for him."

FINANCIAL MARKETS.

Stocks Fluctuate Uncertainly Without Denoting a Definite Trend—Call Money Easy.

The course of dealings in yesterday's stock market was practically the same in their results as on Monday and Tuesday. The price list had a strong appearance up to noon and afterward professional operations were fairly successful in undermining the previous advance. Business lacked sustained buying most of the time, and when offerings increased the industrial issues particularly affected declined rather easily. It was noticeable, however, that most of the standard stocks bore up under pressure with greater firmness than many of the so-called specialties, while the railroad list, for the most part, recorded changes of small fractions. Prices were irregular at the close.

There were indications that bearish traders were active much of the time feeling out the quality of prices. This was seen in an increase of offerings of American Telephone and Telegraph shares, which were forced down nearly five points. The material which came in handy in the furtherance of short sales was a rumor that the company was contemplating a large bond issue. It has been the custom of the telephone concern for a number of years to finance extension work by new issues of funded obligations in the Autumn, but as far as could be learned yesterday such a plan has not yet been brought forward for the current year. The market was again devoid of news or events which would lend themselves as a basis for broad influences upon security quotations. The call money situation showed greater ease than the day before, the rate declining to 3½ per cent. in the afternoon. The renewal rate was no higher than 5½ per cent., and there was a somewhat larger supply of time money available than earlier in the week at 6 per cent.

The industrial situation is becoming more and more interesting as time passes. Labor troubles, in the light of reports from various steel centres, have been sufficient for a week and more to retard production, yet latest information goes to show that many mills are working on a high scale and the others are busier than they were a month ago. Presumably, one explanation is that the unrest of labor has not been actually reflected in strikes except in particular localities. The Iron Age notes that the Lake Superior ore movement has been stopped by a strike of dock workers, but this has not been felt at blast furnaces because of large stocks and the presence of substantial supplies at the docks before the strike began. Large Pittsburgh steel works are reported to be working between 80 and 85 per cent. of capacity, while the ingot output is proceeding on a greater level. Heavy export inquiries for pig iron are in the market, of which an important tonnage is destined for the British Isles. The British applications appear to have a direct relation to a recent decline of ocean freight rates out of Southern ports and to the closing down of Welsh blast furnaces because of a lack of coal. The price of copper is not so firm as a fortnight ago in the domestic market and the trade seems to be waiting for further reactions before buying extensively. It is not clear at present what connection exists between the labor outlook and copper purchases.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Trading on Reduced Scale.

The volume of trading so far this week, while large in comparison to the normal run, is small compared to that of the last several months. The million-share sequence was broken many days ago, but until this week there had not been three consecutive days which fell under a million shares since the first week in April.

The U. S. Rubber Report.

No more striking testimonial to the prosperity of some industrial companies could be found than the half-yearly statement of earnings by the United States Rubber Company. The profits now are greater even than during the war period, the indicated earnings of the present year on the common stock being $46 a share. This has been brought to pass rather by expansion of business than by price increases. The volume of gross business on the basis of earnings must be more than $300,000,000. Speculators have been booming all of the rubber stocks for many months and none more so than United States Rubber, which has risen from considerably below par to nearly 140. The remarkable thing is that the report of the company has far outstripped the reports of prosperity.

Impending Strikes.

Ever since the Railroad Brotherhoods stated their stand with regard to nationalization of the railroads, with the implication that there might be a strike, Wall Street has been a bit nervous at the mere mention of strike. When Wall Street is nervous, however, the rumor mart endeavors to aggravate rather than allay the condition. Summing up all of the rumors that have been afloat recently, it might be imagined that every workman in the country was going on strike. The steel industry has been mentioned repeatedly as facing strike possibilities. Authoritative reports, however, indicate that the danger in that quarter has been much overplayed. It is stated that the men who favor a strike are in a very small minority, the great majority of the men being satisfied.

American Tel. & Tel.

There was a pronounced weakness in American Telephone and Telegraph stock. The issue has been heavy for some time, but the trading has been in small volume. It was, however, a cause for much comment when the stock settled slowly back instead of responding to the enthusiasm of the bull market. Yesterday there was a break such as is seldom seen in this issue, the decline amounting to 3⅞ points and carrying the price to 97. Reports that Tel. and Tel. was a good short sale have been in abundance recently without causing much activity. Yesterday the stock became active in a falling market, indications pointing to a bear raid. The stock dropped more than 2 points in the last hour.

Western Holdings Liquidated.

Much of the activity in the bull market was attributed to the West, but it is said that the Western traders have either liquidated their holdings and stepped out of the market or changed from the long to the short side. Conclusive evidence pointing to this is lacking. It would be logical to assume, however, that there would not be such a free use of money here at this time when the demands for money in the West are increasing, due to the requirements of the crop movement.

Copper Price Soft.

It was reported that quite substantial amounts of copper could be had for 22 cents a pound, and some for as low as 21½ cents from the smaller producers. The big producers are still firm in asking 23½ cents for thirty-day delivery. Demand for the metal was a little better, but it is still far below the spirited buying of three weeks to a month ago. It is asserted that it would be only natural for demand to be unassertive during August.

Prices Irregular.

For the better part of yesterday's trading the general price trend was upward, but in the last hour there was a reaction which in some instances was sufficient to wipe out previous gains, the market evidently occupying a somewhat sensitive position to pressure from either side. Petroleum shares, led by Pan-American, moved into higher grounds and reports were circulated that the oil trade is expecting more decisive Government action in regard to the Mexican situation.

Car Shortage Beginning.

Reports are beginning to appear of freight car shortages at various points throughout the country, some railroad agents stating that there is a lack of sufficient rolling stock to handle the movement of coal and general freight. This is not considered surprising in railroad quarters, as it has been realized for a long time that the movement of the crops this year would probably result in a scarcity of cars. A large percentage of the rolling stock which carried the bulk of the war freight under greater pressure than ever before, has simply worn out, and the Railroad Administration equipment which was ordered in 1918, and which has been made available for use now, is insufficient to meet the shortage. How severe this will become is not even estimated now, but it is expected to assume large proportions.

Baldwin Reports Denied.

The number of Baldwin Locomotive Company reports which have been afloat in this market for the last month or so received somewhat of a jolt when dispatches received in the financial district from Philadelphia stated that President Samuel M. Vauclain had denied recent reports that stock of the company would be exchanged for stock in a new concern. At the same time the circulation of this denial brought about some selling of the issue. The stock closed with a net loss of more than 2½ points.

Texans Buy Big Diamonds.

As an interesting sidelight on the increased buying power being felt in New York markets from unexpected localities a banker said that some of the largest orders for big diamonds that the local diamond trade has received for some time have come from the Panhandle district in Texas. This is attributed to the sudden acquisition of wealth in the Panhandle as the result of the oil boom in Texas.

American Locomotive Favored.

There was substantial buying of American Locomotive based apparently on the belief that Directors will take favorable dividend action when they next meet. The company is reported to be in a strong financial condition and reports of an extra dividend have been persistently circulated. In the later trading there was sufficient profit-taking in evidence to cut down the gain for the day, the final quotation of 90 being the same as the last price on Tuesday.

SEES PROFIT AHEAD FOR WAGE EARNERS

URGES CALM JUDGMENTS

Believes Conditions will Quickly Return to Normal—Wants Just Treatment for Railroads.

James A. Stillman, President of the National City Bank, yesterday issued a statement on general conditions in this country, in which he referred to this as a time for temperate speech and not a time for the saying or doing of anything that will increase the confusion and excitement which exist. The statement reads in part:

"The war has interrupted industry and made many conditions abnormal. It is responsible for the high cost of living by causing a great scarcity of all the necessaries. It is just what was to be expected after the withdrawal of so many millions of men from production. The remedy is in orderly industry. The whole situation will right itself as production is increased. Food will go down and clothing will be cheaper.

"This country went through a similar situation after our civil war. At first there was scarcity and high prices, but when industry was fully resumed we had a long period of falling prices. It is true that in many instances wages do not keep pace with commodities when the latter are rising, but on the other hand wages do not fall as fast as commodities when the latter turn downward. Labor generally loses on the rising scale but gains on the falling scale, and the gains last longer than the losses. I venture the prediction that the wage-earners will come out of this situation the gainers, because the decline in what they buy will be greater than in wages. It has always been so. All the improvements in industry, by invention and the accumulation of capital, work for the benefit of labor.

The Railroad Problem.

"As for the proposal of the railroad brotherhoods, that is not a matter to be discussed in hot blood. It is a question of national policy, to be settled by fair discussion, not considering railway owners or railway employes alone but the interests of all the people. How can the railways be most efficiently operated so that the transportation charge which the public must pay shall be as small as is consistent with just treatment of investors and just treatment of employes? Railway investors are entitled to have a fair return on their capital as compared with investors in other industries, and employes are entitled to fair compensation as compared with employes in other industries. This is the general principle upon which the railroad problem should be solved.

"I don't believe the railroad men want any more than what they believe to be fair, but the leaders are in the position of advocates and attorneys. They see one side of the case only, and are misled by the vast amount of misinformation, distorted statements, and half truths that are current.

"The owners of securities of the principal railroads have nothing to fear from any inquiry into the value of the properties. The railroad investments of this country, as a class, are certainly as clean as any other form of investments. Vastly more money has been made by the people who followed the construction of new railroads in land and industrial opportunities, than has been made by investors in railroads. The rewards, on the average, have not been excessive, measured by the return upon other investments. There have been unscrupulous promoters in railroads, as in other lines of business, but the stockholders have suffered most from them. The great body of railroad financing has been honest and sound on the whole, and the public has received full value and the best service in the world.

Seeks Just Investments.

"The idea that the Government can borrow in billions of dollars at 4 per cent. under present conditions is a mistaken one. With only a small public debt, as formerly, Government bonds free of all taxation were in demand by a small class of investors at low rates. That proves nothing as to ability to float great sums. Let any one ask himself how many people he knows who want a 4 per cent. investment. It would be unjust and practical repudiation for the Government after ascertaining the fair cash value of railroad property to forcibly take it over for a Government security which would not bring its face on the public market. According to the argument of the railroad men money has so depreciated that 4 per cent. on a given sum is no more than 2 per cent. five years ago.

"This is not a matter which directly concerns commercial banks so much as it does savings banks, life insurance companies, and private investors, but whoever has invested in good faith in railroad securities should have just treatment. Moreover, it is necessary that the present holder shall be treated in a manner which will not repel investments in the future, because vast sums must be had continually to keep the railroads up to the needs of the country.

"Questions of this kind cannot be settled by ex-parte statements on either side. They must be threshed out in fair, candid discussion, and settled with a desire to deal justly. Neither side can claim the right to be the sole judge of its own case, and that is the first question to be settled.

"It is not a time for hasty action or for any experiments which will tend to prevent the speedy revival of confidence and industry. The world is short of the common necessaries of life, and that is the first situation to be dealt with."

STOCK HOLIDAY SATURDAY.

Exchange Governors Ask Officers to Keep Open Till 2 P. M.

Although the Governors of the New York Stock Exchange ruled yesterday that the big board would be closed on Saturday next, as the result of a petition for a holiday by many members, they requested that offices be kept open until 2 o'clock in the afternoon so that clerical staffs in those offices would be able to catch up with work which has accumulated as the result of a long series of million-share trading days.

In making this request the Governors explained that on recent holidays which were declared for the express purpose of enabling brokers to catch up with the market, many offices were closed up for the day and all of the back work was not disposed of, for the reason that while the houses which were behind did stay open and do their best to catch up, the offices which were not behind were closed and comparisons were impossible. With all of the members' offices open until 2 o'clock on Saturday it is expected that this obstacle will be removed and all back work will be cleared up.

Oil Co. Reports Increased Dividends.

The Sinclair Oil and Refining Corporation reports net earnings of $4,107,190 for the second quarter of this year. This compares with $3,384,363 in the first quarter of this year and $4,407,607 in the second quarter of last year. For the first half of this year the net earnings were $7,491,553 as against $8,393,100 for the first half of 1918. After all interest charges, depreciation and Federal taxes were deducted the amount available for dividends for the first six months of this year was $6,425,058, or an increase of more than $1,100,000 over the corresponding period of last year.

BELIEVE SHOPMEN'S STRIKE BROKEN

FORMER ISSUES STATEMENT

Says Existing Situation Could Not Have Been Dealt With Until This Time.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The backbone of the strike of the railroad shopmen who refused to obey their national leaders, is broken, according to the belief expressed today by Director General Hines and the representatives of the shopmen, and it is probable that at an early date a conference will be held to take up the wage question along lines suggested by President Wilson.

Administration officials as well as the accredited national leaders of the employes are satisfied at least that the danger line has been passed and that there is no likelihood of a situation developing which would paralyze the railroad systems unless it is found impossible to reach a common ground at the coming conferences.

It is stated that more than ninety per cent. of the strikers have returned to their work and that others are slowly getting into line. The only situation which might be classed as serious was said to exist in Boston, Chicago, some sections of Florida and in the Minneapolis and St. Paul district.

In these places agitators with leanings toward the doctrines of the Industrial Workers of the World are charged with seeking to foment trouble among the men. With these groups Director General Hines refuses to deal and they are not recognized by the accredited national leaders.

The wage adjustment conferences will be undertaken when the national leaders of the shopmen decide that the strikes are at an end. It is understood that strikers still out when such a decision is reached must not expect to share in any wage benefits which are granted. Conferences regarding wage agreements may be started before the end of this week.

Director General Hines made his attitude toward the strikers plain today in replying to a communication from former Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, who had suggested that Mr. Hines might find it possible to treat directly with the Chicago strikers. Mr. Hines, in a telegram to Mr. Lewis, said: "I deeply appreciate your interest, but I cannot consistently comply with the suggestion to deal directly with the local representative. The Railroad Administration cannot deal with these problems except through the duly chosen international officers of the regularly constituted organizations and their authorized committee."

In an authorized statement today, Mr. Hines dealt with the problems which confronted him, as well as the general situation:

"The shopmen who have been on unauthorized strike in various parts of the country," the statement read, "are rapidly returning to work, and already conditions are practically normal in most parts of the country. It is anticipated that at a comparatively early date the strikes will have entirely terminated, whereupon the Railroad Administration will promptly take up and deal with the wage questions now pending.

"I would like to make it clear to the public and the railroad employes alike that the situation now existing could not have been dealt with until this time. It is true that in February, 1919, the shopmen submitted their proposals to the Board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions, but when this was done it was clearly understood that since the original proposals of the shop employes had been dealt with in July, 1918, while other classes of employes making similar proposals had received no consideration at all, these other classes of employes must first be dealt with. Another circumstance of importance was that the shopmen were also pressing proposals for uniform rules and working conditions involving a great many points of difference and difficulty. The result was that, despite the most earnest desire on the part of all the members of the Wage Board to deal promptly with these matters, no members of the board, either the labor members, or the management members, were in position to submit their final suggestions until July 16, before which time the date of July 28 had been fixed upon by agreement with the representatives of the shop employes for a discussion of the rules and working conditions and wage matters.

"By July 16 the situation had assumed a wholly different shape. Practically every class of railroad employes had come forward urging either an increase in wages or a reduction in the cost of living.

"Therefore by the time the conference with the shop representatives took place on July 28 the Railroad Administration was confronted with a situation involving practically all of the 2,000,000 railroad employes, and necessarily had to obtain a clear understanding as to the powers it ought to exercise in this regard so near the termination of Federal control."

BOSTON AND CHICAGO HOLDOUT

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The sixth day of curtailed freight and passenger service caused by the railroad shopmen's strike found strikers and railroad managers marking time and awaiting the result of the vote on a return to work pending settlement of the wage dispute. The balloting will not be completed until tomorrow night.

Railroad officials announced that attempts would be made to continue the present train service without further cancellations until Friday.

Announcement was made in union circles that station employes at the South terminal, including ticket sellers, gatemen, porters, elevator operators, baggage room helpers, and clerks, would meet tonight to consider "a concerted and peaceful withdrawal" as a protest against the delay in the consideration of the demands of the Brotherhood of Railway Station Employes and Clerks, with which they are affiliated. There are 350 such employes at the South station.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Railway officials today reported continued improvement in the railway shopmen's strike situation in practically every section of the country with the exception of Boston and Chicago, where a large majority of the men refuse to return to work.

Return of the shopmen in the Atlanta, Ga., district improved the traffic situation throughout the South.

In Chicago several hundred boiler makers employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road voted to return.

Officers of the Chicago district council of the Federated Railway Shopmen received word today from Director Hines that the Government would not negotiate any settlement with the local body. Representatives of striking shopmen from every section of the country arrived here today to attend the mass meeting to be held tomorrow to act on President Wilson's demand that the men return to work immediately.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 13.—Ballots cast by 6,000 shopmen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad on the ending of the strike will be turned over to the officers at 8 A. M. tomorrow. H. J. Porter, the Secretary, today said that if the vote is to return the men will go to work immediately, to stay until Sept. 2, on which date a general strike on all railroads may be ordered to obtain increased wages. The New Haven system federation members have already voted on a general strike and ballots are to be in the hands of the brotherhood officers not later than Aug. 24.

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 13.—Thousands of miners and their families in the Logan, Coal River, and Cabin Creek fields face starvation in the next two or three days and are suffering privations as the result of the freight and passenger tie up on branch lines of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, caused by the shopmen's strike. More than 300 mines have been closed and 30,000 men thrown out of work.

Interborough Consolidated Corporation

To the Holders of

Interborough-Metropolitan Company Collateral Trust Four-and-a-Half Per Cent. Gold Bonds

The investigation of Messrs. Stone & Webster and Price, Waterhouse & Co., of the properties controlled by Interborough Consolidated Corporation (successor to Interborough-Metropolitan Company), to which reference was made in our circular letter of April 2, 1919, has been completed so far as the subway and elevated lines of Interborough Rapid Transit Company are concerned. A copy of the condensed preliminary report of Messrs. Stone & Webster will be furnished to bondholders upon application to the Secretary of the Committee.

In view of the critical condition of the property as disclosed by the report of Messrs. Stone & Webster, it is of the utmost importance that the Committee should promptly represent as large a proportion of the bonds as possible. Bondholders are accordingly offered the opportunity of depositing their bonds without penalty up to September 15, 1919.

Bondholders by depositing their bonds do not obligate themselves to accept any Plan of Readjustment or Reorganization that the Committee may ultimately adopt, as the Deposit Agreement, dated February 27, 1919, provides an opportunity upon the terms stated in the Agreement for depositors to withdraw their bonds within thirty days after the promulgation of a plan.

$30,408,000 of bonds (over forty-seven per cent.) have already been deposited.

WANTS LAW TO BAR RAILROAD STRIKES

Manufacturers' Association Head Advises Giving President Power to Stop Them.

PROPOSES INTERVENTION

Statement by S. B. Mason to House Committee Calls Plumb Plan Step Toward Soviet Control.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Power of intervention to prevent labor disputes from interrupting railroad operation would be vested in the President if suggestions made today to the House Interstate Commerce Committee by Stephen E. Mason, President of the National Association of Manufacturers, were adopted. The suggestions were read from a statement which proposed that legislation be enacted to provide:

First, That whenever, in the opinion of the President, a dispute over hours, wages or working conditions threatens the interruption of a carrier essential to civil or military governmental needs or the free movement of commerce between the States, or with foreign nations, he shall appoint a commission to investigate and decide upon the merits of the controversy and until such finding is made any strike or lockout shall be unlawful.

Second—that, under the authority established by the decision of the Supreme Court in the Adamson case, whenever a labor dispute threatens the operation of an instrumentality of interstate commerce, the President shall have the power to appoint a commission which would write a contract for the parties in dispute, to be binding upon them until they reach voluntary agreement by themselves, in which event their agreement would supersede that of the commission.

Regarding the Plumb plan the statement said:

"It is the first step through the gateway of State Socialism to the operation of transportation and industry under a Soviet control. Every argument that is or can be made in principle for Government ownership of the railroads under thinly disguised control of the organized employes is equally applicable and will be made to like Government ownership and operation of the telephone, the telegraph, and the merchant marine. It proposes a speculative experiment at colossal expense in an hour when the nation staggers under the burden of unprecedented debt. No plan could be devised that would more certainly demoralize the business structure of the nation, jeopardize the savings or the frugal and the industrious, or more certainly increase the cost of sustaining the life of every human being within the nation."

The people of the country, Mr. Mason asserted in his statement, must either assent to the control of Congress over commerce between the States or submit to its control and regulation by organized railway labor. It was pertinent to ask this question:

"If a State with its recognized powers of sovereignty is impotent to obstruct interstate commerce, can it be that any mere voluntary association of individuals within the limits of that State has a power which that State itself does not possess?"

He gave it as the belief of the National Association of Manufacturers that the railroads should be returned to their owners; that Congress should, during the period of Government administration, provide adequately for upkeep, betterment and expansion; that the rule of rate-making should be clearly defined by statute, that consolidation and co-operation among lines should be authorized in the same manner as under present operation and administration, and that the duties and functions of the Interstate Commerce Commission should be modified and a transportation board established.

Luther M. Walter, general counsel for the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, will advocate the Warfield plan before the committee tomorrow, and Samuel H. Beach, President of the Savings Bank Association of New York State, will support the same plan on Friday.

LOREE REPLIES TO PLUMB.

Delaware & Hudson President Tells of Road's Stock Issues.

L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson Company, yesterday issued the following statement relative to the testimony of Glenn E. Plumb regarding the issuance of railroad securities before the House Interstate Commerce Committee:

In his testimony before the House Interstate Commerce Committee Mr. Glenn E. Plumb is quoted as saying:

"I charge that during the limited period from 1900 to 1910 eight Eastern roads alone issued new stock for $101,000,000 less than its market value, or gave away this enormous amount in bonuses to stockholders. • • • I name as the railroads involved • • • the Delaware & Hudson Company. • • •"

"The records of the Delaware & Hudson Company show that:

"At the beginning of 1900 the authorized and outstanding capital stock was $35,000,000. In 1904 the company authorized an increase in its capital stock of $10,000,000, of which $7,000,000 was offered to stockholders of record March 19, 1904, at $135 per share, each stockholder having the right to subscribe for one share of new stock for every five shares owned. The balance of $3,000,000 of authorized stock is still unissued.

"This $7,000,000 of capital stock was issued to retire $5,000,000 of New York and Canada Railroad Company bonds maturing May 1, 1904, to defray the cost of standard-gauging the Chateaugay & Lake Placid Railway, and to reimburse the treasury for advances for construction work. At the subscription price, $9,450,000 was realized on its sale. The average market price of the Delaware & Hudson Company's stock in March, 1904, was $152.45. The lowest price in that month was $149—on March 22.

"In May, 1905, the company authorized an increase in its capital stock of $5,000,000 for the purpose of exchanging same, prior to April 1, 1916, for Albany & Susquehanna Railroad 3½ per cent. bonds, due in 1946, at the rate of five shares for each $1,000 bond. There has been exchanged thereunder $1,778,000 of this issue for $3,556,000 of Albany & Susquehanna bonds, the balance, $3,222,000 remaining unissued.

"In January, 1906, the company authorized an increase of $7,000,000 in its capital stock for the purpose of exchanging same for its issue of $14,000,000 of 4 per cent. convertible debentures, due June 15, 1936, at the rate of five shares for each $1,000 debenture. Thirteen thousand and five hundred dollars of capital stock was issued under this authority in exchange for $27,000 of these bonds, the balance of the authorized increase, $6,980,500, still remaining unissued.

"Capital stock of the company was retired and cancelled between the years 1900 and 1910, by the operation of sinking fund, as follows:

Year.	Shares.	Par Value.
1900	2,060	$200,600
1901	1,543	154,300
1902	1,286	128,600
1903	1,000	100,000
1904	4,171	417,100

EUROPE ASKS FOR OUR STEEL

Export Inquiries Increase—Prices in England Advance.

In its weekly review of conditions in the steel industry The Iron Age says that Great Britain is inquiring for iron and steel in American markets, this being partially due to the fact that freight rates from the Gulf ports are down $10 a ton, which would make American prices look decidedly attractive in comparison to English. One British inquiry for basic iron, it is asserted, amounts to about 25,000 tons, with another inquiry for 5,000 tons of foundry iron. The export inquiry from Holland, Scandinavia, Belgium, Japan, Italy, and the United Kigdom is reported to total 50,000 tons.

In discussing the situation the publication says:

The stoppage of the Lake Superior ore movement by the strike at upper Lake docks for a 30 per cent. advance in wages, the prospect of higher railroad freight rates in line with the expected wage increase to railroad workers, and the car shortage due to the railroad shopmen's strike, have caused producers of iron and steel to adopt a conservative selling policy.

Coal output in Great Britain has fallen off nearly 50 per cent. since mid-July, and some blast furnaces in Wales and in the Midlands have been forced to bank.

Leading steel manufacturers are not disposed to ask higher prices on major products for this year's delivery, but there is an upward tendency, and in some cases an actual advance, in galvanized sheets, nuts, bolts and rivets, and in boat spikes and cut nails.

The Iron Trade Review says:

The export companies report a steady growth in their bookings. As conditions abroad become stabilized, current inquiries indicate, our export business will continue to grow. One of the big orders now in the market is for 20,000 tons of steel to be placed in connection with additions to be erected for the Tata Iron and Steel Company of India.

Steel prices in England have advanced 5s. to 20s per ton, according to late cables.

The Company has no bonded indebtedness.

Information regarding the Preferred Stock and the business and property of the Company is set forth in a letter furnished us by Rudolph A. Low, Esq., President, which has been summarized by him as follows:

BUSINESS: Madison Tire and Rubber Company, Inc., will engage in the manufacture of high grade cord and fabric pneumatic automobile tires, tubes and other rubber products. Its operations will be conducted in a modern, well equipped plant at Buffalo, N. Y. Its initial daily capacity will be approximately 1,200 tires and 2,000 tubes. It also will acquire and continue the business of the United States Rubber Reclaiming Co., Inc., started in 1881, one of the largest and oldest independent rubber reclaiming companies in the world. Thus it will continue and further expand a business of the manufacture and sale of rubber products which has shown unusual profit and growth for over thirty years.

EARNINGS: The average income of the Rubber Reclaiming Department for the last five years, together with the income from sales of tires which already have been booked, indicate net earnings for the year 1920 of approximately $600,000—about $30 per share of Preferred Stock, or three and three-quarters times the annual dividend requirement of this stock.

INVESTMENT POSITION OF THE PREFERRED STOCK: After giving effect to the additional $1,400,000 working capital that has been provided, the balance sheet as of June 30, 1919, shows net current assets of $2,242,145, or over 110% of the total amount of Preferred Stock, and total net tangible assets (exclusive of good-will, patents, etc.) of approximately $3,437,492, or over 171% of the amount of Preferred Stock.

The sound value of the plant of the Company was appraised as of July 31, 1919, by the American Appraisal Co. at $1,193,268 after full allowance for depreciation and exclusive of good-will, brands, trademarks and all intangible items.

CONVERTIBLE PRIVILEGE: The Preferred Stock is convertible at the option of the holder at any time until July 1, 1929, into the Common Stock of the Company at the rate of one share of Common Stock for each share of Preferred Stock.

PREFERRED STOCK RIGHTS AND PREFERENCES: The Company agrees not to create any mortgage lien or to issue or guarantee notes, bonds or other evidence of indebtedness having a maturity of one year or more without the consent of holders of three-fourths of the outstanding Preferred Stock.

THE COMPANY manufactures paper box board and utilizes its own product in manufacturing folding paper boxes and other specialties. The plant is located near New London, where four water powers are developed for the operation of three paper mills, two of stone and one of wood construction. The box department is housed in a modern box factory of brick, steel and concrete with a modern storehouse of similar construction. In addition there are two other small factory buildings, a machine shop, stable, blacksmith shop, twenty-five houses for employees and one hundred acres of land. A siding connects with the Vermont Central R. R. Water Freight from New York gives this property a distinct advantage in obtaining at low cost the refuse paper which forms its raw material.

CUSTOMERS include such firms as:

Bennett Biscuit Co.	Esmond Mills	Scovill Mfg. Co.
Landers, Frary & Clark	Waterbury Mfg. Co.	National Fireworks Co.

Wire Goods Co.	Unexcelled Mfg. Co.	Chas. F. Hubbs & Co.
Box Board & Lining Co.	Worcester Machine Screw Co.	Eagle Lock Co.

EMPLOYEES in some instances have worked for the company forty years and many own their own homes. There has never been a strike. All employees are supplied with free life insurance. A profit sharing plan makes each week's pay subject to increase by a bonus for all production above the standard minimum.

ASSETS—Net assets amount to $80 per share (par value $50). The physical property has been appraised by Mr. Clarence Hillsmith, paper mill engineer, as having a replacement value of $505,000 exclusive of goodwill.

NET EARNINGS should be doubled because the proceeds of this issue will be used for additional equipment, especially in the box shop, to bring its daily capacity up to a million boxes. During the long history of the company there has never been a year that it did not make substantial earnings.

RESTRICTIONS protecting this preferred stock provide that no bonds or notes can be issued and no increase of this issue can be authorized without the consent of three-quarters of the outstanding preferred stock. Net assets must at all times equal $55 per share. The preferred stock shall have voting power whenever back dividends amounting to 8% have not been paid. This stock is cumulative and callable at 55, and is preferred as to assets.

PARTICIPATION IN EARNINGS is given this preferred stock equally after 8% is paid on the common. This privilege will in all probability be of considerable value to the preferred stockholders because of certain specialties manufactured at large profits.

All legal matters have been attended to by Warner, Stackpole & Bradlee, Boston.

FURTHER DECLINE IN COTTON PRICES

Market Takes Upward Turn at Opening, but Fails to Sustain Movement.

SELLING MOVEMENT STARTS

Weekly Government Bulletin Out—Few Export Inquiries, and Domestic Demand Is Quiet.

A firm opening in the cotton market yesterday, with prices up 17 to 21 points, aroused a bit of bullish enthusiasm for the first few minutes that carried quotations up still further, the net advance at one time amounting to from 20 to 30 points for the more active positions.

An incentive to higher prices was found in the London cables and a perusal of the weather map which showed that there were unfavorable conditions in the Carolinas and in Georgia, the rain of the previous day and night having continued. Also high temperatures were reported in other sections of the cotton belt, notably, Oklahoma and Texas. The shorts were inclined to cover on this news which contributed to the advance.

The upward turn had a decided check when the weekly Government weather and crop bulletin made its appearance after the first hour and the semi-favorable nature of this led to a general selling movement, which with only slight rallies continued throughout the rest of the session. The net result for the day was a decline that amounted at the close to from 60 to 67 points. October closed at 31.32 as compared with a close of 31.93 on the preceeding day. In the final hour there was little evidence of support and the catching of stops accelerated the decline. Southern selling was a factor in the market much of the time.

The market is taking into consideration, seriously, the fact that export inquiry is practically nil. Also from the South comes the report that domestic demand is quiescent. There is not much of encouragement in the export situation. Exchange is so heavily against every country which would normally be taking cotton that purchases are almost prohibitive and for the time being there does not seem to be any prospect of improvement in the foreign exchange market. Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.

What Are Your Potential Profits?

IF you can't answer that question how are you to know what your development is worth as an investment?

Look for products bearing this seal

Do you know whether there is an actual commercial demand for your new product, or whether such demand could be created?

Then, on what basis are you judging the financial expenditures you are making on development?

What planned method of development have you adopted to insure the shortest route to quantity production and your market with the least outlay of time and money? And are you planning for standardization and interchangeability of parts?

Incidentally, what knowledge have you on prior patent art covering the basic plans of your machine or device?

Every dollar spent in development must later be charged against potential profits. The difference is the value of your investment.

S-A-S MANAGEMENT could have given the exact answer to all those questions prior to beginning development, and by mechanical research and tests in our own laboratories could have ascertained the mechanical worth of your product, or recommended changes to insure its success. No matter how far you have gone with development, S-A-S engineers will be glad to advise with you, or undertake development at any stage.

CHILE REJECTS LOAN.

Government Dissatisfied with Terms of $15,000,000 Offer.

It was learned yesterday that negotiations between local bankers and the Government of Chile in regard to the extending of a $15,000,000 loan to the latter for the purpose of building and rehabilitating railroads in that country have been discontinued. Dispatches from Chile stated that the Government had refused the loan because of unsatisfactory terms. Bankers who participated in the negotiations said yesterday that the terms of the loan were not the stumbling block, but that there had been a disagreement about the form the transaction should take.

Some weeks ago it was reported in this market that any financing Chile might do here would probably have to be guaranteed by a pledge of her customs revenues, and it was also stated that South American countries did not favor guaranteeing governmental borrowings. Chile's chief revenue is derived from the exportation of nitrate, and while no verification could be obtained yesterday, it was suggested that local bankers might have asked for a pledge of that revenue as a guarantee.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

A sale of more than ordinary interest in the lower part of the city, from the fact that the parcel has been in possession of the Goelet family for more than a century, was closed yesterday in the purchase of the old four-story business structure at 14 and 16 South William Street by the Markham Realty Company, Clarence W. Eckhardt, President. It was sold by Robert Morgan Goelet and is the first piece of the old Goelet properties that he has disposed of, the present deal being, therefore, the first transfer from the Goelet family in over 100 years.

The property has a frontage of slightly more than 42 feet on South William Street, averaging 48.3 in depth with a rear line of 44 feet. It is between Beaver and Broad Streets, almost opposite Mill Lane, and just below the former Delmonico Restaurant building, now used by the Marine Insurance interests. The assessed value of the plot is $46,000, of which $43,000 is land value.

William A. White & Sons were the brokers in the transaction. No indication was given of the future use of the property.

Musher & Co. Resell Fifth Av. Buildings.

The two vacant five-story buildings, occupying a plot 49.2 by 100, at 255 and 257 Fifth Avenue, were sold yesterday by Musher & Co., importers of olive oil, of Washington and Baltimore, to investing clients of Weschler, Kohn & Roeder. The property, which is located near Twenty-eighth Street, is assessed at $380,000. It was purchased by the sellers last October from Catherine L. H. Hinckley and the estate of Charles Frederick Hoffman. They planned to remodel the buildings at a large cost for demonstration and office purposes. The new owners are A. H. Levy, Hopkinson, Bergen Company, and the Union Chemical Glassware Company. Julius Scott negotiated the sale.

QUALIFY FOR
SENIOR ACCOUNTANT, NOVEMBER, 1920.

November 15 to January 1 is the period during which one-fourth of the year's business changes, readjustments and building-up of staffs are made.

If you have a faculty for figures and the crude stuff for the making of an accountant there is just about time between now and November 15 of this year for you to qualify for a Junior Accountancy position that will pay at least $35 a week.

And ample time to qualify before November, 1920, for position of Senior Accountant, Auditor, or Income Tax Expert, at a salary of at least $75 a week with possibilities of more than twice that amount.

FACTS AND FIGURES.

During the three months ending May, 1919, 715 men and women who are being given specialized vocational training by our institution received important promotions and salary increases aggregating $422,660. Our records show that 171 of these 715 members have completed, or nearly completed, their training, while 372 are not yet half way through.

It is only a question of raw ability and industry, a resolute purpose to devote five or six spare hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business training system ever devised, under the supervision of a corps of eminent Certified Public Accountants who are renowned as practical teachers.

WEATHER DELAYS FLIGHT TO COAST

Squadron of Pathfinders Will Start on Transcontinental Trip Today.

PLANE BIDS CITY GOOD-BYE

Although the weather reports received from Washington late yesterday afternoon caused the "All-American Pathfinders," a squadron of six Curtiss army biplanes, to put off the start of their flight from Mineola to San Francisco, the heavier equipment of motor trucks and automobiles left Mineola early this morning on the first leg of the journey. Weather permitting, the first airplane will leave this afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon one of the planes circled over the Times Building and bid good-bye to the city. The airplane gave a demonstration of the radio telephone sets used on Uncle Sam's battleships to a number of engineers and newspaper men. Not only was the "voice from the clouds" distinctly audible, but for the first time in history young folks danced to the strains of music played from an airplane, flying nearly a mile overhead.

The demonstration of the wireless telephone system was made with the same kind of equipment used on the NC transatlantic fliers, and was arranged through the War Department. A wireless telephonic receiving set was put up in the Times Building. A number of officers identified with the aviation sections of the army and navy were present. The airplane equipped with the wireless outfit was piloted by Lieutenant J. E. Adams, while Lieutenant C. C. Shangraw was the radio officer.

The planes, nine in all, six flying and three in reserve carried by trucks, are under the command of Major Ora M. Baldinger, and will fly in squadron formation. The itinerary of the flight embraces fifteen States and covers 4,183 miles. Stops and exhibits will be made at seventy-one cities. The flight is a campaign of education, as well as a recruiting campaign for all branches of the army. It will show the public the actual working of an air squadron operating away from its base of supplies.

The detachment consists of twenty-two commissioned officers and eighty enlisted men. They will establish air mail routes, take photographs, build landing fields, and maintain themselves as if they were invading a hostile country. The heavier equipment of the caravan will proceed along the highways by twenty-seven motor trucks, seven automobiles, and motorcycle, engineer corps, and searchlight chassis.

The radio demonstrations proved a complete success, and Captain H. J. Vogel, who will be in charge of the recruiting on the pathfinding journey, said that the same demonstration would be repeated in the cities and towns on the way to San Francisco. Among the cities to be visited will be Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Grand Forks, Fargo, Helena, Anaconda, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego. The pathfinders plan to take a southerly route coming back.

NEW CHIEF AT LEAVENWORTH

General McRae Succeeds Colonel Rice at Disciplinary Barracks.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Major Gen. James M. McRae, former commander of a National Army Division, was detailed today as commandant of the Army Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., succeeding Colonel Sedgewick Rice. General McRae recently was placed in command of Camp Travis, Texas.

Although Colonel Rice's régime at the barracks, which has covered more than a year, has been marked by considerable disorders among the prisoners, officials here denied that his relief reflected on his administration. On the contrary, it was said, Colonel Rice has made an unusually good record at Leavenworth. No information as to his next detail could be obtained today.

Baker Seeks Legislation to Sell Army Photographs in Book Form.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13. — One hundred and sixty miles of motion picture negatives and more than 47,000 still photographs of army activities were produced during the war, Secretary Baker informed Congress today, in requesting passage of legislation authorizing the War Department to sell duplicates of the negatives.

Mr. Baker also recommended legislation to authorize the department to print in book form, for sale to the public, photographs of the war. He estimated the pictures would make twelve volumes of 400 pages each, and that the cost price would be $1.50 a volume, exclusive of the selling cost.

SAYS LAW PERMITS LIQUOR WITH MEALS

Malting Company Stockholder Asserts "Dry" Law Applies Only to Drinking at Bars.

MAY BE USED FOR FOOD

Plaintiff Asks That Company Be Prevented from Dissolving Until Question Is Legally Solved.

In an action affecting the dissolution plans of the American Malting Company, which came before Supreme Court Justice Cropsey in Brooklyn yesterday, the plaintiff contended that the phrase "for beverage purposes" in the Prohibition amendment, was not intended to prohibit the drinking of intoxicants at meals or as a food, but only prohibited drinking at bars. The plaintiff contended that intoxicating liquor was not to be considered as a "beverage" under the terms of the amendment when drunk at meals or for food.

The question was raised in a suit brought by Howard Major, living at the Hotel Commodore, as a holder of common stock in the American Malting Company, to restrain the Directors of the company from proceeding further with the dissolution of the corporation. Mr. Major asserted that the Directors, in deciding to dissolve the company, had failed to take proper legal steps to have determined the extent to which the Prohibition amendment applied.

"By and under the uniform course of legal decisions and judicial, statutory, economic, and philological definitions 'beverage purposes' means drinking between meals, as at bars and in saloons, for tippling purposes, for pleasure," said the plaintiff. "This amendment does not contemplate or prohibit drinking at meals or for food or alimentary purposes."

Clarence J. Shearn, who appeared for several of the defendants, entered a demurrer to the complaint. Mr. Shearn said that Mr. Major's theory was a "fantastic construction of the amendment." The Prohibition act, he argued, would be entirely nullified if such a construction was accepted. Even if such an interpretation of the act could be seriously considered, he said, there was no ground on which the defendants in the suit could be held for any legal omission. Justice Cropsey reserved decision.

ROTARY CLUB Activities

The Rotary Club of New York is an organization of men representing all lines of commercial activity. Its purpose is to lift men and business to a higher ethical level. Its slogan is "Service Above Self." These advertisers are pledged to respect your confidence and fulfill your wants.

On Misunderstanding

An overwhelming percentage of the trouble in this world is directly traceable to misunderstanding. It has been responsible for business disaster, domestic upheavals—even crime. Misunderstanding is of two varieties—the deliberate and the inadvertent. Strange to say, the latter sort is more dangerous.

Misunderstanding has a twin. It is Jump-at-Conclusions. Between the two of them an honest motive hasn't a chance on earth to survive. Jumping at conclusions has gotten to be the chief form of sport—both in and outdoor—of the American people. Everything is speeded up in this country. People do not wait to hear explanations and detailed arguments. They catch a few facts, on the fly, and instantly jump at a conclusion which, nine times out of ten, is wrong and unfair to the other fellow.

Tales of one's business competitors reach the ear, colored like an October sunset. They are nothing but rumors—yet the average man accepts them as gospel—and sends them on their way with a few high lights added from his own imagination.

Rotary has done more to correct this condition, in business, than any other organization. There are five hundred members in the New York Rotary Club. A luncheon is held once a week and a dinner once a month. At these gatherings the five hundred men who are members of the club go a long way toward eliminating misunderstanding.

The underlying motive of Rotary is to understand the other man's business, his methods, his results. To take warning from his mistakes and profit by his wisdom. It is a business clearing house.

Likewise, Rotary is spreading the motive in outside circles. Formerly when a club or body of men took up a philanthropic work they made it a private affair. Rotary has taken up Boys' Work. It is going to elevate the morale of the New York boy who is underprivileged—and make him a loyal, sane, and happy citizen. But it is not a private affair, even though the Rotary Club of New York is financing all the propaganda work.

So that there shall be no misunderstanding or jumping at conclusions, the New York Rotary Club has invited the co-operation of all clubs and organizations of high standing. If you are interested in giving handicapped boys a chance, do not misunderstand Rotary's motive. Ask for further information. Any communication addressed to Rotary Headquarters, Hotel McAlpin, will be promptly answered.

MEXICO WARNED THAT OUR POLICY MAY BE CHANGED

"Unwillingness or Inability" to Protect Americans Would Be the Cause.

NEXT MOVE NOT DISCLOSED

Intervention, Withdrawal of Recognition, Economic Pressure Among Possible Courses.

CARRANZA MAKES REPLY

Thinks More Safety Is Demanded in Mexican Wilds Than In Cities of "Most Cultured Countries."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The United States Government has informed the Government of President Venustiano Carranza of Mexico that in the event American citizens in Mexico are not given the protection that is their due, and that if the murder of Americans continue "by reason of the unwillingness or inability of the Mexican Government to afford adequate protection," the United States "may find it necessary to adopt a radical change in its policy with regard to Mexico."

The above announcement was made this afternoon by Secretary of State Lansing, who at the same time made public correspondence that has passed between the American Government and the Mexican Government regarding recent outrages against Americans in Mexico.

What course this Government will pursue in the event the warning conveyed to Carranza fails to bear fruit was not indicated by the Secretary of State. Whether the Government has in mind armed intervention, withdrawal of its recognition of the Carranza Government, or the exerting of economic pressure, are questions that persons in authority have not answered up to this time.

Carranza's reply to the American note is regarded as typical of notes from him in reply to American representations. It makes use of the taunt that "it seems strange that it should be exacted that even in depopulated regions human life should be protected in a more perfect manner than in the most populous cities of the most cultured countries." This, it was thought, was a reference to recent race troubles in this country.

Carranza also argues that many of the misfortunes that have befallen foreigners in Mexico are not due to a failure of the Mexican Government properly to protect them but rather to "the lack of prudence or rash eagerness for profit" of the nationals of other countries, and he suggests that Americans should remove to the more populous districts of Mexico, where they could be better protected. He also makes a claim that the various revolutionary groups, including the bandits, have been subdued, that only weak remnants of the so-called outlaw bands are still at large.

Secretary Lansing's Announcement.

The announcement of Secretary Lansing, which includes the correspondence between the two Governments, reads as follows:

In view of the series of murders and outrages on American citizens in Mexico, culminating in the murder of Peter Catron in San Luis Potosi last month and the perpetration of other acts in disregard of American lives and property, the American Embassy at Mexico City, on July 22, by direction of the Secretary of State, made the following representations to the Mexican Government:

Mexico City, July 22, 1919.

Sir: With reference to the Embassy's note, dated July 16, 1919, relative to the murder of Peter Catron, near Calles, San Luis Potosi, on or about July 7 last, I have the honor to inform you that I am now under telegraphic instructions from my Government to urge upon the Mexico Government the punishment of those responsible for this murder and the adoption of adequate measures to prevent a recurrence of the murder of American citizens.

I am also instructed to state that, should the lives of American citizens continue to remain unsafe and these murders continue by means of the unwillingness or inability of the Mexican Government to afford adequate protection, my Government may be forced to adopt a radical change in its policy with regard to Mexico.

Accept, Sir, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

(Signed) GEORGE T. SUMMERLIN, Chargé d'Affaires.

The Mexican reply, dated July 28, signed by Salvado Diego Fernandez, in charge of the Department of Foreign Relations, and dated July 28, follows:

Mr. Chargé d'Affaires: The note which your Honor was pleased to send me on the 22d inst. advised me of the instruction which you had received to notify this department that if the lives of the citizens of the United States in Mexico continued in a state of insecurity, and if murders should continue because of the unwillingness or inability of the Mexican Government to give adequate protection, the Government of the United States would be compelled to adopt a radical change in its policy with regard to Mexico.

In reply, I have the honor to state that the fact that offenses against the

Our Deaths in Battle Averaged 8 Per 1,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Analysis of the final casualty report received from the central records office in France shows that the European war was the most sanguinary in history.

Battle deaths among American enlisted men averaged 8 per 1,000, among emergency officers 11 per 1,000, and among regular army officers 14. Of every 1,000 officers landing in France 330 were killed or wounded. Battle deaths were 37 per 1,000 for graduates of West Point against 18 for nongraduates.

NO PEACE IN SIGHT IN ACTORS' STRIKE

SHUBERTS PUT ON NEW PLAY

New York's theatre strike entered its second week last night with all hope for an early settlement abandoned by both sides. Two separate peace proposals came to naught when the managers issued a definite announcement that they would never deal with the Actors' Equity Association or any of its representatives.

David Belasco, in a statement given out last night, said that he would conclude his career as a producer if the Actors' Equity Association emerged triumphant in the present strike.

Protected by an injunction, "Those Who Walk in Darkness" was produced by the Shuberts at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre last night. It was the first show to open in New York since the calling of the strike. There were no demonstrations of any kind in or about the theatre.

The possibility of participation in the strike by the stagehands was renewed following an address by Charles C. Shay, head of the stagehands' union, in which he declared that the Executive Council of the union had voted to go out on strike when the time came that actors required their assistance "if it breaks the organization."

The actors, laying plans for a long fight, will take over the Lexington Theatre on Monday night and will present a vaudeville program every night and on two afternoons a week. Arrangements were made, it was said, to continue possession of the theatre for several months if necessary.

Several thousand striking actors and actresses, led by Major Reginald Barlow, will parade up Fifth Avenue on Monday afternoon.

Cohan Firm Against Friars' Plea.

A delegation of nearly 400 Friars last night called upon George M. Cohan at the Cohan and Harris Theatre, just prior to the rise of the curtain on "The Royal Vagabond," to ask him to reconsider his resignation as Abbot and member of that club. Many of the delegation were lifelong friends of Mr. Cohan's, and the scene was one of the most dramatically moving of the entire strike. Mr. Cohan, although obviously profoundly affected, held firmly to his decision, declaring that he would never again enter the clubhouses of the Friars or the Lambs.

De Wolf Hopper joined the active strikers yesterday, when he refused to attend a rehearsal of "The Better 'Ole" in the afternoon. He went instead to the mass meeting of the Actors' Equity Association at the Hotel Astor, where he made an address and promised to appear on the vaudeville program which the actors will present at the Lexington Theatre, beginning next Monday.

All of the closed shows, including the "Follies," were tightly shut last night. Florenz Ziegfeld announced that the vacancies in the cast of the "Follies" were being filled, and that the show would reopen on Monday night. It was announced also that "A Regular Feller" would have its première at the Cort Theatre on Monday.

Morris Gest, following the resignation of David Belasco and George M. Cohan from their theatrical clubs, yesterday sent his resignation to the Lambs, saying that "any club which permits its members to indulge in personal abuse and vilification of such an eminent member and great man as David Belasco, the lifelong friend of the actor and the dean of the entire profession, can no longer have my sympathy and support."

E. H. Sothern, again disclaiming all intention of organizing a new actors' association, said that a group of twenty-five representative players would meet with him today at the Hotel Biltmore, and that they would endeavor to decide upon some plan which could be used as the basis of a settlement by both the actors and the managers.

Peace Offers Declined.

Yesterday's efforts to bring about peace were two in number. Dr. Frank Crane, the writer, invited both organizations to appoint single representatives to meet with him in an endeavor to find a solution, and a group of playwrights, headed by George V. Hobart, George Ade, Guy Bolton, P. G. Wodehouse, Itol Cooper Megrue, Irvin S. Cobb, and Henry B. Smith, offered their services to both the actors and the managers in an effort to effect a settlement.

Both of these offers were accepted by the actors, but announcement was made by the managers, through Arthur Hopkins, that they stood upon their state-

FORD GETS 6 CENTS AND TRIAL COSTS IN TRIBUNE SUIT

Chicago Paper Must Pay That Amount for Calling Auto Manufacturer an "Anarchist."

JURY WAS OUT 10 HOURS

Took Nine Ballots, the First Standing Eight to Four for Damages.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORY

Judge Upholds Right of "Free Comment" in Charge—Dismisses News Company Case.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 14.—A jury tonight awarded Henry Ford 6 cents damages in addition to costs of the trial, against The Chicago Tribune, for calling him an anarchist. Orvy Hulett, foreman of the jury, said that they took "nine ballots that I can remember," the first one, according to Leonard Measel, another juror, standing 8 to 4 in favor of awarding Mr. Ford some damages.

"Does the award of 6 cents about express the feelings of the jury as to the case?" Mr. Hulett was asked.

"It just about does. That expresses our judgment."

Mr. Ford sued for $1,000,000 damages.

Attorney Alfred J. Murphy for Mr. Ford said:

"The important issue in this case has been determined favorably to the plaintiff. He has been vindicated. Money damages were entirely subordinate and were not sought by Mr. Ford. He stands not only vindicated, but his attitude as an American citizen has been justified after a trial which raised every issue against him which ingenuity and research could present. His friends are entirely satisfied."

Consider it Tribune Victory.

Weymouth Kirkland of counsel for The Tribune said:

"We consider it a victory for the reason that Attorney Alfred Lucking in closing for Mr. Ford stated that anything less than substantial damages would be a defeat for his client."

The close of the great suit, which began three months ago, came when the lawyers and spectators had about made up their minds that they were in for a night of waiting and watching, with a mistrial as the probable outcome.

The jury had been out ten hours when a resounding knock was heard on the high, old-fashioned door of the jury-room. Some of the lawyers had not yet returned from dinner, nor had Judge Tucker put in an appearance. Bailiff Kelley went to the door, and then hurried to Walter Steffens, the court Clerk, and whispered:

"They're ready to report."

Mr. Steffens got Judge Tucker and the absent lawyers on the telephone, and in ten minutes all was ready.

Judge James G. Tucker had instructed the jury that "the right of fair comment" is expected in the case of Mr. Ford because his position as a great employer of labor and entry as a propagandist into the discussion of the preparedness question made him a public character.

The Judge held that a newspaper has no greater privileges in making comment than has an individual.

The jury was instructed further to dismiss the case against the Solomon News Company, which, on a purely technical charge that it distributed in Michigan 208 copies of The Tribune issue of June 23, 1916, containing the alleged libelous editorial headed "Ford Is an Anarchist," was made a co-defendant.

The courtroom was crowded while the Judge was charging the jury, which was locked up at 9:55 A. M.

The only one of the principals in the suit present was Captain Joseph M. Patterson, one of the publishers of The Tribune. Mr. Ford is on an auto tour of New England.

Foreman Delivers the Verdict.

Mr. Hulett, the jury foreman, first gave the directed verdict of no case against the Solomon News Company, which distributed copies of The Tribune of June 23, 1916, containing the alleged libel.

The award against The Tribune, which was in addition to the costs, was then given, and the clerk recorded the following as the verdict:

"You do say upon your oath that the said defendant, The Tribune Company, is guilty in manner and form as the said plaintiff hath in his declaration in this cause complained and you assess the damages of the said plaintiff on occasion of the premises, over and above his costs and charges by him above his suit in his behalf expended, at the sum of six cents damages, and you find that the defendant Solomon News Company is not guilty as directed by the Court."

The jury acknowledged the verdict as correct and hurried from the courtroom. None would discuss their deliberations in detail.

The whole proceedings were over with astonishing brevity. The whole scene did not require more than five minutes. The jurors brushed past reporters and down the stairs, where they were soon followed by the lawyers, Judge Tucker, the handful of spectators who had remained, and the court attachés.

One juror later stated that for six hours the ballots stood 8 to 4 to give the plaintiff an award. Then two of the four joined the majority. The remaining two held out until nearly 8 o'clock, when

Cadorna Is Blamed For Caporetto Disaster

ROME, Aug. 14.—General Cadorna, the Italian Commander in Chief in October, 1917, and Generals Porro, Capello, and Cavaciocchi were mainly responsible for the disaster to the Italian arms at Caporetto, which resulted in the retreat to the Piave, according to the official report of the commission of inquiry, made public today.

The defeat of the Italians when the Austro-Germans broke through their line is attributed by the commission chiefly to military causes, including depression of morale and an entire lack of reserves.

The report of the commission admits that Socialist and Clerical propaganda played its part in lessening the morale of the Italian soldiers.

EUROPE'S HEIRLOOMS BEING SMUGGLED HERE

ISSUES STERN WARNING

Will Submit for Criminal Action Any Case of Avoiding Duty, Regardless of Influence.

The office force of the Collector of the Port of New York in this country and in Europe, it was learned yesterday, has had to be considerably enlarged to meet the increased activities of smugglers, seeking to find a market in this country for jewelry and heirlooms sold in great quantities by impoverished families in all parts of Europe, especially Russia.

Collector Byron R. Newton refused to comment on a rumor that a woman of wealth and social prominence recently had been detected at this port attempting to smuggle in jewelry purchased in Europe, where she had been engaged in war activities. According to report, such a case is in the hands of United States District Attorney Francis G. Caffey, but Mr. Newton declined either to deny or to confirm this.

Mr. Newton said the usual type of smuggler was a person of sufficient means to have no excuse for such practice, and that usually strong influence was used to prevent action.

"I would not mention a specific case," he said. "The duty of this office, when a smuggler is caught, is to turn the evidence over to the United States District Attorney. That will be done in every instance, whether the person is rich or poor, with or without political or social influence."

The number of recent attempts to run jewels into the country has been due, not only to the fact that thousands of mansions in Europe were looted during the war and that thousands of families have sought to convert their treasures into cash, but also to the unsettled conditions of ocean travel. In some instances, war workers have brought in articles of the kind without declaring them. In one or two cases, Mr. Newton said, smuggling had been detected in navy channels.

Jewel Imports Increasing.

The collector said that the recent strict order limiting the issuance of free passes was due, in part, to the facilities for smuggling that a general distribution of passes would create when persons from shore could board boats and see friends before they had passed the customs inspectors. He said recent experience had shown that all over Europe there were persons ready to exchange emeralds and other precious stones for bread. This condition has occurred simultaneously with a lively market for such things in this country.

The imports of jewels, works of art, and luxuries recently have been greater than ever before. On Tuesday of this week the duty on imports at New York was $1,235,861.66. This is the highest figure for any day since Aug. 1, 1914. The great bulk of this was levied on luxuries, largely on jewels and valuable possessions sold by impoverished families in Europe.

Scores of masterpieces of the jeweler's art, which had been proudly worn at the Courts of Europe by generations of women of noble houses, are streaming into New York daily. They are largely legitimate imports of dealers in this city. Russia is the greatest mine of things of this kind. Mr. Newton said that more were coming from that country than from all other parts of Europe.

Cites Case of Russian Official.

"One Russian, who held a high civil office under the old régime, came in recently," he said, "with his family treasure, worth a large sum of money. He escaped from Russia with them by hiding under a pile of live fish in an open fishing sloop, and made the voyage across the Baltic.

"He got into this country without paying duty on his jewels. He did not have the money to pay the duty and said later that he thought the gems were not dutiable because they were family possessions. Still later, a prominent lawyer came to this office, explained the case, and offered to pay the duty. Under the circumstances this was permitted.

"The smuggler's troubles have not ended when he enters this country with his goods. He is extremely likely to be detected when he tries to sell them. Even if he does sell them the crime is likely to be traced to him, months or years afterward. A business rival, a

WILSON TO EXPLAIN TREATY TERMS TO LODGE COMMITTEE

President Meets Senators' Demand That Fullest Publicity Be Given to the Conference.

FIXES DATE FOR TUESDAY

Senators and Executive Will Be Free to Make Full Use of All Information Revealed.

CALLS MORE WITNESSES

Foreign Relations Committee Decides to Hear Authorities on Russia and the Far East.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—President Wilson tonight accepted a request from Senator Lodge, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, for an appointment to meet the members of the committee to explain the Treaty of Peace with wide-open publicity.

The conference, which has been fixed by the President for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Aug. 19, was requested by Senator Lodge after the Foreign Relations Committee had today decided, by a unanimous vote, to avail itself of the offer made by the President before the Senate on July 10, to confer with the committee on any phases of the treaty on which its members desired information.

Unprecedented conditions were attached to the request made by Senator Lodge. These conditions were nothing less than that the conference, if granted by the President, should not be secret, and that nothing said at the meeting should be considered confidential. Republican members of the committee felt that as the Senate had ordered the treaty to be read in open executive session, any information regarding it which came into their possession, even in a Presidential conference, should not be withheld from the public.

If members of the committee felt that they were putting the President in a hole by attaching such unprecedented conditions they will be sadly mistaken when they read the reply which the President will tomorrow send to Senator Lodge, accepting the request for the appointment with all the conditions of the publicity attached to it.

The attitude of the President toward the conditions for publicity was disclosed shortly before 10 o'clock tonight when Joseph P. Tumulty, the President's private secretary, after a conference with the President, issued the following statement:

Fits President's Attitude.

"The President received Senator Lodge's request for an appointment to meet the Foreign Relations Committee to discuss the Treaty of Peace. Of course, the President welcomes this opportunity to meet the Foreign Relations Committee, and has fixed Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock as the time for the meeting at the White House. The unprecedented condition of the conference as set by Senator Lodge in his letter to the President, fits in with the President's own preference as to publicity, so that the people of the country may be put in possession of all the information he has about the Treaty of Peace."

Not only were the conditions attached to the request for the appointment unprecedented, but the conference when held will be equally so. Beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, it will probably last all day, the President being ready to supply the committee with any information it may seek and answer any questions its members may ask.

So far as the President is concerned there will be no restrictions whatever attached to what transpires Tuesday.

The public will, of course, not be admitted to the conference, nor will there be any newspaper men present, as the conference will be distinctly one between the President and the members of the committee, representing the treaty making and the treaty ratifying branches of the Government.

How the "lid" will be lifted it is not permissible to be stated tonight, but it can be said that the President has not the slightest objection to members of the committee bringing their own stenographers along and making public every word said. As this is known to be the attitude of the President and as the Senators profess to favor the widest publicity, the President will himself not be bound to refrain from disclosing what members of the committee may say to him in their conference, just as he will impose no restrictions on them.

Conference Is Unprecedented.

No such conference on such a vitally important matter and certainly with reference to a treaty has ever been held at the White House or elsewhere between the Chief Executive of a nation and members of any legislative committee.

Senator Lodge's letter, based on today's action by the committee, reached the White House late this afternoon. It was not made public tonight. The President is framing a reply which will be sent to Senator Lodge tomorrow, when both letters will be made public.

It is understood that in his letter, Senator Lodge, speaking for the committee, pointed out that soon after the treaty was laid before the Senate Senator Hitchcock informed the committee that if the committee at any time wished to see the President for a discussion of the treaty the President would gladly receive them if given twenty-four hours notice.

Taking advantage of this offer, Sena-

Holds People Are Aiding the Profiteers By Their Orgy of Extravagant Buying

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—William Mather Lewis, Director of the Savings Division of the Treasury Department, who has just returned to Washington from a visit to the various Federal Reserve districts, asserted in an official statement tonight that the people in many parts of the country are virtually in league with the profiteers. He said:

A veritable orgy of extravagant buying is going on. The reaction from the careful use of money during wartime is widespread and disturbing. Retailers are securing goods from jobbers without arguing about prices, if they can only be assured of immediate delivery. They know their customers will scramble for the goods, regardless of cost. Thus, with an abnormal demand and a limited output, nothing else can be expected than high prices. It is a natural, though deplorable, consequence that profiteers abound.

The people must return to the policy of careful buying and regular saving if they wish to help the situation. The Treasury Department, in order to combat this artificial situation, is intensifying and speeding up its thrift campaign. Statements on the principles of finance and the laws of investment and budgetry are being brought to workers in factories, to farmers, to business and professional men, and members of women's organizations, by means of printed publicity and the spoken word. A nation-wide attack upon swindlers who are persuading people to dispose of their Liberty bonds and War Savings Stamps is also being inaugurated.

Throughout New England savings and thrift organizations already are exerting their combined efforts to combat increased cost of the necessities of life. Saving directors and hundreds of officers of savings societies are taking the lead in disseminating information as to fair prices.

In their communities they are aiding the determination and publication of fair prices and in curbing unjust profits. They are following the plan of campaign recently outlined by Governor W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board to promote regular and efficient work to increase production and insure reasonable economies and to devote that production to necessities rather than extravagances or luxuries.

Steps are being taken to insure similar efforts throughout the other Federal Reserve districts.

Swann Asks Enright to Investigate—Army Sale to Open Today.

Five features developed yesterday in the fight that Federal, State, and municipal authorities are waging against profiteering in food and other necessities of life.

Assistant Federal District Attorney Ben A. Mathews, who is conducting the investigation for the Federal District Attorney's office, announced that Department of Justice agents had reported to him the discovery of tremendous quantities of food stored in New York City warehouses.

District Attorney Swann announced that his office had learned of the storing of unreasonable amounts of food in buildings not licensed as warehouses, and asked Police Commissioner Enright to look into the matter.

Governor Smith telegraphed Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer for aid against profiteering by dealers in other States who shipped food into New York.

The Department of Public Markets placed orders with the zone surplus supply officer of the Quartermaster Corps for triple the amount of food ordered Wednesday, making a total of 1,600 carloads ordered from the War Department.

Captain A. A. Stewart, for the Quartermaster Corps, announced that the army would today put on sale about a quarter of a million blankets which were bought by the Government for the emergency when the troops were first called out. Captain Stewart also announced the sale today from army trucks of 1,200 cases of choice winesap apples.

Reports from the Federal Bureau of Markets showed that the price of ordinary qualities of beef had dropped a few cents yesterday, due to the placing on the markets of a large amount of the cheaper grades of beef. The prices, wholesale, showed a decline from 16 and 18 cents to 13 and 16 cents.

Find Eggs and Coffee.

Assistant Federal District Attorney Mathews expressed himself as very much pleased with the discovery of stores of food as reported by the Department of Justice.

"Federal agents," he said, "have reported to me that there are tremendous quantities of foodstuffs, principally cheese, butter, eggs, and coffee, stored in warehouses here. The department's investigations are not yet complete, but will continue until we have a list of everything in the way of food that appears to be hoarded.

"In regard to the warehouses already indicated, I have made inquiries, and a number of owners have told me that most of the food was for export purposes. I am not yet able to ascertain just how much may be in the nature of hoarded supplies, but as soon as I do, I will turn the matter over to the Federal Grand Jury for action."

In the present stage of the investigation, Mr. Mathews declined to give the names of any of the men owning the stored food supplies.

District Attorney Swann opened his share of the drive on profiteering with a letter to the Police Commissioner asking

FARMERS' SHARE IN AN $11 DINNER

ARGUE FOR PRODUCERS

Western Men Say Profiteering, Labor Conditions, and Extravagance Cause High Prices.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The farmers of the nation, as represented by delegates of the National Federation of State Farm Bureaus, laid their side of the high cost of living problem before President Wilson today, asserting that high prices were not caused by the rapacity of producers but by a combination of causes, including profiteering and speculation by the middleman, extravagance by the public, strikes, and stagnation in the production of manufactured goods and prepared foodstuffs.

The delegates, from bureaus in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa, were with the President for nearly an hour, and were apparently well satisfied with the result of their interview. They urged the President to let wheat alone, and stated that he had said the Government was not disposed at this time to interfere with the price of wheat. He added, they said, that he was working out a solution of the problem entirely along the lines which he had suggested in his address to Congress.

The farmers had prepared a statement which dealt in some detail with their viewpoint, and emphasized that it was essential that they should know what the future held in store for them, as the time had come when they must plan for the 1920 harvest.

In presenting their argument the delegates cited their dinner at what they described as a "modest hotel" in Washington to illustrate their contention that profiteering is being carried on by agencies between the producer and the ultimate consumer. Five of them paid $11 for a none too elaborate dinner, exclusive of tips. Their figures showed that of the $11, 82 cents had gone to the farmers who produced the food.

"Food on the table costs out of all proportion to the price to the producer," they told the President. "Part of this is due to the short hours and high wages of labor, part to the exorbitant prices of the several middlemen between the producer and the consumer, and a considerable part to the extravagant practices of the consumer in purchasing.

"Without going into an analysis of who gets it, compare the difference in price of choice beef on the hoof at 18 cents per pound with that of a moderate meal for five at one of Washington's modest hotels, the meal consisting of steak, potatoes, corn, bread and butter, and coffee, and costing $11.

"Of this $11, the producer of the food, the farmer, got about as follows:

82 Cents for the Farmer.

"Beef, two pounds, 36 cents; potatoes, 13 cents; bread, 2 cents; butter, 7 cents; coffee, cream and sugar, 4 cents; corn, 20 cents, making a total of 82 cents. This is about 7 per cent. of the total.

"A 50 per cent. reduction in the price of these products to the producer would have lessened the total cost of the whole

FOOD RAIDS IN 3 CITIES

Seizures in Chicago, St. Louis, and Birmingham Storage Houses.

PALMER ISSUES WARNING

Tells Federal District Attorneys to Watch for Profiteering in Sugar Sales.

HOUSE TO ACT NEXT WEEK

Absent Members Summoned—Penalty Amendment to Food Control Act to Pass.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Indications of the real punch behind the Government's campaign to reduce the high cost of living were given today in unmistakable fashion in many cities.

While Attorney General Palmer was telling the Senate Agriculture Committee that he intended to prosecute every dealer guilty of selling at higher prices than those listed by the Fair Price Committees of each county, word came from Chicago, St. Louis, and Birmingham of seizures of great quantities of foodstuffs by Federal officials, who recently were instructed to proceed under the Food Control act to stop hoarding.

In Chicago 1,282 tubs of butter, worth $50,000, were seized; in St. Louis 284,180 pounds of coffee, which has been showing rapid advances in prices, and in Birmingham 100 barrels of sugar.

Mr. Palmer told the Senate Committee that he believed the great majority of farmers and food dealers were not profiteering, but that the suggested amendment to the Food Control act extending it to clothing and providing a criminal penalty of $5,000 fine or two years' imprisonment or both, was necessary to make effective the campaign against those who are dishonestly gouging the public.

There was a division of opinion among the Senators as to the advisability of the legislation, several declaring that the amendment gave the Department of Justice too drastic powers over commerce, while others questioned the constitutionality of extending the life of the Food Control act beyond the declaration of peace, as has been suggested.

"Given this penalty, we can break the backbone of this profiteering in sixty days," Mr. Palmer retorted crisply, "and then you won't have to worry about constitutionality."

The House Agriculture Committee proceeded with cold storage legislation today and announced that tomorrow the amendment to the food control act would be taken up, with Assistant Attorney General Ames discussing the need for it in the campaign to reduce prices.

Mayors of fifty New Jersey cities made arrangements to appear before the committee Monday to demand that something effective be done to mitigate the hardships under which the man of average income is suffering.

Absent members of the House were ordered tonight to return to Washington at once, when it became apparent that the Agriculture Committee would report out the new legislation next week. Republican Leader Mondell and Minority Leader Clark declared they were determined to have a quorum present Monday.

While the more drastic method of prosecutions will be used by the Department of Justice to punish and stop flagrant cases of profiteering, it was made clear today that the still effective licensing provisions of the Food Control act would be invoked to reach dealers against whom no indictment could be found in Federal courts. Officials of the Food Administration notified the department that 11 cents a pound was a fair price for sugar, and this information was transmitted to District Attorneys, with the significant statement that where higher prices were being charged there evidently was profiteering.

The Department of Agriculture today asked for more than $500,000 from Congress for establishing information centres in various cities, which would collect and disseminate information concerning prices.

HOUSE TO PASS FOOD CONTROL AMENDMENT

Will Include Clothing, with Fine and Imprisonment Penalties for Profiteers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The House of Representatives early next week will take the first definite step toward carrying out President Wilson's suggestions for dealing with the high cost of living, when a bill to be reported Monday to extend the provisions of the Food Control act so as to include wearing apparel and strengthen Section 4 by adding a fine and imprisonment for violation of the profiteering features of the law will probably be considered and passed without delay.

Representative Mondell, the Republican floor leader, announced that the ...

islation recommended in the President's message would be passed without delay after he had conferred with Attorney General Palmer about the Administration's program to cope with the enonomic situation. He indicated, however, that opposition to extending to peace times the war-time powers sought by President Wilson was increasingly strong and that this phase of the subject would have full and deliberate consideration from the House Judiciary Committee, with the ported which would strengthen the hands ported which would strengthen the hands of the Administration. He expressed the opinion that there would be no need for legislation as requested by the President continuing his powers into peace times.

Representative Mondell and former Speaker Clark today sent telegrams to absent members of the House, notifying them to be present next week so that the House might get down to action on the food problem.

Attorney General Palmer, in his conference with Mr. Mondell outlined in a general way what the Department of Justice intended to do to lower high prices and proceed against violators of the anti-trust laws. He said the Department had no other legislation to suggest to Congress outside of that outlined in the President's message, but would require large appropriations for special prosecutions, additional lawyers, investigators, and special agents. Mr. Palmer said he had forwarded to Secretary Glass his estimates, aggregating $1,500,000. He had about sufficient money available now for the enforcement of the food laws in the appropriation of $1,600,000 granted for the prosecution of the Reds, but he hesitated to use this money for the food campaign, as he would have to ask for a deficiency appropriation later if such a course were adopted.

In the opinion of Mr. Palmer, about $1,000,000 would be required for the prosecution of profiteers and for special investigators and additional counsel, while the remainder of the amount would be devoted to prosecution of violations of anti-trust laws.

All the executive departments which will be called upon to help combat the high cost of living have completed their estimates and have sent them to the House, or indicated their needs. The estimates show that with the amount asked by Mr. Palmer, Congress is asked to furnish $3,512,060 for this special work. The Secretary of Agriculture today asked for an appropriation of $502,060 for furnishing information to the public regarding food products held in storage and as to retail food prices. Secretary of Commerce Redfield asked for an additional appropriation, making his total requests $455,000. The total requests for the investigation of the economic situation follow:

Department of Justice	$1,500,000
Federal Trade Commission	500,000
Department of Commerce	455,000

Discussing the general situation, Mr. Mondell said the Republicans were disposed to give the Administration all the money that could be wisely spent, but contended that the amounts requested were not wholly necessary.

The House, he said, was very much divided as to what should be done in extending wartime powers to peace times, but there was no doubt that the House would extend the provisions of the Food Control act so as to include wearing apparel until peace is formally declared. While there is opposition in the Senate to going this far, he added, it was the belief of Republican leaders that Congress would accept the President's suggestions to cover the period until peace is formally declared.

On the floor of the House and in resolutions offered by Representative J. W. Good, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, moves were made which show that the Republican leaders were disposed to be critical of the Administration's plans. Representatives Good, Anderson, and Mondell, during debate on the Tungsten bill, attacked the alleged failure of the Administration to combat conditions which, they said, had brought about the present condition. Mr. Mondell said it took two years for the Department of Justice to find out that it did not have power under the Food Control act to proceed successfully against profiteers. Mr. Anderson said the inflation of currency and the granting by the Administration of wage increases had combined to force up living costs.

While Representative Good indulged in similar criticism he brought his attack upon the Administration to a focus in two resolutions. One called upon the President to inform the House what had been done with the $100,000,000 appropriated for the relief of starving Europe. The other asked for details as to expenditures by the United States Wheat Director of the $1,000,000,000 to enable the President to pay the wheat prices guaranteed to the farmers in 1918 and 1919.

The first resolution reads:

"Whereas, by the act approved Feb. 25, 1919, the sum of $100,000,000 was appropriated as a revolving fund to provide for the relief of such populations in Europe and countries contiguous thereto, outside of Germany, German-Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey, as may be determined upon by the President as necessary; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, requested to report to the House of Representatives in connection with the administration of the act herein referred to the following information:

"(a) The quantities and kinds of foodstuffs and other urgent supplies purchased thereunder, the countries in which purchased, and the prices paid therefor.

"(b) The quantities and kinds of foodstuffs and other urgent supplies distributed thereunder, the countries in which distributed, and the amounts received in payment therefor.

"(c) The quantities and kinds of foodstuffs and other urgent supplies for which no reimbursement has been, or will be, received, and the countries in which distributed.

"(d) The quantities and kinds of foodstuffs and other urgent supplies purchased or contracted for but not distributed, and the location of such stocks.

"(e) The quantities and kinds of foodstuffs and other urgent supplies contemplated to be purchased under the authority of said act."

In his other resolution Mr. Good asked that the United States Wheat Director be directed to furnish Congress with information on these points:

1. The quantities of wheat and flour purchased by the United States Grain Corporation and the prices paid therefor.
2. The quantities of wheat and flour sold in the United States by the United States Grain Corporation, the purchasers thereof, and the prices received therefor.
3. The quantities of wheat and flour exported by the United States Grain Corporation, the purchasers thereof, the countries to which exported, and the prices received therefor.
4. The quantities of wheat and flour held by the United States Grain Corporation on the date of the adoption of this resolution, the prices paid therefor, and the location thereof.

"We have been feeding the world," said Mr. Good, "not out of our surplus, but stinting ourselves and furnishing the money to buy the stuff sent to Europe. As long as we continue to do that we will have high prices for all the necessities of life."

Mr. Good said that in the eleven months ended with June, 1914, the value of sugar exported was $1,839,983 and in the eleven months ended in June, 1919, it was $39,589,718. Breadstuffs exported in the same period of 1914 amounted to $165,302,385 and in 1919 to $856,438,044. Meat and dairy products exported in the eleven months' period ended June, 1914, amounted to $146,227,780, and in the same period ended May, 1919, $993,111,033.

HOUSTON ASKS $502,060 FOR REPORTS ON FOOD

Requests Continuance of Power Now Held Under Food Production Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture in asking today for an appropriation of $502,060 to be used in furnishing the public with information concerning food products held in storage and retail food prices, said such information would enable the consumer to buy food in the cheapest and most practicable way. The request was itemized as follows:

Cold storage supplies of perishable foods—$50,000.

Storage and large commercial supplies of cereals, sugar, and canned goods—$78,000.

Retail food price information—$125,000.

Market news service on fruits and vegetables—$119,660.

Market news service on live stock and meats—$109,400.

Market news service on dairy and poultry products—$20,000.

Mr. Houston in submitting his estimates to the House asked for legislation to continue the authority now vested in him under the Food Production act. He suggested the following bill:

"The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to investigate and ascertain the demand for the supply, consumption, costs, and prices of and the basic facts relating to the ownership, production, transportation, manufacture, storage, and distribution of foods, food materials, feeds, seeds, fertilizers, agricultural implements, and machinery and any article required in connection with the production, distribution or utilization of food. For such purposes all the provisions of Section 2 of the act approved Aug. 10, 1917, shall continue and hereafter be in force notwithstanding anything contained in Section 12 of said act."

"Without this authority," said Secretary Houston in a letter accompanying the estimates, "the department would be dependent in reality upon the voluntary co-operation of the businesses included and experience clearly demonstrates that under such conditions the value of the information secured is greatly restricted."

Explaining the need for the funds requested Secretary Houston said:

"The cold storage reports now issued by the department are not issued as promptly as desirable. With an appropriation of $50,000 complete reports would be issued at an earlier date than is now possible, certain important commodities would be reported twice a month and tabulations made showing the monthly movement in and out of storage.

"To be of value, supply and price information as it affects food in a given community must be made available in that community daily, or at least two or three times weekly. It is assumed that the primary idea is to make the information available to as many consumers of the country as possible at the least possible expense. It is believed that this can best be accomplished by establishing a service in the largest cities. The sum indicated is based on a service in twenty of the largest cities, probably as follows:

11 CENTS FAIR SUGAR PRICE, PALMER SAYS

Warns District Attorneys Higher Figure Is Indicative of Unreasonable Profit.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Profiteers in the sugar market are expected to be reached as a result of telegraphic instructions which Attorney General Palmer today sent to the various Federal District Attorneys throughout the country. In these instructions Mr. Palmer stated that sugar should not be retailed for more than 11 cents a pound in the opinion of the Administration, and where it "is retailed for more it indicates that either the wholesaler or retailer is making an unreasonable profit."

The Attorney General's telegram also informed the Federal officials that through cancellation of licenses of sugar dealers it was hoped to reach some cases that would be more difficult to reach through enforcement of the original regulations of the Control act.

"Dealers in sugar," the Attorney General's telegram read, "except retailers doing a gross business of $1,000,000 or less annually, are still subject to license under the Food Control act. In addition to the provisions of the law itself, the regulations governing dealers in sugar prohibit the licensee from charging an exorbitant, unreasonable, or unfair commission, profit, or storage charge. They also provide that resales within the same trade without reasonable justification, if tending to result in a higher market price to the retailers or consumers, will be dealt with as an unfair practice.

"The United States Food Administration has taken the position that sugar should not retail for more than eleven cents, and where it is retailing for more it indicates that either the wholesaler or retailer is making an unreasonable profit."

The Attorney General is anxious to obtain authority of law to deal with certain phases of the situation that cannot well be reached under existing statutes and, while testifying late this afternoon before the Senate Committee on Agriculture, urged the utmost expedition in the enactment of the laws recommended by the President in his message.

"We should have this law in three days," the Attorney General told the committee, while urging speed in enacting the proposed legislation. Mr. Palmer told the committee he had asked the community price fixing organizations formed under the Federal Food Administration during the war to resume their activities and that prosecutions would be conducted against dealers who exceeded the prices fixed by these organizations.

"You should either repeal this law," Mr. Palmer told the committee, "or put teeth into it."

Before testifying at the Capitol, the Attorney General approved a plan for the creation of a fair price committee for the District of Columbia to be composed of food dealers, wholesale and retail, who would agree to sell by a weekly fair price list or at a stipulated margin of profit.

Some Democratic opposition to the extension of the Food Control act unexpectedly developed when the Attorney General urged that wearing apparel and a penalty clause be included. Senator Smith of South Carolina; Senator Smith of Georgia, and Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, expressed fear over the possible results of such action.

On the other hand, it was said today that some Republican members of the committee were much more favorably inclined toward the changes than had been expected. Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican, said the Attorney General would get "some at least" of the changes he wished. Republicans, however, are generally opposed to the extension of the act to peace time.

"This is the only bill I have any thought of preparing in relation to the President's recommendations, unless Congress asks me to make other drafts," said Mr. Palmer. "I took the liberty of preparing this bill because the food law contains penal provisions which are clearly up to the Department of Justice to enforce. With this responsibility upon the department I thought I was justified in preparing this measure.

"What we are driving at is to reduce the high cost of living. We are taking advantage of every statute to reach the men who are responsible for unduly high prices. This measure provides the simplest and most powerful weapon that I can think of to enable the department to deal with the situation."

"As I understand it," said Senator Smith, "the chief object is to relieve the high cost of food. A man can patch his pants, but he's got to have new food at every meal."

Mr. Palmer thought that if wearing apparel were not included the producers of food, meaning farmers, would have a real grievance. High prices, made for prosperity, asserted Senator Smith of South Carolina.

"The high cost of living," he said, "is helping to pay the cost of high living."

The Attorney General replied to this argument with the assertion that the high cost of living "was falling very heavily on the great mass of the people by reason of the practice of unconscionable persons taking advantage of abnormal conditions and preying on the people."

Senator Smith contended, however, that people suffered when prices were low, and insisted that it was an economic fact that when prices were high production was stimulated and general prosperity resulted.

"I am alarmed," he said, "by this constant tendency of socializing business."

"The man we want to reach," replied Mr. Palmer, "is the dealer, whether retailer or wholesaler, who takes advantage of present conditions and adds an unconscionable profit to prices."

"The legislation," said Senator Smith of Georgia, "would be difficult and dangerous to enforce, and might throw business into uncertain conditions." Senator Smith asked Mr. Palmer how he expected to establish reasonable prices in every community.

When the hearing ended Senator Smith of South Carolina again said he did not see the necessity for the legislation.

"It sets a dangerous precedent," he declared, "and I admit I am scared to death of it. The people are happy and contented to a great extent. The only unrest I have been able to find is due to the fear of what Congress may do next."

"You'll have a revolution if you don't do something to stop the profiteers," said Senator Patterson of Mississippi.

"I'd rather have a revolution than destroy our splendid form of government by this sort of legislation," retorted Senator Smith of South Carolina.

"I fear," said Senator Smith of Georgia, "that this legislation would leave every merchant in the country at the mercy of the whim of price fixers. By enacting this proposal we would turn loose on the country a law that brands people as criminals without stating what their crime is. There is no other law like it on our statute books."

"We were never asked to enact such drastic legislation in the midst of the great war. Are we worse off now than we were during the war?" asked Senator Ransdell.

COAL TRADE ASKS INQUIRY.

Wholesalers Say It Is Necessary to Fix Fair Return.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Complete investigation of the coal industry before any attempt at Federal control or regulation to lower the high cost of living was urged in resolutions adopted today by the Executive Committee of the American Wholesale Coal Association.

"The coal trade," said the resolution, "is willing to present to the proper Government body the cost of doing business as wholesalers and of producing coal, and at the same time information to determine the investment at replacement cost in working capital, plant, and equipment. Such information is necessary to the determination of a fair return per ton, and the fair return should be determined after allowing for costs of selling and other proper expenses which were not taken care of in the margin followed by the United States Fuel Administration during the war."

The resolutions asserted that the economic advancement and independence of the United States depended upon American coal being handled abroad by Americans. "Any attempt," the resolution said, "to use American coal to hold a foreign market for foreign markets and bankers should be opposed by all Americans."

OPENS BELGIUM PRICE WAR.

Labor Party Suggests Measures to Cut Living Costs.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 13.—The Labor Party has published a manifesto inviting the people to join in a general movement against the high cost of living, and in a letter addressed to the Prime Minister has suggested a series of measures intended to arrest the increased price of necessities, to encourage the home-going of food, and to assure an equal distribution of imports.

Other measures proposed are the requisition of wheat, sugar, milk, and butter, the fixing of food prices and Government control of prices for coal, clothing and shoes. The party also urges the education of housewives and the opening of international negotiations with the view to fixing basic prices for staple food, establishing international transport tariffs and helping devastated countries by extending international credit by means of international coin.

AGENTS FIND VAST FOOD STORES HERE

for aid. In his letter Judge Swann declared that his officers had learned that large amounts of food were stored in buildings which had no license as storage plants and none of the appearance of warehouses. His letter follows:

August 14, 1919.

Hon. Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner, 240 Centre Street, New York City.

Dear Sir—In my investigation of the hoarding of food supplies it has come to my attention that unreasonable quantities of food are being stored in buildings not licensed as storage warehouses, nor bearing any outward indications of the fact that food is being stored therein.

Would it be possible for you to direct the members of your department doing duty in New York County to report immediately to you whether or not there are any buildings on their posts, of in their precincts, in which they have any reason to believe foodstuffs are being stored.

If this could be done, the work of discovering the hoarders of food supplies would be greatly facilitated. Yours very truly,

EDWARD SWANN,
District Attorney.

Judge Swann also issued subpoenas for a number of milk distributers in New York to appear at his office this morning at 11 o'clock. The dealers, whose names were not divulged, will be questioned on the conditions in their business and on the reasons for the high prices. Later, it was said, subpoenas would be issued for dealers in other foods.

Swann's Statement.

In an interview yesterday evening Judge Swann said that he had formulated a definite plan for his investigation.

"You can't just push a button and get indictments against corporations," said the District Attorney. "They are hedged about by precedents. I have carefully collated the precedents in the prosecution of the poultry trust so that we may have the same advantage as the corporation attorneys. If we ask for indictments against the milk companies it will be because the milk situation is similar to what the poultry situation was at the time the poultry combination was successfully prosecuted."

The army will hold its first sale of food here today when six big trucks will start from the offices of the Depot Quartermaster at Eighth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street at noon, each laden with 200 cases of selected winesap apples. The trucks will cover the boroughs of Manhattan, the Bronx, and Brooklyn. It is planned to sell only one case to a customer, and there will be no less than a case sold at a time. The price per case will be $3.75. Each case contains from 112 to 125 apples, according to the size of the fruit.

In addition to the apples, the army will put on sale in Room 220 of the depot, about 250,000 wool, wool and cotton, and cotton blankets. Some of the blankets are new, while others are designated as reclaimed, and have been washed and sterilized by the Government. The sale will be in charge of William Rockstroh, a civilian employe.

Blankets Not Olive Drab.

These blankets are not the olive drab blankets which were issued to overseas troops at first and to all the soldiers later, but are the emergency supply purchased at the outbreak of the war. They are in general about six and a half feet long and five feet wide and weigh about four or four and a half pounds. The material is excellent, and in the case of the all-wool blankets, it was stated yesterday, the purchaser will get an article valued on the retail market at anywhere from $12 to $20.

The prices the Government is going to ask will depend on the number of blankets bought. A price list follows:

PRICE PER BLANKET.

Quantity.	All Wool. (New.)	All Wool. (Reclaimed.)
1-10	$6.00	$5.00

In the various surplus zones established by the Quartermaster Corps throughout the country there are 2,000,000 of these blankets which will be put on sale. Orders will be taken here on articles in other zones subject to priority. The sale will open at 11 o'clock. The Government will make every effort to prevent speculators from obtaining the blankets and orders from individuals for small quantities will be filled first.

Edwin J. O'Malley, Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets, has ordered as many blankets for the city as the Government will allow. Commissioner O'Malley tried to get 50,000, but was told the city will be able to get only 10,000.

The Department of Public Markets, in addition to placing an order for blankets, asked Captain Stewart to allot this city 1,200 more carloads of food. It is not expected that New York will get this amount of food when the sale opens Monday, but it is hoped that the order will stand in a priority list when the next sale is announced.

Mr. O'Malley said that he had an offer from a Chicago firm to supply the department with 2,000,000 pounds of bacon at 38 cents a pound. This order had to be refused inasmuch as the city has no authority to buy food on its own account, but can only act as distributing agent. Announcement will be made on Sunday morning of the location of the different school houses where the army supply of food will be put on sale Monday.

The Governor's Telegram.

Governor Smith's telegram to United States Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer asking for aid in the fight New York State is making to lower prices, follows:

Inasmuch as milk is coming into New York City from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Connecticut, the commission that I have appointed to investigate the high cost of living needs help from your department through the interstate commerce laws. New York City is the largest consumer of milk in the United States, and the price quoted here is felt by consumers throughout the whole country. For these reasons I respectfully request that your department co-operate with us in our effort to bring about a reduction in the price of milk in New York and to punish any person or corporations guilty of any offense under the laws of the United States or the State of New York, and to that end I urgently ask that you detail at once one of your staff to assist in an inquiry into all of the facts of the matter.

Governor Smith said that it was necessary to get the co-operation of the Attorney General in order to reach the milk dealers who have formed combinations. The State, he explained, was prohibited from interfering in any combination. The Governor held a conference late in the afternoon with Abram Elkus, Dr. John H. Finley, and former Governor Martin H. Glynn, at which methods to be employed against profiteering were discussed. It was stated after the meeting that no statement could be made regarding progress until this morning.

Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, and F. C. Hinderschott, his executive secretary, were in Washington yesterday. They are expected back today to attend the first meeting of the Fair Price Committee to be held at the rooms of the New York State Chamber of Commerce at 65 River Street at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It was announced at Mr. Williams's office yesterday that Mrs. William Randolph Hearst had been appointed a member of the Fair Price Committee.

COPELAND READY TO HELP.

May Use Health Board's Police Power in Food Situation.

Governor Smith is said to take the view that the Board of Health should be placed in charge of all measures regulating the sale of foods and other necessities of life in this city, and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, the Health Commissioner, said yesterday that he would be glad to use the full police powers of his department in the work of assisting the municipal and Federal Government in the present high cost of living crisis.

Governor Smith was quoted as having said: "Under the law the Board of Health has almost unlimited police powers in the matter of public health. Surely an insufficiency of food from whatever cause is a matter of public health. I may be wrong, but I am of the opinion that, through the Board of Health, we may come upon a solution of the problem."

Dr. Copeland said:

"The immediate interest of the Department of Health has related to the high and increasing price of milk. The law division of the department was directed some ten days ago to investigate the rights and duty of the Department of Health in the matter of regulating the price of this essential commodity. Investigations made by the department have revealed the uncomfortable fact that the high cost of many other essential foods has seriously reduced their consumption by many citizens of this city. I am much interested in the suggestion of the Governor, and if it can be shown that the broad police powers of the Department of Health can be used to correct the existing evil, I say, without hesitation, that it would be a joy on the part of this department to go forward with the most vigorous sort of campaign, looking to the regulation of the prices of food products.

"I assume that such an action would have to be taken under the so-called 'imminent peril' section of the charter. In this event, it would be necessary first for the Board of Health to take and file among its records what it shall regard as sufficient proof to authorize its declaration of such peril. If such proof can be adduced, then the Board of Health, under the law, can take such measures and do and order and cause to be done such acts for the preservation of the public health as it may, in good faith, declare the public health and safety demand."

SWIFT DEFENDS STORAGE.

Says Supplies Held Now Prevent Future Shortage.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The food now held in storage is placed there for use during seasonal shortages, according to Louis F. Swift, President of Swift & Co., who, commenting today on the agitation for confiscating surplus food stocks said:

"Swift & Co. denies that the foodstuffs which it is holding in storage have been put there for speculative purposes. Cold storage performs a real economic service. The present system has been evolved by the public demand—they want some of this produce throughout all the year. That is to say, they do not want to eat all their eggs in six months and then go without during the remainder of the year.

"If it were not for cold storage much of the perishable food produced during the months of heavy production would be lost because supply would temporarily exceed the demand and prices would fall so low that production would be discouraged. Later, without storage stocks to draw from a serious shortage of these commodities would occur with resultant high prices.

"If stocks of butter, eggs, and other commodities are commandeered and thrown on the market there is little question but that current prices will be forced down temporarily. But where will your butter and eggs come from next Winter when these storage stocks normally would be used to bridge over these months of small production." Over 80 per cent. of the goods in cold storage is meats and meat products, according to the Government report of the Bureau of Markets for July 1. Of these approximately 74 per cent. is in process of being cured in pickle or salt or is awaiting curing and so is not available for immediate consumption even though commandeered.

SEIZE BUTTER WORTH $50,000.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—1,282 tubs of butter, valued at $50,000, were seized here today on libel warrants issued by the United States District Attorney's office in the Government's war on the high cost of living. It was the first step taken by the local Federal authorities against alleged hoarders.

Three hundred tubs, consigned from St. Paul to Pittsburgh, were taken from freight cars. Remainder was taken from cold storage warehouses here, and was said to be owned chiefly by C. H. Weaver and Co. of Chicago.

The seizures were made on warrants authorizing condemnation and sale of the commodity or its disposal in any other way which might be ordered by the court. It was announced that hereafter no information would be given regarding proposed raids until after the foodstuffs have been seized.

LIBEL COFFEE IN ST. LOUIS.

Hoarding of 284,180 Pounds Since Last October Alleged.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—Federal officials here today seized 284,180 pounds of coffee held in storage in a warehouse on a libel information issued by the United States District Attorney. It was alleged that the coffee was held for J. Aron & Co. of New York.

The information complained that the coffee had been in the warehouse since Oct. 1 last and was illegally hoarded to increase its price. The District Court was asked for an order to condemn and sell the coffee in a way to provide for an equitable distribution.

meal on the hotel table only 41 cents, smaller by half than the customary 10 per cent tip, which by the way is not included in the above price for the meal.

"This illustration shows the extremes of exorbitant profits of the middlemen and of extravagant practices of the consumers in purchasing, including probably all the evils that are contributing in large measure to the high cost of living to the consumer. A reduction to the producer in the price of these foodstuffs to a point which would stagnate production of grains and meats, would have an inconsequential effect upon final prices to the consumer."

The five delegates who ate the $11 dinner were J. C. Crocker, President of the Nebraska Farm Bureau; O. E. Bradfute, President of the Ohio Bureau; J. G. Brown, President of the Indiana Bureau; J. R. Howard, President of the Iowa Bureau, and D. O. Thompson, Secretary of the Illinois Bureau.

"The high cost of living," asserted the committee, "is not due to the original price of the farm products to the grower. The Government minimum price for wheat does not determine the cost of a loaf of bread. Fixing a resale price at $1.50 per bushel would affect very little, if reflected to the consumer, the cost of living for the average family.

"The high cost of living is not due to the storage of meats, vegetables, fruits, eggs, and poultry in the season when these are produced in surplus against the season of short supply. Food storage for speculative purposes is intolerable.

"The high cost of living is not due to exportation of food and clothing any more than it is due to our heavy exports of manufactured goods, machinery, &c., of which the farmer is a heavy purchaser. An embargo on foodstuffs to bring down the high cost of living will be as demoralizing to American agriculture as the embargo placed on foodstuffs was to French agriculture in the time of Louis XIV.

Lack of Private Economies.

"Moreover, the high cost of living is not merely a local or national consideration. It is a world matter. Applying a first aid remedy at home to create and foster anarchy and revolution abroad should not be the policy of the United States even at this critical juncture.

"This question of lack of economy in public spending was brought within the focus of the American public's attention early in July, when the railway brotherhoods demanded of President Wilson that he bring down the cost of living immediately, threatening a demand in wage increase amounting to a total of $800,000,000 a year, payable necessarily from one of two sources, revenues from increase of freight rates or from a deficiency appropriation, either of which would add to the cost of living.

"A lack of practicing economies in private life may be illustrated without end. Theatres and places of amusement, resorts and watering places are crowded with beautifully gowned women and handsomely tailored men. The price of shoe shines has doubled and trebled, yet one must wait his turn, though he could shine his own shoes at home for less than 1 cent. So illustrations might be multiplied, all showing that lack of practicing plain economy is a great contributing factor in maintaining the high cost of living.

"The high cost of living is due to shifting individual responsibility for the present state of affairs and each component of the people of the nation seeking self-satisfaction rather than the answer to the great world question. This is our national state of mind. Instead of doing our national and individual best to produce more goods, so that there will be enough for all at a reasonable price, each is trying to better his condition at the expense of the other fellow.

"The high cost of living is not due to lack of desire or effort on the part of the farmers to produce to the limit of their physical ability. Following a beautiful promise of a bountiful wheat harvest a most destructive attack of scab and rust cut the wheat yield very materially. Untimely heat and drouth shortened the oats crop and adversely affected the corn crop. The long hours and strenuous diligence of the farm operation have, in spite of these adverse circumstances, put the crop across. The farmer has not struck, walked out, or otherwise slackened in production.

"The high cost of living is due to a stagnation in production of manufactured goods and prepared foodstuffs. Every labor strike that shuts down any plant engaged in the preparation of foods or the making of clothing, that shuts down a mine or a mill, adds to the high cost of living. Shortly after a strike of the United States yards and packing plant employes the wholesale price of fresh meats advanced 15 to 35 per cent., directly due to the short kill and consequent small supply of fresh meats.

Refuses to Work Alone.

"The American farmer does not sympathize with artificial or political quackery for befogging the real issues, which is impotent to give even passing relief. The American farmer is willing to squarely meet the issue. If prices are cut to the bone all along the line, farm products, wages, manufactured goods, rents, wholesalers' and retailers' profits will bring the desired result, which he rather doubts. He will go as far along that road as any, but he will not go alone. Let the whole brotherhood of man go the full route. If increased production will clarify the situation, the American farmer will jointly, with all of his fellow-citizens, buckle his belt for a most strenuous campaign of production, but here again he is determined that he will not work alone.

"If capitalistic monopoly wants enough food produced that it may be feasted, if organised labor wants food produced that it may be fed, if the do-nothing dawdlers want enough food produced so that they may occasionally eat, let them stand forth now at this time when the farmer must determine his 1920 food production program, and declare by deeds—cutting out profiteering in goods and wages, going honestly to the business of preparing and purveying the necessities of life, going honestly to the job or doing a full day's work for a full day's pay—their willingness to co-operate. Failure of these forces to do this now will be a boomerang that on the next cycle of the seasons will effect a condition of living now undreamed of."

MOVE FOR BETTER EGGS.

Food Authorities Suggest Adoption of Uniform State Laws.

In an effort to better conditions in the egg trade the Committee on Food Production and Distribution yesterday made public recommendations for a uniform good egg law and uniform egg breaking establishment law adopted at a conference in St. Louis last Winter of food and drug control officers of different States, representatives of State poultry and egg shippers' associations, and the Executive Committee of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association. It is recommended that the New York Legislature join with other States in passing the laws at the next session.

In brief, the uniform good egg law defines eggs unfit for human consumption and requires that all eggs shall be candled before resale, that candling records be kept by all dealers, that all dealers, except retailers not purchasing from producers, must be licensed, and provides penalties.

The uniform egg breaking establishment law provides for licensing all concerns engaged in the manufacture or preparation of frozen or dessicated eggs for regulation by the Department of Health, and inspection as to compliance with the sanitary law. It also provides penalties.

The most important of the advantages expected from the adoption of these laws in New York State is that the farmer will have an incentive to handle his eggs properly and improve his breeds of poultry; the farmer will be protected from the commission man who exaggerates the losses from poor eggs and deducts for such eggs in excess of the actual loss; the cost of marketing and transportation will be lowered because of the reduced handling, and the use of eggs unfit for human consumption by food manufacturers will be discouraged.

TO HEAR JERSEY MAYORS.

Fifty Will Appear Before House Agriculture Committee.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Mayors of fifty New Jersey cities will appear before the House Agriculture Committee Monday to demand that something be done by Congress to reduce the high cost of living. Mayor Gillen of Newark saw Chairman Haugen today.

"We expect to have a big delegation," the Mayor said, "and we will march up this hill to let Congress know that the situation demands immediate attention."

MEXICO WARNED OUR POLICY MAY CHANGE

lives of citizens of the United States have occurred in the territory of the republic cannot be, notoriously, attributed to unwillingness of protection. The willingness to furnish this protection has been expressed repeatedly and the material difficulties in the way of fulfilling a promise, supposing that it is not fulfilled, should not be confused with unwillingness to do so, especially as this willingness had been demonstrated by acts.

Moreover, if we consider the protection of human life in absolute terms—that is to say, if in every case and wherever a citizen of the United States may be within Mexican territory he should enjoy special and effective protection to a degree such that his life may never be placed in danger—it is not possible for the Government of Mexico to do this because so perfect a condition of security exists nowhere; with all the more reason is this true, considering the great territorial extent of the republic, its scanty population, and the difficulties which prevail after a long civil war.

The Government of Mexico has always endeavored as far as possible to give full security to the lives of foreigners as well as of its nationals, but the fact is that foreigners, through ignorance, the lack of prudence, or rash eagerness for profit, venture to remain, or to travel, in dangerous regions, thereby incurring the risk of becoming the victims of offenses and even trusting to escape offenses because of their being foreigners.

It should be remembered, moreover, that always when the Government of Mexico has had knowledge of an offense it has pursued the presumably guilty parties. The pursuit in such a case surely is not the same as that ordinarily made in cities in the case of ordinary crimes because the circumstances are different in a populous community. In the latter it is relatively easy to identify the guilty party, while in uninhabited places the band which committed the offense is located and pursued, is overtaken and as many as possible are killed without generally being able to identify the really guilty party, because within the band of offenders itself it is often impossible to determine, as might be supposed, which projectile of a volley caused a murder. The recent Correll case proves that the Mexican Government, following this procedure, which is the only possible one, is displaying the greatest activity, because immediately after this murder was reported, forces left in pursuit of the band and killed four of the villains.

The Mexican Government has been constantly preoccupied with the pacification of the republic, and as a first step has destroyed the principal rebel groups and has conquered the most notorious leaders, as is demonstrated by the conclusion of the recent Villa movement, the death of Zapata, of Blanquet and Inez Avila, without mentioning the operations against groups of minor importance. A consequence of this progress in the labor of pacification is the existence of some bands, the weak remains of the large group.

The Mexican Government has been, and continues, animated by the best of intentions to eliminate all those difficulties which disturb its good relations with the Government of the United States, and wishes its citizens to enjoy greater protection. The Mexican Government, anxiously desiring as ever a good understanding between both Governments, suggests the desirability that citizens of the United States concentrate in the populous places, where complete guarantees may be offered them, and that these citizens, when they find it necessary to visit the dangerous zones, request sufficient forces for their protection, which will be furnished by the Mexican authorities.

In the Tampico region the paymasters of the petroleum companies have been offered escorts to accompany them for the safe transportation of funds, and the companies have refused on the ground that the presence of the escort precipitates the attack of the rebels or that the individuals of the escort do not conduct themselves properly. These are unfounded assertions. Moreover, the relation which has existed between those same petroleum companies and the rebels is notorious, it being also suspected that there may have been cases in which the paymasters were in accord with the supposed assailants.

The Mexican Government, in order to demonstrate once more its willingness to furnish complete protection, has already formally promised to reimburse the sums which might be taken from the paymasters, notwithstanding the presence of the escort, and if this last offer is not accepted the consequences will be the exclusive fault of those same interested parties.

I believe I have made clear the true situation and possibility of the Mexican Government giving daily increasing means of protection to life and property, as it evidently has done, and undeniably desires to secure every class of guarantees within the national territory. In view of these facts, the menace embraced in your note has surprised the Mexican Government, all the more so since it seems strange that it should be exacted that even in depopulated regions human life should be protected in a more perfect manner than in the most populous cities of the most cultured countries, where bloody crimes often occur without the respective Governments thereby becoming the object of severe observations.

Deny Charges Against Paymasters.

The American Oil Companies, operating in the Tampico district, have put in a protest to the State Department against the Mexican insinuations that their paymasters staged the robberies by which they lost the company's payrolls. At the same time a telegram of protest, demanding an apology from the Carranza officials, was sent by the oil company managers in Tampico. The letter from the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico was made public here today. It was written in reply to a letter from the State Department. The oil producers say:

"Your letter reads as follows:

"'The department is informed by the Mexican Embassy at this capital that, according to advices received by the Department of Foreign Relations of Mexico, the oil companies operating in the Tampico district "entertain relations with the rebel, Manuel Pelaez," which the Embassy adds, "justifies the supposition that the robberies are not ordinarily committed by his men, but that it may well happen that the paymasters themselves are those who make such attacks, so as to appropriate to themselves the money entrusted to their care."

"'The department would be pleased to receive your comment upon this statement from the Mexican Embassy.'

"At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the association today, the members expressed not only surprise, but indignation at the suggestion contained in the letter of the Mexican Embassy to the Department of State. In numerous instances the robberies of paymasters have been accompanied by circumstances of gross outrage and murder. The facts are contained in memoranda on file in the Department of State. Among other cases may be mentioned the attack on Feb. 1, 1917, on a launch of the Texas Company in the Chijol Canal, near Tampico, in which the paymaster, House, was murdered, Paymaster Minet was wounded three times, Dr. Brisbane was seriously wounded, and Mr. Prather was also wounded. The attacks are usually begun by rifle fire from ambush. In some instances all the employes of a camp have been forced to leave, because of a succession of outrages and assassinations.

"On July 28, 1917, two employes of the Aguilla Company were fired upon from ambush, both being wounded, and were then assaulted and severely cut with machetes, both being left as dead.

"On July 29, 1917, the Prieto terminal of the Mexican Gulf Oil Company, a hundred miles above Tampico, was robbed, and the following Americans were killed: Alfred S. Esparla, L. P. Mallard, L. A. Dunn, H. N. Cooper.

"These men were murdered in cold blood after having been robbed of all their money. On July 31, 1917, A. W. Stevenson, cashier of the Texas Oil Company, was murdered at Tempatete, the Mexicans shooting him in the back, while he was stooping to open the safe to comply with their demands for money.

"One of the more recent instances is that of April 18, 1919, when Messrs. Dey and Willis, acting as paymasters for the Huasteca Petroleum Company, were assaulted while carrying funds in an automobile to pay off at the said company's pumping stations. The full facts in this matter are in the hands of the State Department. Willis, Dey, and a Mexican electrician accompanying the party were all seriously wounded, Willis being nearly killed. The funds were taken from them by their assailants.

"The paymasters of the companies are all known men of long association with the companies and would not be serving as paymasters until the companies had thorough confidence in their personal honesty. In the belief of all the representatives of the companies the insinuations contained in the note of the Mexican Embassy are entirely unjustified in fact.

"The outrages have all occurred in territory controlled by, or claimed to be under the control of, Carrancistas. As to the relations entertained with the "Rebel Pelaez," they are identically on the same footing as the relations with the other forces which have compelled the oil companies to pay tribute—notably forces of Candido Aguilar.

"The State Department is cognizant of the fact that before and until the coming of a Carrancista reign into the oil country there was not a single case of assault, assassination, robbery, or even insult to any employe of any American company by the inhabitants of the oil producing region. The outrages, murders and robberies have absolutely coincided in point of time and place with the advance of the Carranza Government column toward the producing district.

"The insinuation against the honesty and integrity of the paymasters and others in the employ of our companies can be regarded only as an insult to the living and a calumny on the dead.

"Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico."

Carranza Suggestion Rejected.

The text of the telegram received from the local managers of companies at Tampico with regard to the proposal of the Mexican Government to furnish escorts for paymasters follows:

"Local managers believe adoption of Mexican Government's suggestion would increase danger to paymasters' lives and increase risk of money losses. For practical carrying out of the suggestion it would be necessary for the companies to join in sending heavy aggregate sums with strong forces and, because of inevitable publicity and large sums, danger of attack is very great as rebels or bandits would be encouraged to gather in large numbers for attack. The Government suggestion could be accepted if the Government assumes responsibility for delivery of money where needed, we delivering money to the Government here, but under no circumstances would local managers consent to their paymasters accompanying such an escort because, in addition to danger from bandits, there is great danger that the escort might kill the paymasters and desert with the money. This danger was admitted by the former garrison commander in Tampico when exactly the same question was discussed between him and companies before, and on that ground, he declined responsibility. Since the Mexican Government lacks confidence in its own agents, we should not be expected to have that confidence. Most robberies committed where Carranza forces appear to control and in many cases by men with every appearance of Carranza soldiers. Managers have noted a public statement by the Mexican Ambassador that robberies are the result of collusion between paymasters and bandits and feel that ample proof or apology is due."

In the note the Mexican Government refers by name to the anti-Government groups, headed by Villa, to the Zapatistas, and to the capture and killing of General Aureliano Blanquet and Inez Avila. Other strong groups are headed in the northeast by Pelaez, in Central Mexico by Felix Diaz, in Morelos by General Meixueiro, and in Lower California by Cantu. There are also numerous Yaqui Indian bands in the northwest.

The Mexican Embassy denied today a report that a mutiny had occurred in the Carranza forces in Chihuahua City and that a large number of the mutineers had been killed.

The investigation of the entire Mexican situation by the Senate committee of which Senator Fall of New Mexico is the Chairman, is expected to start within the next few days. This investigation promises to be the most far-reaching of any yet conducted relative to conditions south of the Rio Grande.

NOTES PUBLISHED IN MEXICO.

Neither Press Nor Foreign Office Makes Any Comment on Them.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14. (Associated Press.)—No comment was available from official sources today on the United States note of July 22, warning the Carranza Government of a radical change in policy if it continued to fail to protect Americans.

The American note and the Mexican Foreign Office's reply were printed today by the newspapers in extra editions without any editorial expressions that might be construed as at all representing public opinion. The two notes aroused much interest in all quarters, as the possibility of intervention in Mexico has been widely discussed here in many circles for weeks.

The newspapers were bought freely by the people, but no expressions that might indicate the attitude of the people on the subject were heard. Government officials did not discuss the subject. The Foreign Office, after giving out the texts of the American note and Mexico's reply, said that there was nothing else for publication.

President Carranza has cancelled all engagements because of illness that confines him to bed. The President was said to have suffered from overwork and anxiety during the long illness of his wife, who recently was taken to her former home in the State of Coahuila for convalescence.

At the American Embassy it was said that publication of the notes here by the newspapers was the first knowledge the Embassy had that they had been given out.

CHARGE ANTI-CARRANZA PLOT.

Federal Agents Hold Three Mexicans with Propaganda.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—What was believed by Government officers to have been a plot to overthrow the Carranza Government of Mexico was disclosed here today with the arrest of Colonel Fernando Villars and Colonel Augustin Flores, former officers of the Mexican Federal Army, and Eucardo Huerta, an employe of the Mexican Customs House at Vera Cruz.

The men were charged with violating the section of the Espionage act relating to the circulation of propaganda against a friendly Government. The arrests were made by Department of Justice agents, who had been watching the activities of the men since their arrival here three weeks ago. They were locked up in the Parish Prison pending further investigation.

Among their effects was found a quantity of propaganda against the present Government of Mexico, according to Federal officers. Government agents stated that more arrests might follow.

NIXON FEARS CRASH FOR INTERBOROUGH

Receivership by Jan. 1 Unless Relief Comes, He Tells Federal Commission.

FARE CUT MAY COME LATER

Sees Eventual City Ownership—Burr Attacks Management of Lines Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Testifying before the Federal Electric Railway Commission today, Lewis Nixon, Public Service Commissioner of New York, gave a gloomy picture of the financial condition of the Interborough Rapid Transit Lines and stated that unless relief were given in the form of increased fares or from some other direction the companies probably would be forced into a receivership by Jan. 1.

Mr. Nixon said that the 2-cent charge for transfers on surface lines, which had been granted, would not solve the problem and that if wage demands of $13,000,000, which are pending, were granted the situation would be an impossible one from the viewpoint of the company. A wage increase of even $5,000,000, he said, would mean that the companies could not break even at the present rate of fares.

Another prediction made by Mr. Nixon was that municipal ownership of street railway properties in New York, to which the present City Administration was committed, would come eventually. He expressed the opinion that less than a 5-cent fare would some day be possible on a sound economic basis. As to the present condition of the Interborough Mr. Nixon pictured it as "sweeping along to a crisis."

Mr. Nixon said that the method of obtaining more revenues for the Interborough could not be definitely stated at this time, because of the contracts between the lines and the city.

"We face the necessity," he said, "of bringing about more returns for the Interborough between now and Jan. 1. How this can be brought about has not been ascertained."

A difficulty faced by the city officials and the commission, said Mr. Nixon, was that many of the contracts called for a five-cent fare.

"How we can bring about a change in the contracts," he said, "must be determined. If we are to escape the consequences of receivership, there must be modifications which will bring about further returns.

"The hope of the commission is that modifications in existing contracts may be brought about, both sides making concessions. These changes, however, must be made by the city, as the commission is powerless to make them."

Burr Assails Management of Lines.

Corporation Counsel William P. Burr of New York City, who followed Mr. Nixon, said that it was impossible for the electric lines to change the five-cent fare because of their contracts to keep that rate in effect. He added that in his opinion the surface lines in New York were their own victims and that no system of municipal ownership could conduct them worse than they have been conducted.

"The history of the Metropolitan Street Railway is one of speculation, peculation, and fraud," said Mr. Burr. "The real solution of the problem is municipal ownership, which is operated for service and not for profit, and in the interest of all the people of the city. Transportation is just as essential as water, and New York has the greatest water system in the world."

Mr. Burr then took up the legal phases of the situation, and said that it would be impossible to change the five-cent fare rate on one line without changing it on all lines. He cited as a case in point a presumptive raise to 7 cents on the Third Avenue line, which, he said, would merely throw business away from the Third Avenue line to competing lines charging less. Without legislation, he said, it would be impossible to change from the five-cent fare in any event.

Grenville S. MacFarland of Boston, who appeared as an advocate of municipal ownership, said that where municipal ownership was not possible or pending a resort to that plan, a rise in rates was imperative, under the present economic conditions, to tide over the street railways.

Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University, another witness, was asked if he felt that a remedy should be found to galvanize the roads.

"Yes," he replied, "and the primary remedy is to be found in an increase in the rate of fare. There ought to be a general adjustment to prevent a recurrence of the problem and we ought to stabilize the prices of everything and have a unit of money."

Public Service Commissioner Nixon's testimony was protracted. He was questioned concerning many phases of the transit situation. When asked about the so-called Cleveland plan, he said that he believed it was the best he had considered and might be applied to New York City.

Questioned about municipal ownership of the systems, he said that "in the fullness of time it must come, but at present it is impossible."

Taking up the history of the various companies, Mr. Nixon said that the United States Government holds $17,000,000 of the $57,000,000 of Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock. Payment of large dividends by the B. R. T., he said, was responsible in a measure for its present situation. The Interborough, he said, had been more conservative in its management and was able to pass July 1 without a receivership.

"I very much fear, however," he said, "that it cannot pass the first of the year."

Of the recent strike on the B. R. T., Mr. Nixon said that it brought about an "intolerable condition."

Relief other than that afforded by the recent two-cent transfer charge must be given the roads, Mr. Nixon said. The estimate is that the two-cent transfer charge will raise $750,000 in Manhattan, and $1,250,000 in the whole city per month.

"This charge has not been unpopular," he said. "The people have accepted it. However, it is being vigorously opposed."

Mr. Nixon pointed out that the greater number of riders in New York were carried each day into a space between Fifty-ninth Street and the Battery, which totals only one-fortieth of the entire space occupied by the city. Two billion passengers were carried in the city annually, he said, and the normal increase yearly was 30,000,000. During the war this dropped, however, until in 1917 there were 20,000,000 less persons carried than in 1916. Now the tide is surging back and an increase is expected.

"When the system begins to work effectively," he said, referring to the days when the entire subway would be complete, "I look to even a less charge than is in force at present."

Can't Purchase the Lines Now.

Mr. Nixon said that the City Government of New York was committed to municipal ownership of the car lines, "but at present it's not possible," he said, "chiefly because the city cannot afford to buy the lines at a cost of from $600,000,000 to $800,000,000.

"In the fullness of time," he continued, "municipal ownership will come. In a great city like New York strikes must be stopped. They must be submitted to some form of arbitration which is in the hands of the public. At present we have no condemnation rights which would meet the situation, and the franchise rights of the companies also would make it difficult to take over the lines."

Mr. Nixon said that it was not exactly true, to his mind, that the lease charges paid by many of the New York companies were "exorbitant." He said that in many cases the lessees had put millions into the companies leased to have them in efficient operating condition. Mr. Nixon urged the institution of some sort of a State board which would examine the whole question of leases and be able to determine what lease charges were fair and what were exorbitant. He also favored some power which would limit the amount to be distributed by railway companies as dividends and thus would force accumulation of a reserve fund to tide the companies over rainy days.

"In New York we now carry passengers twenty miles or more for 5 cents against a higher charge for the same distance by the steam railways," Mr. Nixon continued, "but so rapid has been the improvement in the electric railways that it is possible the area of dense activity in New York may be greatly extended.

"No matter how fast New York railways are built or developed, they will find themselves overwhelmed, and even with present-day genius we haven't been able to keep up with the demands forced on us.

Might Lower Fares Later.

"If the flexible fare system were adopted with a give and take attitude on the part of the city government and the traction companies and under proper conditions, with universal transfers, I think we could sell twelve tickets for 50 cents. But until all the links are completed in the great transportation systems planned we cannot look for any reduction."

Commissioner Nixon recommended adjustment of the fare to meet the fluctuations of the cost of service.

Regarding the projected abandonment of the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth Street lines, the Pelham Bay line, and the bridge line, which, he said, had been passed along to him recently, he declared that he saw no way to prevent this withdrawal of service. He had called the city government's attention to the fact that the lines were running behind on the present fares.

"What is the prime reason for all the difficulties in New York?" asked Chairman Elmquist.

"The increased cost of labor and materials," said Mr. Nixon.

"The real difficulty, however," said Chairman Elmquist, "is the franchise limitation on fares?"

"Yes; the constitutional fare."

"Could you be able to operate all the New York City lines under a five-cent fare if they were all consolidated?"

"No," said Mr. Nixon. "Consolidation would possibly save some salaries, but they would be very small compared to the vast expenses of operation."

"Is there any present sentiment for consolidation?" Chairman Elmquist inquired.

"I should say not," Mr. Nixon replied.

Cut by "Jitney" Competition.

Mr. Nixon said he estimated that "jitney competition" in New York amounted to about $12,000,000 loss yearly to New York railway systems—and he exempted the Fifth Avenue bus line from classification as a jitney line. He did not think that the bus system was having any positive effect on the railway lines because the volume of traffic was so enormous.

Theoretically, Mr. Nixon held that the zone system was the most equitable fare plan, but he insisted that he would like to see a flat five-cent fare continued.

Mr. Nixon would not say that there should be laws to make striking which interrupted street railway transportation a crime.

"That," he said, "brings up the question of compulsory arbitration and must be worked out over a term of years. The solution depends somewhat on the general patriotism of the labor unions."

NEWHAVENSHOPMEN DECIDE TO HOLD OUT

Vote of 6,000 Strikers Defies the President and Their National Organizations.

27,000 RETURN IN CHICAGO

Leaders Declare Strike Off—Boston Workers Decide to Return to Work.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 14.—The striking shopmen of the New Haven Railroad system have voted not to return to work and the hope of ending the tieup of the freight and passenger traffic of New England is delayed for the present. At the height of the crop-moving, of the vacation and the general passenger travel the shopmen today announced that they will disregard the request of the national organization to return to work.

They have, however, invited acting President B. M. Jewell of the Railway Division of the Federation of Labor to come here and discuss the situation with them.

Conservative labor men here regard their act as a defiance of their own national body and are speculating over the possibility of their expulsion. Exact figures of the balloting on returning to work are withheld, but the official statement announced that the vote ordered the strike to continue. It was added that a majority of the six crafts who are included in the 6,000 shopmen who left their jobs last Friday voted not to return. They represent the affiliated organizations of machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, carmen, and electricians in this city, Van Nest, N. Y.; Readville, Mass., and Providence.

Their representatives held an all-day secret conference.

Unofficially it was said that the workmen on the western or New York end of the railroad system seemed averse to continuing the strike, while those in Eastern Massachusetts and Providence strongly favored it. A statement of the vote was sent to Boston, where it will be considered at a meeting of labor boards of all the railroads there tonight.

The shopmen's committee told the reporters tonight that they must present union cards hereafter or they would get no news.

The formal statement follows:

From votes received the men have decided to remain out. The federation is still in session considering the situation. The committee is awaiting a reply to its telegram forwarded to Washington as to whether the Acting President of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor will come and meet a committee of the system federation of the New Haven Railroad at New Haven.

H. A. PORTER, President.
R. HENDERSON, Secretary.

Chicago Men Call Off Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The railway shopmen's strike is off and the men will return to work Saturday. This was the decision tonight of representatives of the strikers from widely scattered points throughout the country after an all-day meeting.

No official announcement was made, but the result was learned from men familiar with the proceedings.

While the shopmen's representatives were in session, a mass meeting of car repairers, representing about 27,000 strikers, also decided to return to work.

The shopmen's meeting was called by the Chicago District Council, which called the strike Aug. 1 in defiance of the international officers of the shop crafts, who were in session in Washington negotiating with Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration.

A telegram was also said to have been dispatched to President Wilson.

The decision had been expected since the council decided several days ago to call the meeting. An attempt to obtain recognition from Director Hines for the Chicago leaders of the strike had failed. President Wilson had said that before the Railroad Administration would take up demands the men must return to work.

The Chicago leaders had estimated the number of men on strike at about 300,000. The railroads generally were severely crippled, especially in the Chicago, Boston, and Atlanta districts.

Expulsion of all striking shopmen from the international organization was threatened in a telegram from B. M. Jewell, President of the organization, which was presented today by officials of the Chicago district council, at the meeting. The telegram read:

"Make orders positive to all points. Now is the time to act. We cannot much longer delay, and if you refuse to comply, will be compelled to advise Hines and Wilson, if necessary, that you do not belong to the organization. If negotiations are resumed strikers will be deprived of benefits."

While the meeting was in session 28,000 striking car workers in the Chicago district began taking a referendum vote to decide whether they will return to work.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The strike of shopmen and mechanics on the Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany Railroads, which began one week ago, was declared at an end tonight at a meeting of the Executive Boards of the system federation, and the men were ordered to return to work Saturday.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 14.—Huntington shopmen who walked out two weeks ago at a meeting late this afternoon voted to return to work at 6 o'clock tonight.

The strike continues at Handley, Huntington, Ashland, Russell, Peach Fork and Cane Fork, with indications that the men will be back at work not later than next Monday. For the first time in ten days coal trains are moving through the local yards of the C. & O.

$80,000 FOR GAMECOCKS.

Special to The New York Times.

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., Aug. 14.—At the rooster sale here today by which it is planned to raise $200,000 to bridge the Tombigbee River, in order to complete the Dixie Highway, the game cock contributed by President Wilson, and bearing the name of "Woodrow," brought $50,000, the amount being made up by several counties and individuals forming a pool.

Today's sales amounted to more than $80,000, and the auction will continue through tomorrow.

Headed by "Clemenceau," "Lloyd George," "Orlando," and "Wilson," the "Big Four" donated by the men whose names they bear, roosters named in honor of practically every other notable in the world, are here.

Two thousand gamecocks and two brass bands sounded their welcome to the "Legislative Special" when it arrived this morning from Montgomery with the entire personnel of the State Legislature aboard.

The auctioneer, who spent last night in Birmingham, missed his train this morning, but arrived by airplane in time to conduct the sale.

BROOKLYN PAINTERS TO QUIT

Strikers Refuse to Deal with Employers' Association.

The strike of the New York painters and decorators which began yesterday will be augmented today by the walking out of 4,000 members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators, and Paperhangers in Brooklyn, it was announced yesterday by A. Williams, acting Secretary of District Council 29 of the Brotherhood. The Brooklyn council is conducting its strike along the lines adopted by Council 9 in Manhattan, agreeing to deal with individual employers, but not with the master painters as an association.

P. M. Squires, Commissioner of Conciliation from the Department of Labor in Washington, who is attempting to settle the strike, made the following statement yesterday:

"A most unusual situation is presented in the strike of the painters. A union refuses to deal with an organized association of its employers, whereas labor has generally sought to negotiate with its employers collectively rather than as individuals. The disregard of orderly procedure, the presenting of an ultimatum subject to no compromise or negotiations, the upsetting of the principle of negotiating collectively rather than through individual agreements, is so contrary to the things for which organized labor has stood as to be of grave concern. It is to be hoped that conservative leaders will insist on orderly methods."

STUDENT HELD FOR MURDER

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Donald W. Fether of Los Angeles, Cal., a 21-year-old sophomore at Cornell University, was arrested here tonight charged with the murder of 18-year-old Hazel Crance of this city, who was reported drowned in Lake Cayuga on the night of July 19. She and Fether were members of a Lakeside dance party that night, and were said to have gone out on the lake in a canoe which later was found capsized.

Fether was rescued from the lake, but the girl's body has not been recovered.

This is Fether's second arrest since the night of the party. He was released on bail after charges of illegally purchasing whisky that evening had been preferred against him.

NEW COSTA RICA PRESIDENT

Tinoco Escaped from Limon—Bertrand Claims Success.

SAN SALVADOR, Aug. 14.—President Bertrand of Honduras has informed the Honduran Minister in San Salvador that the Honduran troops have inflicted a defeat on the rebels at La Esperanza and are following them in retreat.

A dispatch received from Managua, Nicaragua, announces that President Tinoco of Costa Rica, in leaving the country, escaped the vigilance of American ships and embarked at the port of Limon.

The dispatch adds that the revolution in Costa Rica is spreading rapidly in the interior of the republic. Julio Acosta has been named Provisional President of the republic. He has designated Francisco Aguilar Barquero to arrange for the holding of free elections.

PITTSBURGH CARMEN STRIKE

Street Car Service Is Tied Up When 3,000 Quit Their Cars.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 15.—Three thousand motormen and conductors of the Pittsburgh Railway Company at 12 o'clock last night delivered their cars to the barns and suspended operations. They will remain idle, they declare, until the receivers of the company yield to their demands of an hourly wage increase of 12 cents.

Electric transportation is completely tied up. Every railroad centring in the city, however, made a hasty revision of schedules in an endeavor to afford all possible relief, and heavy motor trucks were placed at the disposal of the public by scores of business houses.

11 KILLED IN CAR CRASH.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 14.—Eleven persons were killed and more than a score were injured when a street car, crowded with women and children on their way to a picnic, was in collision today with a railroad locomotive at Parmance, two miles north of this city.

The identified dead, most of whom are children, are:

Kermit Buehl, 8 years old; Bertha Watterman, 4; Bert Bryner, 9; Mabel Goddard, 14; Ora Matheny, 4; Mary Smoot, 2; Mrs. Jessie Kidd, 76, all of Reno, Ohio, and E. F. Anderson, 35 years old, of Parkersburg.

Anderson, an eyewitness of the tragedy, fell dead while engaged in breaking windows of the ill-fated car to release those imprisoned.

The car, which was one of the Monongahela Valley Traction Company's Line, crashed into a Baltimore & Ohio switch engine. About forty children from a Sunday school at Reno and a number of grown persons were on the car, which was en route to the Parkersburg City Park, for their annual outing.

A steam pipe of the locomotive was thrust into the car by the impact, throwing a cloud of steam and hot water on the imprisoned passengers, many of whom were badly scalded. James S. Ward, County Prosecutor, announced tonight that a rigid inquiry into the accident would be made. The car was of wooden construction and was demolished.

STILL GOING UP.

Statistics Show No Halt in World Price Climbing Since Armistice.

The advances in commodity prices have not been confined to the United States, but have been worldwide, according to the National City Bank. "Curiously, too," says the bank, "the prices of many articles continue to advance without reference to the fact that the war has terminated. Of the seventy-five articles named by the Department of Commerce as 'Principal articles imported,' more than one-half of those entering the United States in May, 1919, actually showed higher prices in the country of production than the prices of the same articles imported in the closing month of the war, and coming from the same country."

The following table shows the monthly average import price of the principal articles entering the United States in July, 1914, October, 1918, and May, 1919. It is based on the wholesale price in the countries from which imported:

WANTS LAW TO FIX TROLLEY DIVIDENDS

Farley Favors Empowering the Public Service Commission to Determine Rates.

FARES ON SLIDING SCALE

Also Advocates Compulsory Reserve Fund as Safeguard Against Years of Stress.

In a statement issued yesterday, Terence Farley, counsel of the Public Service Commission, recommended that the Legislature enact laws clothing the commission with power to fix the rates of dividends to be paid by transportation companies, so that it could adjust whatever situation that might arise to the public interest. His suggestion was that "fat" years should be used to take care of "lean" years and that the companies should be compelled to lay aside in prosperous times a reserve fund, and that when this fund exceeded $500,000, that the fare should be reduced to four cents or less.

Mr. Farley said that much, if not all, of the criticism directed against an increase of fare or a charge for transfers, is based on the theory that the railroad managements had been derelict. Referring to the proposed legislation limiting the rates of interest which the companies would be permitted to pay he said:

"Such a regulation would have prevented corporations in the past from declaring seventeen or twenty-two per cent. dividends. If a company's earnings justify the payment of a dividend at these rates it should be compelled to create and maintain a reserve or surplus fund of at least ten or twelve per cent. From this source, in the course of time, all of its outstanding obligations can be liquidated and it will thus be placed on a sound financial basis. In times of stress, if this reserve be depleted or exhausted, the company's properties will be in such good physical condition that it can readily secure financial aid by mortgaging its assets and issuing bonds.

"The compulsory creation of such a reserve fund would also enable the state, or municipality, or a public service commission, to compel a railroad to accept a sliding scale of fares. For example if the rate of fare was five cents the company could be required, if its reserve exceeded $500,000, to reduce its fare to four or three cents. On the other hand if the reserve did not reach the specified figure, the railroad could be permitted to charge such a rate of fare in excess of five cents, as would enable its reserve to reach the specified figure and when that figure was reached the rate of fare would be automatically lowered.

"By raising rates of fare or authorizing a charge for transfers, the public will be obliged to shoulder the burdens caused by the carelessness and lack of proper business methods on the part of the railroads. And, having shouldered the railroad's burdens, the public should be paid for their labor and trouble. The sliding rate of fare, which has been suggested, appears to be a practical solution of the difficulty."

Referring to the New York Railways Company, now in the hands of a receiver, he said:

"It has also been asserted that the lessee operating company, in the City of New York, made improvident leases; that it obligated itself to pay enormous rentals, greatly in excess of the value of the properties leased to it. Through lack of foresight, on the part of our lawmakers, no appropriate legislation has been enacted to prevent or guard against this. No such statute exists at the present day. The question of the amount of rental, unless clearly fraudulent, is not even under the regulatory supervision of the courts. That is also a matter which should be speedily remedied."

Bolivia-Argentina Land Dispute.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 13.—The Bolivian Minister called on Foreign Minister Pueyrredon today to urge that the negotiation of the territorial dispute between Argentina and Bolivia be expedited. The territory concerned is situated north of the Pilcomayo River.

URGES AID FOR KOLCHAK.

America Should Help Him, Says Returned Official.

Phil Norton, of 125 Riverside Drive, former Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Seattle, who returned recently from Siberia where he was Acting Director of the Russian Division of the Committee on Public Information, said yesterday that prompt despatch of supplies to Admiral Kolchak would save the situation in Siberia, and help regain the good will of Siberians toward this country.

"I believe there is more chance of disintegration among the Bolsheviki forces than among those under Admiral Kolchak," he said. "With proper support from this country, Kolchak will be able to hold his ground and keep Bolshevism out of Siberia. I believe the Admiral should be recognized. The situation there should be a warning to the Allies and to this country. If for no other reason than to oppose Bolshevism, Kolchak should be recognized at once and adequately supported."

Mr. Norton said that, from a business point of view, the United States could restore her prestige in Siberia and build the foundation for a commercial future there by establishing contact with the "co-operatives," a system of stores extended to all parts of Siberia and run for the benefit of the villages.

Enterprising action by American business, he said, could keep the door open for American trade in Siberia, whereas inaction would result in concentrating it in the hands of the Japanese to such an extent that there would be little hope of direct business relations between the United States and Siberia, after conditions should become settled.

RED FORCES TRAPPED.

British Charged with Bayonet on Surrounded Foe—Prisoners 1,500.

ARCHANGEL, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.)—The successful offensive of British and Russian troops along the Dvina southeast of Tulgas on Aug. 10 resulted in the capture of 1,500 prisoners, according to reports reaching here. It is believed that no Soviet troops remain north of Katlas. The allied casualties in the fighting, it is indicated, were light.

The attack was undertaken in order to stiffen the morale of the young Russian troops, as agitators recently had been busy among them. Elaborate plans were worked out, and the Bolsheviki were unaware of the impending attack.

The allied troops, after marching through the forests on both banks of the river and capturing enemy patrols, took up positions in the rear of the enemy and on his flanks. A hurricane of shellfire from Russian and British batteries was the first the enemy knew of the presence of the Anglo-Russian troops. Gunboats and motor launches armed with machine guns co-operated effectively.

After the enemy had been surrounded the British troops charged with the bayonet, and many of the Bolsheviki were killed. Those of the Soviet force who were not killed or captured were dispersed.

REPATRIATE VON SANDERS.

Allies Also Consider Liberating German Commander in Turkish Army.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The repatriation to Germany of Field Marshal Liman von Sanders, who assisted in the command of the Turkish army during the war, has been granted by the Allies, a German wireless dispatch received here says.

Field Marshal August von Mackensen, who led the German forces on the eastern front during a part of the war, is going to Constantinople. The message adds that the liberation of von Mackensen is under consideration.

Field Marshal Liman von Sanders was instructor of the Turkish army at the outbreak of the war. He commanded a Turkish force against the Russians and also commanded in Palestine during the final campaign there, narrowly escaping capture. When the Turkish Government signed an armistice, Liman von Sanders was arrested in Constantinople, where he has been under detention since.

Field Marshal von Mackensen was in command of the German troops in Rumania when hostilities ended. He attempted to force his way through Hungary to Germany, but was arrested at Budapest by French troops.

ROCKAWAY TROLLEY OFFERED TO THE CITY

Vice President Tells Service Commissioner Line Will Soon Be Bankrupt.

WOULD SELL AT APPRAISAL

Says Company Has Never Paid a Dividend and Owes Interest on Bonds Since 1910.

If the Directors of the Long Island Electric Railway Company accepts the suggestion of the company's Vice President and General Manager, W. O. Wood, an offer will be made to sell the property to the city at a price to be fixed by an appraisal to be made under conditions satisfactory to all interests. There have been many complaints on the part of patrons of the road that the service was inadequate, and the Public Service Commission has been hearing the complainants and the company. At yesterday's hearing Mr. Wood expressed his willingness to turn the property over to the public.

The company operates a trolley line between Jamaica and Far Rockaway, a distance of about ten miles. The fare is 10 cents, or as Mr. Wood pointed out, about one-third the price the passengers would have to pay if they rode the same distance on the Long Island Railroad. This 10-cent fare, Mr. Wood said, had driven the road to the point of bankruptcy, and he would not hesitate to suggest to the Directors the sale of the property. He thought they would be disposed to give the proposal favorable consideration.

Deputy Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett, who presided at the hearing, wanted to know if the difficulties confronting the company were solely financial, and Mr. Wood replied decidedly that they were. He said the company owned about twenty-seven miles of track, most of it single track, and he spoke of the difficulties in keeping the property in good condition because of the lack of income. Mr. Barrett said he wanted the service improved, and that he expected the company to improve it.

"We are just as anxious as you are," Mr. Wood replied, "to see that passengers get satisfactory service, but we have no money, and if things do not improve pretty soon the road will have to quit operating. We are running behind all the time, and within the last two days we have provided for an increase in the wages of our men which will increase the expenses $30,000 a year."

Asked if he had taken any steps to relieve the financial situation Mr. Wood replied that an application had been made to the Board of Estimate for permission to charge a higher fare, but "the board just filed the application and did no more." In reply to other questions Mr. Wood said:

"The road is capitalized at $600,000 and has bonds outstanding amounting to $600,000. The property is jointly owned by the Interborough and by Long Island interests. Not one dividend has ever been paid on the stock and the interest on bonds is in arrears since 1910. The owners have advanced about $130,000 to keep the road running, and the interest arrears now amount to $300,000. The city, by the issuance of paving orders at the present time, has the power to wipe the road off the map."

"Would you be willing," asked Arthur G. Peacock, counsel for the company, "to turn the road over the city for the actual amount of money put into it?"

"I would recommend that course to the Directors," replied Mr. Wood.

"Would you be willing to turn it over to the city at its appraised value?" queried Mr. Barrett.

"I would be willing to recommend that to the Directors," said Mr. Wood. "I don't know what they would do. They might be willing to accept such a proposal."

The hearing was adjourned without date.

FORD GETS 6 CENTS AND TRIAL COSTS

they surrendered, and the knocks sounded on the door.

The jurors were heard from four times during the day, twice for their meals, once for an additional instruction from Judge Tucker, and once when they asked for the alleged libelous editorial, headed "Ford Is an Anarchist," on which the suit is based.

Henry Kelley, Bailiff for thirteen years, said it was the quietest jury he had ever handled.

Judge's Instructions to the Jury.

Speaking of the term "anarchist," Judge Tucker said, in part:

"If the Tribune Company took reasonable precautions to get the truth as to the matter from the Ford Motor Company, and their information came from an authority of the Ford Company, they were not to be blamed because the information they got was not true. On the other hand, if they misquoted it would fairly indicate malice toward Ford in the publication of the article.

"As to the meaning of the term 'anarchist' as used in this editorial, that is a matter for you to consider, and is one of the questions you must determine.

"Ordinarily speaking, the term 'anarchist' would be expected to convey to the mind of the ordinary reader that meaning which naturally comes to the minds of people when they hear the term spoken of by itself. Perhaps the most commonly accepted meaning of the term—that of a murderer, a dangerous person; possibly a bomb thrower.

"However, you will bear in mind that the term 'anarchist' has several definitions."

Judge Tucker quoted the following definition, as given by the United States Supreme Court: "Anarchist—1. One who advocates anarchy or the absence of government as a political ideal; a believer in an anarchic theory of society; especially, an adherent of the social theory of Proudhon.

"2. In popular use one who seeks to overturn by violence all constituted forms and institutions of society and Government, all law and order, and all rights of property, with no purpose of establishing any other system of order in the place of that destroyed, especially such person when actuated by mere lust of plunder.

"3. Any person who promotes disorder or excites revolt against an established rule, law or custom.

"4. One who urges and seeks the overthrow by force of all Government."

There were two defenses, he continued. If the jury finds that charges in the editorial were true, that Mr. Ford was in fact an "anarchist" and "ignorant idealist," it was a complete defense, he said. The "right of fair comment," he instructed, was a second defense, to be considered only in event that the first defense was inadequate. In the course of his charge the court said:

"The editorial, as it appeared in the paper and standing by itself without explanations, is libelous, or, in legal terms, libelous per se (of itself.)

"The defendant Chicago Tribune admits the publication and insists that it was true and, therefore, justified; and that, even if not true, it was fair comment upon a matter of public interest, either of which defenses is sufficient if proved."

Touching on the statements made by Mr. Ford in the course of his pacifist propaganda the court said:

"There is no obligation on the part of any citizen to agree with anybody else on any subject on earth, whether it is the President, Secretary of State, or who. Every man has a right to his own opinions and convictions and the right to advocate them in any reasonable way.

"On the other hand, a newspaper has the same right that an individual has to comment on and criticize matters of public interest or men in public life or anything else that may seem to them acts proper to criticize or comment on, providing they injure nobody.

The court stated that the question of military preparedness was admitted in testimony only for one purpose, namely, as bearing upon the good faith of the Tribune in criticizing Mr. Ford. On the subject of "fair comment" he said in part:

"Upon the question of fair comment, if you become satisfied that the charges or characterizations contained in the editorial in question are true in substance, that you will end your consideration of the case and your verdict will be for the defendant, no cause of action, because the truth is a defense. If it is true they had a right to say it.

"If you do not become satisfied that the characterization or charges in the editorial are true, you may then consider whether they constitute fair comment or not.

"What is meant by 'fair comment' and how you are to determine whether or not the defense has been sustained, I will now point out to you.

"You will observe that the question is not whether you would or would not have made the same comment on the same facts. The writer had the right to judge for himself of the justness of the comment which he wrote. The question is, was the comment the writer's real ideas, and was it honest. If the comment was the writer's real ideas and was honestly written, then it was fair, as that term is used in the law in this connection, and you must so treat it.

"It is of course, well known that at the time the editorial was published the National Guard had been called out to be sent to the Mexican border.

"It was also well known that a state of disorder and lawlessness which authorities were unable to stop existed in Mexico and along the border.

"You will, as I have said before, not consider at all the question of fair comment if the question of justification is determined in favor of the defendant, because that will end the case.

"If it is not so determined, you may consider the question whether or not what was said in the editorial can be treated as fair comment under the definition I have given you."

The judge instructed that plaintiff's charges of pro-Germanism against The Tribune and of a selfish interest in advocating intervention in Mexico had not been proved and the jury need not consider it.

No word was heard from the jury room for an hour when the alleged libelous editorial was sent for. Bailiff Kelley handed it to Juror Fred P. Goff, who, it was reported, had been chosen foreman.

It was on June 23, 1916, after Mexican bandits had raided Columbus, N. M., and military preparedness was a burning issue, not only because of the Mexican menace, but because of the conflagration in Europe, that The Chicago Tribune printed its famous editorial headed "Ford Is an Anarchist." It called Mr. Ford an "ignorant idealist," and remarked that his views on disarmament might be different if his factories were on the Rio Grande instead of the peaceful Canadian border.

Counsel for the manufacturer at first filed suit in the Federal Court at Chicago, but later withdrew it and instituted proceedings in the State Court at Detroit. Here The Tribune applied for a change of venue, and Judge James G. Tucker of the Circuit Court of Macomb County, at Mt. Clemens, was agreed upon to hear the case. Selection of a jury began May 12. It consisted of eleven farmers and one roadbuilder.

A feature of the case was the production by the defendant of more than twenty witnesses from the Mexican border to testify to the fact that there was a condition of anarchy along the border.

Professor Reeves of the University of Michigan testified that many of the Ford utterances corresponded with the teachings of well-recognized anarchists.

Bishop Charles D. Williams, Episcopal Bishop of Eastern Michigan, was one of the principal witnesses for the plaintiff. Many of Mr. Ford's utterances which the defendant had called anarchistic, he said, also were to be found in the Scriptures and in the writings of non-archistic philosophers.

The hearing was one of the longest on record, according to counsel. Transcript of testimony approximated 2,000,000 words.

WILSON TO EXPLAIN TREATY TERMS

tor Lodge said, the committee this morning instructed him to inform the President it would be pleased to meet the President to get information regarding the treaty at such time and place as might be convenient to the President, but that as several Senators were absent Senator Lodge is understood to have informed the President it would suit the convenience of the committee better if the appointment for the conference could be made for some day subsequent to next Monday.

Lansing Failed to Elucidate Points.

The committee, it was said, wants to hear explanations from the President on the various features of the treaty to which objection has been raised in Senate debate and upon which reservations or amendments are being urged. Secretary Lansing, in his appearances before the committee, the Republican members assert, failed to elucidate many points upon which he was interrogated, touching upon obligations of the United States under the League of Nations and also upon other provisions of the treaty, including the Shantung award to Japan. Other witnesses, they say, were equally unproductive.

One phase of the treaty upon which nearly all of the Republican members of the committee want enlightenment is the extent of obligations imposed upon the United States as to former enemy nations. The treaty, they understand, is interwoven with the treaties with Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey in these obligations, and they desire to know precisely what this embraces.

The suggestion that the committee confer with the President was made by Senator Johnson of California, who said there were so many unexplained features of the treaty that the committee was at a loss to determine exactly how to proceed. If explanations were given, he said, the work of the committee might be expedited.

For two hours the committee debated the proposal. Senators Fall, Borah, New, and others expressed themselves pointedly upon the stipulation that the conference be free from any obligation of confidence. They found the Democratic members in no sense opposed to the suggestion, Senator Hitchcock, ranking Democratic member of the committee; Senator Swanson, and others of the Administration forces agreeing that the entire Senate should have the advantage of whatever explanations the President gave.

After voting to request the President for the conference, the Foreign Relations Committee voted 9 to 8 against asking Colonel House, Henry White, and General Bliss to appear before it, as suggested by Senators Borah and Johnson in a letter to Chairman Lodge. Senator Harding of Ohio and Senator McCumber of North Dakota voted with the Democrats. Senator Harding's attitude came as a distinct surprise to his Republican conferees.

Mr. Harding explained that, as the committee had just voted to ask the President for a conference, and as the three American Peace Commissioners were engaged in important work upon the Austrian treaty at Paris, he did not think the committee ought to attempt to disturb them.

The committee voted to call before it Professor Stanley K. Hornbeck of the University of Wisconsin and Professor Edward Williams of the University of California, experts in Oriental affairs, who resigned from the American Peace Commission at Paris; Thomas F. Willard, writer and authority on Chinese affairs; John C. Ferguson, an expert on Far Eastern matters and William C. Bullitt, a writer. They will be heard next week.

Democratic members of the committee voted against calling the witnesses. They insisted that the committee had gone exhaustively into the phases of the treaty upon which the witnesses would be questioned, and that further inquiry along that line would be unnecessary.

May Delay Wilson's Speaking Tour.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson's acceptance of Senator Lodge's request to explain the treaty to the Foreign Relations Committee may delay the President's plans for his speaking tour.

Before the committee acted today gratification was expressed by White House officials over the prospect of an early report from the committee, and Secretary Tumulty said there was a "strong possibility" that the President would begin his speaking tour for the treaty as soon as the report had been laid before the Senate.

What might be the effect of today's decision on plans for the trip was not revealed.

DEMOCRATS NOW SEEK TREATY COMPROMISE

Administration Forces in Senate Work for Reservations Which Will Not Reopen Negotiations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—That the Administration forces in the Senate are exerting themselves in an effort at a compromise on reservations to the League of Nations covenant that will prevent recommitting the treaty to the principal signatory powers was evidenced today in their activities at the Capitol.

At the end of a day of scattered conferences between Republican and Democratic Senators, Mr. Pittman of Nevada, one of the stanchest Administration supporters went to the White House to consult with President Wilson. When Mr. Pittman emerged from the White House he declined to comment upon his interview, and, although it was understood that the matter of reservations was taken up with Mr. Wilson, the Senator declined either to affirm or deny it.

Senator Pittman did not hesitate for himself, to express pointed views as to the program of the Republican majority for drastic reservations. He repeated what he had said in his Senate speech last week, that, while he was not opposed to the principle expressed in reservations suggested by Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, he felt they should not be adopted by the Senate, as they would re-open the treaty for negotiation at Paris.

At the Capitol Administration Senators were not averse today to privately expressing the opinion that reservations of a mild character might be acceptable, in view of the situation which has developed in the Senate. From Republican sources came word that Democratic emissaries had been active in trying to ascertain what ground for compromise would be attainable. Several Democratic Senators visited Republican reservationists at their offices or talked to them over the telephone, to find out how they stood on interpretative reservations, such as would not entail recommitting the treaty to Paris.

Republican leaders felt more confident than ever over the outcome of their fight because of the shift in the tactics of the Administration forces. They construed the Democratic attitude as a clear indication that the battle for drastic reservations would be won.

Senator Lodge once more declared that there is no doubt that the majority has votes enough to put reservations through; the only question is how drastic they are to be. The Massachusetts Senator characterized as "stupid and a pure invention" a report sent out from the Capitol last night that Republican Senators had approached Democratic Senators with an offer of a compromise on mild reservations. No overtures of that character, the Senator said, had emanated from the Republicans.

Asked if there were any indications that the Senators standing for drastic reservations were losing ground and that they might have to seek compromise to put a mild reservation program through, the Senator replied:

"We are not licked yet. And if we are licked, it won't be in that way."

Mr. Lodge added that the situation was "entirely satisfactory" from the viewpoint of the reservationists. The Senator is to confer tomorrow with Senator McNary and others of the so-called mild reservationists to learn how far they are willing to go. In the meantime the situation on the Democratic side is developing along the line of mild reservations, so that an accurate survey of the Senate is expected to be obtainable within a few days.

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania allowed it to be known today that he will renew his fight to separate the League covenant from the treaty for independent vote when the latter reaches the Senate. If his effort fails Mr. Knox will offer a resolution of reservation couched in such phrasing as to put the determination of the extent of America's participation in the League in the hands of Congress. Mr. Knox's contemplated resolution reads as follows:

Resolved, further, as a part of this act of ratification, that the United States reserves to itself the fullest and most complete liberty of action in respect to any report, decision, recommendation, advice, or proposals of the League of Nations or its Executive Council, and also the sole right to determine its own relations and duties and course of action toward such League or toward any member thereof, or toward any other nation in respect to any question, matter, or thing that may arise while a member of such League, anything in the covenant or constitution of such League to the contrary notwithstanding, and also reserves to itself the unconditional right to withdraw from membership in such League.

It is also further resolved that the validity of this ratification depends on the affirmative act of the principal allied powers named in the treaty of peace with Germany approving these reservations and certifying them to the United States within sixty days after the deposit of the resolution of ratification by the United States.

Mr. Knox pointed to the stipulation in his resolution that the principal allied and associated Governments must accept the reservation, as evidencing its binding force upon the other nations.

BRITISH RAILMEN THREATEN STRIKE

Demand of Engineers and Firemen for Speedy Settlement Regarded as an Ultimatum.

ABOUT 65,000 MEN INVOLVED

Warning That Leaders May Not Be Able to Restrain Men If Action Is Delayed.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A demand for speedy settlement of their wage dispute, which was construed as being in the nature of an ultimatum, was made today by the locomotive engineers and firemen upon Sir Auckland Geddes, British Minister of Reconstruction. About 65,000 men are involved.

The letter forwarded by the railway men's executive today declares that unless progress toward a settlement is made during an interview with Sir Auckland, which they demand shall take place tomorrow, it is feared the leaders will be unable longer to restrain their men from taking action.

The letter states also that standardized wage scales offered to the men have been rejected by several branches of the railway men's organization, particularly at Liverpool and Manchester.

The industries of Yorkshire, particularly textiles, have been seriously affected by the coal shortage arising out of the strike of 200,000 miners who voted yesterday to return to work. More than 50,000 men and women are out of employment because of the shortage in fuel. Steel and iron mills in Lancashire have begun to shut down because of lack of coal supplies.

2 CRANE SISTERS FOR STRIKE

Mrs. Gartz Upholds Mrs. Lillie in Sympathy for Workers.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 14.—That the striking employes of the Crane Company deserve higher wages, and that her sister, Mrs. Frances R. Lillie, is right in maintaining that concessions should be granted them, was the statement made today by Mrs. A. F. Gartz of Pasadena, owner of a magnificent home on Mariposa Avenue in the Crown City.

Declining to be interviewed in person regarding the difference in the attitude of her sister, Mrs. Lillie and her brother, Richard T. Crane, jr., present head of the Crane Company, toward the stockholders, Mrs. Gartz expressed her views through Crane Gartz, one of her sons.

"Mother is in sympathy with her sister," said the young man. "She doesn't know that she would go as far as her sister in making concessions, but she probably would."

The Crane Company has a large branch in Los Angeles, but it has not been affected by the strike at the main plant in Chicago, he said.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Frances R. Lillie, daughter of the late Richard T. Crane, and sister of Richard Crane, jr., President of the Crane Company, believes its employes have done the right thing in going on strike recently without notice to or demands upon the company.

In a letter received yesterday by John J. Kikulski, Union Organizer, and fosterer of the Crane strike, she gave her views on the situation. Some excerpts follow:

"I am sure that my brother believes that he is a good and generous employer, but that does not hide the fact that the Crane Company is getting every year enormous sums of money from the labors of others without anything like commensurate returns to society for it.

"For that reason I believe that the strike for the unionism of the Crane Company is absolutely right and wise, and the gradual assuming of control of their lives by the workers is and must be only a question of time."

546 GASFITTERS GO OUT.

Brooklyn Union and Flatbush Workmen Demand Flat Rate.

Threats to cripple the service in the borough were made by 500 gasfitters employed by the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, who struck yesterday for higher wages. The strikers, who have been receiving a daily wage of from $3 to $4.40 under a grading system, demanded that this system be abolished and that they be paid a flat rate of $6 a day for fitters, with $4 for helpers and $3 for jobbers. They rejected a smaller increase which the company is said to have offered.

The gasfitters were trying yesterday to get employes in other departments to strike. At the office of the company it was said that there was no danger of the service being tied up. In a statement issued by the company it was asserted that the grades which the strikers demanded should be abolished had been instituted last October at the request of the men themselves.

In the Flatbush section of the borough forty-six fitters, shopmen, and helpers also struck yesterday for an increase in pay. These men are employed by the Flatbush Gas Company.

THREATENS TO MOVE PLANT

Columbia Graphophone Delivers Ultimatum to Bridgeport Strikers.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 14.—The Columbia Graphophone Company announced today that if its striking employes do not return by tomorrow night the plant will be moved from this city. The company formally withdraws its offer to grant the forty-four-hour week and returns to the forty-eight-hour schedule. All negotiations also are declared to be at an end.

Among strike leaders today it was said that the indications were that the strikes would probably be settled. The Federal conciliators were at work at the Challenge Cutlery Company, today, and the employes, who have been out for two weeks, probably will return.

The Locomobile machinists and plumbers, who were to strike today, did not do so.

RIOTS END AT PEORIA.

State Troops Held Ready to March If Attacks Are Resumed.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 14.—Illinois reserve militia units were ready today to march to the Keystone Steel & Wire plant in South Bartonville and preserve order in the steel mills, where fighting yesterday between striking employes and deputy sheriffs resulted in the injury of five persons.

A number of shots were fired during the night, but early today there was no sign of further rioting.

Tokio Papers Resume as Strike Ends

TOKIO, Aug. 11, (Associated Press.)—Newspapers have resumed publication here, following the settlement of the strike of printers, which forced a general suspension last week.

Sentenced for Killing Youth.

James F. Fitzpatrick, 30 years old, of 423 West Eighteenth Street, was sentenced to Sing Sing Prison for from nine to twenty years by Judge McIntyre in General Sessions yesterday for shooting and killing John Tunney, 19 years old, of 111 Bank Street, June 29. Assistant District Attorney Joyce told the court Fitzpatrick had fired when Tunney accidently dropped cigarette ashes on the dress of a woman dancer at the Moon Club at 446 West Thirteenth Street. Fitzpatrick pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

ment of Wednesday, and that they would never again deal with the Actors' Equity Association or its representatives.

"If we should give in," said Mr. Hopkins, "we would be constantly in fear the actors being called out. If we give in to the Actors' Equity Association we will be ruined, and, if we refuse to be imposed to other calls, now is the time to be ruined, not then. We are in for a finish fight."

Another of the closed theatres will be opened with an attraction outside the legitimate on Monday night, Aug. 25, when Howard Thurston, the magician, will bring his show to the Globe Theatre. This house was closed last Saturday with the calling of the "She's a Good Fellow" company on strike.

The reopening of "At 9:45" is announced for tonight at the Playhouse, with William A. Brady, the manager, prominent in the cast.

Francis Wilson addressed an open letter to George M. Cohan yesterday in which he declared that it was a great grief to the actors that Mr. Cohan was on the opposing side instead of theirs. He continued:

"Wouldn't it be more like the George Cohan, whom his fellow actors admired and loved, to say: 'Of course, actors are entitled to have an organization: it has been a great protective force to them, and George Cohan, born, bred, and reared as an actor, whose parents and family were and are actors, is going to be the first man in the profession of acting to recognize that right and that association?' It is such a little thing to do toward ending a great strike.

"In such a declaration, and you have the independence and power to make it, would speak the real George Cohan. Such a step, my dear George Cohan, would not only redound to your credit, but it would evoke a magnificent feeling of affectionate appreciation. It would result in a lasting state of popularity such as even you have never known."

$8,000 for Strike Fund.

The rally of the actors at the Hotel Astor in the afternoon packed the ballroom to the doors. The speakers included Lionel and Ethel Barrymore, Frank Bacon, De Wolf Hopper, Ed Wynn, Marie Dressler, Hugh Frayne, (labor organizer,) Dudley Field Malone, Charles C. Shay, head of the Stagehands' Union, and others.

It was announced at the close of the meeting that $8,000 in private subscriptions had been received by the actors for the strike fund. A wire was received from Clara Kimball Young, in Los Angeles, saying that a meeting of film stars was being called there for the purpose of raising money for the fund.

The actors announced also that 1,700 new members had joined the association in twenty-four hours, this number inclusive of those recruited by the chorus branch. Savoy and Brennan, a vaudeville team appearing in the "Follies," applied for membership, and assurances of support were received from Marjorie Rambeau and her husband, Hugh Dillman; William Courtenay, Katherine Emmett, Elizabeth Risdon, and others.

Mary F. Kirkpatrick, representing Rachel Crothers, producer of "39 East," which was closed by the strike on Wednesday, gave out the following statement:

"Miss Crothers and I jointly own two-thirds of the stock in "39 East" Corporation and Lee Shubert owns the other third. The company was incorporated and the by-laws drawn up by the personal attorney of Miss Crothers and myself.

"Miss Crothers selected the cast and engaged it, asking me to settle the salaries. I voluntarily sent to the Actors' Equity Association for their form of 'Run of the Play' contract, which was duly executed by fourteen actors and by Rachel Crothers for the '39 East' Corporation.

"For every extra matinée, except those mentioned in the actors' equity contracts, each member of the company has received a pro rata extra payment. No Summer reduction in salary was asked of them and the company was rehearsed for two days less than three weeks. At various times every member of the company has expressed individually his appreciation of his treatment.

"But yesterday the actors received word from the Equity to stop playing until further notice and all of them walked out except four, who reported for the night's performance.

BELASCO GIVES PLEDGE TO QUIT IF ACTORS WIN

Will Never Produce a Play, He Says, Under Conditions "Equity" Would Impose.

The statement made last night by David Belasco, in which he declared that he would never produce another play if the Actors' Equity Association wins its points in the strike, was as follows:

"Granted that we are all wrong. Suppose we concede at once that these children of the stage who are being misled should have everything they demand, which they virtually have already, what assurance can managers have that another whim of some professional trouble-maker and self-centred leader will not again break faith?

"Is it to be a fact that individual contracts can be broken at the command of one or several men? If so, then what will become of the business world? What is the value of an agreement? What is the value of a pledge, a vow?

"How can I or any other producer be sure that some new grievance won't be immediately born in the mind of these children of impulse who are under a heavy bond to obey the council of the so-called Actors' Equity Association, right or wrong? 'Equity!' The very word has been traduced. It has lost its meaning to me and to every producer or director.

"If, by any unexpected calamity, our individual contracts made months ago for the approaching season cannot be upheld, how can we go on? If the closed shop becomes a reality, I will never produce again.

"If the actors involved in the present strike will send representatives to us whom we can trust, there will be no more trouble. There must be mutual confidence if we are to get the profession back to its romanticism, idealism, dignity, and honesty of one week ago.

"Abhorring each other, how can we thinke we are going to succeed? We cannot. Ours is a profession of intense and sympathetic temperamentality, less tangible than a dream; highly strung and emotional, the dearest and best and most bohemian-like people in the world, all of whom would give his or her life blood to any just cause. Why not do the same for each other? It breaks my heart to see the boys and girls of our great profession fighting like a mob. We are artists, first, last, and always, and we must have the freedom to do our work in the same spirit. We cannot coerce their individuality nor set to rules their temperament, their emotions, their brains. They must be free and independent and individual as the painter, the poet or the novelist.

"If this condition cannot continue, then I shall never again produce a play. If we cannot go on in the unfettered way, then let us go and be honored business men and honest laborers."

Mr. Belasco resigned his membership in the Lambs on Wednesday.

STAGE HANDS THREATEN TO STRIKE IN CHICAGO

Walkout Averted by Request of Managers for Conference—Musicians Undecided.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Unless the actors' settle with the managers tomorrow or their own demands are met, stagehands and carpenters in Chicago theatres, say they, will strike tomorrow night. The strike had been planned for tonight, but was averted at the last moment, according to Dick Green, International President of the stagehands, by a plea for a parley from managers here and in New York. Both Green and Joseph Weikler, business manager for the musicians' unions, assured the managers that they would not consent to a strike until all efforts to avoid it had been made.

If the musicians and stagehands do strike, the managers threaten to institute a lockout, similar to that now on in the building industries.

TO COMBINE FORCES FOR TAMMANY FIGHT

Supporters of Newburger and Smith to Hold Conference to Formulate Plans.

CITIZENS UNION TO AID

Proposes to Divide Burden of Campaign with the Cleveland Democracy.

Plans for combining the various political forces behind the move to reelect Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger and City Court Judge Richard H. Smith, who were refused renominations by Tammany Hall, will be discussed at a conference on Wednesday evening, Aug. 27, at the Savoy Hotel. It was expected to hold the conference next Wednesday night, but many independent Democrats notified County Clerk William F. Schneider, head of the Cleveland Democracy, that they would not be in the city then, and the later date was therefore set.

Members of Tammany Hall, who resented the action of Leader Charles F. Murphy in selecting Irwin Untermyer in place of Justice Newberger for the nomination, are expected to be at the conference. Mr. Schneider said yesterday that he had been informed that a revolt of considerable proportions had taken place within the Tammany organization, and that many members had expressed their willingness to work openly for Justice Newburger's election. The revolt, he said, existed particularly among young lawyers who, as members of the Tammany organization, worked hard in the past, especially in the McIntyre-Delehanty contest, and were aggrieved because the Tammany leader had selected Mr. Untermyer for the highest honors on the bench.

"It has been reported to me," said Mr. Schneider, "that in one East Side district seventeen out of twenty-one district Captains told the Tammany leader that they would work openly for Justice Newburger. In another district on the West Side, seventeen out of nineteen District Captains told their leader the same thing."

Walter T. Arndt, Secretary of the Citizens Union, communicated with Mr. Schneider, and said the Union wanted to be represented at the conference. As a tentative plan the Citizens Union suggested that the Cleveland Democracy undertake the work in the Assembly districts of Manhattan and the Bronx, which comprise the judicial district in which Justice Newburger and Judge Smith are candidates, and that the Union would devote itself to publicity and educational propaganda. At the conference it is probable that an independent party, called the Citizens' Party, will be formed for the purpose of placing Justice Newburger and Judge Smith in independent nomination on the general election ballot.

For the first time in its history the Prohibition Party will not be represented on the official primary ballot in Bronx County. The Board of Elections announced that the petitions designating the candidates of the party in that borough did not contain the necessary number of signatures, and were, therefore, thrown out. Hans P. Freece of 1,615 University Avenue, the Bronx, and George K. Hinds of 368 West 194th Street had been designated by the party as its candidates for the nomination for Supreme Court Justice. Seventy-eight signatures were necessary to place their names upon the primary ballot, but only sixty-five signatures were attached to their petitions. There were no other candidates named by the party in the Bronx.

William E. Moore of 508 Lexington Avenue, Manhattan, and Newman H. Raymond of 353 Park Place, Brooklyn, had filed petitions as candidates for the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen, but both petitions were thrown out by the Board of Elections. The necessary number of signatures required was 191. Mr. Raymond obtained 80 and Mr. Moore but 65. George U. Faber, Prohibition candidate for Alderman for the 10th District also failed to register sufficient signatures and his petition was refused.

The party's candidate for Surrogate of New York County, Charles E. Maniere, filed the necessary number of signatures to his petition and qualified. In Kings, Queens, and Richmond counties the party will have candidates upon the ballot for several offices, the necessary number of signatures having been obtained.

The Board of Elections also announced that the petition presented by John Reed as a Left Wing Socialist candidate for the nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen was also defective because of insufficient signatures.

BOTH DESIGNEES TAKEN OFF

No Legal Vacancy in Queens Senatorial District.

Both the Democratic and Republican designees for State Senator in the Second District, Queens, were ruled off the primary ballot yesterday by the Board of Elections, after it had been found that Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo had failed to certify the resignation of Frank F. Adel, the present incumbent, in time to create a legal vacancy.

Senator Adel resigned to become candidate for Municipal Court Justice in the Third District, Queens. The Democrats designated John J. Riordan, a returned soldier, and the Republicans named John Carle. Mr. Riordan yesterday declined the designation because he had not recovered from wounds sufficiently to enable him to make a campaign. Mr. Carle, it was said yesterday, would be nominated by the Republicans by petition after the primaries. The Democrats will have to follow a similar course.

WILLS WIFE WHAT SHE TOOK

Berks Gives Her $5 and Title to Property He'd Since 1882.

The will of Archibald W. Berks, a veteran of the civil war, who died recently in Philadelphia, was filed here for probate yesterday. It contains a bequest of $5 to his wife, and says further:

"I give her title to money, diamonds, jewelry, personal property, and eighteen shares of Pennsylvania Railroad stock, which she took from my possession Aug. 19, 1882, when she so cruelly and unjustly deserted me. I also bestow on her full ownership of fifteen shares of Pennsylvania Railroad stock and the certificate which she secured from me by her attorney by deception and fraud. Her desertion caused me the loss of $25,746. At no time in the past thirty-three years have I seen or heard from her."

The testator leaves half his estate to his brother, Edwin, although he says Edwin "has been indifferent to the interests of members of the family." He gives his son a quarter of the estate, the other quarter going to a nephew.

SAY PRISONER MADE THREAT

In the Harlem Court yesterday afternoon Joseph Farrero, 27 years old, of 2,211 Second Avenue, who was arraigned with three others on a charge of burglary, was rearrested in the courtroom and rearraigned when he was alleged to have threatened to kill Special Officer Pasquale Griffo. The special officer was leaving the witness stand after testifying against the four men, when Farrero is said to have remarked:

"I'll take your life for testifying against me."

Farrero, who spoke in Italian, which language was understood by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan as well as the special officer and several other persons in the room, was immediately rearraigned and was placed under $2,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

The other prisoners, John Muccillo, 18 years old, of 337 East 115th Street; Saverino Lafano, 23 years old, of 414 East 120th Street, and Rosario Peppe, 36 years old, of 345 East 118th Street, were each held in $2,000 bail for a hearing this morning. The four are charged with stealing sweaters from the factory of Zura Jacobson at 2,214 Second Avenue on the morning of Saturday, Aug. 9.

Mrs. Cosby Refuses Reconciliation.

When Supreme Court Justice Giegerich recently dismissed the suit of Mrs. Arthur F. Cosby against her husband for a separation, he said he hoped the differences of the couple could be reconciled, and that they would live together again. George Gordon Battle, attorney for Mrs. Cosby, said yesterday that his client had directed him to appeal to the Appellate Division from Justice Giegerich's decision.

JOINS SOCIAL UNIT WORK.

Charles Edison to Serve as Treasurer of Organization.

Charles Edison, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Edison Company, and son of Thomas Edison, has accepted the offer to become Treasurer of the National Social Unit Organization, on the eve of a campaign for the extension of the Social Unit plan of community organization, according to an announcement made yesterday from the New York office of the organization.

"Among all social, civic and philanthropic activities in this country, I have chosen to affiliate myself with the National Social Unit Organization because it seems to me to aim at a solution of the most fundamental problem in America today, and to aim at it in the experimental fashion which a scientist uses in his laboratory," said Mr. Edison. "That problem is, how can democracy be made both genuine and efficient?

"People are tired of paternalistic schemes—tired of having things done for them. What they want is a medium of representation and expression through which they can do things for themselves. I know of no movement to develop such a medium which is comparable to that launched by the Social Unit."

Mr. Edison will be assisted in his new office by M. M. Jones, Chairman of the Personnel Department of the Edison Company, who has become controller of the Social Unit Organization.

Stay of Sentence in Drug Case.

Dr. Solomon Rothman and Louis and William Cohen, druggists, recently convicted on a charge of violating the Harrison law by selling habit-forming drugs, were yesterday sentenced by Federal Judge Foster to two years each in the Atlanta Penitentiary. A stay was granted, and the defendants were released on bail pending an appeal.

SUMMER SCHOOL TO CLOSE.

Nearly 10,000 Students Enrolled in Columbia's Midsession Courses.

Columbia's twentieth Summer session, the largest in the university's history, ends today. The total enrollment, including the attendance at Camp Columbia, Litchfield County, Conn., where scientific instruction and officer training was given, approximated 10,000. The South alone sent 2,000 students, mostly teachers. They compose the Southern Club, which takes in the State organization of seventeen States.

This year's Summer session was taught by more than 400 instructors representing most of the country's leading colleges and universities. The women instructors comprised about one-fourth of the teaching staff.

At the university it was said yesterday that a special announcement regarding home study courses will be issued in the near future.

ADIRONDACK FIRE WARNING.

Carelessness May Cause Closing of Forests to Sportsmen.

ALBANY, Aug. 14.—Warning that fishing, hunting, and trapping within the Adirondack forests may be forbidden on twenty-four hours' notice to decrease the danger of forest fires was given today by Conservation Commissioner Pratt.

If it appears, Commissioner Pratt said, that persons now in the woods are careless Governor Smith will be asked to issue a proclamation forbidding the use of the woods until the danger period, due to the unusually dry condition of the forest lands, is passed.

What soaking in warm water for several minutes does to your fingernails, shaving soap must do instantly to the beard

YOUR beard is chiefly composed of keratin, the same tough substance that makes the fingernails hard. Each hair is surrounded by an oil film that tends to repel water and keep the soap from working.

The manicurist softens the keratin of the fingernails by soaking them for many minutes in warm water. Your shaving soap must accomplish the same result with the keratin of the beard almost instantly.

The creamy thick-textured lather from the new Woodbury's Shaving Stick instantly dissolves the oil film and softens the keratin.

From the first moment the brush is applied you will experience a pleasurable sensation of lather comfort that you have never before enjoyed.

STORM DAMAGES SEASIDE RESORTS

High Waves Carry Away Pavilions and Bathing Houses Along the Coast.

CONEY ISLAND HIT BY GALE

The wind and rain storm that swept up the Atlantic Coast late Wednesday night and early yesterday morning did heavy damage to seaside resorts. Coney Island particularly suffered, it being one of the worst storms to visit the resort in twenty-five years. The wind was responsible for an unusually high tide that did most of the damage. Huge waves tore away bathing houses and wrecked beach property.

The front of the pavilion of the Majestic Hotel Baths at Coney Island, about ten feet in depth, was carried away, and 200 guests rushed to the street. Part of the pavilion of Silver's bathhouse, at the foot of West Twenty-third Street, was torn down. About 200 feet of fence at the Seaside Home for Children was destroyed and big holes were torn in the beach. Two lifeboats from the Seaside Park Beach station and practically all of the portable stands along the beach front from Manhattan Beach to Sea Gate were carried out to sea. The unusually high tide was swept shoreward by the strong east gale and crashed over the bulkheads at Sea Gate and Brighton Beach.

At Brighton Beach the water broke over the boardwalk and left large pools in front of the Brighton Beach Hotel. The lower part of Ocean Parkway was submerged, while on Surf Avenue, from West Twenty-fifth to West Thirty-seventh Street, much water was carried over by the high wind, soaking pedestrians and passengers in street cars. Seaside Park, from West Fifth Street to Brighton Beach, was partly inundated.

The Park Department in Brooklyn received word from the police yesterday that 200 trees in the borough had been blown down. Among the trees blown down were fifty victory and memorial trees, planted after the armistice was signed, in honor of Brooklyn boys who were killed in the war. The Park Department sent out four gangs of eight men each to replant the trees that could be saved and others which were destroyed will be replaced.

At Sea Girt, N. J., the storm was said to be the worst in ten years. The ocean tore inland at North Spring Lake threatening the estate of Mrs. Thomas Morrison of Pittsburgh. The worst damage was inflicted at Camp Runyon, which was partially destroyed. Practically all the tents were blown down and many were torn to pieces. The sanitary mess kitchens were smashed and parts blown all over the camp.

An effort was made by Adjt. Gen. Frederick Gilkyson to preserve the tents of the staff officers, Mrs. Gilkyson, in her bathing suit and a big overcoat helping. It was said that if the men of the Camden Battalion, Military Reserve, can get suitable quarters they will stick the week out. The cottage of Harry Mitchell, located in Wyckoff Avenue, was destroyed by fire. The new timber fishing pier, 700 feet long, at Point Pleasant, which was not quite completed, was washed away.

Little damage was reported at Asbury Park as a result of the storm, although the wind reached a velocity during Wednesday night of seventy miles an hour. A few tents were blown down in Ocean Grove, many trees were uprooted in various sections, while ten feet of the end of the fishing pier at Asbury Park was damaged.

At Atlantic City there was a record-breaking rainfall of more than nine and one-half inches during the twenty-four hours. Weather Bureau officials said the Atlantic Coast in the vicinity of the city suffered the heaviest Summer northeast storm in its history. Passengers in trolley cars along the ocean front were marooned and compelled to remain all night in the cars. The seven miles of meadow back of the resort became a raging sea and the railroad service was interrupted.

Pathfinding Squadron Delays Flight

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 14.—The flyers connected with the pathfinding air squadron, who expected to get away today the first leg of the cross-country tour, were balked by the storm. The weather here and in the line of the proposed flight led to a postponement of the departure until tomorrow, when they will start if the air is right.

WARNS OF INFLUENZA.

Health Commissioner Expects Visitation This Autumn.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, issued a warning yesterday to prepare for a recurrence of influenza. The history of epidemics shows, he said, a recurrence in the succeeding year, and so Dr. Copeland looks for a return of influenza some time in early October. Because of this the Commissioner of Health warns all to guard their health carefully, and those who are weak he advises to build up their strength to meet a possible influenza attack.

The influenza epidemic which swept the country made its first appearance in this city about Sept. 15 of last year. The Health Department has received anxious letters of inquiry from many parts of the country regarding the reappearance of the disease, and to those inquirers he addressed his warning yesterday. While there is uncertainty as to what age group will be attacked this time the Commissioner does not believe the fatalities will be as great as on the first attack, and this because those who have had the disease will practically be immune this time.

Dr. Copeland said there was no way to tell the age group that would be susceptible to influenza. Last year those between 25 and 45 were the worse sufferers. Fifty per cent. of the total deaths were in that group. Twenty per cent. of the deaths were in the 15 to 25 year age group, while those above 45 years were practically immune.

As a preventive the Commissioner prescribed exercise, good food, and vigilance.

Honor Dead Italian Aviator.

Accompanied by a guard of honor, the body of Capt. Antonio Sylvio Resnati, the Italian aviator who was killed in a fall from an airplane at Hazelhurst Field, on May 18, 1918, was brought from Mineola yesterday to the Dante Alighieri, which sails for Genoa today. The coffin was draped with American and Italian flags. It is understood that the Italian Government has planned a military funeral in Genoa for the flier.

WORLD CONFERENCE OF MANY CHURCHES

Acceptances from Europe, Asia Minor, and Africa for Convention on Faith and Order.

POPE'S CORDIAL GREETING

But Deputation Notes Contrast Between Pontiff's Personal Reception and Attitude on Church Unity.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Acceptance by many church communions in Europe, Asia Minor, and Africa of invitations to participate in the proposed world conference on faith and order was announced tonight in the report of the deputation appointed by the World Conference Commission to visit Europe and the Near East. The report was made public at the office in this city of Robert H. Gardiner of Gardiner, Me., Secretary of the commission.

Bishop Charles P. Anderson of Chicago, President of the commission, headed the deputation. The other members were Bishop Boyd Vincent of Southern Ohio, Bishop Reginald H. Weller of Fond du Lac, the Rev. Dr. Edward L. Parsons of Berkeley, Cal., and the Rev. Dr. B. Talbot Rogers of Racine, Wis. All are clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The deputation visited Athens, Smyrna, Constantinople, Sofia, Bucharest, Belgrade, and Rome. In addition, Bishop Weller and Dr. Rogers visited Alexandria, Cairo, Jerusalem, and Damascus, and the other members visited Paris, London, Bergen, Christiania, and Stockholm.

In commenting on the refusal of the Pope to appoint delegates to the conference, as previously called to this country, on the ground that world church unity should be achieved by other churches returning to the Catholic Church, the report says:

"The Pope received us most cordially. The contrast between his personal attitude toward us and his official attitude toward the conference was very sharp. One was irresistibly benevolent, the other irresistibly rigid. His Holiness himself emphasized the distinction."

Among the bodies which accepted the invitation extended by the deputation were the governing synod of the Greek Church, the orthodox church synods of Turkey, Bulgaria, Rumania, Serbia, Egypt, Abyssinia, and Palestine, the Church of Sweden and the Church of Norway. The Church of England had previously agreed to participate in the conference.

The members of the deputation recommend that a preliminary meeting for organizing and arranging for the conference be held at The Hague as soon as possible "after an opportunity has been given to the churches of Russia and Germany to appoint representatives."

The commission has been notified of proposed participation in the conference by many other church bodies in all parts of the world. Among the American churches which will send delegates are the Protestant Episcopal, Baptist, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian, Friends, and Moravian.

PRIZES FOR SAFE AIRPLANES

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The British Government will offer prizes amounting to £64,000 for airplane competition in order to develop safer types of machines, Major Gen. J. E. B. Details of the competition, the General added, will be announced in a few days.

SINN FEIN SOCIETIES IN CLARE SUPPRESSED

British Government Announces Action as Result of Increase in Crime There.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Government announces that owing to increase in crime in County Clare, Ireland, it has been decided to suppress all Sinn Fein and kindred organizations in that county.

Several dispatches received recently from London have told of disturbances in Clare and East Clare. On Aug. 3 a party consisting of twenty to thirty men attacked the Broadford Police Barracks. A brisk fire was maintained upon the barracks for more than an hour, with the police answering it. One constable was said to have been slightly wounded. Two days later at Ennistimon, County Clare, Sergeant Riordan and Constable Murphy were shot and killed, while on Aug. 9 at Moinoe, East Clare, some thirty men attacked a police hut with rifle and revolver fire. This fight lasted more than an hour. None of the police was hit, but the dispatch said it was believed two of the attacking party were wounded.

A proclamation issued from Dublin Castle on July 7 declared all Sinn Fein organizations and the Irish Volunteers in County Tipperary unlawful associations.

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—Peter Paul Gallagan, Member of Parliament from the West Division of Cavan, who was court-martialed on a charge of illegal drilling of troops and inciting mobs against police officers as part of his activities as a Sinn Fein leader, has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment at hard labor.

American Unit Thanks French.

PARIS, Aug. 14 (Havas.)—On the occasion of the departure of the last American units from the former base at Gievres, Colonel Samuel Reber, commander of the camp, issued an order of the day expressing the gratitude of the American troops to the French people. He urged the troops to remember their pleasant sojourn in France.

EUROPE'S HEIRLOOMS SMUGGLED HERE

discharged employe, an incautious friend may cause his arrest.

"A jewel has sometimes passed through several hands before its illegal entry into this country has been discovered, and then has been traced back to the smuggler. Family heirlooms, which are apt to be highly distinctive in workmanship, are especially dangerous for the smuggler to traffic in.

"Most of our information in smuggling cases comes from the other side, where our staff has been enlarged. Sometimes persons on the ship with smugglers furnish the information. I think comparatively few persons engaged in war work have been implicated. The increase in the customs service during the war on both sides for war purposes has given us an organization which makes it difficult for any smuggler to carry on his work.

Will Show No Favor.

"As a matter of wholesome warning, I think I should say I shall do everything I can to detect and suppress smuggling, and shall make no distinction whatever. A person's social or financial prominence will not influence my action. In fact, I think that a person who is prominent in society or possesses great wealth, and has had the advantage of education and travel, is far more culpable than some ignorant, inconspicuous person, who 'takes a chance.'

"I believe it is true in the history of every big port that most of the smuggling is done by persons who have ample means to pay duties. In some cases they make a partial declaration, and attempt to smuggle in things of great value. If you catch a poor man or woman who is unknown and without influence nothing is said about it, but when you catch a person of high social standing, then all kinds of pressure is brought to bear on the Collector to let up or to compromise.

"It is a matter of great surprise to find that a woman whose character and reputation are beyond question, who would not dream of doing any other illegal or questionable thing, will yield to the temptation to smuggle. I have had women come into my office who have been absolutely unable to explain why they should have committed such an act."

Mr. Newton said that evidence in all cases where criminal intent appeared had been turned over to the Federal District Attorney in Manhattan, Brooklyn, or New Jersey.

POLICE ORGANIZERS MEET.

Leaders of New York and Chicago Ideas Confer Here.

Alderman Thomas Byrne of Chicago, one of the committee of eleven sent from Chicago to study police conditions in this city, and who is credited with the organization of the Chicago police force, and raising the minimum pay to $1,500, had a three-hour conference yesterday and last night in Brooklyn with Louis Fridiger, who handled the B. R. T. strike and who was credited recently with the statement that the New York police were forming an organization for increased pay.

At the conclusion of the conference neither Mr. Fridiger nor Alderman Byrne would admit that they had discussed the proposed police organization here.

"We have a 100 per cent. organization in Chicago," said Alderman Byrne. "Every policeman in the city is a member of it. They call it the Chicago Police Officers Association. Through it the police have succeeded in getting a minimum salary of $1,500 for the newest man to join the force, as against $900 up to a year or so ago."

Mr. Fridiger would make no statement as to the present status of the proposed police organization in this city.

SHOWS HOPES IN U-BOATS.

Hindenburg Letter Throws Light on Affronting America.

BERLIN, Aug. 13. (Associated Press.) A letter from Field Marshal von Hindenburg to Prince Maximilian of Baden concerning the beginning of ruthless submarine warfare, printed here today, is considered to show that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, who was the Chancellor at that time, had little confidence in President Wilson's peace intervention and that the U-boat warfare directly crossed the efforts then going on to bring about peace.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, von Hindenburg says, objected to the submarine warfare on the ground that it would imperil Germany's relations with the neutrals. Von Hindenburg replied that the supreme army command was solely responsible as to whether the U-boat warfare should be conducted or not, and that he would proceed in a full feeling of responsibility for a victorious outcome of the war, regardless of the Chancellor's opinions.

The letter mentions the numerous protests made by the former German Ambassador to the United States, Count von Bernstorff, against the submarine warfare as likely to bring the United States into the war. It refers to Germany's refusal of President Wilson as an intermediary in any peace, and says that von Bernstorff's warning that a breach with America was inevitable was disregarded.

After failing in his efforts to persuade the German authorities not to inaugurate the submarine warfare, the letter says, von Bernstorff attempted to secure delay in its inception.

EX-SOLDIER KILLED IN A HOTEL ROOM

Police Seek Companion with Whom Unidentified Man Registered at the McAlpin.

CLUES CAREFULLY REMOVED

An unidentified man, believed by the police to be a discharged soldier, was beaten to death and robbed in a room in the McAlpin Hotel yesterday, after he and a companion had registered at 2 o'clock in the morning and had been assigned to a room on the fifteenth floor. Both men were in civilian attire. The hat of the murdered man was found by Inspector Cray concealed behind a bureau. The band had been torn out, evidently to remove initials or the name of the dealer from whom it had been bought.

Dr. George Homan, a medical examiner, told Captain Arthur Carey of the Homicide Bureau that the man had undoubtedly been murdered, probably by a blackjack. The physician found three abrasions and bruises on the dead man's face and cuts in the skin showing where the edge of the weapon hit him.

A clerk at the hotel told the police that one of the two men when they registered appeared to be under the influence of liquor and wrote their signatures illegibly. The names on the register appear to be "P. J. Powerer" and "C. E. Landon," New York City, but which was that of the ex-soldier the police could not learn. The escape of his companion from the hotel was not observed. A chambermaid, who had sought several times to enter the room, finally used a passkey and found the man dead in bed.

The police theory is that the soldier had met a chance acquaintance in his companion, and the latter, having discovered that the soldier had money, had accompanied him to the hotel for purpose of robbery. In the committing of which the victim had resisted and was attacked. The marked effort to conceal the identity of the soldier was further shown when the police search failed to find the tie, collar, and socks worn when he entered the room. A web belt around the soldier's waist bore the initials "C. M. C."

His underclothing, of military issue, bore only the mark of the Quartermaster's department. The only money found in the pockets of the soldier's clothing were several French souvenir coins and 25 cents. He had three rings on his fingers, one a silver circle marked "Mizpah," a plain stone ring, and a ring with two medallions, on which were the initials "F. P." and "C. L." Fingerprints were taken from articles in the room, together with prints of the soldier's hands to establish his identity through the War Department.

The murdered man was described as being about 30 years old, 5 feet 7 inches in height, and weighing about 140 pounds, black hair and blue eyes. He was garbed in a blue serge suit and tan shoes. The police believe he had recently returned from France. The body was sent to the Morgue pending efforts to identify him. The only description that could be obtained of his companion was that he was well dressed. It was said that the mutilated hat was identified last night by a dealer at 164th Street and Amsterdam Avenue as having been sold within a few days.

TO EXCHANGE FINGERPRINTS

Police and other officials of Chicago and New York may bring about closer co-operation by interchanging fingerprints and criminal records. The suggestion was presented by Police Commissioner Enright yesterday, at a luncheon at the Police Club to city officials from Chicago, who are touring the eastern cities in search of data for improving the Chicago department.

"New elements of crime demand new conditions to cope successfully with them," said the Commissioner. "There has been far too little co-operation among the police departments of the large cities, and along with a better co-operation there should come an organized interchange of fingerprints and information about released criminals, criminal records, &c. We might make use of a military feature that was of great value in the world war, the liaison officer. I believe that similar work would be of value in police matters. If contact officers were established in all the large cities the police departments would be in constant touch."

Col. A. D. Porter, Third Deputy Commissioner, showed the visiting commission the operation of the harbor police, taking them on the police boat Patrol up the river to 137th Street, down the Bay to the Narrows and up the East River to the Bronx shore.

The Chicago officials went to Philadelphia last night.

FEDERAL POST FOR ROSS.

Brooklyn Democrat, It Is Said, Will Be Named for District Attorney.

Word was received in Brooklyn yesterday that Leroy W. Ross, who has been active in Brooklyn's political circles for several years, and was an Assistant District Attorney uder the late John F. Clarke in 1910-1912, has been chosen as the United States District Attorney of the Southern District at Brooklyn. It was said that his nomination was to be sent to the Senate Friday.

Mr. Ross said he had received no word in regard to the appointment, although he had anticipated it.

Colonel James D. Bell has been United States District Attorney since Feb. 28 last, having been, according to the general understanding, appointed temporarily, to succeed Melville J. France, who had resigned.

SPEAKER CRITICISES JAPAN.

H. B. Hulbert Tells Rotarians of Conditions in Korea.

Speaking at a Rotary Club luncheon at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday, Homer B. Hulbert, formerly Korean Minister to the United States, told of conditions in Korea due to the occupation by Japan. He described some of the methods employed by the Japanese to prevent the movement of Koreans for independence.

He praised President Wilson's handling of the Shantung Peninsula question, saying the President yielded to the Japanese envoys with the knowledge that unless Japan retained temporary possession of Kiao-Chau, there would have been a revolution. The speaker expressed confidence that after a time China would get the penninsula back. He said further that unless this country makes sure of this, the United States would be branded before the world as indifferent to the ideal of abstract justice.

INJURED FIGHTING FLAMES.

Brooklyn Fireman, Blown from Fire Escape, May Die.

In a fire that destroyed the candy factory of Riggi Bros., Inc., at 12-14 Lexington Avenue, Brooklyn, last night, Fireman John B. Meyers of 327 Sumter Street, Brooklyn, attached to Engine Company 235, was so seriously injured that he is expected to die at the Cumberland Street Hospital.

The fire started on the first floor. When the firemen arrived it had spread to the second and third floors and dense volumes of smoke poured from the building.

Meyers and three companions climbed the fire escape in the rear of the building to the third floor and were fighting the flames when a back draft knocked him from the fire escape. His companions got down safely and picked him up unconscious. At the hospital it was said he had internal injuries and was cut about the legs, face and head. The damage to the building was estimated at $75,000.

FORM "AMERICAN PARTY."

Wing of Texas Democrats Takes Steps for Organization Split.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 14.—Many Democrats of Texas, dissatisfied with the present party leaders and principles, conferred here today to formulate plans for party reconstruction.

Two factions took part in the conference, one advocating the formation of a new party, to be known as "the American party," after which a set of principles was adopted. "Old time Democrats" was the name taken by the other faction.

PRAISE FOR NEW POLAND.

Many Nations Represented at Inauguration of Consulate Here.

The inauguration of the first Polish Consulate in America took place last evening at a dinner given by Constantine Buszczynski, Consul General of Poland, to the representatives of the consulates of other nations in the Gotham Hotel. The countries represented were the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan, Venezuela, Uruguay, Norway, Sweden, Paraguay, Denmark, Guatemala, and Colombia.

Consul General Buszczynski was the chief speaker. After greeting the members of the foreign Governments he paid a tribute to the nations who fought with the Allies in the war. He said in part:

"Today, unchained, united, happy Poland concentrated her forces in order to rebuild her destroyed nest and to take among the family of nations that honorable and useful place which she has occupied throughout her history. Poland renascent, Poland conscious of her vigor, greets you today as the saviors of liberty, and salutes all nations. With sincere good will toward all nations we shall collaborate in the peaceful work of the League of Nations."

Maurice Casenave, French High Commissioner, greeted the Polish Consulate in the name of France. The toastmaster was Gustave Lebert, Consul General of France. The other speakers included Melville E. Stone of the Associated Press; Pierre Jay, Vice Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York City, and Alfred E. Marling, President of the New York Chamber of Commerce. Among the guests were James Stillman, Jr., and Frank A. Vanderlip.

Is it Possible to Legislate Life and Brains?

Swift & Company is primarily an organization of men, not a collection of brick, mortar, and machinery.

Packing Plants, their equipment and usefulness are only outward symbols of the intelligence, life long experience, and right purpose of the men who compose the organization and of those who direct it.

Will not Government direction of the packing industry, now contemplated by Congress, take over the empty husk of physical property and equipment and sacrifice the initiative, experience and devotion of these men, which is the life itself of the industry?

What legislation, what political adroitness could replace such life and brains, once driven out?

In 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, and now in 1919, the Companion has accurately forecast the new fashions.

Weeks, even months, in advance of other recognized fashion authorities, the Companion gives you, in cablegrams from Paris, in notes and sketches from the world's best dressmakers and milliners, and in color pages by great artists, a full and practical summary of the new mode.

Because the Companion presents these fashions with authority, with freshness, and with a warm personal interest in your own dress problems, more than a million well-dressed women will consult the September number, now ready, before they buy their new Fall wardrobes and their children's clothes.

THESE personal helps include a Shopping Service for smart, money-saving apparel; a practical Pattern Service (patterns are freshly designed from month to month and you buy them directly from the Companion); and, more useful still, Companion readers are invited to write to the Fashion Editor at any time for personal suggestions and information.

THE COMPANION is much more than a fashion magazine. And yet, even if you buy the Companion for its fashions alone, the sixty columns of smart practical fashions in the September number will help you to dress better, to avoid costly errors, and to know you are appropriately dressed for every occasion.

PAINT AND CEMENT.

The local painters are striking for a five-day week and a dollar an hour. That is the extreme demand by any labor union for more pay for less work, and much below the ability of any able-bodied and ambitious wage-earner. Nobody would be so daring as to suggest that in times of emergency there might be compulsory labor for public reasons, in peace as there is in war. On the contrary, the tendency is to favor the subsidization of men, women, and children by various sorts of contributions in aid of an easier life. That there is a different policy toward corporations is shown by the suit in equity by the United States Government against nineteen makers of cement. They formed "an unincorporated association," like a labor union, and they intercommunicated about their business with the intention and result of reducing production and raising prices. In 1918 their capacity was 50,000,000 barrels and their output 23,000,000. Since 1915 there have been annual variations in their production in a downward direction, but nevertheless the price of their product has doubled or trebled.

We have no idea what the Cement Trust has to say for itself; but we cannot help wondering what would have been done with all the cement they could have produced if they had worked to capacity at the rate of 50,000,000 barrels during the years of notorious prostration of all peaceful industries, and the building industry in particular. Still, the raising of prices has an extremely bad look. The reduction in output and increase in the price would seem to have put a premium on competition. The complaint says nothing about the course of industry since the revival of the trades using cement, but we notice that a producer of cement not named in the complaint is doubling its large capacity for neighborhood work. The field therefore is open, and it may be supposed that the trust will meet any price made by others in order to start idle works. If in fact the general rise of prices with the lack of demand for cement does not explain the reduction of output and the increase of price, if the conspiracy alleged is injurious to the public interest or is unfair to other competitors, the remedy of dissolution seems inadequate. We would rather see the conspirators put in jail upon conviction by a jury of their peers.

The unemployed man and the unemployed plant are problems in modern industry. Men and plants are necessary in busy times and in emergencies. Neither can be improvised, but the men may be put to other work better than the machinery can be adapted to other uses. A surplus of labor raises questions of humanity, a surplus of plant raises questions of business expediency. Who should decide just how much capacity shall be provided, or how much product shall be turned out? There are thinkers who regard this provision of surplus capacity as not entitled to any profit in the manner illustrated by the practices charged against the Cement Trust. All that capitalist producers ought to be allowed is the return on the cost of the mechanical plant. Anything above this return is regarded as "free income"; that is, income not represented by investment, but by management, salesmanship, or perhaps monopoly, whether under a patent or trade secret or process, or otherwise. They would abolish such profits because the capacity of modern machinery is so "inordinate" that its output cannot be consumed, and therefore must be restricted by raising prices, and not breaking the market by oversupply. VEBLEN and his kind think that "something more than one-half of the net product of the country's industry goes to those persons in whom the existing state of law and custom vests plenary power to hinder production." This "capitalist withdrawal of efficiency" is estimated by these thinkers as a loss to the community; "the common man loses twice as much as the business concerns and their investors gain." It may be so, but the Attorney General can have to do only with the law, not with the theory of business by those who know the theory better than the practice, as witness the railways after both regulation and Government operation, the latter to have been the remedy for the other.

It is odd that these theorists do not apply their doctrines to the "unincorporated associations" of labor, whose "conscientious withdrawal of efficiency" rivals that of the corporations and costs the community as much. The proposal of a five-day week for labor is a matter of serious public concern, since necessarily the result must be diminished production and higher prices—just as in the cement case. If these doctrines are valid, may it not be that the community today is suffering from the failure to apply them to the more advanced of the labor thinkers, who would displace the Government in favor of themselves?

PROSCRIBED BY THE BOSS.

Judge SMITH of the City Court, whom Tammany refused to renominate in spite of his proved competence and distinguished service, formally declined yesterday his designation, upon petitions filed by committees of the four bar associations, as a candidate in the Democratic primaries. It will be remembered that Judge SMITH was at first strongly inclined to enter the Democratic primaries and urged Justice NEWBURGER of the Supreme Court to do so. He has now reached the same decision that Justice NEWBURGER made on Monday.

Their positions are the same. Both have been renominated by the Republicans. In the case of both, Mr. MURPHY broke the salutary, the necessary, custom according to which Judges of tried fitness are named to succeed themselves by both parties. Both have withdrawn from the Democratic primaries. It rests on Democrats, Independents, and men and women of every party, and of no party, to re-elect these two Judges, voting for them either under the Republican emblem or such Independent emblem or emblems as may be adopted. If there should be but one independent ticket, the chances of confusion would be diminished.

Since the non-partisan principle is at stake, the indispensable public principle of an independent judiciary selected and retained for merit, not the beneficiary of the favors of a boss, not a trophy of political patronage, there is no Democratic or Republican consideration in the matter. Law and justice and their administration are for the common benefit. They are neither Democratic nor Republican.

In the First Judicial District Mr. MURPHY has seen fit to make nominations for Judgeships chips in his political game. He has done so in the teeth of the strongest Democratic protest and resentment. Democrats in the bar associations, Democrats outside of the bar associations, condemn his course. It is by Democratic and Independent votes, added to the Republican strength, that he must be defeated.

That defeat, the clear public disapproval of boss-picked Judges, of the bench as spoils, is the cardinal public interest in the Fall elections in this city. Either the sound precedent of the bipartisan renomination of able, upright Judges will be reasserted and maintained, or in the First Judicial District an evil precedent, sure to spread and fructify evilly, will be created. The voters should keep their eyes on this issue of the security and inviolability of justice. Whatever noisier names of office there may be, the courts are the guarantee of our rights. If we value those rights, we shall stand by honest, experienced Judges, protect them against proscription by the boss.

NICKEL PSYCHOLOGY.

The nickel fare for urban transportation, says Secretary BAKER, is a "psychological necessity." The words have a constraining sound. One feels forced to the conclusion that, though every traction company in the land were to go bankrupt and be operated to the advantage of politicians at the expense of the taxpayer, the psychology of the nickel would still rule triumphant. In point of mere fact, however, there are communities among us that have resisted this nickel psychology. Boston long ago changed to an 8-cent fare, and the local mind proved so feeble that the fare has now been still further advanced to 10 cents. Of all places, Boston should be most subject to psychology, for, as JOSIAH ROYCE discovered, (himself a bit of a psychologer,) Boston is not a city at all but a mental attitude. As it happens, there are some 300 cities and towns in the United States that are charging 8-cent and 10-cent fares. The figures are supplied by Aera, the official organ of the American Electric Railway Association. Shameful as the fact may be, many and many a community among us has not even the cheapest form of psychology.

A radically different point of view is that of Mr. ROGER W. BABSON, who speaks not as a psychologer but as a business expert and statistician. Mr. BABSON says that, except for short hauls in densely populated cities, the nickel fare is doomed. For the vast majority of middling hauls, the 10-cent fare will become universal; and for the longest rides, on subway and elevated lines, the fare will be 25 cents. Theoretically, this zoning system is equitable and involves no serious expense in administration. An exit stub on each ticket would provide a sufficient control. But practically it works a serious hardship upon people who have been lured to live in the suburbs by the prospect of cheap fares. The city, furthermore, loses one of its most effective correctives against congestion. Mr. BABSON is on less contentious ground when he returns to general principles. Commissioners, he says, will do best by the public in inducing transportation companies "to give better service." If they do that, they will have little need "to bother about fares." Where Secretary BAKER talks vaguely of raising the rate only by advice and consent of "the people who are to pay it," Mr. BABSON strikes at the business heart of the situation. This view is corroborated and helpfully extended by Mr. W. O. BLISS, Chairman of the Rhode Island Public Service Commission, who pleads for a unified and thoroughgoing business supervision. "Final solution of the electric street railway problem will never come until the power to fix wages is vested in the same authority which regulates the rates of fare."

Transportation is not a theory, psychologic or otherwise. It is a basic necessity of the community. The administration that allows it to be deranged or permanently impaired fails in a prime responsibility. It is true that to double the fare, or even to add 2 or 3 cents to it, is to impose a very serious burden upon hundreds of thousands of workers who are already put to it sorely to make ends meet. Nobody will forget that. But, serious as the burden would be, it is less to be considered than the time which the public loses, and the strength it wastes, when traffic is held up or unduly crowded. Transportation is to the civic life what circulation is to the body; when it is clogged, fatigue and coma fall upon every member.

WHAT OTHER REASON?

The assumption that opposition to President WILSON is the only real reason that any person can have for opposition to the League in the form in which it has been presented to the Senate is, of course, absolutely baseless, and the frequency with which the pro-League newspapers resort to it discloses their own weakness. It is absurd abuse, and it may cloud the issue in unthinking minds, but it is not argument.—Hartford Courant.

What is the reason for the opposition to the League of Nations? It is not so long since Senator LODGE and all the rest of them, including Senators MCCUMBER and MCNARY, were protesting their belief in a League of Nations. Nothing has occurred to change their belief. In every case the reason is different. Mr. LODGE favors no such series of reservations as does Mr. MCCUMBER; Mr. BORAH is at odds with Mr. MCNARY, and Mr. JOHNSON has a separate series of reservations of his own. How is it possible to believe in the sincerity of a man who has suddenly discovered that the United States must go to war whenever the King of the Hedjaz may require it?

How is it possible, furthermore, for any sensible or sane man to believe in any of the dreadful things that the Republican Senators are conjuring up before us to make us believe that they are actuated by anything but hostility toward the President of the United States? They tell us that the Monroe Doctrine is endangered, and yet this is the first time in history that the nations of the world have agreed to accept the Monroe Doctrine as a principle. It has, in a way, been accepted by England, at least to the extent of never protesting against it and of having had a share in its origin; but now, for the first time, the round world accepts it. And now, for the first time, a large part of the United States Senate growls because all of Europe, from Stockholm to Athens, is willing to grant that we are right.

What, then, can The Hartford Courant or Senator BRANDEGEE, for whom it often speaks, advance as the reason why the Republican side of the Senate should be so urgent in picking flaws in the Treaty? It can hardly be that Senator JOHNSON has imbued his colleagues with that new love of China that has suddenly dawned on the Pacific Coast. It cannot be that Senator NORRIS has had a new insight into the Monroe Doctrine that was beyond the power of President MONROE, Secretary of State JOHN QUINCY ADAMS, or GEORGE CANNING. It must be, with all deference toward The Hartford Courant, that these gentlemen thoroughly dislike President WILSON, and are of the opinion that no good work can come from his hands.

MARINES AND REGULARS.

It was fitting that the restoration of the Marine Brigade of the Second Division to the Navy Department should inspire Secretary BAKER to pronounce a farewell tribute to the prowess of the sea soldiers in France. Mr. BAKER summed up their memorable services when he said that "the marines, both by their valor and their tragic losses heroically sustained, added an imperishable chapter to the history of America's participation in the war." It was equally fitting that Assistant Secretary of the Navy ROOSEVELT should laud the Second Division as a whole, saying that it was "one of the greatest fighting organizations the world has ever known." The French and British will not dissent from but will cordially affirm this estimate. It is only just to our allies to recognize the grand fighting qualities of some of their own divisions; the record of achievement is so shining that there is no excuse for making ungenerous comparisons. There were in France on the side of right and truth a considerable number of "the greatest fighting organizations the world has ever known."

The American marines went to France with the traditions of their corps to sustain and steel them on the field of battle. It is sometimes complained by other army organizations that the marines owed a part of their renown in France to the panegyrics of partisan writers. To some extent that is true, but if it had not been the fashion before the great war to praise the marines ecstatically in telling the story of their deeds in other American wars they would not have felt that the eyes of the country were on them in France, and that they must live up to their reputation, and even exceed it. Whatever their admirers may have said about the behavior of the marines under fire, sometimes overlooking the equally effective work of regulars in the same zone of operations, human valor could do no more than was done by the navy's soldiers at Belleau Wood, and the laying down of young lives there in the good cause will be an inspiration to American patriotism so long as the Republic endures.

Saying this, and it should be said, does not justify exaltation of the marines over other brigades in the Second Division. The rank and file of the regular troops were first-class fighting men, all of them, and it would be futile to seek further, for better could not be found. As Major Gen. LEJEUNE, a marine himself, has said, "to be able to say when this war is finished, 'I belonged to the Second Division, I fought with it at the battle of Blanc Mont Ridge,' will be the highest honor that can come to any man." The men of other divisions may amend by saying, "honor as high as can come to any man," but the point is that General LEJEUNE was putting all the units of the Second Division on the same plane of gallantry, regulars as well as marines. If the record of this division that won deathless glory in the Château-Thierry district, at Soissons, in the St. Mihiel salient, and in the Argonne-Meuse offensive is to be made up by one of its officers, regulars and marines would probably agree upon General LEJEUNE as the historian, for he is eminently fair and his general orders display remarkable literary ability.

HOW TO SAVE ARMENIA.

General HARBORD is on his way to Armenia, on a mission whose purpose is officially described as the ascertaining of how to bring order out of chaos. From Mr. SELDEN'S dispatch which reports the sentiment in Paris, it would appear that there is one entirely obvious way to bring order out of chaos and save the remnant of the Armenian people, and that General HARBORD is going to Armenia to see if perhaps there is not some other way than this.

At present there are sixty thousand British troops in Armenia, but they are all about to be withdrawn. The British people want their men brought home; the far-flung battle line is no longer a matter of national pride, but a source of profound worry to a people which has had enough, for the moment, of reading its daily casualty lists. England wants peace, and is calling in her troops wherever possible. When the British troops leave Armenia there will come the opportunity for which the Turks and Kurds have been waiting. The Armenians are scattered and all but unarmed; the Turkish troops in that part of Asia, the Kurds, the Tartars in the Caucasus, are fairly well provided with war material. They have lost none of their enthusiasm for the slaughter of Christians.

They can be dissuaded from this purpose, order can be brought out of chaos, by the temporary occupation of Armenia by American troops. Everybody is agreed that this would save Armenia, but the American people have made it plain that they regard the war as ended and want their troops brought home. General HARBORD will presumably try to find out if anything can be accomplished by moral suasion. The Turks and Kurds are not usually responsive to appeals to their finer instincts.

The American people feel a deeply sympathetic interest in the fate of Armenia. We should be filled with horror if what remains of that unfortunate nation should be massacred by the Turks. The American people are eager to save Armenia, if it can be done without any trouble or inconvenience to us. We should be willing to take a mandate for that country, provided a mandate means nothing but the appointment of a few officials, the building of a few railroads, the opening up of commercial relations. But not many Americans care enough about Armenia to send an army there.

A few months ago it seemed that troops would not be necessary; that the Armenians could be provided with arms and munitions and would then be able to defend themselves. Two circumstances have interfered with this pleasant prospect. The Armenians have not been armed, and the Turks have not been disarmed. Something might have been done six months ago, but it will be much harder to do anything now. There is one way to save Armenia, but the American people do not want that. We should like to have the moral elevation that will come from setting the Armenians on their feet, but we are not willing to pay the cost. Perhaps General HARBORD can discover some heavensent policy or form of service which will save the day; if he does not, the Armenians will have to look out for themselves.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

He Offers a Dread Alternative.

As one of THE TIMES correspondents suggested yesterday, there is within easy reach of everybody an equally simple and effective way of avoiding all of the several and various annoyances in these days so often encountered by the user, or would-be user, of the telephone. It consists in not even trying to use the telephone—in forgetting that there are any telephones and in returning to entire dependence on the means of communication that were all anybody had before the telephone was invented.

That, unquestionably, is a perfectly practicable scheme. One needn't be at all aged, or at least not at all aged except in the eyes of impertinent striplings and more impertinent striplingesses under 40, to remember when "hullo" was said only face to face, and when, if one person wanted to do business with another, he either went where he—or she—was or wrote a letter and waited for a reply.

So to conduct the ordinary affairs of life may seem terribly, even intolerably, inconvenient to those who think the present imperfection of the telephone service a serious hardship, but as a matter of fact people in those days managed to get along comfortably enough, and, knowing no better condition, did not bemoan their fate. Deprivation of the inconceivable, however, is one thing and loss of a familiar facility is quite another, and certainly not many have yet reached, or are likely to reach, our correspondent's conclusion that no telephone is better than one largely productive of wrong numbers in alternation, with dubiously accurate assurances that the right number is "busy."

That the service is bad, or at least less good than it used to be, everybody knows and the company admits, but the troubles have been explained and their cure has been promised. So patience, not abandonment, is the wiser course, for, in very sober truth, a poor telephone service is preferable to none—as in his heart of hearts even the most irritable of subscribers is well aware.

Ingratitude Should Be Avoided.

In the deterioration of the telephone service not all, by any means, is loss. There is in it, on the contrary, at least one really important gain. To the two or three really workable excuses for negligence, forgetfulness, and unwillingness to do what one or another obligation demands there has been added the plea in mitigation and avoidance that long and desperate efforts to communicate by wire whatever should have been communicated were made and failed.

And a new and good excuse or explanation of this sort—one that cannot possibly be disproved, no matter how vehemently suspected—increases by a percentage so large the world's stock of these necessaries of quiet and peaceful life that to complain much or bitterly of telephone derelictions is to lay the complainer open to just criticism as guilty of a base form of inappreciation and ingratitude. For, to the great mass of the population, the telephone company, potentially at least, has become what the proofreader and compositor are to reporters and editors. On it now can be heaped responsibility for many a fault and carelessness that otherwise would have to be confessed and have atonement made for it.

Thus reasoning, light shines through the darkness and another cloud is equipped with a silver lining.

His Honor Reserved His Decision.

It is no wonder that Justice CROPSEY reserved decision when asked to base an injunction on the theory that a "beverage" is a liquid something swallowed between meals.

Even the most learned of Judges does not know everything, or claim to do so, and one to whom such a definition as that was propounded with a fine semblance of the seriousness that always should be used in addressing a court would naturally need time in which to test the possibility that the definition was correct.

Of course, he "knew" it wasn't, but knowledge is apt to lose its certainty when confronted by a denial like that, and delay is then necessary—for the recovery of composure if for no other reason. In due course, doubtless, Justice CROPSEY will have some able remarks to make about this astonishing contention in regard to beverages. To forecast his decision, however, on a point so important would ill become a layman, and caution as well as propriety forbids the giving of unasked advice as to what he should say. Just the same, if he does decide that an injunction should issue on the ground presented for his consideration, then the whole English-speaking world will be thrown into a new form of confusion and heaven knows it, as well as the rest of the world, is already having about all the forms of confusion it really needs.

They Need a Lot of Publicity.

Attorney General PALMER, questioned by his subordinates in the several Federal districts as to whether or not they should make public the names of any profiteers they may discover, has been commendably emphatic, as well as prompt, in telling them to give to all such gentry the advertising they so much need and deserve.

It is at least hoped that profiteering and publicity are "incompatibles," as the pharmacists say. At any rate, the revealed profiteer will find his neighbors and customers not at all reluctant to tell him what they think of him and his quality of civism, and the persistence of their remarks, as well as the tone of them, will be no small assistance to the courts in dealing with the evil which just now most excites the indignation of most people over most of the earth's surface.

Of course, even a Federal District Attorney should not call a man a profiteer unless sure that the charge is true, but, with certainty, compunction should cease, and even well-founded accusation is "privileged." Rarely, indeed, are reforms effected in secret—never, probably, in the case of men so lost to all sense of duty and obligation as at this time to exploit the cruel necessities of these times.

DEHYDRATED FOODS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Regarding the article in THE TIMES of July 27, headed "Dehydrated Foods Are Not Popular," I would like to say something in defense of dehydration and dehydrated products.

The article in question contains three basic statements, substantially: 1. That dehydrated products are flavorless. 2. That so much time is required to restore them that the housewife won't bother with them. 3. That since the war and urgent necessity for food conservation, interest in dehydration has died out.

Those who claim that dehydrated products are flavorless have not tried properly dehydrated fruits or vegetables. Unfortunately, the field seemed so promising and so easy that people without adequate knowledge or experience rushed into what they thought was dehydration. Consequently, imperfectly treated stuff was put on the market, which was insipid and really worthless. Naturally, the consumer trying such stuff would say, and quite truly, that dehydrated products were worthless.

There is a vast difference between drying and dehydration, however. Everything is composed of myriads of cells, and through dehydration properly conducted, simply the moisture is drawn out rapidly without rupturing the cell walls, thereby leaving in the cells the nutrients, the volatiles, and everything else except the moisture.

On the other hand, drying is a long, slow process, during which the cell walls crack and allow the volatiles and flavoring effects to escape, besides which chemical changes take place. Hence, really dehydrated products will "restore," while merely dried products will not. As evidence of this I have often served dehydrated fruits and vegetables at the same meal with fresh ones, and no one could or can tell the difference.

Products which are sliced or cubed thinly before they are dehydrated really need no soaking in water to restore them. They can be put in cold water and brought slowly to the boil, and are then just as flavorful and nutritious as fresh-picked farm or garden produce. There is no conflict between canning and dehydrating; each has its sphere, but regarding the mention of the convenience of canned vegetables over dehydrated, canned stuff has to be heated, and in the case of such things as canned peas the liquid is usually thrown down the sink and there goes a very large percentage of the valuable nutritive solubles, besides which canned peas or any other canned vegetables taste "canned."

Now, regarding particular advantages. Through dehydration, a pound of vegetables is reduced practically to an ounce, saving storage space, expensive packages, freightage, and spoilage. Therefore good products can be transported and used where heretofore nothing of the kind was available. It is supererogation to cite ships, dining cars, mining camps, business ventures in remote tropical countries, and what not, in which cases dehydrated fruits and vegetables will furnish nourishment and the properties which prevent scurvy and numerous other ailments, to say nothing of enjoyment and maintenance of health standard and efficiency.

Dehydration, like aviation, has had its setbacks, but both are bound to come—and be tremendous factors. The experimental stage of dehydration has passed; precise knowledge has been attained through hard and conscientious work and despite discouragements and the prejudice which meets everything new and good—as history has shown from time immemorial.

We have now attained the standpoint where we are to have a complete, delicious, and wholesome meal of dehydrated products from a fresh fruit cocktail to start with, on through soup, fish, meats, and vegetables, down to desserts. Summer produce conserved for Winter use, and with the high cost of raw materials and the general necessity for conserving time, space, and trouble, dehydration is going to prove a sister art to canning, and just as important I feel assured. A. LOUISE ANDREA.

The Surrogates' Court.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the general outcry against Mr. Murphy's treatment of the Supreme Court judgeship as a piece of personal patronage, the public seems to overlook an equally flagrant exercise of arbitrary power in dealing with the Surrogates' Court. To my mind, his nomination of his son-in-law, James A. Foley, for Surrogate is equally objectionable, whether it is viewed as a piece of pure nepotism or as a reward for Mr. Foley's party service.

It does not diminish the scandal of Murphy's action in assuming to decide how long a capable Judge can serve on the bench that Mr. Untermyer possesses the professional qualifications which his partner, Louis Marshall, attributes to him.

It may well be that Mr. Foley, despite his arduous service in the Legislature, possesses the qualifications which a Surrogate should have. I do not dispute that, but I believe that Senator Foley himself, in his frank moments, will admit there are lawyers in the regular Democratic organization, who, by virtue of special training, have superior qualifications for the office which he seeks.

The Surrogates' Court of New York County is one of the most important courts in the world. It transacts a larger volume of business than any similar court, and deals with situations of the utmost delicacy and responsibility, which, mishandled, offer grave opportunities for scandal. Such a court should be free from temptation to political administration as the Supreme Court. Those who know the possibilities of the court in appointments to the position of administrator and guardian cannot escape the conclusion that it would be unfortunate to convert that court into a mere appanage to Murphy's political machine.

To have such a distinguished jurist and conscientious official as the present incumbent, Surrogate Robert Ludlow Fowler, succeeded by Murphy's son-in-law would tend to degrade the great Widows and Orphans' Court of New York, even if Mr. Foley renders a notably efficient, scrupulous, and impeccable service in the position.

Public Servants and the Vote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, E. M. F., who suggests the disfranchisement of public employes, may be interested to know that by an amendment to the Constitution adopted about a dozen years ago the state of Victoria, Australia, "provided for its civil servants separate representation in both Houses of Parliament—and at the same time forbade such employes to vote at any election of members of either house to be returned by any province or electoral district."

A LAW AGAINST RAILROAD STRIKES.

Labor Should Be Compelled, as Capital Has Been, to Respect Paramount Public Interest.

By ELON R. BROWN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Plumb plan is a precautionary measure designed to save railroad employes from the struggle to keep up wages when prices fall and to enable them to bring political pressure to bear to raise wages as effectually as they have during the war—in short, to continue war conditions as to wages, including legislation like the Adamson law. The movement goes to the heart of the question, and if they succeed we may be sure they will be more favored as a class than at present, and, so far as we can now see, permanently intrenched.

The defeat of the scheme leaves them no worse off than before, but conditions at present are intolerable to the public. The employes have, by strikes and threats of strikes, raised their wages to the present figures. They make the question of wages and their relations with their employers take precedence of the public interest. Hundreds of thousands of persons were deprived of transportation by the strike on the B. R. T. Millions of dollars were lost by people who were guilty of nothing worse than losing a means of public traffic, which no person and no combination of persons ought to be able to deprive them of. Hundreds of trains are now laid off on our great railroads to abide the event of the strike of the shopmen and other employes. Freight is embargoed and commerce blocked. The loss in money is huge. Foodstuffs are imperiled and the price of necessities enhanced, and in many cases life and health jeopardized. All signs indicate that this is but the beginning of trouble.

Is this condition justifiable or unavoidable? Not at all. It rests upon the flimsy foundation of a supposed moral right on the part of the employes to conspire to strike to raise wages. But in the case of railroads there is no such moral right, and the law permitting it is in conflict with morality and the public interest. The State granted these railroads franchises and invited capital to develop them for the public—not for the benefit of capital or of labor. Capital, in some conspicuous instances, abused its privilege, but the Interstate Commerce Commission and the State commissions have checked such abuses and, in conjunction with war conditions, menaced the investment. Labor now abuses its privilege, and the public is subjected to even greater losses and abuses than it ever suffered from capital. This can be corrected by prohibiting by law conspiracies to strike on railroads. Railroads cannot combine to make extortionate rates. Why should labor be permitted to combine to deprive the public of the service of publicly established routes of travel? By what process of reasoning can a law permitting the imposition of such sacrifices, on business, on men, women, and children, be justified?

The operation of a railroad under a State franchise does not rest upon the same basis as private business. It does not follow because employes may properly strike, under certain conditions, in a factory that they may do so on a railroad. Employes may leave either employment at their will, but strikes on railroads inflict greater punishment on the public than on the employer, and are, therefore, more against the public than the employer. This is not true of private employment.

Nor can it be said that such a change in the law would leave the railroad employes without remedy except by changing employment. A tribunal could be opened to them, and the right to prosecute their claims singly or in combination secured.

If it were not so serious, the situation would be one for satire and caricature rather than for serious study. The resumption of traffic on the B. R. T. and the present disfavor of the Plumb plan draw paeans from the press. The agitation for lower prices by law stirs a poetic fervor, and will doubtless be appreciated by some one at some time to the extent of 2 or 3 per cent. for two or three days in their purchases. Meanwhile, the great public relapses into a coma, disturbed by nightmares of the disasters to come, including the policemen's strike.

Knowing that nothing tends more to high prices than a failure of transportation, statesmen fill the press with futile plans to reduce prices and, calling Heaven to witness their devotion to humanity, encourage the fraction of humanity engaged in operating railroads to batter all the rest of humanity to a pulp whenever wages are not satisfactory to them. The welfer of democracy does queer things when it discovers that it is losing its rights to privilege, whether above or below. The sooner the public understands its rights and powers the quicker the solution of the problem and the stoppage of irreparable damage. Every new concession made to force invites further outrage.

BULGARS AND GREEKS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to ask the American representatives at the Peace Conference in Paris, who with so much unjustifiable perseverance support the concession of Western Thrace to Bulgaria, why the Bulgarians in 1906 drove out of Eastern Rumelia the numerous thousands of Greeks who lived there in cities, most of them purely Greek, like Stenemachus, Anchialus, Mesimvria, Sozopolis, and others. The Greek inhabitants of these cities lived there before the Bulgarians. Their ancestors lived there even when the Bulgarians were still on the River Volga. At the time the Greeks of Eastern Rumelia were persecuted they were Bulgarian subjects. Although they lived under the most depressing conditions, they had made no revolution against Bulgaria, they paid all their taxes, their children served regularly in the Bulgarian army, and consequently they had every right to enjoy the protection of the Bulgarian law.

Could the American representatives, or the professors of Robert College, or even the American missionaries explain the cause of the dreadful and bloody persecutions of this innocent people from their ancestral hearths in time of peace? It must be remembered that at that time Greece had no common boundaries with Bulgaria and, therefore, it could not be supposed that this innocent people could attempt to unite with Greece. Many years before they drove them out the Bulgarians had closed their churches and schools, not allowing the language of their ancestors to be taught. All this that they might force them to become Bulgarians. And when they saw that they held firm to remaining what they were, namely Greeks, they committed the unheard-of injustice for a Government claiming to be civilized, driving out of their homes thousands of its subjects in time of peace without a cause.

In 1906 Europe did not find it just to acknowledge the annexation of Rumelia to Bulgaria. Would the brutal and inhuman persecutions of Anchialus and Stenemachus justify it now? And after this must there be Americans demanding that Greeks should be forced under the Bulgarian yoke?

Our Shoes Cheaper in Spain.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Nowhere in the world is there such a plentiful supply of raw leather as in this country, and the terrific variation in prices between packer's cost of rawhides and ultimate cost to the consumer in the finished article is worthy of the most rigid investigation.

American shoes are selling in Spain right now on a competitive basis with the native article and at approximately prevailing domestic prices. Spain is extremely short of leather, having exhausted her supply, at handsome profit, in supplying the Allies during five years of warfare. However, in spite of this handicap, which America does not suffer, Spain can afford to manufacture, by hand, shoes of the very finest materials for the price of 45 pesetas ($9). Prevailing opinion there is that Americans are fools to invest such a fancy price in custom-made shoes, when the Spaniard rarely, under present extreme conditions, goes above 38 pesetas for his hand-made shoes. A large shoe house in New York City recently appraised a pair of my shoes, which cost $9 in Spain, as worth $18 as stock shoe, or $25 as custom built. Where does the American public get off?

A Railway Question.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I should like to ask one question concerning the railway situation which has not as yet been brought out and which, in my mind, has a distinct bearing on this important subject.

Who will be responsible for determining what amount of the surplus at the end of the year will be used for new construction and electrification and other such improvements which would not be considered running expenses? As I understand it, this money would be taken from the same fund as the profits to be shared pro rata among the operatives of the roads. Would any board which might be elected have the hardihood to deprive these operatives of their share in order to supply funds for improvements which would benefit no one but the public? The public is, indeed, represented on this proposed board, but its representatives would at best be a minority on such a question.

WAR MEMORIALS.

Washington Committee Asks Suggestions for Inscriptions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Inscriptions for war memorials are the subject of a pertinent letter written to The London Times on June 19 by Cecil Harcourt Smith of the Victoria and Albert Museum. What he says of England applies equally to this country:

Long after the time when the great war will have become little more than a name in history, the monuments of it (or some of them) will survive, and future generations will look to these for something that may tell them of the spirit which prompted the erection; for the most part they will look in vain. They will find attached to these monuments merely a banal phrase or two repeated ad infinitum, mostly a bald, chilly, perfunctory statement of facts.

The Civic Arts Association of London has secured the voluntary services of some of the most eminent English writers to write inscriptions, and these will be furnished on application. President Emeritus Eliot has been our master of inscriptions; but there must be many others who have studied and practiced the art of expressing in good English the spirit which a particular memorial embodies. The National Commission of Fine Arts gives special attention to the inscriptions prepared for monuments referred to them. Inscriptions for war memorials may embody quotations or may be wholly original. As Mr. Smith well says, "We want nothing 'precious' or far-fetched, but an inscription that shall be at once spontaneous, simple, dignified, and in perfect harmony with the memorial on which it stands, as a record of the miracle of sacrifice and triumph that has been vouchsafed to us."

The War Memorials Committee, American Federation of Arts, 1,741 New York Avenue, Washington, D. C., will welcome copies of and suggestions for inscriptions. The committee, when asked, will give advice on inscriptions submitted, and from time to time will publish (giving credit to the author) such inscriptions as seem worthy.

Glad DH-4s Were Burned.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The destruction of airplanes in France is a subject very near and dear (in experience) to me, and I want to express my delight in seeing the pictures of the "million-dollar bonfire" published in your Sunday picture section. I have preserved those pictures as a tribute to a cousin and four dear friends who were lost to me in one squadron since the armistice.

Undoubtedly the planes in the picture were only fit for salvage, but even though they were new their destruction would be acclaimed by those who suffered in them. The monetary loss is deplorable, but the loss was incurred by building such planes, and their destruction is a gain to the Air Service.

During a period of sixteen months in the Air Service in France it was my privilege to work in every type of observation plane used by the French and American armies. If the motor were removed from the DH-4 I would classify it as a rickety horsehoat and paste a red "Inflammable—Keep Away" sign on it. AN AERIAL OBSERVER.

OLD PIRATES—AND NEW.

In days of old the pirate bold
Would sail the raging sea,
And take his goodly toll of gold
Wherever it might be.
But now in vain we scan the main—
The olden days are o'er.
The pirates of the present reign
Within some grocery store.

The buccaneer who knew no fear
Once flourished—long ago—
And, with his good blade ever near,
Would hold up friend or foe.
No more his boat will lightly float
Upon the billow's foam—
He takes from you your only groat
For steak to carry home.

Once Robin Hood hid in the wood,
And, with his good long bow,
Held up and robbed whoe'er he could,
(A goodly game, I know.)
No outlaw now, beneath the bough,
Awaits, but if you choose
You get the same sensation when
You buy a pair of shoes.

CARNEGIE BURIED WITHOUT EULOGY

Simple Rites at Shadowbrook, Lenox, with Less Than Forty Mourners.

RESTS IN SLEEPY HOLLOW

Widow and Daughter, Mrs. Miller, at Brief Committal Service at Vault Laden with Flowers.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 14.—A heavy Scotch mist hung over Lake Mahkeenac in the bowl formed by the hills below Shadowbrook Park this morning, only half revealing the kingly structure of native blue limestone covering over half an acre where were being held the funeral services of Andrew Carnegie.

This dense mist gave the setting of the great house the appearance of an old feudal castle from the entrance to the park. Rain dripped from the English ivy that clambers up the stone and charred cypress wood which form the construction of the mansion from its base to the third story. The parkways steamed with dampness and there was the chill of October.

Less than forty persons had gathered at Shadowbrook for the service. They were received at the north entrance at the huge stone cache portiera with round stone pillars, entering into the main hall, which was centred by a white marble fountain decorated with ferns and white lilies.

Ushers led the friends to the ballroom at the east of the house, where the bier was placed at the west end of the room. This magnificent apartment was twenty by thirty feet and fourteen feet high, with magnificent carved marble mantel, surrounding a huge fireplace as a small gallery, where were the singers for the service. The plain black coffin of severely simple design, devoid of ornamentation, was almost hidden in the wealth of floral tributes. There were more than a hundred magnificent tributes, mostly wreaths. They had been sent from all of the great institutions that the dead man had founded, notably the Professors' Pension Fund, Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh Carnegie Foundation, and also from the New York Caledonian Club, St. Andrew's Society of the State of New York, and from relatives, friends, and all of the leading cottagers of Lenox and Stockbridge.

The Mourners.

There were present at the service Andrew and Morris Carnegie of Pittsburgh, sons of the late Thomas Carnegie, nephews of the dead man, and their wives; Mrs. James Greenway, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Lauder, a niece; Mrs. Marias Johnston of Louisville, Ky., a niece; Mrs. Oliver Ricketson of Pittsburgh, a niece; Henry Whitfield and Miss Estelle Whitfield of New York, brother and sister of Mrs. Carnegie, all of whom were stopping at Shadowbrook; Mrs. Henry Phipps, Howard Phipps, Mrs. Walter Damrosch of New York, Oliver Ricketson of Pittsburgh, Charles M. Schwab of Bethlehem, Penn., Andrew C. Dinkey, Jr., Samuel Harden Church, President of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh; R. R. Church of Pittsburgh, Arthur A. Hamerschlag, Director of the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh, Charles P. Cunningham of Pittsburgh, Thomas Ware, Paul Koly of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Robert Woodward, Trustee of the Carnegie Foundation at Washington, D. C.; Elihu Root, Jr., attorney for Mr. Carnegie in New York; Robert Franks, financial secretary for Mr. Carnegie in New York; Mrs. William Douglas Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Charles Lanier, Mrs. John E. Parsons, Miss Parsons, Mrs. Francis C. Barlow, Mrs. Robert Winthrop, Grenville L. Winthrop, Mrs. Frederick W. Whitridge, Misses Rosamond and Francesca De K. Gilder, Mrs. Joseph H. Choate of New York, Miss Rosalie Goodman of Lenox. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott of Shadowbrook, the superintendent and gardener and their wives.

The funeral services began by a quartet from the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York singing a hymn. This quartet was composed of Miss Rose Bryant, Miss Marie Stoddard, Frank Croxton and Frank Kimball. Clarence Dickinson, organist of the Brick Presbyterian Church, was at the organ.

The hymns were old English selections, "O Love, Thou Wilt Not Let Me Go," by George Matheson; "He Leadeth Me," by Joseph Gilmore, and "Crossing the Bar," Sir Frederick Bridges' arrangement to music of Lord Tennyson's poem.

The Presbyterian Ritual.

The Rev. Benson N. Wyman, pastor of the Lenox Congregational Church, gave the opening prayer. Then the Rev. Dr. William Pierson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, took the service, conducting it in accord with the ritual of the Presbyterian Church. This ritual includes the reading of the Twenty-third Psalm and passages of the Scripture.

No eulogy was given, and the service lasted about twenty-five minutes. Shortly after those invited to the services had departed from the house the body was placed in an automobile hearse and the family, relatives, and a few friends, including Charles M. Schwab, departed in automobiles for Hillsdale, N. Y., where a funeral car was waiting to be attached to the New York express on the Harlem Division of the New York Central Railroad.

All of the servants at Shadowbrook stood outside the entrance to the house as the cortège departed. The party motored over the lake road, past the scene of the fishing exploits of the late Mr. Carnegie, entering Stockbridge and crossing Monument Mountain to Great Barrington. Thence it crossed the Taghconic Mountains in Egremont, and entered Hillsdale. The utmost secrecy had been maintained by the family in order that their departure for New York might not attract a large gathering of curious people.

Mrs. Carnegie and her daughter and members of the immediate family made the trip to White Plains in the private car of Charles M. Schwab, attached to the funeral train.

Before leaving Lenox Charles M. Schwab confirmed the report that among the messages of condolence received by Mrs. Carnegie was one from King George of England.

The will of Mr. Carnegie will very shortly be made public. This became known through the presence in Lenox of Elihu Root, Jr., attorney for the late Mr. Carnegie. No statement was given out here as to the contents of the document. Robert Franks, financial secretary for Mr. Carnegie, refused to make a statement of the probable amount of Mr. Carnegie's wealth.

FEW AT SLEEPY HOLLOW.

Tarrytown Had Been Led to Believe Burial Would Be on Friday.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 14.—The body of Andrew Carnegie was interred at Sleepy Hollow Cemetery at 5:30 this afternoon. The train bearing the body had arrived at White Plains at 4:38. Mrs. Carnegie, her daughter, Mrs Miller, and the funeral party entered waiting limousines and were driven to the cemetery.

Promptly at 5 o'clock ancient Sleepy Hollow Cemetery was closed to the public and guards were placed at all the gates. The people of the town generally had been led to believe that the burial of the ironmaster would be on Friday and comparatively few were about the cemetery when the cortège arrived.

About the plot in the cemetery and at vantage points nearby many detectives of a New York agency were stationed to prevent photographers, souvenir hunters, and curious persons from gaping at the mourners. The only persons actually in the cemetery at the time of the arrival of the funeral party were two women and three girls, who climbed on a monument and watched the interment.

The cortège passed through the gates of the cemetery at 5:25 P. M. from the valley below. Preceding the hearse and six coaches containing the twenty-one members of the funeral party, two machines filled with beautiful flowers drooped their load at the side of the vault.

It was estimated that there were between 200 and 300 wreaths and floral pieces including beautiful flowers of every description. The machines which brought the flowers to the vault moved quickly away and the coffin was placed in the outer box. While this was taking place the family and friends remained in their automobiles.

The plain oak box has three handles on each side; they are of solid copper. A copper plate, six by four inches, on top of the box, bears the inscription:

"Andrew Carnegie,
"Born Nov. 24, 1835,
"Died Aug. 11, 1919."

When the cortège approached the vault the mourners seated themselves on camp chairs while Dr. Merrill said a short, simple committal service. Mrs. Carnegie and Mrs. Miller, her daughter, were heavily veiled and the veils were not lifted during the service, which did not last more than five minutes.

Detectives will be constantly on guard at the grave of the steel magnate to prevent vandals from disturbing the grave.

The coffin was placed in a crypt in the vault, which had been constructed about two years ago. The coffin was covered over with evergreens while the family remained at the vault and later the crypt was filled in and covered over. The vault, which has space for only two coffins, is the most beautiful in the cemetery.

RUMANIA'S ANSWER FOUND CONCILIATORY

CZECHS PROTEST TO PARIS

Appeal to Peace Conference to Prevent the Restoration of Hapsburg Monarchy.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The Supreme Council today considered the answer of Rumania to the recent note of the Peace Conference concerning the occupation of Budapest by the Rumanians. The reply, which was couched in altogether conciliatory terms, created a favorable impression.

The note said the Rumanian Command and the Rumanian High Commission at Budapest have received instructions to act in conformity with the suggestions of the Entente. It declared that the armistice concluded with Hungary was of a date prior to the communication of the Entente and that the Rumanian Government believed in good faith that Hungary's attack on the Rumanians rendered the armistice void.

The Council has decided to send to Rumania a note requesting, in terms not less conciliatory, that the Rumanian Government listen to the views set forth by the Interallied Commission of Generals, which has been sent to Budapest.

A protest to the Peace Conference from the Government of Czechoslovakia against the restoration of the Hapsburgs was before the Council.

Rumania in nowise favors the installation of Archduke Joseph in power in Hungary, according to a declaration made to the Temps by Victor Antonesco, Rumanian Minister here.

"The Bucharest Government has no reason for sympathy, either for the Archduke personally or the reactionary régime which he represents," M. Antonesco says. "Rumania certainly will not support any government in Budapest which is not acceptable to the Entente."

In discussing the alleged seizures of supplies in Hungary by Rumanian forces the Minister says:

"The Rumanian Army's requisitions do not nearly approach those of the Hungarians in Rumania during the war. Rumanian representatives in Budapest have received strict instructions to examine this question in accord with Entente representatives."

M. Antonesco continues by saying that the "happy result" of Rumania's intervention has been to permit allied and associated representatives to re-enter Budapest and the suppression of Bolshevist propaganda. He says that it is now the task of the Allies, with Rumania's assistance, to install in Budapest a government with which a definite peace may be made.

"I am sure," he concludes, "the Allies will find our representatives devoted and friendly collaborators. The bonds of union, between France and Rumania especially, are too strong ever to be broken for mere questions of form."

GENEVA, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.) The Rumanian Government, after crushing Bolshevism at Budapest, decided to withdraw the Rumanian troops from the Hungarian Capital because of adverse criticism by the foreign press, according to a statement issued by the Rumanian bureau at Berne.

An influential delegation of the Magyar authorities, however, begged the Rumanian General to remain until order had been re-established, the statement says, "as it was considered that Archduke Joseph's reign would only be temporary because both the Austrians and Hungarians disapproved of the return of the monarchy under whatever guise."

Dr. Karl Renner, head of the Austrian Peace Delegation, who passed through Basle yesterday on his return to St. Germain, said that the reappearance of a Hapsburg at the head of the Hungarian Government had caused the greatest indignation at Vienna. Several meetings of protest against a restoration of the monarchy either in Hungary or Austria have been held in the Austrian capital, he asserted.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—The uncertainty of the attitude of Constantine Diamandy, the Rumanian High Commissioner here, is causing the allied commission some annoyance. M. Diamandy twice threatened to leave a conference with the commission Monday afternoon, the first time when he was asked if he recognized the authority of the allied generals, and later when asked if he realized that Rumanian occupation was starving Budapest. M. Diamandy is said to have replied with generalities.

The commission informed M. Diamandy that requisitioning by the Rumanians must cease by Wednesday. He was warned that the allies had a full list of the goods already taken by the Rumanians, and that these must be restored.

Rumanians May Quit Budapest.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 14.—Rumanian troops are about to leave Budapest in consequence of the note sent to Rumania by the Peace Conference, according to a wireless dispatch received here from Vienna, quoting newspapers of that city.

WANTS BELA KUN DEPORTED.

Entente Said to Object to Asylum Being Given Him in Austria.

VIENNA, Aug. 14, (Associated Press.) The Bourgeoisie throughout Austria is protesting against the Government sheltering Bela Kun, the former Hungarian Communist dictator, and his accomplices.

The Entente missions to Austria have also expressed disapproval at Kun's finding asylum in Austria.

ALLEGED NOTE TO JOSEPH.

Vienna Story of Proposal for Union from Rumania.

VIENNA, Aug. 13, (Associated Press.) —A statement attacking England and America, demanding that Hungary be united with Rumania under the sovereignty of King Ferdinand and threatening to strip Hungary if the Rumanian army is forced to withdraw from that country, has been presented to Archduke Joseph, head of the Hungarian Government, by the authorized Rumanian representative at Budapest, dispatches received here assert.

The text of the statement, according to report, follows:

"There are 250,000 workmen in Budapest who are only waiting for the Rumanians to leave Hungary to immediately take the situation into their own hands, which means the return of Bolshevism. The Hungarian Government cannot depend upon the Entente Powers for assistance, for those powers have withdrawn all their troops from Russia, and America is unwilling to send a single soldier.

"We do not trust the Entente, which wants only to humiliate us. We are willing to withdraw our troops, if necessary, starting tomorrow morning, but we will carry off everything and strip the country just as Field Marshal Mackensen did Rumania.

"The only grudge the Entente has against us is that we refuse to have English and American capital dominate Rumania. Hungary must follow Rumania's policy in not accepting English and American capital. Whatever would remain after the Rumanians retreat would be taken by the Entente anyway. The Entente idea is to have Rumania and Hungary fight and destroy each other, the Entente thereby getting all.

"There is only one policy for Hungary to pursue; that is a junction between Hungary and Rumania, ruled by the Rumanian King. We do not care what the Entente or Premier Clemenceau of France wants to do or is doing. We will follow our own policy.

"We expect an answer from Archduke Joseph, head of the Government, by 8 o'clock tonight. If an answer is not received by that time we shall inform Bucharest, which will decide what action should be taken."

The Rumanians, reports from Budapest say, are stripping the country and seizing the railway and transportation lines. Supplies of all kinds are in readiness to be moved out of the country. They have taken flour and sugar from warehouses and seized food and medical supplies from hospitals, even threshing machines working in the harvest fields.

The outlying districts of Hungary are still ignorant of recent developments in the capital owing to the censorship, and the shipment of food to Budapest has stopped.

PEIDLL IN NEW CABINET.

Count Julius Andrassy Said to be Minister of Foreign Affairs.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 14.—No representation was given the Szegedin anti-Communist Government in the new Hungarian Cabinet, formed to meet the recent crisis in the Budapest Government's affairs, according to Budapest dispatches received here today.

M. Lovasky, the new Premier, has as his Minister of War former Premier Stephen Friedrich, and as his Minister of People's Welfare, M. Peidll, Premier in the Cabinet that succeeded that of Bela Kun. Others in the new Cabinet are Count Julius Andrassy, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Stephan Szako, Minister of Agriculture, and Herr Huszar, Minister of Education.

VIENNA, Aug. 14, (Associated Press.) —Wilhelm Boehm, Hungarian Minister at Vienna, who was formerly Minister of War under the Bela Kun dictatorship, has resigned.

BUDAPEST, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—Archduke Joseph, in a statement to the correspondent today, said he had no desire to be King, but wanted to see the country tranquil.

"I would not move my little finger to be King," the Archduke said. "It is not true that I worked in collusion with the Rumanians to establish myself as head of the Government. I have a real heart interest in the country. I want to see a Parliament elected, after which the people's representatives can do what they like.

"I believe the Socialists should be admitted to a relative share in the Government. Hungary is an agricultural country and not Communist in sentiment. The Socialists told me they did not wish to see me King. I explained I was not seeking such a position, but wanted a Parliament to settle everything."

JUGOSLAVS MOVE FRONTIER.

Occupy Austrian Territory Allotted by Peace Conference.

LAIBACH, Jugoslavia, Aug. 13.—Jugoslav troops today occupied the territory east of the Mur River, in Austria, allotted Jugoslavia by the Peace Conference.

The troops advanced to Bathyand, north of Mura-Szombat, occupying the territory and disarming the Austrian troops. Guns, munitions, and locomotives were seized by the Jugoslavs.

The advance will continue until the new Jugoslovakian frontier running through Hungary is reached.

HUNGARIANS HERE ASK AID.

Want Wilson to Insist That Rumania's Troops Quit Their Country.

Three thousand Hungarians of this city gathered at the Central Opera House, in East Sixty-seventh Street, near Third Avenue, last night, and adopted a resolution urging that American workers demand that President Wilson insist that invading Rumanian troops leave Hungarian territory immediately, in accordance with the terms of the Paris Peace Treaty.

If the Rumanians do not leave Hungary in a little time, the speakers at the meeting declared, there undoubtedly will be another revolution, in which the recently overthrown Bolsheviki régime will regain control.

Louis Basky, editor of Elore, a Hungarian newspaper of this city, said during the course of his address: "Long suffering has placed the population of Hungary at the point of despair. There is little doubt that the continued presence of the invaders, in spite of promises at the Peace Conference and President Wilson's fourteen points, will result in another Bolshevist revolution."

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Hungarian Socialist party of this city. A large part of the Hungarians present at the meeting are anxious to return to their native country and help in the reconstruction work there, it was stated last night.

The resolution calling upon workers to insist on the evacuation of Rumanian troops of Hungarian territory was unanimously adopted. It states in part:

"The Hungarian proletariat established in Hungary a real democracy. Rumanian imperialism trampled down the republic of Hungarian workers and, under the protection of this imperialism, junker rule spreads again over Hungary and America witnesses silently that the Wilsonian principles are mocked. The Hungarian workers recognize that they knock vainly at the doors of diplomats. They ask sympathy and support for the oppressed workers of Hungary from the American workers. We ask America's workers to demand from the American Government the withdrawal of that moral and mateial support which, in the name of the American people, is given the enemies and oppressors of the Hungarian workers."

Christy.

The first Mrs. Christy married on June 27 last Leslie Canfield Ferguson, a lawyer of this city, who was divorced four years ago from his first wife, Edith Carpenter Oakes, in Massachusetts.

AIRPLANE KILLS 3, HURTS 8.

Lands in a Densely Packed Stadium on Baltimore Field.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 14.—Three children were killed, eight other persons were seriously injured, and scores of others received less serious injuries this afternoon when the army airplane S-C 38121, piloted by Lieutenant David R. Stinson and used for army aviation recruiting, crashed through an iron fence in Patterson Park baseball field and tore into a crowd of several thousand persons, mostly children who had come to watch the landing.

After circling around the field several times shortly after it reached the landing field at the park, the airplane, which had as its passengers Lieutenant Stinson, the pilot, and First Class Sergeant H. J. Fulwiler, landed in the centre of the stadium.

Scores of children were hurled down a fifteen-foot embankment by the right wing of the airplane. Others were mowed down by the left wing of the machine. At least a dozen were caught by the speedily revolving blades of the propeller and were badly injured.

Three children, two boys, each about 8 years old, and a girl about 13 years old, were killed outright by the blades of the propeller.

"WOODROW WILSON."

Mrs. Adams said that she had had several talks with the President about Blakelock and that he had always expressed great interest in the artist and was extremely pleased at the efforts to save the unfortunate painter from the hardships of poverty.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

New Melodrama by Owen Davis.

THOSE WHO WALK IN DARKNESS, a melodrama in three acts and four scenes, by Owen Davis; founded on the novel by Perley Poore Sheehan. At the Forty-eighth Street Theatre.

Dowd ..... Percival Reniers
Bob ..... Alfred Knight

Strike or no strike, a new play, announced for production last evening at the Forty-eighth Street, actually opened as announced and, what is more, ran undisturbed to a resounding finale shortly after 11 o'clock. It was received with equally resounding applause and played by a competent company of by no means stop-gap actors who, considering that many of them were of a generation somewhat later than the good old-fashioned stuff they were asked to proclaim, did as well as could be expected.

The play was a gaudily colored melodrama by the prolific Owen Davis, called "Those Who Walk in Darkness." If it had been called "Viola, the Beautiful Street-walker," the somewhat startled first-night audience might have known what to expect. Mr. Davis has put many plays behind him since the days when he dashed off "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak-model," and he has been known to hint broadly that he would rather not have his Bowery past brought up every time he produces a new work for the theatre. But it can't be helped this time, for "Those Who Walk in Darkness" is that kind of a play.

It is a rather outrageous melodrama of the old school and an extraordinarily good sample of its kind. Somewhere, in this broad and variegated land, there must be millions of people who would have the time of their lives at "Those Who Walk in Darkness." They gorge themselves on the novels of Harold Bell Wright, and, if they could be broken into the habit of attending what are loosely called the "first-class theatres," they would simply revel in the new piece which came to life last evening in West Forty-eighth Street.

Here, in three acts and five scenes, is unfolded the tale of a girl who, poor, friendless, and alone in a big city, has been driven into the streets and who is married and taken away to the country by a guileless and wealthy youth whom she had befriended. She is succeeding fairly well in suppressing the details of her past from her young husband's somewhat curious family when, to save his little cousin from the perils of New York, she must needs step forward before the assembled family circle (and a delighted audience) and cry out, with heaving bosom, "I was a woman of the streets but you shall not be," or words to that effect. So everything ends happily in the moonlight a little later.

The play begins with the average playwright's favorite postulate that New York is a sink-hole of iniquity, and that any country district is a little garden of virtue, or at least of unsophistication, a theory which it is just possible to hold if one goes on a prowl in New York, but which is likely to encounter a rough jolt if one continues the investigation among the daisies.

To the playing of "Those Who Walk in Darkness" are devoted the never-failing talents of such tried and true actors as Donald Gallaher, George W. Wilson, Arthur Shaw, and Helen Tracy.

Of these, at least three did all that could be asked—Gallaher struggling a bit not to get too sonorous under the inspiration of the mouthfuls of sentiment he was required to declaim, the veteran Wilson playing with great gusto a homely comedy rôle, and Helen Tracy bringing all her familiar expertness to the part of a gaudy and grasping old hag of West Thirty-ninth Street. Mr. Shaw seemed still under the spell of the property man in "The Yellow Jacket." At least he was always a little detached from the business at hand. He appeared always to be thinking of something else. Perhaps he was thinking that his part was better suited to Frank Craven.

Howard Kyle, too, rather burst the seams of a rôle evidently intended for Frank Bacon or some one as much like him as possible, and Mr. Kyle's resemblance is not striking. At least he fitted into the grand manner of the play.

Consuelo Bailey raced around in a trying ingenue rôle of a sort that has not been attempted in these parts these many years, playing it with the method born of long stock training in just such stock offishness. Laura Walker, who is a sort of unartificial Cathleen Nesbit, put on full steam for the rôle of the heroine and did very well indeed.

Some folks might have thought that Amy Ricard laid it on a bit thick, as the grand and injudicial lady of Chenango County might have thought she was a trifle too like the twentieth Duchess of Northumberland. Which shows they don't know Chenango County. That is, if it's anything like Oneida.

OPEN-AIR 'AIDA' TOMORROW.

Benefit for Italian Sufferers at Sheepshead Bay Speedway.

Under the patronage of the Italian Consul General, Romolo Tritoni, an open-air performance of Verdi's "Aida" will take place at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway tomorrow evening, for the benefit of the recent earthquake victims in Florence, Italy. Some 1,500 persons are expected to assist in the opera. The leading rôles will be sung by Manuel Salazar of the San Carlo Company, Cyrene Van Gordon and Riccardo Stracciari of the Chicago stars, and Marie Rappold, Marie Tiffany and Andres de Segurola of the Metropolitan. The conductor is Giorgio Polacco, and the scenic effects are by Carmine Vitolo.

Mr. Tritoni has informed Fortune Gallo, in charge of the benefit, that while order has been restored in the devastated region, the Italian hospitals are still filled with those injured in the earthquake, and there is a serious shortage of supplies. All the money obtained at tomorrow's performance will be devoted to the relief fund.

ACCUSE EDITH CAVELL.

German Attempt to Justify Execution for "Breach of Trust."

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 14.—An attempt to relieve the German authorities of blame for the execution of Edith Cavell, in Brussels on Oct. 15, 1915, is made in an article printed in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, received here today.

The article, which it is asserted, is based on documentary evidence, says that Miss Cavell, as an assistant of Prince Reginald of Croy, abused the trust placed in her as one engaged in philanthropic work, by concealing officers and men of allied nationalities until they could cross the frontier.

Miss Cavell's guide, Gilles, is said in the article to have conducted 900 men over the border. Sentence of death was imposed upon Miss Cavell by the court-martial, it is asserted, by a unanimous decision and the sentence was confirmed principally because the Germans held that the nurse had been guilty of a breach of trust.

TEXAS MEMBERS IN ROW.

Hardy Resents "Rubber-Stamp" Filing by Blanton—Is Restrained.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Members of the House intervened today to prevent a personal collision between Representatives Blanton and Hardy of Texas, both Democrats. Resenting the charge by Blanton that he was "a mere rubber stamp," in the sense that he always defended the Administration, Hardy rushed at his colleague, but was restrained.

The clash came during debate by Blanton on his resolution calling upon the Secretary of Labor for a report of expenses insurred by the department in connection with John B. Densmore's investigation of the Mooney case at San Francisco. Blanton had attacked the department and Secretary Wilson, who, he said, had been in the House "hobnobbing with members."

When Hardy took vigorous exception to Blanton's reference to him, Blanton retorted:

"Oh, well, the member is a gray-haired old man and I don't want to be abusive."

Hardy immediately made a rush for Blanton, who disclaimed any attempt to be abusive.

Blanton's resolution finally was adopted, 67 to 14.

AIRPLANE WRECKAGE FOUND

Wing Washed Ashore Near Branford Believed to Belong to James.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 14.—Part of an airplane wing was washed ashore near Branford today. It is believed to be a part of the machine in which Captain James, the Canadian ace, lost his life in a flight from Boston to Atlantic City last May. No identification marks have been found.

George Miles, Francis Gamble, and William Carroll, three New Haven business men, fishing near Branford the day after Captain James's disappearance, saw an object in the water resembling a man's head blackened by smoke and a short distance away an object which resembled part of an airplane wing. When they read of the disappearance of Captain James they expressed their conviction that it was his body they had seen.

GOOD PEACH CROP THIS YEAR

More Than 30,000,000 Bushels, Against 20,000,000 in 1918.

The prospective commercial peach crop of 30,082,000 bushels, forecast by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, Department of Agriculture, appears liberal beside the very light crop of 20,000,000 to 21,000,000 last year, but the present crop is moderate when compared with those of recent years.

Probable shipments appear more limited when it is considered that fully half the crop, or over 16,000,000 bushels, is credited to California, says a report from the Bureau of Markets. Nearly 90 per cent. of the California crop is commonly used for drying and canning, which would leave only about 3,600 cars to be shipped as fresh fruit. Actual shipments may equal 4,000 cars. In previous years the California crop has not been over one-third the total. Georgia, the leading southeastern producing section, according to early indications, will ship 7,700 cars, including 3,000 cars of Elbertas, compared with 8,400, last year's totals.

Arkansas, leading in the south central section, may ship 3,200 cars, or nearly half as many cars as Georgia. Oklahoma is likely to become a fairly heavy shipping section for the first time, with possibly 800 cars. New York, usually the heaviest shipping State of the Northeast, may have twice the very short crop of last year. The forecast of carlot shipments is 34,000, compared with 15,003 cars shipped last year.

THORNE BUTLER INSANE.

Writer of "Prose Poetry" to Mrs. Carle is Sent to Matteawan.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Charles L. Faulling, the former butler of Oakleigh Thorne of Thorndale, near Millbrook, who was arrested Wednesday on the charge of writing annoying letters to Mrs. Edward H. Carle, daughter of Mr. Thorne, in which he addressed her as "Eve in Beautiful Eden," was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice Morschauser this afternoon, adjudged insane and sent to the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Faulling was examined this afternoon by Drs. John A. Card and Frank C. Furlong, and they pronounced he was suffering from dementia praecox, a form of paranoia. He said he had written in the last two weeks 3,000 pages of manuscript, which were placed in evidence against him.

In answer to a question by the District Attorney, if he believed that the human race was progressing and if Dante were here for the second time he should write better verse, he modestly replied:

"Yes, I do. That is the reason I believe I am Dante."

He denied that he was infatuated with Mrs. Carle, but could not explain why it was, if he felt such kindly feelings toward Mr. Thorne and if was he who hired him, that he did not send the writings to Mr. Thorne instead of Mrs. Carle.

Charles Novello a Candidate.

In the list of candidates for the nomination for Aldermen in the Republican primaries, published in THE TIMES last Sunday, the name of Charles Novello who is running against Frank O'Brien in the Twenty-second District, was inadvertently spelled Nobello. He is a lawyer, with offices at 320 Broadway.

SALOONS WIPED OUT IN JERSEY CITY

Court Holds Void All Licenses Granted Throughout State Since July 1.

VIOLATE FEDERAL DRY LAW

Would Permit Sale of Liquor Six Months After National Prohibition.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 14.—Between 600 and 600 liquor licenses in Jersey City are nullified and licenses granted throughout the State since July 1, when wartime prohibition became effective, are void, according to an opinion handed down in the Supreme Court today by Justice Swayze in setting aside the liquor license granted July 1 to Hugh Meehan, 433 Ocean Avenue, Jersey City. The case will be carried to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

The attack upon the action of Jersey City in granting the licenses was made by Samuel Wilson of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League.

"It is clear," said Justice Swayze's decision, "that the sale which the license purports to authorize is a violation of Federal prohibition legislation—unless the power which the license appears to grant is limited by the provision that it is subject to the laws regulating the sale. But the laws regulating the sale are very different from laws prohibiting the sale.

"As to distilled spirits, the prohibition is absolute, while the license purports to authorize the sale of spirituous liquors. There is a plain conflict between the terms of the license and the Federal legislation, and the latter must control."

The Court pointed out that, under the terms of the license, intoxicating beverages could be sold six months after national prohibition becomes a fact. The court said it was not concerned with discussions as to limited licenses, but only with the license as granted. It added that the question of a refund of the license money must be decided in another proceeding.

While Justice Swayze dealt exclusively with the Meehan license, the decision undoubtedly will rule in all other New Jersey license cases unless upset by a higher court.

ACCUSED ANARCHIST HELD.

Finnish Editor, Caught in Detroit, Sent to Tombs.

Carl Paivo, one of the editors of the radical Finnish monthly, Luckkataistelu, who was indicted Tuesday by an extraordinary Grand Jury on a charge of criminal anarchy for circulating literature advocating bloody revolution and the seizure of property by the proletariat, was brought to this city yesterday by Detective Sergeant Edward Cooper of the Bomb Squad from Detroit, where he was arrested on a bench warrant following his indictment.

Paivo, upon his arrival last night, was arraigned in the extraordinary term of the Supreme Court called by Governor Smith to prosecute cases involving anarchistic and seditious activities in this State, and held in $25,000 bail for trial. Justice Bartow S. Weeks, presiding in the extraordinary term, is out of the city, and Court Clerk Penny, acting under instructions from the absent Justice, sent Paivo to the Tombs in default of bail.

Gustave Alonen, alleged to be editor in chief of the Finnish periodical, is in the Tombs in default of $25,000 bail under a similar indictment.

NEAR EAST RELIEF CREATED

President Signs Congressional Charter for Body.

The American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, with offices at 1 Madison Avenue, made the following announcement last night.

"President Wilson has just signed a bill granting a Congressional charter to the Near East Relief, formerly the Armenian and Syrian Relief.

"The corporate body consists of fifty men of national prominence, among them William Howard Taft, Charles Evans Hughes, Cleveland H. Dodge, Alexander J. Hemphill, Abram I. Elkus, Oscar S. Straus, Elihu Root, Myron T. Herrick, Henry Morgenthau, Charles R. Crane, James Cardinal Gibbons, and William J. Schieffelin.

"While a bill of incorporation was before Congress the body of incorporators voted to membership Herbert C. Hoover, Howard Heinz, and Edgar Rickard, who will be formally admitted as members of the National Committee at the Fall meeting."

A MILLION FOR K. C. WORKER

Peter Noonan, Once a Baseball Star, Rich by Inheritance.

Peter Noonan, former star catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics and for the last year or more a Knights of Columbus Secretary, has inherited a fortune estimated at a million dollars, according to an announcement made from the Knights of Columbus Headquarters, at 461 Fourth Avenue, last night.

Frank Flynn, another K. C. Secretary, just returned after several months overseas, states that he saw Noonan in Ireland just after lawyers had notified Peter of his good fortune. Secretary Flynn could not tell from whom Noonan received the million, but he believes it was from a relative in the United States.

Noonan, who with Andy Coakley was at one time a major star in the national game, is expected to return from Ireland, where he is at present doing athletic work for the K. of C., in a few weeks.

PROTEST SEA VIEW PROJECT

Tuberculosis Committee Opposes Housing Drug Addicts There.

The Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis, of which Dr. James Alexander Miller is Chairman, sent yesterday to the Mayor, Health Commissioner Copeland, Charities Commissioner Coler, and members of the Board of Estimate a letter protesting against the taking over of the tuberculosis hospital at Sea View, Staten Island, as a hospital for the treatment of drug addicts. The committee expressed sympathy with Dr. Copeland's work in caring for the victims of habit forming drugs, but based its protest on the ground that the new use of the Staten Island hospital will deprive tuberculosis patients of "the unusual and superior advantages of Sea View."

The committee pointed out that drug addiction as a cause of illness and a menace to society and family life was insignificant as compared with the scourge of tuberculosis. With the letters were inclosed copies of a resolution of protest adopted by the committee.

LIBERAL PARTY TO ENLARGE

Committee of Forty-eight Postpones Date of National Conference.

The Committee of Forty-eight, formed as a preliminary in the organization of a new Liberal party "to avert on one hand the extremes of radicalism and on the other the extremes of reaction," made it known yesterday that the proposed national conference of liberals, which was to have been held in St. Louis in October, had been postponed to some date in December.

J. A. H. Hopkins, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Committee of Forty-eight, said yesterday at the headquarters of that body, 15 East Fortieth Street, that the postponement was due to the fact that especially during the last month there had been such a rush to join the movement that it was regarded wise to wait in order to make the national conference more broadly representative. The Committee of Forty-eight, according to Mr. Hopkins, has an organization in every State.

SEAPLANE DELIVERS MAIL TO SHIP IN BAY

2,020 PASSENGERS SEE FEAT

Gen. Pershing's Brother Sails for Europe—Major Ian Hay Beith Returns to England.

Ocean travellers on the Adriatic, the sailing of which yesterday marked the reopening of the White Star Line's service to Cherbourg and Southampton, witnessed the successful attempt of the Post Office Department to use aircraft for the first time in delivering European mail to a steamer. Congratulatory messages were sent by passengers to Postmaster Thomas G. Patten and officials of the Aeromarine Plane and Motor Corporation, who were responsible for the demonstration.

The hydroaeroplane, piloted by C. J. Zimmerman with Richard Geisinger as mechanic, left the surface of the Hudson off Eighty-sixth Street at 1:30 P. M., an hour and a half after the Adriatic had sailed. Before the mail pouch was placed on board the plane Zimmerman, the pilot, was sworn in by Daniel E. Jordan, Assistant Superintendent of Mail, as an employe of the Post Office Department.

Overtaking the Adriatic at Ambrose Channel the plane flew for a distance ahead of the steamer and then, turning around, flew directly toward her. As the plane passed over the Adriatic at a height of about 50 feet above masthead, a specially devised weighted cable with shock absorbers was released, catching and wrapping itself around a cable which ran from the masthead to the deck. The mail pouch, which was contained in a pocket constructed of laminated wood on the forward right fuselage, was pulled out when the cable contracted, dropping into the water. The pouch, also specially constructed to insure its being waterproof, was then hauled on board.

The achievement was witnessed by Postmaster Patten, Inglis M. Uppercu, President of the Aeromarine Plane and Motor Corporation, and a party of guests who went down the bay on the yacht Lounger. The passengers on the steamer cheered as the seaplane glided away.

The Adriatic sailed with a full complement of passengers, having 390 first-class, 495 second-class, and 1,235 steerage passengers on board. Most of the steerage travelers are bound for Mediterranean ports.

Pershing's Brother Going to Europe.

Among those who sailed was J. F. Pershing of Chicago, a brother of General Pershing. Mr. Pershing, who is a clothing manufacturer, said that he was making a business trip to France and England. He expected to meet his brother, and said he would probably return with him.

Colonel Antoine de Page, who said he was surgeon to King Albert of Belgium, sailed to resume his work at the Ocean Hospital in Brussels. Accompanied by Captain Dandeveld, his aide, the surgeon came here to attend the medical congress at Atlantic City in July, but decided to delay his return until he had toured a bit about the country.

Major Ian Hay Beith, the writer, was also a passenger. He said he had delivered about 450 lectures in the United States and Canada, and was going home to learn his military status. Speaking of the actors' strike in this city, Major Hay advanced the opinion that if the actors were paid for all rehearsals the managers would likely accept fewer plays on speculation.

"Many a play has ended a night or so after its première," Major Hay said. "Now, if the managers had to pay for the service of the actors, they would exercise great care in selecting plays for production."

Commander Carlo Garbosse, until recently Italian Minister to China, sailed on his way home to accept the portfolio of Under Secretary offered to him by Tittoni, the new Italian Premier. He said he had been at Peking only three months when Tittoni sent for him.

Others who sailed on the Adriatic were the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's Church; Isaac F. Marcosson, a writer; E. J. Whelan, President of the United Retail Stores Company, and F. H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company.

GIVE RADIO NEWS OF FLIERS

The American Flying Club has inaugurated a radio information service with a view of keeping the general public and newspapers in touch with aerial activities, according to an announcement made yesterday by the club. A set of wireless instruments, in charge of William R. Russell, a former airplane radio operator, have been installed in the clubhouse at 11 East Thirty-eighth Street, and with its automatic recorder has been picking up wireless flashes from transatlantic vessels.

In addition to the plant at the clubhouse the club is taking steps, according to the announcement, to establish a chain of radio stations across the country.

"We have arranged to furnish individuals and newspapers in the various cities with all information of aeronautical activities," an officer of the club said yesterday. "Each city will have a radio station assigned to it to give immediate reports of aviation events on schedules of every half hour. In this way we hope to stimulate public interest in the development of aviation in this country."

A complete set of cross-country flying maps is kept in the radio room of the club for the purpose of directing fliers who have lost their way while in flight. Communication will be kept with the path-finding planes, which expect to leave Mineola today, and special bulletins of the progress of the trip will be issued from the club.

5 HELD AS COUNTERFEITERS

Federal Agents Arrest Men Accused of Raising Bills.

Federal Secret Service agents yesterday made five arrests in this city and Hackensack, N. J., of alleged counterfeiters, who are accused of changing $1 and $2 bills to $10 and $20. The prisoners were taken to the Tombs for the night, and will be questioned today. Agents of the Department of Justice refused to discuss the case at this time. Two other men and a woman were arrested Wednesday night in the same case.

The names of the defendants are William Quirk, of 108 Bradford Avenue; John Morgan, of 445 West Sixty-third Street; William Tierney, of 2,707 Eighth Avenue; William Giddes, of 283 West 132d Street; Martin Lavan, of 2,180 Eighth Avenue; William Snyder, of 306 West 138th Street, and John O'Reilley, of 504 West 134th Street. The two last named were arrested in Hackensack.

It was said that the alleged counterfeiters had no headquarters, but carried on their work wherever they happened to be. The method adopted, it was said, was to tear off the upper corner of the bill and paste in one of the zeros cut out of a genuine $10 bill.

Education Notes.

The Manufacturers' Association, the Jewelers' Board of Trade and similar trades have offered equipment to the public trade schools to increase the efficiency of employes.

The plan of having male students attend the Summer session at Hunter College, has proved a success.

An exhibition of the work of the sewing and dressmaking class is being held at Vacation School 83, Newkirk Avenue and East 31st Street, Brooklyn.

City Superintendent Ettinger has suggested that in the $21,000 survey, which the Board of Education will make of its bureaus and departments, all matters be discussed in open meeting rather than in private session; that all plans and reports be submitted in writing for inclusion in the printed minutes of the board; that ample opportunity be had for full discussion of them by all members of the Board and the City Superintendent; that the personnel of the investigators be submitted for members of the board to pass upon; that no person who has been or will likely be a candidate for any situation in the school system, be employed as an investigator, and that the City Superintendent be acquainted at all times with the progress of this investigation.

FREES WOMAN HELD IN INSANE ASYLUM

LATTER NOW IN JAPAN

Papers Charge Man Confined Wife "to Relieve Himself of Her Presence."

After hearing Mrs. Dagmar da Cruz, a Russian woman, tell of her escape from the Bolsheviki, and of her marriage in Yokohama, Japan, which terminated in her commitment to an insane asylum at the instance of her husband, Justice Isaac M. Kapper, in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, yesterday ordered her release from Dr. Combe's sanitarium at Corona, L. I., to which she was sent on April 5.

Mrs. da Cruz, who is about 30 years old, was brought to court in answer to a writ of habeas corpus sued out by her lawyer, Ralph W. Wolf. He told the court that the commitment of his client as an insane person was made by her husband, T. M. G. da Cruz, a dealer in silks, "for the purpose of relieving himself of her presence," and that since the commitment he had returned to Japan, where he is in business.

In his papers Mr. Wolf stated that da Cruz knew that his wife was of Russian birth and "had inherited the characteristic highly strung nervous system, extreme emotion and temperament of the Russian people," and that she had been in this country only two months, and consequently expressed herself in the English language with difficulty and in a peculiar manner. Relying on these facts, the petition stated, da Cruz accused her of being insane. The commitment papers were certified to by Dr. William Steinach and Dr. Charles G. Brink, both of Bellevue Hospital. Justice Cohalan, in the Supreme Court, signed the order of commitment.

When placed upon the stand Mrs. da Cruz, in answer to questions by her lawyer and Justice Kapper, said that she fled from Russia to escape the Bolsheviki and went by way of Siberia to Japan. In Yokohama she met de Cruz, who, she asserted, is either Spanish or Portuguese, and, after a brief courtship, was married. The ceremony was performed by the Brazilian Consul. Disagreements followed soon after the wedding, according to the witness.

Later both husband and wife came to this country and lived at a hotel here. On March 29, Mrs. da Cruz testified, her husband gave her some wine to drink. She became nervous and excited. Suddenly two men in uniform and a nurse entered her room. They told her that they were going to take her to Bellevue Hospital. Later she was removed to the asylum. She declared that she was not insane and had never been insane at any time.

The original commitment papers show that da Cruz stated that his wife was mentally upset for a year, that she sent a telegram to him telling of her death, that she assaulted him, and that she lost consciousness in her spells of insanity. He also stated that he took a loaded revolver from her.

Both Dr. Steinach and Dr. Brink testified at the hearing yesterday that they had examined Mrs. da Cruz before her commitment and found her in such a mental state that she might have killed her husband or committed suicide. They stated that Mrs. da Cruz admitted having a revolver.

Justice Kapper stated that from the testimony taken before him he was not satisfied that Mrs. da Cruz's condition warranted the belief that she was suffering from suicidal or homicidal tendencies at the time of her incarceration, and discharged her. Mrs. da Cruz thanked the court for its action, and said that she was going to the home of friends in Manhattan.

I.R.T. BROTHERHOOD THREATENS TIEUP

ANGRY AT MAYOR HYLAN

Say City's Executive Insulted Them When They Asked for More Pay.

WILL FIGHT AMALGAMATED

Won't Deal with Union Which Wins "Recognition" in Brooklyn—I. W. W. Tries to Take a Hand.

A complete tieup of the subway and elevated lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in the near future, unless a substantial increase of pay is granted in addition to the 10 per cent. increase announced Wednesday, was threatened yesterday by officials of the Interborough Brotherhood.

At the same time the Brotherhood leaders denied that more than a handful of Interborough employes had joined the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes, who yesterday gained "recognition" from the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company by convincing Federal Judge Mayer that more than 50 per cent. of the B. R. T. employes belonged to that union.

It was further revealed that the I. W. W. in the last few days had attempted to take a hand in the troubled traction situation in Manhattan.

While a three-cornered labor fight appeared probable, in which the Interborough and New York Railways Brotherhood, the Amalgamated Association and the I. W. W. would take part, it seemed certain that demands largely in excess of those made by B. R. T. employes would be presented in the near future to the Interborough and New York Railways Company. P. J. Connolly, acting President of the Interborough Brotherhood, said the wages demanded for motormen would be virtually $1 an hour, with corresponding advances all along the line.

Threatens Complete Tieup.

"The motormen and conductors and some other departments are 100 per cent. organized," said M. J. Mangan, Secretary of the Interborough Brotherhood. "Other departments are organized over 90 per cent. If we go out we will show you a real strike. We will make 'Red Mike' walk across the Brooklyn Bridge and will stop every wheel in Manhattan. This is something the Amalgamated failed to do in 1916."

A new type of strike was threatened, it was learned, by President Fazackerly of the New York Railways Brotherhood. In a letter to Mayor Hylan he threatened that every man in his organization would quit work if the police afforded no better protection to traction employes in Manhattan than they did when the Amalgamated Association brought about the strike in Brooklyn. This was one of the letters which Mayor Hylan asked District Attorney Swann on Wednesday to investigate for evidence of a conspiracy to force a fare increase in this city.

Leaders of the Interborough Brotherhood were angry with Mayor Hylan and the city administration. They charged that politics had interfered with an increase in fare, which would make possible an increase in wages without a strike. They also were angry with the Mayor because an alleged insult which they say they received at his hands still rankles.

At the Brotherhood headquarters, 156 East Forty-second Street, the leaders produced their minute-book and turned to a well-thumbed page, where they read:

Say Mayor Insulted Them.

May 24, 1918. The whole General Committee called upon Mayor Hylan in regard to an increase. After waiting for four hours outside, we were called into his office, and stated what our mission was, and he deliberately turned his back on us and walked out of the room.

"We are not prevented from striking by our contract with the company," said Secretary Mangan. "The election of sixty-two delegates occurs tomorrow, and Tuesday they will elect officers and formulate demands, which are under consideration. The 10 per cent. increase we received has satisfied no one. We will make new demands, probably for an increase of about 50 per cent. If we don't get what we want we will apply again to the city. If we don't get it then we will take drastic action.

"We explained the situation thoroughly to General Manager Hedley. He told us the company could not do what we wanted and that an increase of more than 10 per cent. would break it. We said we must have the 10 per cent. at once, but that it must be understood this was only temporary.

"It may be true that the company hasn't the money in the treasury. That is not our concern. We don't care about the bondholders. Mr. Hedley said the 10 per cent. increase could be provided only by Interborough security holders foregoing their income from them.

"If we get this answer again we will present our demands to the city officials. If that doesn't succeed all Manhattan will walk.

Defies Amalgamated Association.

"The Amalgamated Association does not count in Manhattan. Their leaders say the traction employes are 75 per cent. organized. The truth is that they have not seventy-five men organized. The men won't join them because our organization has done more for them than the Amalgamated ever did for anybody.

"All the Amalgamated did in Brooklyn was to get an agreement to arbitrate. We have always had such an agreement. We have had question after question arbitrated. The best the Amalgamated could do by its strike in Boston was to get 62 cents an hour. Before the recent increase our motormen received 62½ cents an hour and a basic eight-hour day. Under the increase all motormen with three years' service or more will receive 69 cents an hour.

"We have the Amalgamated beaten every way. We have already got more than they are demanding without a strike. We are protecting the city's interest as well as our own."

Acting President Connolly of the Interborough Brotherhood issued the following statement, which was approved by the representatives of the different branches of employes:

"I want to say that the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes is a self-formed organization, consisting of 90 per cent. of the employes of all departments and 100 per cent. of some of the departments. We are prepared to prove this to the satisfaction of all concerned.

"For more than three years we have been conducting our affairs to the satisfaction of our members. In no circumstances have we failed to adjust our grievances satisfactorily. Even in cases of discipline and efficiency our representatives have always received a hearing in defense of our members. Our organization is carried on at no expense to the members. The company supplies us with stationery, meeting rooms, and other incidentals. We have never had any difficulty in laying our grievances before Mr. Hedley or Mr. Shonts.

Warns "Outsiders."

"We are not affiliated with any outside organization. We have from time to time increased our wages and shortened our hours and regulated other working conditions. The fundamental principle of this organization is to promote the interest of the company and to continue rendering to the public, whom we serve, rapid transit service second to none in the world.

"To carry out these principles we must guard ourselves against affiliation with outside labor organizations, such as the Amalgamated, whose fundamental principle seems to me to be to get money without working for it.

"During the 1916 strike in New York City the Amalgamated proved this. They placed themselves on house tops to throw bricks, bottles, and other missiles at passing cars and trains, regardless of the lives of passengers and crews. They have gone as far as setting off dynamite in the subway at 110th Street and Lenox Avenue which resulted in more than 1,600 arrests. Some of these prisoners are serving long terms in Sing Sing Prison.

"If the Amalgamated comes to the city to commit atrocities we will have to take the situation in our hands and give these rowdies all the action they are looking for, and the traveling public will be the sufferers in the end of the day."

The activities of the I. W. W. were reported at a meeting at the Interborough Brotherhood offices by James V. La Salle and Edward E. Banks, officials of Train Equipment Local No. 2. They said they were approached on Wednesday night by I. W. W. organizers, who have been trying to win over employes of the Manhattan transit lines.

Tell of I. W. W. Activities.

La Salle and Banks said the I. W. W. men had urged them to join the I. W. W. and to persuade members of their local to go with them. La Salle said he was urged to go to offices in this city in East Tenth Street, where it was insinuated he would receive a bribe if he threw in his lot with the I. W. W.

The first real test of strength between the Interborough and New York Railways Brotherhoods will come tonight, when the Amalgamated will attempt to organize traction employes at a meeting at Lyceum Hall, Eighty-sixth Street and Third Avenue.

The Interborough Brotherhood has demanded the dismissal of any employe who advocates joining the Amalgamated Association. In a circular sent to members of the Interborough Brotherhood, Mr. Connolly said:

"It seems to us that the City Administration is more interested in the Amalgamated Association than in giving the transit workers of the city a living wage. We are perfectly capable of conducting our own business and we will not permit the Amalgamated or any other outside organization to interfere with our legal rights; nor will we permit the management of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to deal with any other organization than the Brotherhood of Interborough Rapid Transit Employes.

"We also demanded of the General Manager that he dismiss any employe found active in organizing our men into the Amalgamated Association or any other outside labor organization.

"The Brotherhood, therefore, requests all members to hold themselves ready to respond, upon short notice, to an order to take such action as is considered necessary to enforce justice."

Judge Mayer, in his letter to Frederick P. Royce, general manager for Receiver Garrison of the B. R. T., who is out of town, said:

"In accordance with Paragraph 1 of the strike settlement agreement, Aug. 9, 1919, I beg to inform you that it has been established to the satisfaction of Public Service Commissioner Nixon and myself that, at midnight, Aug. 8, 1919, employes of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system eligible to membership in the Amalgamated Association were enrolled members of such Association to the extent of over fifty per cent. of such employes so eligible."

Flies 30,000 Feet Up With One Passenger

PARIS, Aug. 13.—A new world's altitude record of 30,000 feet is said to have been established for an airplane with passenger today by Lieutenant Weiss, the pilot, and Mechanician Begue, according to the newspaper Auto. The flight, which took fifty-two minutes, was made at Villacoublay, near here. The aviators' instruments showed that they experienced a temperature of more than 25 degrees Fahrenheit below zero. The official figures on the ascent will be made public later.

HARBORD'S STAFF NAMED.

Army Officers and Civilians Who Will Study Armenian Situation.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The American mission, headed by Major Gen. James G. Harbord, which is to investigate conditions in Armeania and Transcaucasia, will include the following:

Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, Director General of Transportation of the American Expeditionary Forces, who will be General Harbord's Chief of Staff; Brig. Gen. George V. H. Moseley, Assistant Chief of Staff at American Great Headquarters; Lieut. Col. Edward Bowditch, who served in the Philippines for fifteen years; Lieut. Col. John Price Jackson, former Labor Commissioner of Pennsylvania; Lieut. Col. Jasper Brinton of Philadelphia, William Poland, head of the American Relief in Belgium; Arthur Young of the War Trade Board, Commander Wallace Bertholf, Lieut. Commander Hamilton V. Bryan, Major Lawrence Martin of the University of Wisconsin, Major H. W. Clark, Captain D. Loring, Captain H. Hill, and Lieutenant Jackadorian.

The Peace Conference is awaiting anxiously the decision of Great Britain as to the withdrawal of British troops from the Caucasus which, it is expected, will begin to move homeward tomorrow.

Colonel William Haskell, U. S. A., Allied High Commissioner in Armenia, has telegraphed the Supreme Council that Armenia undoubtedly will starve and the people be exterminated if the British soldiers are not detained there until others are sent. The Supreme Council, however, is unable to provide troops. None of the large Powers is willing to send soldiers there and, consequently, no action has been taken.

The relief supplies gathered at Tiflis, Batum, and Erivan probably will be lost if the British withdraw and the investigation to be made by Major Gen. James G. Harbord on behalf of the American Government will be of little use.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, Commander of the United States Naval Forces in Turkey, it was learned today, has been designated as the American member of the Inter-Allied Commission appointed to investigate incidents connected with the occupation of Smyrna by Greek and other allied forces. Representatives of the other great Powers are Brig. Gen. Hare for Great Britain, General Punoust for France and General Alfredo Dallolio for Italy.

LONDON NOT ANXIOUS ABOUT KOLCHAK

American Fears That Admiral's Force Is Near Collapse Cause Surprise.

DOUBT HE IS IN PERIL

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—American fears that Admiral Kolchak's force is on the eve of collapse have been heard with surprise in well-informed circles here.

A British military mission under General Knox is with the Siberian leader and can communicate freely with London, telegrams taking from a week to ten days to get through. Nothing has been heard from him to suggest that Kolchak's position is desperate.

Of course, it is known that he has had great difficulties ever since his advance in the Spring, with which General Ironside in the Archangel region was to have co-operated, was turned into a retreat that, according to British calculatons has been for 350 miles, and it is presumed that the 170 miles retirement mentioned in the New York dispatches must refer to part of this withdrawal. No information of such a new retreat has been received here.

In his retirement Kolchak must have lost undoubtedly considerable quantities of equipment, but he is drawing supplies from the Entente, and the suggestion that he could be so short of arms or ammunition as to be in danger of seeing his army disintegrate is not received as probable. Indeed such a statement, it is considered, seems to be inspired by deliberate misrepresentations in Bolshevist wireless reports.

On the other hand, the news that Denikin's advanced cavalry has effected a junction with Kolchak's Ural Cossacks eighty-five miles southeast of Manaishiv is thought to be very promising, even though it would be quite possible for Kolchak's left wing to hold while his front further north was going back.

TOKIO, Aug. 12, (Associated Press.)—It has been learned that the Japanese Government, after mature deliberation both by the Cabinet and the Diplomatic Advisory Council, has informed the Government of Admiral Kolchak that Japan is unable to accede to its request to send several divisions of troops to assist Kolchak in the war against the Bolsheviki.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—No additional information as to conditions in Western Siberia was received today by the Government. Despite the unfavorable news that has come from Omsk recently there are many army officers who do not consider the situation in Siberia as bad as it has been painted in the last few days. These officers point out that equipment should now be reaching Kolchak, and with the Siberian Winter coming on fast the Bolsheviki may find themselves in a less favorable situation than is now the case, due to the lengthening of their lines of communication and also to internal troubles in European Russia.

In this latter connection the State Department received advices from Scandinavian press sources today that conditions in Bolshevist Russia are very unsettled, while there is underway a great exodus from Moscow, the Bolshevist capital.

No confirmation has reached Washington of the report that Admiral Kolchak is to evacuate Omsk and move his capital further east to the City of Irkutsk. Boris Bakhmeteff, the Russian Ambassador, had up to a few hours ago received no message of any kind which indicated that the early evacuation of Omsk was being considered. He has had several messages this week from Omsk and in none of them is the surrender of the city to the Bolsheviki even suggested.

This Government fears, it was learned today, that there is a "certain danger" that Lieut. Gen. Denikin, Commander in Chief of the Don Cossacks, may "go too far" in his drive against the Bolsheviki in Southern Russia, and may, as a very likely consequence, suffer serious reverses, such as have lately been experienced by Admiral Kolchak's army.

It was said today that the Kolchak forces had been sent too far last Winter in their drive toward Moscow, considering their attentuated line of communication and the fact that they did not possess sufficient equipment.

KOLCHAK RETREATS FURTHER IN SIBERIA

Bolsheviki Seek to Separate His Army from Cossacks—Denikin Army Near Odessa.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The retreat in the Ural Mountains of the forces of Admiral Kolchak continues, according to news received here today. South of Uralsk, at the southern end of the Urals, it is added, the Bolsheviki have driven the Cossacks back sixty miles and are endeavoring to separate them from the main body of the Kolchak forces, who are fighting on both sides of the Trans-Siberian Railway.

East of Cheliabinsk, a junction point on the railway, and Shadrinsk, the Bolsheviki are said to have reached the line of the Miass and Isset Rivers and captured Tiumen, just east of the Russia-Siberia border. The advices add that there is no sign that the Bolshevist advance is likely to be checked.

The Associated Press is informed, however, that the general position of Admiral Kolchak and his Government is not believed to have been made materially worse by the Bolshevist advance and, barring the unexpected collapse of Admiral Kolchak, the munitions America is sending should arrive in Siberia in time to aid in his recovery.

Nevertheless, it is admitted here that the reverses suffered by Admiral Kolchak are a serious blow to the policy of the Entente in Russia.

Better news has been received from South Russia, where General Petlura, the Ukrainian anti-Bolshevist leader, is progressing rapidly toward Kiev with a view to cutting the railways southward toward Odessa, which probably will have to be evacuated by the Soviet forces. The Russian volunteer troops under General Denikin are closing in on Odessa from the northeast and the east, and it is believed that the whole Black Sea coast will soon be out of Bolshevist hands.

British expenditures for naval and military operations in Russia from the date of the armistice until the end of July amounted to $350,000,000, according to an official "White Paper" issued here today. These expenditures included assistance given to Admiral Kolchak and General Denikin.

Soviet Election in Petrograd.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 14.—A Bolshevist press dispatch received from Petrograd today gives the results of the last Soviet elections in Petrograd. Of the 1,275 Deputies elected 896 were Communists. The dispatch adds that only about half the population voted, and a majority of these were employed by the Soviet. The remaining half was eliminated from the voters' list on the ground that they were bourgeois or counterrevolutionaries.

Project for Airship Service From London to Mid-Continent

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 13.—Plans for the new era in the aviation world, so long prophesied by the linking up of the whole of Europe by a network of services, are beginning to take concrete form.

Holland, it would seem, is about to become the connecting link between the Allied and Central European countries. The first aviation exhibit in Amsterdam has certainly helped the plans to take definite shape.

Vickers, Ltd., has just announced a combination of passenger and mail services which will help form the links of an aerial chain from England and France through Central Europe. The first service will be between London and Flushing by means of a Vickers flying boat. From Flushing, and in connection with the London service, there will be services all over Holland by Vickers-Vimy commercial airplanes to Rotterdam, The Hague, Maastricht, Amsterdam and Northern Holland. There will also be a circuit from London to Paris, Brussels and The Hague.

Another service in the preliminary stages will be started via Arnheim, Germany, to Central Europe, probably connecting with Berlin. There is a possibility that this service will connect with a Zeppelin service beginning at the end of August from Berlin to Friedrichshafen, connecting with Swiss steamboats on Lake Constance and landing at Munich on the way. For this a new type of commercial airship built since the war will be used.

The capital for the network of aviation services will be $5,000,000, partly Vickers's capital and partly taken in Holland. There is little Dutch competition, as the Dutch have practically no airship factories. They had no material for this purpose during the war and even most of the machines for the Dutch Army came from Germany, the parts being put together here.

Complete organization of the new plans is expected to be ready at the beginning of 1920. Handley-Page, Limited, has announced regular service between Amsterdam and London, beginning next week.

The Vickers manager in Holland expressed great surprise that America was not represented at the Amsterdam exhibition.

ARMY CLOSES SALE OF FOOD ABROAD

Ends Distribution Which Gave Rhineland 100,000,000 Marks' Worth of Supplies at Cost.

OTHER STORES TO BELGIUM

German and English Syndicates Offering a Good Price for Property of the Third Army.

COBLENZ, Aug. 10.—With the sale of 2,000,000 pounds of flour to the Germans today the American Army ends its supply of food to the civilian population of the Rhineland. Whatever allied food hereafter is furnished to Germany's occupied areas will be distributed from the Hoover stocks through the Interallied Rhineland Commission. Up to the present a very small quantity of Hoover food has reached the Rhine territory.

Begun nearly four months ago, the army distribution of food to civilians was started at time when the food crisis was acute in American occupied territory. It has placed the Germans in a position where they have all the food they need and it has preserved the industrial order and prosperity in the area under the authority of the Stars and Stripes. This food, involving supplies, valued at about 100,000,000 marks, has been sold to the Germans at a price representing approximately the cost of plies. The food was taken from the surplus stocks stored in France in the expectation of having to feed an army of 4,000,000 men this year.

Some of the items supplied are flour, 25,000,000 pounds; bacon, 3,000,000 pounds; coffee, 1,000,000 pounds; rice, 1,700,000 pounds; milk, 2,000,000 pounds in cans.

This food was turned over to the German Co-operative Organization which is nonprofit making and known as Lebensmitteleinfuhr Gesellschaft. This organization in turn has distributed supplies to German dealers with whom the members of the civilian population were registered so that the supplies could be correctly proportioned.

The army undertook to supply the goods in April when due to long delay of financial arrangements the Hoover food was held up.

Later the Hoover food began to arrive in this district, but was discontinued early in June, at the request of the German authorities, who found the army goods cheaper and of better quality. This source of supply probably will be now reopened. Of the total Hoover food supplied for Germany the Rhineland has a claim to 13 per cent. on a population basis.

The United States Liquidation Commission here announces the sale to the Belgian Government for $11,000,000 of the supply of food at Antwerp and Rotterdam. The Belgian Government also contemplates the purchase of clothing and other American supplies stored at Antwerp.

It appears the War Department is due to get a good price for the property of the Third Army in Germany. Germans and English are bidding for it. A German syndicate is trying to get 14,000 American automobiles for sale on the Rhine, as well as other property valued at $200,000,000.

Many offers for parts of this property have come in, but the Americans wish to sell it in one big lot. Junius R. Adams of the Liquidation Commission is in Berlin today to meet the German syndicate Directors, who if they buy the property must pay in dollars or pounds. Considerable material has been sold to German dealers at Coblenz, but this has been salvaged property.

An association of London bankers is also trying to get the Third Army property, from medical supplies to motor trucks. Unless the German offer is better than the English offer, the sale probably will be made to the London syndicate. However, it is understood that the Germans have offered prices relatively much better than those obtained from the sale of A. E. F. property in France.

BEG BRITISH TO STAY.

Armenians Here Send an Appeal Through Lord Bryce.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The Armenian National Union of America has appealed both to President Wilson and to the State Department, urging the necessity of bringing influence to bear on the British Government not to withdraw its troops from the territory of the Armenian Republic. Otherwise, the appeals declare, the remnants of the Armenian race will be exposed to attacks from Tartars and Turks.

The following appeal was cabled today to Lord James Bryce, former British Ambassador to the United States:

"The reported decision of the British Government to withdraw its troops from Transcaucasian Armenia is creating profound consternation. We cannot account for this impending action on the part of a protectress of Armenia, the result of which will be conducive to the extermination of surviving Armenians. We appeal to you to raise your influential voice against such a disastrous step."

The cablegram was signed by Miran Sevasly, Chairman, and Michael Hovanessian, Secretary, of the Armenian National Union.

BRITISH LOOK TO US TO GUARD ARMENIA

Feel Obliged to Withdraw Their Troops, but Fear Slaughter of the People.

UNCERTAINTY ON MANDATES

Question Whether America Proposes to Act in Turkey Is Holding Up a Settlement.

By WALTER DURANTY.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Is God's mercy blind toward Armenia? During the war nearly half of the Christian population has been slaughtered with horrors unbelievable and now again the storm of massacre and rapine is about to break upon the million and a half survivors. Reports reaching Paris from the American Commissioner, Colonel Haskell and from all other sources agree that if the British divisions are withdrawn from Caucasia without replacement by other forces no earthly power can save the Armenian people from the final holocaust.

These two divisions numbering some twenty thousand men, strung out along the railroad from Batum to Baku, are scheduled to begin evacuation on Aug. 15 and there seems to be nothing to take their place in restraining the Kurds or the Georgian bands of brigand tribesmen or the pirate crew of the Turkish outlaw, Mustapha Kemel, from swooping down upon the Christians.

The English authorities here make no attempt to disguise the terrible facts, but declare it is impossible to postpone the withdrawal any longer. Said a prominent official:

"I need not emphasize to you as an American the desire of our people to get the boys home and carry out demobilization. Your own country shared that sentiment most deeply. Remember, too, that these divisions have been away three or four years and undergone the crude hardships of an Eastern campaign, yet they are willing to stay to protect the Armenians. The staffs on the spot have reported strongly against evacuation and it is no breach of confidence to tell you that the British representatives in Paris have supported the same view. But the pressure at home is too great. England still has very considerable forces abroad and the country is insisting that they be reduced and reduced quickly. If the Government ignored that demand it would fall before Christmas. That is the long and short of the situation."

The speaker emphasized the fact that the Supreme Council had full warning of the British withdrawal which it was announced last March would take place in June.

Who Will Replace British?

There was talk for a time of replacement by Italians. When this fell through the British agreed to wait two months longer, but insisted the delay be not prolonged beyond mid-August.

The true source of the whole difficulty is the uncertainty over America's intentions regarding Turkish mandates. For months the conference has shelved the Turkish question in the hope that America would make up its mind to accept the mandates for Constantinople and Armenia. Italy and Greece have been left to squabble—it is no credit to the conference that they have patched up their differences—and the French and British to watch each other like dogs over a bone.

Meanwhile events have been moving pitilessly. Mustapha Kemel has gathered around him all the ragtag and bobtail of the infamous Committee of Union and Progress and frankly defies the Allies and the Government of Constantinople alike.

Suppose the British take chances over public opinion and postpone the withdrawal still further. What then? Is there any guarantee that the respite will be put to good advantage? For there is no argument to which Mustapha or the Kurdish bandits will listen save that of force. They care as little for Turkish remonstrances—which may be forthcoming under pressure from Paris—as for Christian forbearance. They are just wolves itching to raven among Armenian sheep.

Depending on America.

What is the solution of the problem? In the words of the same British official: "Everything depends upon America. To face the facts plainly, America is the only great Christian power that is solvent today. America won the war for us"—he said that straight and without reservation—"and in winning it she assumed her share of world responsibilities. She cannot shirk them now. America alone has the power and the men and the money to save the wreck of the Turkish Empire from misery and bloodshed. It does no good to blame England, as I heard Americans here do, for wanting to withdraw her troops from the Caucasus. We have no choice in the matter. Our burden of responsibility is more than heavy enough already. We English are accused of land grabbing, but let me remind you that this Batum-Baku Railroad is the key to the immense riches of the Caspian oil field. If our motives were purely selfish surely we would hold it like grim death.

"Already America has done much for the Christian inhabitants of Turkey. Your missions and schools have accomplished much and been generously supported by your people at home. In recent months the American Food Commission has fed thousands of sufferers in Northeastern Armenia. That food is carried along the Batum Railroad, and the work must be protected—to say nothing of the lives of the workers. Won't America give this protection?"

COAL LACK CRIPPLES TRADE

Fear That the Harvest Cannot Be Moved Properly—Foreign Mine Labor Proposed.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Railways and coal are greatly occupying the industrial mind of Germany at this moment. The conditions in both these essential industries are so bad that no wonder business men and Government officials express grave concern as to the future.

These industries have a vital bearing not only upon the industrial recovery and the food supply of Germany, but also upon the political situation, for, as an official expressed it to me today, "When a man is hungry he is dissatisfied, but when he is both hungry and frozen he is very dissatisfied and easy prey for political agitators."

The German Government, therefore, is straining all its powers to overcome the tremendous difficulties, but there are few who express the hope that Germany can look forward to any great amelioration for a long time. How serious the situation is can be gathered from the following details from a speech delivered by Prussian Minister of Public Works Oeser and inquiries at the Ministry of Railways.

In the last financial year there was a working loss on the Prussian railways of 2,403,000,000 marks, while at present the railways have a daily deficit of 10,000,000 marks, passenger traffic has shrunk to 15 per cent. of the peace time traffic, and express trains to 4 per cent. of the pre-war number, while the increased service provided during the Summer months represents only 42 per cent. of the service run prior to the war.

Lack Trains to Carry Trade.

Even this meagre service cannot be maintained. Already ten fast trains have bene cut out, and there are to be considerable further reductions this month.

Germany has, of course, a comparatively small volume of goods at present requiring transportation, but the railways cannot cope with even this small quantity, especially as preference is being given to coal haulage. Naturally great attention is being given to the question of transporting the harvest, and considerable anxiety is expressed on this score.

The incapacity of the railways to produce satisfactory results or to cope with large traffic is at once explained when one considers the condition of the rolling stock, its repair and replacement, and the coal situation. Before the war Germany had about 22,000 locomotives. Now she has 23,500, even after the deliveries under the Peace Treaty have been made to France.

This numerical gain is quite illusory as regards the real locomotive power, for many of these engines were built during the war of ersatz metals and have been run with ersatz fuel to their great detriment. Indeed, so much have engines deteriorated that last July 40 per cent. of them were in the repair shops, which as a rule are quite unable to handle the volume of work required.

Orders have recently been given by the Ministry of Railways amounting to 2,000,000,000 marks, most of which is for rolling stock. Deliveries are falling far behind the scheduled time. Thus at a date when 400 locomotives were to have been delivered by the shops, 270 were still unfinished, while 14,411 cars are overdue now. Even when locomotives are available their running records are reduced because of the introduction of the eight-hour day, so that the daily run of an engine now is 153 kilometers against a previous run of 200. The quality of the oil available interrupts the running, trains having frequently to be stopped because of the overheating of axles.

Coal Output Heavily Cut.

Of course everything hedges around coal. Its production in Germany used to be about 190,000,000 tons annually. Now it is 70,000,000, of which 40,000,000 tons must be delivered to the Allies. Nor is this diminution to be attributed to decreased output per man, for the output is about the same as before, but, according to Minister Oser, to the fact that the work day is shorter and since the armistice 17,000 miners have left the mining districts. Recent computation was made to the effect that in the Ruhr district alone 15,000 extra miners would have to be employed in order to compensate for the loss of time, and this is impossible.

The effects of the coal shortage are experienced at once, of course, in railway works, and largely explain the delay in the execution of the railway orders. Its effects on the service are such that, whereas, in peace time the railways used to carry stock for ninety days of full service, although stock for twenty days was really enough, nowadays stocks have been reduced to a quantity sufficient for only ten days running on a reduced service, and in Berlin itself for only two days.

No wonder, then, conferences are being held with the miners and mine owners to consider ways and means for increasing the output sufficiently to cover the quantity to be delivered to the Allies under the treaty and to provide Germany herself with means of subsistence. Many schemes are being proposed for saving space by giving preference to coal on railways, for utilizing water transport more fully, and for introducing a system of rationing; but when all is said and done the fact remains that sheer, honest work and not manipulation is what will save Germany from the threatening dangers. One can therefore understand the Vossische Zeitung when it says that if the German workmen will not work the mines fully the Entente will be justified in insisting on Germany using outside labor from Poland and elsewhere.

EDINBURGH, Aug. 13.—Ballantyne, the stowaway on the R-34 on the voyage to America, on his return to Scotland has been terribly punished by the British Navy.

He was not court-martialed, but, placed before the officers, he was lectured on the danger he had incurred and informed he would not again be permitted to act as one of the dirigible's crew. He said he would have preferred a year in solitary confinement.

LORD GREY MAY COME EARLY NEXT MONTH

Large Staff Will Accompany the New British Ambassador to Washington.

FAVORABLE PRESS COMMENT

But Telegraph Notes His Position on Present League Covenant Has Not Been Defined.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Viscount Grey, former Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, will leave for the United States to assume his post as temporary Ambassador probably early in September. He will be accompanied by Sir William G. Tyrrell.

A large staff also will go with the Ambassador to take routine affairs out of his hands, thus permitting Lord Grey to devote his time to larger questions.

Viscount Grey, whose health had been a subject of concern, now is enjoying excellent health.

Viscount Grey's acceptance of the appointment of temporary British Ambassador to the United States is given warm approval by the press here, which eulogizes his public services and, for the most part, regards his appointment as excellent.

The Post, which is an opponent of Viscount Grey politically, nevertheless assumes that America will regard his appointment as a compliment, as he is a notable Englishman, but it hopes that "Viscount Grey will not forget Americans respect a man who stands firmly upon the rights and interests of his own nation. In the past there has been a weak tradition of surrender at Washington, due mainly to the pusillanimous and unmanly policy of the Government at home."

In most of the editorials Viscount Grey's sympathy with the League of Nations is dwelt upon, though The Telegraph remarks he has not revealed whether he champions the particular form of the league incorporated in the Peace Treaty.

The Daily Mail says:

"The league needs not so much commendation as explanation to America, and if Viscount Grey is able to take an active part in that work he will render a notable service to mankind."

The newspaper, however, says that the new Ambassador will be handicapped in this work by the proposal of the British Government that regions over which Great Britain holds mandates shall be brought within the British Imperial Tariff Union, and it says "his path will not be smoothed by the Government's sustained refusal to make any approach to a solution of the Irish problem."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Daily Telegraph says:

"The Atlantic has been bridged by the joint efforts and joint sacrifices of the English-speaking peoples, and it will be Lord Grey's lofty mission to discover the means of maintaining and strengthening that fabulous structure—fabulous in the light of past history, and particularly American history. We shall be in error if we continue to fix our gaze on the old scenes of chaos and battle. A new era is opening, and the arbiters of the world's future will be, above all other, the people of the United States on the one hand, and on the other the people of the British Empire."

The Times says:

"Lord Grey's acceptance of the post, even if only for a time, commands universal approval. He represents the best traditions of public life in this country. His acceptance of the task is an act dictated by the keenest sense of duty. He has been, and is, the ardent champion of the highest ideals of the English-speaking races. The Government is fortunate in his consent, which veils their long delay in filling the post."

The Morning Post says:

"The ideal British Ambassador in Washington would be popular on the social side, but he would not forget that there is a business side to our relations with America. Nor would he forget, and we hope Lord Grey will not forget, that the Americans respect a man who stands firmly upon the rights and interests of his nation. In the past there has been a weak tradition of surrender at Washington, but those who are chiefly to blame for that tradition are not the men on the spot but the pusillanimous and unmanly policy of the Government at home. Americans, we fancy, love manhood and like a man who deals with them frankly on an equality. We believe also they like an Englishman none the less because he is patriotic."

Sir William Tyrrell, who will accompany Lord Grey to America, was his private secretary for eight years, retiring in 1915. He came to the United States in the Fall of 1913 to discuss the Mexican situation with the Government.

HITS AT OUR RACE PROBLEM.

Parliament Member Would Resent Irish Aid—Is Rebuked.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—In the House of Commons today the Hon. Walter E. Guinness, Unionist member for Suffolk, asked Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader, to give the day's discussion over to the present position of the black races, but his request was refused.

The questioner responded by asking whether it would not be a graceful act of reciprocity to place at the disposal of the United States the benefit of British experience in governing negroes in return for the discussion of Irish affairs in the United States Senate.

Captain William Wedgewood Benn, Liberal member for Leith, asked Mr. Bonar Law to do his best to prevent efforts to sow dissension between America and Great Britain by alleged humorous questions.

Mr. Bonar Law said the Government recognized that the future peace of the world depends upon the good relations between the two countries.

JUNKER RAGE AT ERZBERGER

BERLIN, Aug. 12, (via Copenhagen.)—The other day the body of a man with a cord around his neck and his hands and feet tied, wrapped in a blanket, was taken from the Landwehr Canal, in the inky waters of which it had been barely longer than two days. Bodies are taken from the Landwehr Canal almost every day, and even the fact that this was apparently a case of murder created very little sensation, because there are so many.

The papers gave "Blau, alias Doctor Michaelis" as the names by which the dead man was known, stating that the opinion of the police was that it was a case of murder, but that suicide was not impossible, and offering 5,000 marks reward for information leading to the revelation of a possible crime. There the case rests probably forever, because the police have more important work.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent has been informed by an absolutely reliable person that Blau, alias Michaelis, was murdered at the order of a Spartacide secret court for having turned traitor. Blau was a secret agent for the anti-Bolshevist society, to which he communicated information obtained by joining Spartacide organizations under false representations. This may also explain why the authorities are not too anxious to clear the case.

Blau, it is said, was only one of many victims of the Spartacide secret court. There is believed to be another court working just as silently and with equal certainly, a militarist secret court, among whose first victims were Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg. Many men have since followed these two, aided by the militarist court.

Furious Fight on Erzberger.

The great lights of reaction have, of course, no connection with this secret court and probably know as little about its doings as the public generally. The members of this court and its hangmen are fanatical pacemakers for the counter-revolution. The promoters of counter-revolution are now leading a fight against Secretary of Finance Erzberger that daily fills columns in their organs.

"These revelations are now endangering the internal situation," says Vorwärts this morning, "and certainly are gravely degrading our dignity. It has become necessary that the various accusations and counter accusations be ventilated before a court of justice, if only to reassure the apprehensive masses among which the evil reports are circulated."

Vorwärts urges the Government to bring Dr. Helfferich before a court, as he professes to be anxious to tell all he knows. Other newspapers, like the Tageblatt, which is friendly to the Government, urge a similar course.

It may be that the reactionaries, who think they will triumph over Erzberger so easily, are misinformed regarding the trump cards which that astute politician still holds against them. At any rate, THE TIMES correspondent is reliably informed that the militarist secret court is not favoring any public trial of Erzberger's enemies, for which they may have good reasons. Still, the militarist court is apparently determined that Erzberger shall be destroyed, and not only morally.

Conferences at Ebert's Retreat.

It is stated that Federal President Ebert has received many letters urging him to interfere and use his influence for Erzberger's removal, but these letters surely do not come from the members of the secret court, who never talk or warn but only act. Ebert is spending his vacation with his family in the forest-crowned mountains of Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt, where he lives at the famous White Stag Inn, next door to the castle which is the home of the Princeling dethroned there Nov. 9. Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt has long been very Red, and since the revolution has partly become Bolshevist. Still the German President considers himself comparatively safe under the protection of thirteen stalwart members of the Federal Defense Army and several detectives. He moves about freely among the people of Schwarzburg and is highly respected by them.

Sometimes he is awakened by fusillades in the nearby woods, where poachers are fighting the foresters, or by the sound of hand grenades with which the country people, who proclaim the forests and waters their own, kill trout in numerous brooks.

In Sitzendorf village, not far from Schwarzburg, everybody is Spartacide, meaning "whatever I like, I take," and they had been doing some taking before President Ebert arrived. With him came Federal War Minister Noske and General Groener, chief commander of what is left of the German Army. Though they have gone again, the Sitzendorfers have remained very orderly, evidently not wishing to make the further acquainted of the republican military power.

Among other politicians who come and go in Schwarzburg is Erzberger, and he has had long conferences with Ebert, which may safely be said to have been mainly concerned with the advisability of revealing even more damaging evidence against the enemies of the Secretary of Finance or proceeding differently against them. This morning the newspapers publish a letter from Dr. Fritz Mittelmann, a reactionary member of the National Convention, to Ebert, stating that if Erzberger is quite innocent of all of which he is accused, then his accusers must be tried in court or else Erzberger is guilty and must be punished.

GIANTS STAGE VIGOROUS COME-BACK, DEFEATING LEAGUE LEADERS IN TWO GAMES

GIANTS HAND REDS A DOUBLE SETBACK

First Battle Goes 14 Innings, Toney Getting a 2-to-1 Decision Over Ring.

SECOND GAME IS WALKOVER

Players Clinch and Wave Fists in Final Battle, but No Blows Are Delivered—Two Players Exiled.

Just when folk were getting ready to send flowers and condolences to the Giants they returned to consciousness and made the Cincinnati Reds pay dearly for their unwarranted annexation of two games on Wednesday. The Giants cavorted yesterday as if they had spent the night at the oxygen tank, for they snatched back the two games they lost the day previous, and this morning McGraw's men are just four and one-half games behind the leading Reds. The clubs will mingle in another double-header today, and with the Giants' slump a bygone memory the Reds may find that assuming they had the flag won they were counting the chickens before they were hatched.

The Giants beat the Reds in the first game by a score of 2 to 1 after a fourteen-inning pitching battle between Toney and Ring, which produced one of the keenest and best-played baseball wrangles of the season. In the second game the Giants took sweet revenge on Pat Moran's troupe and battered the Reds around the lot by the score of 9 to 3. The threatening weather and the light sprinkle of rain kept the crowd away yesterday and only 12,000 saw the treat which the first game furnished.

The sprightly, effervescent Giants of yesterday didn't look as if they were even distantly related to the slumbering players of Wednesday. They were keyed up to fighting pitch and played as if they meant it. The rejuvenation was a pleasant surprise and showed the return of the batting eyes which were so badly dimmed in the West.

Luque Starts Some Trouble.

The bitter rivalry between the clubs broke out in the second game, when the Giants accused the Cuban pitcher, Luque, of using the "bean ball." The bean ball is a shoot which apparently is aimed at the head of the batsman. The real conflagration broke out when Rube Benton was tagged hard by Luque as he was running to first after a squeeze play in the second inning. Just before this first belligerent flareup Kauff fanned and Luque hit Zimmerman with the ball. Snyder singled to centre and Zim slid safely into third. Benton and Zim worked the squeeze, Heinie scoring. Luque fielded Benton's bunt and tagged Rube as he was going to first. Benton deemed that the Cuban tagged him more vigorously than was necessary and he went after the Cuban with his fists clenched. Rube drew back his mighty left and was all set to land a hay-maker, but thought better of it. All the players of both clubs answered to the riot call.

Jimmy Smith, the former Giant, seemed to be distressingly disturbed. George Burns laid a calm hand on Smith and advised him to reduce his temperature. No blows were struck, but there were many gymnastic motions. Smith told the Giants that he could lick his weight in wildcats. The Giants said they doubted such a sweeping assertion. All the players were laughing merrily at Smith, who was fit to be put in a straitjacket. It was the consensus of opinion that Jimmy Smith could get more excited about nothing than anybody in the league.

The rumpus ended by Rube Benton being chastised and sent to the club house. Douglas took his place. Douglas pitched the second game Wednesday, so he must be an iron man. Pat Moran also took Luque out of the game just after the revolution and Gerner tried his hand at pitching.

This second game opened with a remarkable play by Hal Chase. Rath got an infield hit, which bounded off Fletcher's chest. Daubert skied to Kauff and Groh stung a hot grounder down to first. Chase throttled the ball, tagged first, retiring Groh, and then whipped the ball to Fletcher at second in time to double Rath.

Bressler and Luque Easy.

The Giants took to Rube Bressler's left-handed twisters cordially in their first visit to the bat. Burns got a pass and galloped home on Young's two-bagger to left. Fletcher's sacrifice sent Young to third. Frisch rolled to Rath, who threw Young out at the plate. The Fordham lad promptly stole second and Chase chased him home with a single to centre. Kauff ended the inning when he ballooned to Rariden.

Bressler was taken out of the box in the second and sent to left field in place of Magee. Luque, the Cuban moist ball flinger, tried out his wares, but with little success. With two gone, Benton singled to centre and Burns walked. Young singled to left and filled the bases. Fletcher's single scored Benton, and Frisch laced a cracking bang to left, scoring Burns and Young. Bressler was as wild in the field as he had been in the box and he made a lurid toss to the plate, the ball rolling into the Giant bench. Fletcher scored and Frisch went to second. The inning closed when Groh flipped Chase out at first.

Benton handily pitched himself out of a heap of trouble in the third. Luque was safe on Fletcher's fumble and Rariden was hit by a pitched ball. Benton walked Bressler and jammed the corners. After Rath skied to Fletcher, Daubert rolled to Zim, who chucked home, forcing Luque. Groh filed to Kauff and the whole crowd of Reds on the bases were stranded.

Reds Score in Seventh.

The Reds got a run in the seventh. Gerner died at first, and although Allen fanned, he was safe on Snyder's passed ball. See got an infield hit, Rath skied to Young, and Daubert singled to centre. Kauff threw the ball on a wild flight to second and Allen scored. Fletcher was called out for interference when he knocked the ball out of Smith's hand in the seventh. Fletcher kicked and O'Day put him out of the game.

Frisch ran wild in this same inning. After his grounder to Smith put Fletcher out at second and also out of the game, he stole second. Chase got an infield hit and Frisch went to third. The Fordham flash scored on a double steal. Chase stole second, but was out trying to stretch to third.

The tail end of the game developed into a comedy. In the ninth the Giants rushed in second-string men and so did the Reds. Allen opened the inning with a single and went to third when Baird fumbled See's grounder. Smith forced See, and when Daubert singled to right Allen counted. Groh singled, scoring Smith, and when Young muffed Roush's fly in right the bases were filled. Young looked as if he dropped the ball intentionally to try for a play at third, but his throw was far short. Neale rolled to Douglas, who forced Daubert at the plate. Schreiber fanned for the final out.

Pitching Duel in Opener.

The pitching duel between Toney and Ring in the opening game was the season's prettiest flinging battle. The control of Ring was remarkable, and he didn't give a base on balls until he walked Doyle intentionally in the seventeenth fourteenth. Nine hits was the sum total of the Reds' damage to the big giant from Tennessee, while the New York batters gathered 11 off the former Brooklyn boy.

It was an endurance test for the last few innings, and simply a question of which flinger would first crack under the terrific strain.

New York's inability to produce a sacrifice hit prolonged the New York victory in the twelfth and thirteenth innings. Young and Kauff both failed to lay down the proper sort of bunts, and forced men at second instead of landing them safely at the middle station.

A double error by Hal Chase in the first of the fourteenth gave the Reds a great chance to take the game, but Toney's pitching baffled them at the critical moment.

The last of the fourteenth foamed with excitement. Ring was weakening rapidly, and when Burns came to the bat in the last half of this all important session he greeted the tiring Ring with a smashing single to right. Ross Young, whose hitting has fallen off badly, came to life with a drive over Kopf's head, which propelled Burns to third. Fletcher could do nothing for his country and hit a fly to Roush in short centre field.

As Frank Frisch ambled up to bat at this critical stage, Manager McGraw called him back and sent Larry Doyle up to the plate. Ring scented trouble and purposely passed the crippled Giant second baseman.

Fluke Hit Ends Game.

The sacks were jammed and Hal Chase came along with his thick, heavy black bludgeon. Hal whacked a tantalizing little hopper to the infield, which trickled through Ring and then sputtered out of Kopf's reach, as the Reds' shortstop tried to pick it up. It wasn't a very lusty kind of a hit, but it did the business, and Burns raced over the plate with the winning run.

The Reds knocked at the door in the second inning of the opener, but Toney wouldn't let them in. Roush singled to center and was forced by Neale. After Kopf forced Neale, Magee spanked a single to right, pushing Kopf to third. Wingo popped to McCarty and danger fled.

Both Ring and Toney pitched air-tight ball up to the fourth. The Giants found an opening to the plate in the fifth through an error. Chase lined to Roush and Kauff singled to center. Zimmerman chopped a double to left, sending Benny to third. McCarty hit a fly to Neale in short right, after which Kauff raced home. Luckily for Benjamin, Wingo dropped the ball when the runner collided with him, and by virtue of the muff Kauff cashed in a run.

Cincinnati tied the score in the sixth. Rath skied to Young and Daubert rolled a grounder just outside of first. Both Chase and Frisch went after the ball, and Frisch got it. Chase was far from the base and Toney wasn't covering the bag, so Jake's tap went for a hit. After Groh lofted to Fletcher, Eddie Roush shot a three-bagger over Young's head in right, scoring Daubert.

Michigan Eleven's Prospects Good.

Football practice for the Michigan University eleven will get under way this year on Sept. 15, when it is expected more than twenty prospective members of the team will appear. Coach Yost has received word that many of his last year's eleven will return, and, with a number of students who were not eligible last year striving for this year's team, the Wolverine outlook is regarded as decidedly bright.

YANKS TRIM TIGERS IN 15-INNING GAME

Carl Mays Pitches Nine Frames, Then Is Chased—Hugmen Victims of a Triple Play.

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—The Yankees opened their final tour of the West for 1919 here this afternoon and took the measure of the Tigers in a game that went fifteen innings before a decision was reached. Hits for extra bases by Sim Vick and Frank Baker, following Ward's pass, gave the Huggins' forces two runs in the fifteenth, just enough for victory, as the Tigers succeeded in pushing over a run in their half of the fifteenth. The score was 5 to 4.

The game marked the first home appearance of the Tigers in almost three weeks, during which time the tribe of Jennings has become a real contender for the pennant. As a result the contest attracted one of the largest mid-week crowds to turn out for a single game here in many years. Close to 18,000 fans saw the teams battle through the long session.

Carl Mays, the pitcher around whom has arisen a civil war in the American League, started the game for the Yankees. In the morning Colonel T. L. Huston, part owner of the Yankees, had appeared in the Circuit Court to ask for an injunction against any interference with Mays while the Yankees are here. The application was acted upon favorably and copies of the injunction were served on Frank Navin, President of the Tigers, Manager Hugh Jennings and also on the umpires. President Navin announced that he had no intention of interfering with the Yankees. Mays was welcomed with a few hoots when his name was announced as the New York pitcher.

The famous underhand flinger pitched through nine innings, and did good work. The Tigers got to him for ten hits, but they were well scattered, and runs came one at a time. Two hits produced a run in the second, two more hits and a bad throw sent one over in the sixth, and in the ninth Bush hit to deep centre for a triple, scoring Ainsmith. This tied up the game, but it remained for other pitchers to carry the battle for the Yankees in the overtime.

Mays Chased from Game.

Mays was the first hitter in the New York tenth, and Umpire Owens called him out on strikes. The New York pitcher took exception to the decision on his third strike and promptly hurled the ball down the right-field foul line. For this exhibition Owens chased Carl out of the ball game. Mogridge went to the hill in the Detroit half of the tenth, and he pitched good ball up to the fifteenth. In this frame, after the Tigers had scored one run, and had a runner on second base, Huggins subtracted the left-hander and sent Bob Shawkey to the hill. Ellison, batting for Jones, hit the first ball pitched by Shawkey, and it was an easy roller, ending the game.

Bernie Boland, who has specialized in beating the Yankees ever since he came into the American League, pitched the first nine innings and then Manager Jennings found it expedient to take him out for a pinch hitter in the ninth inning when one run was needed to tie the score. Chick Shorten, batting for Boland, failed to deliver, but Donie Bush, who followed Shorten, slapped the triple to centre which tied things up. Doc Ayers succeeded Boland and for five innings he had the Yankees helpless, allowing two hits. Then came the fifteenth with its pass and the long drives by Vick and Baker which settled the game.

Mays was not the only Yankee who was chased off the lot. In the sixth inning Cobb got an infield hit and Veach followed with a pop fly to right field that fell just out of Vick's reach. Cobb stuck close to first base, thinking the ball would be caught, and when he saw it hit the ground Ty tore for second. Vick made a fast throw to Fewster and the play was very close. Umpire Chill ruled that Cobb was safe, and Fewster made so much noise over the decision that he was chased to the clubhouse. Ward, who replaced him at short, did some fine fielding and he also unloaded a two-bagger.

A home run drive by Walter Pipp was the batting feature of a game that was studded with hits. In the fourth inning the New York first baseman greeted Boland with a smash into the distant bleachers in right centre field. Few drives carry to these distant seats during a season. Pipp's home run today was his second of the season at Navin Field, as he hit into the same bleachers when the Yanks were here in May.

Triple Play Against Yanks.

Huggins's men were victims of a triple play in the ninth inning. Pratt opened with a double and Bodie drew a pass. Ruel, whose timely hits had driven in two New York runs, again hit hard, but this time it was a line drive to Bush. The Detroit shortstop beat Pratt to second base, then threw to Heilman and got Bodie, who was on his way back to first.

The Yankees went to the lead in the second inning. Pipp drew a pass and after Pratt had filed to Flagstead Pipp stole second. He went to third on Bodie's infield out and crossed the plate on Ruel's single to centre.

In the fourth the Yanks picked up a two-run lead. Pipp opened with his home run clout into the bleachers. Pratt was an easy out, and Bodie singled to centre. Ping stole second and Ruel again delivered, his single to right scoring Bodie.

The Tigers got one run back in the sixth. Cobb got an infield hit and Veach a Texas Leaguer to right, this being the fly that led to Fewster's expulsion when Ty was called safe at second. Heilman filed to Vick and Cobb dusted for third. Vick threw to Baker, but the ball hit Ty on the shoulder and rolled away, Cobb scoring. In the tenth Ainsmith's single and a triple by Bush tied up the game.

In New York's fifteenth, after Mogridge had been retired, Ayers walked Ward. Vick chased Ward home with a triple, and Baker followed with a double that scored Vick. The Tigers got one run back in their half. With two out, Heilman singled and scored on a double by Flagstead. Shawkey then replaced Mogridge, and Ellison's easy roller on the first pitched ball ended the game.

CARDS WIN BOTH GAMES.

Defeat Phillies in Both Ends of a Double-Header, 4 to 2 and 6 to 3.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—St. Louis took both games of a double header from Philadelphia today, 4 to 2, and 6 to 3. The visitors scored all their first game's runs in the sixth inning. Three scratch hits filled the bases with none out, and hard drives by Stock, Hornsby, and Clemons did the rest.

In the second game St. Louis took the lead in the fourth, scoring two runs on poor work by Tragesser. With two out, Hornsby reached first on an error, stole second, and continued to third on the catcher's wild throw. McHenry walked, then on a double steal, Tragesser protested Umpire Harrison's decision at the plate. He hurled the ball to the ground and before he recovered it McHenry also scored.

Manager Cravath played in both games. Pinch hitting in the first contest, he sent the ball over the right field fence for a home run, and in the second game he drove in two of his team's three runs.

DODGERS AND CUBS DIVIDE 2 SHUTOUTS

Alexander Gets 2 to 0 Verdict in Opener—Cadore Comes Through in Second, 1 to 0.

Shutouts were considered good form at Ebbets ball field yesterday in the double-header between the Cubs and Dodgers. The Windy City team handed the Brooklynites a 2 to 0 defeat in the first game, and then Uncle Robbie's boys, not to be outdone by the politeness of their Western guests, made them a dainty gift of a 1 to 0 defeat in the second. Both were cold-blooded victories—literally—and the Summer furs around the necks of the few intrepid women fans scattered among the 500 spectators found good use.

The field was soft and slippery, as a result of Wednesday night's rain, and the games were started a half hour late, in order to give the wind opportunity to dry some of the water from the soggy gardens. The base lines were partially dried by burning gasoline. But, despite frequent skids, the two games slipped by in the remarkably short time of two hours and twenty minutes, exactly one hour and ten minutes per game.

The snappy playing was partly due to thee peppery work of the Cubs. But a stronger reason lies with the Dodgers themselves. Myers was the only Flatbush player to get to second base in the two games. He accomplished this marvelous feat in the fifth inning of the second game, after the Dodgers had gone for thirteen innings without having a player reach the keystone sack. Fortune favored Myers, and he advanced to third when Konetchy was thrown out by Merkle. Then he tore home on Killefer's error, when the latter tossed the ball fifteen feet over Deal's head at third. After that the barrier was put into service for both teams, and as far as they were concerned the second and third bases could have been stowed away safely in the clubhouse.

Four Hits Off Alexander.

Big Grover Alexander was the reason that the Dodgers didn't get to second in the first game. His arguments were very effective. Only four players were able to meet them fairly, but they, too, were forced to concede the point after their mates had failed. Ed Konetchy seemed to understand Alexander's pitching better than the rest, and he managed to get a brace of singles, while Johnston and Myers divided the other two.

The tables were turned in the second contest, and Leon Cadore made Mitchell's men wonder about the location of second base almost as much as the Dodgers had done in the first. Herzog, who singled and stole in the fourth, was the only Cub to reach the keystone sack. Bailey hurled for Chicago, and, though he held the Dodgers to three hits, he let one run trickle through his fingers, and the one run acted in the same capacity as the w. k. monkey wrench in the works or the ground glass in the pie. It was sufficient.

Sherry Smith, whose Christian name helped to keep him warm despite the cold snap, went along sweetly enough until the fifth inning of the first game. In this inning Killefer singled smartly to left and was advanced by Alexander, who sacrificed to Konetchy. Magee lofted a fly to Zach Wheat's garden. Hollocher, the peppery Cub shortstop, ambled to the plate and squarely smacked the ball for a graceful single to right, while Killefer scampered across the plate.

The Cubs' second run was made on an error. Deal had singled in the seventh and had gone to second on Killefer's sacrifice to Smith. Alexander fanned and Magee was safe on Ward's error, Deal going to third. The order was for a double steal. Magee raced toward second, drawing the throw from Miller. Deal started for home. Olson, who had taken the throw, pegged it back, but Miller let it roll to the grand stand and Deal was safe.

In the eight innings that Sherry pitched the Cubs gleaned six bingles. Krueger took his place at the bat in the eighth, and Mitchell took up the hurling in the ninth. Magee went to right field yesterday in place of Flack, who had his hand injured in Thursday's scrimmage with the Dodgers, when a pitched ball removed a piece of epidermis. Barber set up his tent in left field, holding Magee's usual camping ground.

Both Pitchers in Fine Form.

Leon Cadore did the trick in the second game, giving the Cubs a taste of their own medicine. Abraham Lincoln Bailey held the Dodgers to three hits in the second game, but, despite this, Myers managed to squeeze over the necessary count after he had made his double. Cadore held the Cubs to five scattered hits.

Cadore was the pivot in a neat double play in the sixth, after Hollocher had singled to right. Herzog hit a burning drive to Leon, who clamped his glove on the ball, and then tossed Hollocher out at first while the Cub shortstop was standing nearer second base than first with his lower jaw resting on his chest.

Both Zach Wheat and Myers made hits in the second game, the odd bingle going to Cadore. The Dodgers are still at the top of the second division, being half a game behind the Pirates, who were idle at Boston yesterday on account of the rain.

MAYS REINSTATED BY LEAGUE BOARD

Directors Also Call for Financial Statement from Johnson, Who Denies Jurisdiction.

The Board of Directors of the American League held a special meeting at the Biltmore Hotel yesterday and reinstated Carl Mays, the Yankee pitcher, who was indefinitely suspended by President Ban Johnson just after Mays had been traded from the Boston Red Sox to the New York Club. It was after this suspension that the New York Club obtained an injunction restraining Johnson from preventing Mays from pitching for New York. Under the injunction he pitched two games for the Yankees at the Polo Grounds and under an injunction obtained in Detroit he pitched in the Michigan city yesterday.

President Johnson and James Dunn of Cleveland, both members of the Board of Directors, did not appear at yesterday's meeting. Charles A. Comiskey of Chicago acted as Chairman and Harry N. Frazee as secretary. President Johnson addressed a communication to the meeting insisting that under the constitution of the American League, the board had no power to take any such action as was outlined in the call for the meeting, and that such action if taken would have no effect or force. Johnson stated in his communication that he was not responsible to the board, and that Frazee and Ruppert had no power to sit on the Mays case because the issue concerns a matter in which the clubs they represent are interested.

Forbid Such Action in Future.

The board not only reinstated Mays but ordered President Johnson to render a full account of all finances in relation to the sinking fund of the league. The board also passed a resolution in which the President is forbidden to take any similar action to that in the Mays case without giving the player and the clubs concerned an opportunity to be heard.

The resolutions passed by the board yesterday and signed by each member are as follows:

Resolved, That such alleged suspension was without authority and void, and against the best interests and detrimental to the general welfare of baseball, and that said Mays remains in good standing, under the Constitution and Rules and Regulations of the League, as a player of the New York American League Baseball Club; and

Resolved, That the President is forbidden hereafter to take any similar action with regard to any other player of the American League without a hearing and an opportunity to be heard, given to the player and the club involved, for any alleged offense; and

Resolved, That the President of the League forthwith submit to Charles A. Comiskey, Chairman, for the account of the Board of Directors of the league a full and complete statement of the amounts from time to time accumulated, disposed of, and now held as cash or investments in the sinking fund referred to in Section 9 of the Constitution, and the place or places of deposit of such sinking fund, and to whose credit deposited, giving in detail all such information covering the sources thereof during the past two years.

Resolved, That a copy of these minutes be forwarded to the President, and that this Board of Directors adjourn subject to call of the Chairman, Charles A. Comiskey, for the purpose of receiving the information required of Mr. Johnson, and that they thereupon, or on failure of said Johnson to supply the said information, take such action in the premises as may be appropriate.

Letter from Big Ban.

I received yesterday a copy of a call signed by you for a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs, to be held on Thursday, Aug. 14, 1919, at 11 A. M., at Room 151, Biltmore Hotel, New York City, in which it is stated that the meeting is called for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the alleged action of the President of the league in purporting to suspend Player Carl W. Mays and for the purpose of considering and taking action in the matter of the relation of the President of the league to the league and to the Board of Directors and considering the management of affairs of the President of the league by its present incumbent.

I hereby notify you that neither under the constitution of the league nor otherwise has the Board of Directors of the league the power to take any action in regard to any of the matters specified in said call, and that any attempted action at such meeting with regard to any of these matters will have no force or effect.

I direct your attention to the fact that Section 20 of the constitution of your league confers upon the President the power to suspend a player who, in his opinion, has been guilty of conduct detrimental to the general welfare of the game, and that I have suspended Player Carl W. Mays pursuant to such authority; that the constitution confers no authority upon the Board of Directors to review or take any action in regard to such suggestion, and that I was elected President of the league by the members thereof and am not responsible to the board for any acts or conduct in the performance of my duties as President.

I would further direct your attention to the fact that any attempted action by the Board of Directors affected by the vote of Messrs. H. H. Frazee or Jacob H. Ruppert, or both of them, in regard to the suspension of Carl W. Mays would be invalid upon the further ground that said gentlemen are disqualified to vote in regard to a matter in which he or his club is interested.

COMISKEY FILES AN AFFIDAVIT

Declares Johnson Is Cleveland's Creditor for $50,000.

Affidavits filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in the injunction action by the New York American League Baseball Club, to restrain Ban Johnson from paying for the defense of the New York suits against him out of the league's sinking fund, contain allegations by Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, and by Harry Sparrow, Assistant Secretary of the New York team, that the Cleveland Club owes Johnson $50,000 and that, in suspending Carl Mays from the Yankees, Johnson was acting in the interest of the Cleveland Club.

Mr. Comiskey says he is "satisfied" that the action of Johnson is "beyond his jurisdiction and an invasion of the rights and powers of the Board of Directors of the American League and in violation of the rights of the Boston and New York clubs." He states that he believes Johnson is also actuated by hostility to the Boston Club. He says further:

"In March, 1916, the Cleveland Club owed Mr. Johnson and myself $100,000 each. Since that time, I have got back $50,000 and I have not heard that Mr. Johnson got back any more than that."

The affidavit of Harry Sparrow alleges that Johnson is "personally a creditor of or financially interested in the Cleveland Club." He says that Johnson and Comiskey were at one time owners of stock in the club, and that the Cleveland team owed each man $100,000 in 1916 and has paid each only $50,000. He says that Boston was so far down in the pennant race that the team had no chance to win, while the Cleveland and New York teams were near the top and each had a good chance for the world's series. He contends that Johnson "was disqualified by reason of his interest in the Cleveland Club from issuing an order depriving a competitor of the club of the services of Mays."

BAN ENJOINED IN DETROIT.

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—Col. T. L. Huston, part owner of the New York American League club, obtained an injunction in the Circuit Court here today restraining President B. B. Johnson "or any of his agents" from interfering with the use of Pitcher Carl Mays in the series which opens here this afternoon between the New York and Detroit teams.

The injunction is similar to that issued recently in New York, and was obtained by Colonel Huston because the one obtained in that city was not operative here.

Colonel Huston accompanied the team to Detroit for the express purpose of securing the injunction, it is understood.

WHITE SOX BADLY BEATEN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Boston defeated Chicago, 15 to 6, in a one-sided batting bee today. Cicotte and Kerr were unable to stop the visitors' hitting. Russell had little trouble holding the locals. The feature of the game was the hitting of Ruth's seventeenth home run.

ROSE D'OR TAKES GALWAY HANDICAP

HAUBERK IN HOT FINISH

Aged Gelding Sets Pace and Holds It to End from Strong Field in Saginaw Handicap.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Some of the mud-runners, which have been at a disadvantage over a lightning-fast track, had their turn here today and were able to splash along to their hearts' content. A heavy rainstorm during the morning and showers during the afternoon made the course heavy and brought about the usual upsets in form on a very ordinary program.

The feature was the Galway Handicap, for mares three years old and upward, at a mile, which brought out four starters and was won by Edward F. Whitney's Rose d'Or, which defeated W. A. Shea's Ormunda, and Terentia and Herodias from the stable of W. R. Coe. Rose d'Or was one of two favorites to come home in front, and won her victory in a very close race.

C. H. Pettingill again acted as starter, owing to the illness of Mars Cassidy at his home in White Sulphur Springs, who may not be back at his post for some days. Pettingill had smaller fields to handle today and therefore had better success. But the starts were not entirely satisfactory. George Hilton will be here tomorrow to attend to the starting until Cassidy returns.

Rose d'Or proved to be a good mud runner, and also showed ability to come from behind and overcome the handicap of a bad start in winning the Galway. Though only four went to the post, Rose d'Or did not get a good break when the barrier was sprung, and was away a bad last. Even after getting away, she seemed unable to show any speed, and looked as though she had been defeated before she had run half a mile.

The fleet Herodias and Terentia, both sprinters of real ability, went to the front and cut out a fast pace. They drew away so far that it became only a question of maintaining their speed. Meantime Callahan got Rose d'Or under way, and brought her up on the back stretch. Ormonda also drew up on the leaders, and, turning into the stretch, both the Coe fillies faltered. Ormunda came on to pass both of them, and Rose d'Or passed them a few strides further down the stretch. The Coe entries slowed up so rapidly that they were no longer in the contest, and finished far back of the others, with Herodias coming in a bad last. Rose d'Or and Ormonda fought it out in the stretch, and Rose just managed to get her nose in front at the wire.

By far the best contest was provided in the fifth race, the Sagamore Handicap for three-year-olds and upward, which brought out Andrew Miller's Recount, J. F. Sweeney's Hauberk, Warsaw and some other good ones for a mile and a furlong test. The race went to Hauberk, after another close finish, with Recount racing nose and nose for an eighth of a mile. J. O. Keene's Basilius took third from Warsaw.

Hauberk got in front, with Recount at his heels, and the two drew away from the balance of the field to make it a two-horse race. Schuttinger was content to follow the pace until the stretch turn was reached, when he drew up alongside of Hauberk. But the aged gelding refused to give up the fight, simply because he had been setting the pace. He leveled his head and fought it out at every stride. He was tiring at the finish and Recount was gaining, to win surely in a few more strides. But Hauberk held on until he reached the wire.

G. D. Widener scored a victory with his bay gelding Pictor in the second race for maidens three years old and upwards. Pictor followed the pace and won the mile event handily when he was urged along in the final eighth of a mile. J. K. L. Ross's Welshman's Folly ran a much improved race and was second, taking the place from Vulcanite, which ran the best race of all, after being left at the post. Vulcanite was ten lengths behind the leader going through the back stretch, but drew up steadily and was able to catch all but the first two and lost the place by less than a length. Vulcanite has run some very good races but seems always to suffer some misfortune.

First Favorite to Win.

R. T. Wilson's Wyoming was the first favorite to win. He captured the Catskill at seven furlongs, beating Grundy and Woodtrap, which finished in the order named. R. F. Carman's Startling and J. K. L. Ross's Damrosch carried the high weight in this event and both proved unable to negotiate the heavy track. They were badly outrun in the final furlong. Wyoming was well played because of his light impost and his liking for the conditions of the race. He was also favored with a break at the barrier, which gave him an advantage of at least two lengths over all the others.

Jockey Ensor had so much the best of the others that he was abe to take up with his mount in the back stretch and give him a breathing spell while the others were racing to get up with him. When Startling and Damrosch had drawn fairly close, Ensor let Wyoming out again and he raced home ten lengths in front. Woodtrap ran from far behind and took third, being beaten for the place by a length.

In the last race, a five-furlong dash for two-year-olds, H. P. Whitney's Sammy proved conclusively that he is not to be classed with the stars in the Whitney barn. Sammy was made favorite in a field of nine youngsters, which included Phantom Fair, Ira Wilson, and Blue Wrack, among others, which had run some good races. But Sammy quit badly after running half a mile and the race went to A. H. Diaz's Blue Wrack, with Ira Wilson second and Phantom Fair third. Sammy trailed in among the last, much to the disgust of the players who had backed him heavily.

WORLD TENNIS TITLE PLANS

Washburn's Suggested Change in International Federation Code.

The desire which is manifest abroad that the United States shall lend its ability and prowess to world councils is peculiarly evident just now in the realm of sports. In polo, yachting, and field and track athletics movements for union of the Atlantic's two coasts are well under way, with the intiative taken across the water.

Lawn tennis enthusiasts of Britain and France are likewise eager for closer relations with the governing bodies of the sport in America. The Field has this to say in its most recent issue:

A few weeks ago The Field intimated that negotiations were in progress between the United States National Lawn Tennis Association and the executive of the International Federation, whose headquarters are in Paris, with a view to the American governing body joining the Federation. At a meeting held in Paris, at which delegates were present representing France, Australia, the British Isles, America, and other countries, Captain W. M. Washburn, on behalf of the United States, proposed an amendment to the Federation's regulation regarding world's championships, both team and individual. Appended is a copy of the amendment, which, it will be observed, embodies a drastic change in the present conditions governing both the Davis Cup and the championships, more especially in regard to their venue. It is understood that both the Australian and the British Isles delegates asked for time to consult their respective associations, and that no decision was taken. But the amendment is important as expressing the attitude of American officials toward the wider development of international competitions. The Field reserves comment on the proposals, and in the meantime merely prints their text:

"The Davis Cup matches are the sole team championships of the world. As soon as the nations entitled to vote on the Davis Cup regulations be assembled, the following change shall be proposed:

"Beginning with the year 1920, the challenge tie shall be abolished. The location of the final tie shall be as follows: For the years 1920-1924—1920, North America; 1921, Europe; 1922, Australia; 1923, North America; 1924, Europe. The preliminary ties shall be played in the same country as the final tie, unless the contestants agree on another location. Entries will be made to the association of the country where the final tie is to be held, which will be hereafter referred to as the holding country.

"In conjunction with the Davis Cup matches each year, and immediately preceding them, will be held the world's individual championships in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles on grass. These will always be held in the same continent as the Davis Cup matches, and will begin not more than three weeks or less than two weeks before the first round of the team championship (except such ties as are played by mutual consent outside the holding country). The world's individual championship on hard courts, comprising the same events as the championship on grass, shall also be played in the holding country, not more than three weeks or less than two weeks before the championship on grass, except that in the year 1922, when the holding country is Australia, they shall be played in Europe at any time which does not interfere with the championships in Australia.

"The world's individual championship on covered courts, comprising the same events as the championships on grass and hard courts, shall be held in Europe from 1920 to 1924, inclusive, alternately in England and on the Continent.

"All matches in world's championships in men's singles and doubles will be the best three out of five sets; in women's singles and doubles and in mixed doubles, the best two out of three sets. Entries in the individual championships on grass and hard courts will be limited to a maximum of four singles players, two doubles pairs, four mixed doubles pairs. The draw will be seeded so as to separate players from the same nation as far as possible, and also to place the two best players from the same nation in opposite halves."

HIGH PRICES FOR HORSES.

Dispersal Sale at Saratoga Brings Over $150,000.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—More than $150,000 was realized at the dispersal sale of the thoroughbred stud of Clarence H. Mackay, which was held here tonight. The bidding was brisk and unusually good prices were obtained, the highest figure being reached in the sale of the mare Melody, a daughter of Meddler and Ballantrae, which, with a foal by Prince Palatine, brought $36,000. The mare and colt were purchased by Commander J. K. L. Ross. Another daughter of Meddler, Balancoira II., was purchased by Dr. C. W. McCully for $11,000.

Laclaque, the dam of Matinée Idol and Afternoon, was sold to John Sanford for $13,000, while William Garth paid $7,600 for Miss Malaprop, dam of Frederick the Great.

Spanish Prince II., winner of many stake races in England, and the sire of some good racers of the present season, including War Marvel and Merry Princess, was disposed of to J. E. Widener of Philadelphia for $5,500.

Twombly, a former outfielder of the Boston Braves, and "Chick" Davies, a left hand pitcher formerly with the Philadelphia Athletics, have been signed by George Weiss, owner of the New Haven team in the Eastern League, it was announced today. Jack Enright, a pitcher from the St. Louis Nationals, has been released.

HUNTER'S TENNIS IS TOO FAST FOR PELL

The two Australian players, Randolph Lycett and R. V. Thomas, also won their way to the semi-final round. These experts, who came to this country to compete in the national tournaments, were defeated at the Longwood doubles event in Boston and came to Rockaway Wednesday. Robert G. Kinsey, a Californian, is the other semi-final player.

Hunter lost the first set of his match, 1—6, but after a steep uphill fight took the next two sets, both at 7—5. Pell continually threatened in the last two sets to take the deciding stroke. It was a race of endurance and stamina, and the hardy winner of the Eastern New York State singles title outlasted his opponent, who had the edge in skillful shots and placement. Hunter's is a hard-driving game and he depends much upon speed.

In the semi-final round R. V. Thomas and Hunter are bracketed together and Randolph Lycett meets Robert G. Kinsey. This puts the two Australian players in matches with Americans.

The summaries:

Rockaway Hunting Club Tennis Tournament Singles.

MISS DETROIT THIRD WINS.

Repeats Victory in Motor Boat Races on St. Lawrence.

Special to The New York Times.

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Miss Detroit Third came in ahead today in the races over the Thousand Island Yacht Club course for the St. Lawrence River trophy. The racing conditions were even better than those of yesterday. The St. Lawrence had a smooth surface and a beautiful start was made. The first gun was fired from the judge's stand at 4:10 and Miss Detroit Third, P. D. Q. Sixth, and Arab Fourth played around for a good start.

Miss Detroit Third went over the line at 4:15:05, with P. D. Q. Fourth a second ahead, and Arab Fourth a couple of seconds behind. P. D. Q. Sixth was delayed in her start.

Miss Detroit Third kicked up the spray at a terrific rate and onlookers cheered her. She finished the first lap at 4:26:06, the elapsed time being 11 minutes 1 second. As the course around is eleven miles one lap the time consumed was only one second over a mile a minute. Her second lap took 12 minutes 21 seconds, and the third lap 11 minutes 19 seconds. The total time for the three laps was 34 minutes 41 seconds, or an average of fifty-eight miles an hour. Arab Fourth made an average of 51.7 per hour.

Miss Detroit made four points, her total now being eight. Arab Fourth made three, bringing her total to six. P. D. Q. Fourth and Sixth did not finish the race.

Miss Detroit Third was driven by her owner, G. A. Wood of Detroit, representing the Detroit Yacht Club. Arab Fourth was driven by her owner, Ralph L. Sidway, representing the Buffalo Launch Club. The judges were Commodore C. M. English, Ewing L. Rafferty and Clarence N. Peacock of New York.

TIE STILL FOR CHESS LEAD.

Capablanca and Kostich Win Twice Each in London.

HASTINGS, Eng., August 14.—Following up their previous successes, Jose R. Capablanca of Havana and Boris Kostich, Serbian champion, today added two more victories to their scores in the third and fourth rounds of the International Victory Tournament of the British Chess Federation in progress at the Drill Hall here.

Capablanca first disposed of H. G. Cole of London and next took on Sir G. A. Thomas, Bart., also of London, whom he defeated. Kostich won his games in succession from H. G. Conde of Mexico and Cole of London.

Capablanca and Kostich, each with a score of 4-0, are in the lead.

MARINES WIN RIFLE MATCH.

Six of Them Lead Field of 500 on Caldwell Range.

CALDWELL, N. J., Aug. 14.—The Marine Cup match, shot Wednesday at 600 yards and yesterday at 1,000 yards, resulted in a victory for the Marine Corps. The match was contested by more than 500 competitors, who represented the infantry, cavalry, navy, and Marine Corps, Philippine Scouts, civilians, and military academies.

One of the reasons given for the marine victory in winning the first, sixth, and tenth places was that they shot late in the day, after the variable winds and cloudiness had given place to sunshine.

The winners were:

First—Sergeant C. R. Thompson, U. S. M. C., of Quantico, Va. Score yesterday, 95; today, 98. Total, 193.

Second—Lieutenant J. A. Zimmerman, U. S. M. C., of Quantico, Va. Score, 96, 97—193.

Third—Sergeant G. F. Thompson, brother of winner, of Quantico, Va. Score, 98, 94—192.

Fourth—Lieutenant J. J. Faragher, U. S. M. C. Score, 95, 95—190.

Fifth—Sergeant M. W. Durham, U. S. M. C. Score, 99, 91—190.

Sixth—Corporal J. H. Waters, U. S. M. C. Score, 92, 97—189.

Ninth—First Lieutenant C. M. Miller, U. S. Cavalry. Score, 98, 91—189.

Tenth—Gunnery Sergeant C. L. Weigle, U. S. M. C. Score, 93, 95—188.

The rapid fire match will begin tomorrow at a 200-yard range. There will be a time limit of one minute for each ten shots.

The record for the matches was made today when sixty-three teams registered. It was announced that trap shooting would begin with a match next Monday.

A huge loving cup, twenty inches high, presented by the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, arrived today. It was received by the National Rifle Association, and will be awarded to the enlisted man making the highest score in the President's match, to be shot next Monday. The President, through the National Rifle Association, will present brassards to the high hundred men in the match. This is akin to the action of King George of England, who gives winners of the King's match brassards. The lettering of the brassards will be in gold thread, declaring each to be of the "President's Hundred."

OFFER PRIZES FOR UMPIRES.

New Association Seeking Higher Standard in Judging Tennis Play.

Edward C. Conlin, Chairman of the committee in charge of the National Tennis Umpires' Association, has sent to members of the association a bulletin outlining their activities in connection with the championships at Forest Hills the week of Aug. 25. Calling attention to the fact that responsibility for the conduct of the matches has been placed on the association, the bulletin says:

"We must make good by handling that part of the tournament in a way that will set the highest standard yet attained in that branch of the game. This can be accomplished only by the hearty co-operation of every member of this young association. Owing to the fact that the capacity of the clubhouse will be taxed to the utmost during the championships, it will be necessary to limit the honoring of membership cards of the N. T. U. A. to those who are actually officiating at the championship.

"To enable us to send you a card such as is issued to the officers and Executive Committee of the U. S. N. L. T. A. and to the players, will you be good enough to return the attached blank to the Chairman, 280 Broadway. To qualify as an official it is necessary that you agree to serve three days—Monday and Tuesday are two of the days necessary to qualify. This is due to the large number of officials needed to handle the many matches that have to be played during the early part of the tournament. Only the cards sent to the men actually officiating will be honored at the gate."

First, second, and third prizes will be awarded to umpires, linesmen, and foot fault judges. Attention is called to the necessity for all officials to be thoroughly posted on the rules and they are urged to read the umpire's manual carefully before the tournament begins. Umpires also are notified that they can secure the pin officially approved by the association on application to Paul B. Williams, 20 Broad Street, this city.

Further the bulletin says: "For the purpose of adopting a constitution and bylaws and electing the first set of officers of the National Tennis Umpires' Association and for a general discussion, a dinner will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 7:30 P. M. at the Vanderbilt Hotel. Help this young association to get started right by giving your thought as to how it can best be organized and attend this meeting, ready to make suggestions." Fred G. Anderson is Chairman of the Dinner Committee and reservations go to him at 27 William Street. Telephone Broad 1352.

VETERAN GUNNER VICTOR AT TRAPS

Powers Breaks Tie and Wins Principal Event in Grand American Handicap.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Channing Powers, one of the veterans of the game, won the principal event for men at the Grand American Trapshooting Handicap, now in progress at the South Shore Country Club, today. Powers, a resident of Decatur, this state, tied for first place in a clash of the Grand American Handicap Classification Event, with Dave Fauskee, of Worthington, Minn., and defeated him in a shoot-off, 20 to 18. Mrs. A. H. Winkler, of Chicago, won the Woman's Trapshooting championship.

The Grand American Classification Event was shot from the sixteen-yard rise at 100 targets with unknown angles, and attracted the usual large entry list. The fine shooting of the first half of the tournament was still in evidence and many scores over ninety were made. The event was divided into four classes—those in Class A, who had an average of 93 or better; those in Class B, from 80 to 93; those in Class C from 85 to 80, and Class D, under 85. As a matter of fact, two men in Class D shot off for the trophy and both of them, supposedly able to score in the eighties only, made marks of 95 in competition.

Fauskee and Powers both scored 99, Fauskee keeping his score unbroken until the last string of twenty birds. Powers missed one bird in his third twenty and then went to the finish without another miss.

In this event Fauskee was handicapped by several broken birds shot from the traps and his one miss was attributable to that fact, as the call of pull was twice followed by a broken bird. The third one was properly thrown and shot out straight from the trap. His shot was too low, the bird sailing fifty yards untouched.

In Class B Lieut. Commander F. P. Williams tied for first place with B. C. Ments, both scoring 99. In the shoot-off Williams won, breaking 20 to Ments's 18. Class D produced another tie, this one between B. C. Hayward of Weyauwega, Wis., and Ide Harris of Fairbury, Ill. Hayward won the shoot-off, Harris missing two birds. Class C was won by E. C. Wheeler, who scored 97.

Lieut. Commander F. P. Williams of the Paymaster's Department, U. S. N., won the army-navy handicap. He tied with Captain Tracy Lewis of Great Neck, L. I., for the title, each taking ninety-nine birds from the sixteen-yard rise. In the shoot-off Lewis missed two birds in succession.

Today's East versus West team match was won by the East by two birds. The final score was: East, 96.2; West, 96. Lee Rogers, shooting for the East, and Frank M. Troeh, shooting for the West, had the highest scores, both 99. So far Troeh is the high gun for the tournament. He has had two runs of 100 and one of 200. In addition, he scored 99 out of a possible 100 today and 197 out of 200 yesterday. He has missed only four times in 750 shots. In addition, he won the double target championship, killing 91 out of 100 birds.

Mrs. A. H. Winkler of Chicago won the Ladies' Trapshooting Handicap with a score of 90. Conditions for this event called for 100 targets at sixteen yards. Mrs. C. E. Groat of Los Angeles took second prize with 87.

The big event of the week will be held Friday, the Grand American Handicap. For this there are more than 800 entries. The winner is guaranteed $500, second $400, and third $300. It is expected, however, that the sums to be paid will be far in excess of these amounts, owing to the large number of entries.

STAR ATHLETES ARE READY.

Cracks Will Compete for Met. A. A. U. Titles Tomorrow.

Tomorrow promises to be a big day athletically in Jersey City. The citizens across the river are to celebrate the opening of the new Pershing Athletic Field, located at Central and Manhattan Avenues, Jersey City, and at the same time will witness the running of the Metropolitan A. A. U. senior track and field championships, the big feature of the celebration. Leading athletes of the Metropolitan district will compete for titles in nineteen events on the track and in the field, which will serve as an excellent tryout for local athletes who will participate in the national championships at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, Sept. 12 and 13.

The New York A. C. has one of the largest track teams in training for the national championships that has ever represented the Winged Foot club, and it is expected that it will uncover some dark horses in the senior "Mets," in which it have entered its full team.

Homer Baker, the former British half-mile champion; Jack Sellers, national indoor 600-yard champion and present metropolitan half-mile champion; Mike Devaney, 1917 half-mile champion, and A. L. Hulsenbeck, metropolitan junior half-mile champion, are among those who will fight it out for the title in the 880-yard championship.

The field in the five-mile race is an exceptionally high class one. There are at least four men in this race this year who have an even chance of winning. Charlie Pores, the present titleholder and also holder of the American record for five miles, heads the list, followed by Max Bohland, national cross-country champion; Hannes Kolehmainen, the Olympic champion distance runner, who will attempt to come back in this race, and Paddy Flynn of the Paulist A. C., who is running better in every race.

In the quarter-mile George Dernell, the present champion, will defend his title. Neil Shaughnessy, runner-up to Dernell in the metropolitan and winner of the national 440, also will be on hand again, as will Jimmy O'Brien, Loughlin Lyceum, national junior 300-yard champion, and W. I. Adams, New York A. C., winner of the metropolitan junior quarter.

Pete White, Salem-Crescent A. C.; Freddy Teschner, Glencoe A. C.; Frank Conway, Morningside A. C., and E. Perlman, Glencoe A. C., are among those who will compete in the sprints.

All of the local stars will take part in the field events, including the giant weight throwers, Pat McDonald, Matt McGrath, and Paddy Ryan, in the shot, 56, and hammer; George Bronder in the javelin, Dave Politzer in the running broad jump, Egon Erickson in the running high jump, Joseph Rothschild and J. Geist in the hop, step, and jump; Gordon Dukes and Anton Hulman in the pole vault, and many others of note.

In speaking of the new athletic field yesterday, Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, said that it would be one of the finest in the country when completed. "The work has been greatly retarded on account of the wet weather, but I feel that, in spite of this drawback, the track will be one of the fastest in the country when the athletes compete for metropolitan titles there on Saturday," said Mr. Rubien.

A. Harry Moore, Commissioner of Parks and Public Properties of Jersey City, who is responsible for the playgrounds and athletic field, has expressed a wish that the field be known as the Pershing Athletic Field. Many residents of Jersey City are in favor of calling it Moore Field in honor of Commissioner Moore, and their wishes may prevail when the field is officially named.

LAGONIA TO BOX ROSENBERG

Leading Amateurs Will Meet in N. Y. A. C. Ring Monday Evening.

At the New York Athletic Club next Monday evening there will be held one of the most promising amateur boxing bouts since William Spengler of the Union Settlement A. C. met Arthur Sheridan, Trinity Club, in 1916. Sam Lagonia, Bronxdale A. C., National A. A. U. middleweight champion, also Metropolitan Association, 158, 175, and heavyweight champion, will meet Dave Rosenberg, Glencoe A. C., National A. A. U., and New York State welterweight champion. The committee in charge has been trying for the last few months to arrange this bout, as these men are rated as the best "Simon Pures" in the country. Rosenberg has been coming to the front very rapidly, and his defeat of Andy O'Boyle, Bronxdale A. C., at the New York A. C. a week ago gives him a very good chance against Lagonia, who, the experts think, is one of the best boys that ever fought in the amateur ranks.

There will also be eight more special bouts at this tournament, and another feature should result when Harvey Bright, Mercury A. C., meets Herbert Rossmango in a return bout. The last time they meet Bright received a close decision.

YALE GRIDIRON MEN TO REPORT SEPT. 15

Orders Issued by Athletic Authorities—Sharpe Will Have Strong Material.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 14.—Orders for the Yale football candidates to report Sept. 15 at Yale Field have just been issued and a squad of about fifty players is expected then, to be increased when the Fall term of college opens. The opening game will be played with the Springfield Y. M. C. A. College Oct. 4.

Dr. Al Sharpe, Yale's new athletic director, will finish his duties at Cornell this week and will report at Yale about Sept. 1. His resident coaching staff is expected about the same time, including former Head Coach Jack Owsley, Dr. Billy Bull, the permanent Yale backfield coach; Dr. Arthur Brides, line coach, and George Moseley, who was end rush in 1916.

For the first time the team will have permanent quarters, as the proposed "Y" club will be started this Fall on High Street, affording training table, council, lounging, and reading rooms. Eddie Moriarity, formerly manager of a local supply house and known to Yale men the world over for thirty years, has been made manager.

The material is regarded as fully as strong as that of 1916, the last intercollegiate season. Six veterans will report: Captain Tim Callahan, centre; Carter Galt, guard; Chester La Roche, quarter back; Joe Neville, half back; Jim Braden, full back, and Babe Allen, end rush. The first four named were regulars and the two latter played in part of the final games of the season.

From the classes entered since Yale last had an intercollegiate team some excellent material will be available. Herbert Kempton, the former Exeter captain and freshman quarter back in 1916, will probably go to half back. Another player of the same eleven, Thorne Murphy, will be a fast candidate for the backfield. He is a son of the late Mike Murphy and plays shortstop at baseball. He is an unusually clever drop kicker.

Of the 1917 freshman players who will return Hammill and Acosta, linemen; French and Lay, half backs, and Williams, centre, are promising. Williams is a son of Dr. Harry L. Williams, the University of Minnesota coach. Eddie Eagan, the winner of the amateur boxing tournament in Paris, may be a candidate.

Curves and Bingles.

The bulletin from the Giants' physicians yesterday read: "Patient spent a restful night, is taking nourishment rapidly, and enjoyed a change for the better. Respiration and heart normal."

Great games in store for today. The Giants have Benton and Barnes to match against Hod Eller and Ray Fisher.

Benny Kauff and Frisch had a head-on collision under Wingo's fly in the first tilt. Frisch made the catch while Benney took a dive into the muddy turf.

Johnny Evers, the prominent citizen of Troy, saw the game and so did Joe Murray, the impresario of things athletic at Princeton. Bill Donovan also escaped from Jersey City long enough to see the pastime.

The Cincinnati pitchers seem to be blessed with wonderful control. Slim Sallee didn't issue a pass Wednesday, and the only walk that Ring allowed in 14 innings was an intentional pass to Doyle.

Luque, the Cuban, was tossing the ball suspiciously close to the heads of the Giant batsmen. Catcher Snyder objected to the bean ball and the two players almost waxed into a scrap in the second inning. The trouble came to a head when the Cuban slapped the ball on Benton too hard. Moran retired Luque in the third, which was good sense.

Charley Lee, the outfielder, who had such a fat batting average with Rochester in the International League, got a chance to play in left for the Reds during the latter part of the second game.

One pop bottle was thrown during the exciting second game. It was thrown in front of the Cincinnati bench but didn't hit anybody because there was no one in sight to hit.

The first play of the afternoon executed by young Frisch was a pippin. He ran almost back of first to knock down Roth's hopper and toss him out.

Roush was caught flat-footed off first in the initial game. When McCarty tossed to Fletcher Eddie tried to get back to first, and Hal Chase speared him out with one hand.

Frisch made his first big League hit in the fourth inning of the first game. It was a slashing single to right but he died stealing.

If the Giants lose the pennant it will be the deadly work of southpaw pitchers. Vaughn, Jake May, Cooper, Sallee, and Reuther have caused them a lot of trouble.

Ray Dunn, a semi-pro infielder from Troy, was sold to the Reds yesterday by Johnny Evers.

FINANCIAL MARKETS.

Stocks Decline with Cotton and Grain as Uncertain Factors Are Considered.

The support which the stock market received in buying orders yesterday was of the sluggish variety, by no means active enough to prevent a substantial decline of the industrial issues and a soft tone in the railroad department. The character of business was a counterpart of that of the day before. Prices worked upward somewhat during the early trading, only to meet with what looked like extensive sales for the short account, and at the end of the day net losses extending from 2 to 3 points were common. Mining shares were more unsettled than for some time past. A number of specialties found a very thin demand when moderate offerings appeared, and declined further than standard stocks. The total of sales was larger than on Wednesday, although at times the record of the tape disclosed indifference within the trading element, and the public was evidently still keeping away from the market.

The declining tendency of prices was by no means limited to stocks. The grain market in Chicago developed sharp signs of weakness and cotton moved downward. Considering the markets as a whole it would seem as though general consideration of current developments affecting labor and the movement to reduce the prices of necessities had application to the fall of quotations. Coupled with these matters of great uncertainty for production and distribution of goods at home was the further recession of some of the foreign exchanges. The Paris rate went lower than the minimum quotation established a week ago, sight drafts going to 7.87½, for a loss of 9 centimes on the day. Italian rates also recorded a new low record when the check quotation was marked down to 9.16½, compared with 9.08 at the close of Wednesday's business. Sterling was steady, but quotations on Germany and Austria displayed an uncertain tone. The shrinkage of francs and lire in terms of the dollar spoke more eloquently than before of the pressing demand for some sort of credit arrangements which will aid the foreign countries in buying needed supplies on this side. It is known that the subject has received more attention this week than for some time past in banking quarters, although the situation has by no means been neglected, and it is expected that within a few days a program will be announced for joint action by a number of lenders. Reports from the steel trade, for one, show that many large orders for export are in a tentative stage, and it is reasonable to suppose that the problem of financing them at a fair rate is an important factor upon which the closing of contracts waits.

Thus far the outgoing cotton movement has not been affected by the position of the exchanges sufficiently to prevent expansion over last year. In fact, the Government report for July, issued yesterday, showed that exports in the month, amounting to 528,902 bales, were more than 140 per cent. greater than in the corresponding month last year. Consumption in July, domestic and foreign, decreased 31,600 bales, which indicated that, while cotton operations abroad expanded largely, the home manufacture evidently suffered in contrast with the activity of a year ago, when military needs were heavy at the mills.

The call money market again disclosed large supplies, and the rate declined to 3½ per cent. in the afternoon.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Stocks Sell Off.

There was evidence of a distinctly professional tone in yesterday's stock market. During most of the day the price changes were not pronounced, barring a drive here and there against some special issue. The tendency, however, appeared to be downward, and in the last hour there was a sharp drive against prices throughout the general list, with recessions that in some instances amounted to from 2 to 3 points. Here and there some stocks had made progress toward higher levels in the first two hours of trading, but these gains melted away before the bear raid. There was no particular news to cause the weakness. That which has developed during the last week and a half, however, seemed to hang as a pall over the trading situation. Public buying for the time being has abated.

Whelan Stocks Under Fire.

One of the most pronounced attacks on quotations came against the stocks of the so-called Whelan group. United Retail Stores, one of the leaders, which recently absorbed United Cigar Stores, was strong in the early trading, but when there was the announcement that Mr. Whelan was sailing for Europe on a business trip, the Whelan stocks were offered freely, Retail Stores selling down from its high for the day, at nearly 110, to 106⅛. The drive against the issues was particularly sharp in the last hour. Tobacco Products, another Whelan stock, dipped down close to par, with a loss of more than 2 points.

Freight Rates and Steel.

Just at present it is asserted that the steel industry is not prone to make contracts for the distant future, a fact which is undoubtedly holding back the placing of some domestic orders. The reason for this is the matter of prices. In so far as the steel industry itself is concerned it can guage the future, but the "X" quantity in the calculations is the matter of freight rates. The Government, should it grant another wage increase to the railroad employes, might feel that it could justly ask for an increase in freight rates, and should that occur it would be a factor of consequence in the question of steel prices.

Fuel Oil Demands.

The demand for fuel oil is increasing at a rate hardly appreciated outside the oil industry itself, and, mayhap, the coal industry, which would suffer most from the use of oil in place of coal. As a matter of fact the displacement of coal by oil already amounts to millions of tons and the end is not in sight. Furthermore, the use of oil is not alone a consideration for the factories but for the hotels, office buildings, and the like, and even the private dwellings. Sales of fuel oil by one company are expected this year to be double those of a year ago.

Steel Common Under Fire.

During the last hour yesterday there was another drive against Steel common and the price was forced down so that the close was slightly less than 102. It is the custom to engender liquidation of stocks generally by a raid on steel, and this appeared to be the case yesterday. Reports are in circulation that there has been good buying of Steel each time that it approached par. On the other hand, it would seem that the stock was in good supply and without much support, after it had climbed some three to four points above par.

Pan American and Royal Dutch.

Two of the strong issues for a time yesterday were Pan American and Royal Dutch, both selling substantially above their previous close. The net declines were not great in either case when the selling wave hit the market, but the recessions from the high for the day were marked. In the case of Pan American it was more than 3 points, while Royal Dutch (New York) lost approximately the same. Royal Dutch (American) shares, which have for several days been stronger than the New York, went below the latter yesterday at the close with a decline of 6 points from the high.

Baldwin In Decline.

Baldwin Locomotive shares have been having a wide fluctuation recently and it has been remarked that the stock at times went against the market trend. This did not prove to be true yesterday, there being pronounced pressure against the issue in the final hour. Rumors regarding Baldwin have been so conflicting that speculators appear to be in doubt which way to play the stock from one day's close to the next. There was a net loss of nearly three points yesterday and a falling off from the high of more than 4 points.

Recovery by Tel. and Tel.

American Telephone and Telegraph, which was sold so freely toward the close on Wednesday, rallied yesterday and scored an advance of more than 2 points. From Boston came a report of what caused the break in Tel. and Tel. and if it had a grain of truth it would account for the recovery as well. This was that a trader in Boston had, to liven things there, facetiously offered a quotation on Telephone rights and from this it was said spread the report that new financing had been arranged. However that may have been the officials of the company deny that new financing is imminent. Also the rumor of a dividend reduction is deprecated in official circles.

Call Money Easy.

Whatever may be the reason call money has been in good supply and at comparatively low rates ever since the market began to break. It may be that brokerage loans have been substantially reduced by the market reaction and if so the situation is undoubtedly much improved. On the other hand, the continued low rates in a falling market are a cause for comment among those who were long of stock when the market was rising and rates sometimes climbed to 12, 15 and even 20 per cent.

No Cotton Exchange Holiday.

The Board of Managers of the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday rejected a petition for a holiday tomorrow. This action is contrary to that taken by the New York Stock Exchange. The difference probably can be attributed to the fact that the Cotton Exchange has not been so overburdened with work as has the Stock Exchange.

Another Foreign Credit Rumor.

Out-of-town dispatches were received in the financial district yesterday stating that active negotiations were being carried on between local and Western bankers for the formation of a huge new foreign investment trust corporation to handle the multiplicity of loans for which foreign Governments and cities are sounding this market. That such an organization is needed was readily admitted yesterday, but bankers, who have been close touch with the recommendations made some weeks ago by H. P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co. along similar lines, said they knew nothing of the movement or of any negotiations concerning it.

German Holdings Being Sold.

While the bond market continued comparatively dull yesterday, considerable interest was aroused by the report that offerings of old securities were large, and that many bonds and stocks now being put out were formerly held by German investors and were reaching this market via the neutral countries. Demand was reported yesterday to be restricted almost entirely to high yield, short-term paper, although it was reported that there had been some moderate buying of high-grade railroad bonds for investment account. This has been insufficient, however, to be reflected in the market.

Railway Loss $300,000,000.

For the first half of 1919 the railroads of the United States failed to earn the Government guarantee of $450,000,000 by almost $300,000,000, according to the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics, which drew its conclusions from the monthly returns made to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the carriers. The bureau also states that there was a decrease of more than 14 per cent. in freight ton mileage during the six months ended with June 30, 1919.

COMPANY TO BOOST EUROPEAN BUSINESS

Foreign Trade Corporation Will Be First Acceptance Concern Formed in This Country.

BIG BANKS BACK OF MOVE

Will Be Organized Under Laws of This State, with Capital of $5,000,000 or More.

Formal announcement of the incorporation of the first acceptance company to be formed in the United States, which will be known as the Foreign Trade Corporation, and will be organized under the laws of this State with a capital of $5,000,000 or $6,000,000, will probably be made within the next week, it was learned in the financial district yesterday.

The new concern will be sponsored by six or eight banks and trust companies. It is understood the Guaranty Trust Company, which has been instrumental in its organization, will be represented on the corporation's Board of Directors.

It was also said the new company does not plan to discount bills, as various discount companies, formed within recent years are doing, since such activity rapidly ties up working capital. To avoid this, only a straight acceptance business will be handled. The company will act as an agency or intermediate in establishing acceptance credits for others.

The volume of business which the new concern may have on hand at one time was estimated yesterday at approximately ten times its capital, or $50,000,000 or $60,000,000. This is a big improvement over the limitations, based on capital and surplus, set upon bank and trust companies as to the percentage of acceptance business they may do.

The general plan will follow closely the methods employed in British and Scottish acceptance corporations which, from the time of their formation years ago, have reported satisfactory earnings and have played an important part in the commercial life of the British Empire. Under the State laws the company will not have quite as broad powers as the European concerns.

How far the formation of the new corporation will go toward affecting the foreign exchange market is problematical. Bankers are inclined to believe that the volume of business handled will not be sufficient to be reflected. The general opinion seems to be that other similar companies will have to be organized and a large acceptance business developed before any effect may be expected on foreign exchange.

The Foreign Trade Corporation has no connection with the so-called Davison plan for financing Europe's reconstruction.

INCOME TAX RULES IN FORCE

New York Regulations Hold Despite Adverse Decision, Pending Appeal.

ALBANY, Aug. 14.—Since he will appeal from the decision of Judge Knox, holding unconstitutional that part of the State income tax law allowing exemptions for residents and none for non-residents, State Controller Travis announced today that all regulations for deducting and withholding taxes will be continued in force.

The announcement said all withholding agents should continue to withhold the percentage of salaries prescribed just as if no adverse decision had been made. It is expected that the appeal will be argued in the United States Supreme Court early in October.

SUES FOR TOBACCO DUTIES.

Government Alleges Misrepresentation by Liggett & Myers.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 14.—The Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, a New Jersey corporation, was sued in the Federal Court here today by the United States Government for $2,338.88, returned to the company as a refund of duties paid on importations of 6,770 pounds of tobacco. The total duties amounted to $2,362.48.

Among other things, the Government alleges that this tobacco was not used as the company had represented that it would be used. It is alleged that the company concealed facts in relation to the use of the tobacco imported.

WARFIELD PLAN URGED FOR RAILS

Security Owners' Association Counsel Explains It to Inter-State Commerce Board.

FIXED RETURN ON CAPITAL

Roads, Employes, and Public to Share Equally All Surplus Over 6 Per Cent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Warfield plan advocated by the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, for the settlement of the railroad problem, was presented today to the House Interstate Commerce Committee by Luther M. Walter, general counsel for that association.

Mr. Walter brought out the fundamentals of the plan providing for rates that would give a fixed minimum return on the capital invested, and the division of all surplus over that amount among the employes, the roads, and the public in equal shares.

He opposed the position of the railroad executives for Federal incorporation, for a Transportation Board, and for a Secretary of Transportation in the Cabinet, and brought out that under the minimum return plan the net result of railroad operations in the pre-war test period, which is the basis of Government rental, would have been the turning in of a surplus by some of the carriers for division with labor and the public. This would have been accomplished, he said, on the level of rates then prevailing.

"The keystone of the Warfield plan," said Representative Walter, "is a Congressional direction to the Interstate Commerce Commission that it shall make freight and passenger rates sufficient to pay operating expenses, maintain railroad properties, and give not less than 6 per cent. return upon the aggregate fair value of the property devoted to transportation in each of the principal traffic territories."

Plumb Plan Called Impossible.

The counsel for the security holders made only passing reference in his speech to the Plumb plan.

"It is impossible and not in line with our interests," he said, "and would not profit anybody. It may be used as a shibboleth, but I think that when it is examined and understood no one will support it."

The National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities, Mr. Walter explained, is a voluntary organization made up of holders of both stocks and bonds, now representing nearly $9,000,000,000 of the outstanding $19,000,000,000 of non-duplicated railroad securities.

"The largest single holders are the great life insurance companies, savings banks, universities and colleges, banks, and individual investors," he went on, "and approximately 30,000,000 people own the outstanding 40,000,000 life insurance policies. One-fourth of the investments made by these companies to protect the beneficiaries of their policy holders is in railroad securities. The great savings banks, whose members of the association have some 9,000,000 depositors, have largely invested their funds in railroad securities.

"The fundamental of the Warfield plan is that labor shall participate in the earnings of the carriers. We believe capital is entitled to its return of 6 per cent.; that labor is entitled to a fair wage, and that the excess earned by the carriers after paying fair wages and 6 per cent. on capital should be divided with labor and the public. Labor's share should be used for the establishment of an insurance system or for profit-sharing.

"By reason of the largely increased duties which will fall upon the Interstate Commerce Commission the securities holders ask Congress to create six regional interstate commerce commissions, subordinate to the commission, but with all the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission in their respective territories.

"Our plan contemplates that these regional commissions shall act as boards of conciliation in settling wage disputes, being a body close to the employes, the carriers, and the shippers.

"The issuance of securities of all carriers engaged in interstate commerce would be vested exclusively in Federal authority.

"The Warfield plan would create a corporation operated without profit to the railroads and managed by the nine Interstate Commerce Commissioners and eight railroad men selected by the railroads. This corporation would furnish expert advice to the commission in the operation of carriers, would unify terminals, and would operate equipment such as has been built by the Railroad Administration and allocated to the individual railroads. It would furnish a great clearing house for railroad operations and in times of emergency would constitute the directing force for the handling of railroads as a single system.

"Our association is opposed to the compulsory Federal incorporation of railroads, to the provision for a new Cabinet officer, or for a Federal transportation board, or any board having supervisory powers over the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"We are opposed to the creation of new and larger regional companies because it means the elimination of competition in service, and competition in service is the thing which the public demands and which the Railroad Administration has not furnished. Many shippers and manufacturers' organizations have approved our plan. It is simple, easy of application, and can be made immediately effective. Under it investors will feel secure, labor will receive a fair wage, and the shipper will obtain the service which he pays for."

The 6 Per Cent. Return.

In speaking of the 6 per cent. return, Mr. Walter declared:

"We use the property investment account of the carriers as the basis upon which to apply the 6 per cent. because the Interstate Commerce Commission in the 5 per cent. case found that the only basis available for prompt determination of the sufficiency of the return upon investment. In that case the commission found that the average return upon property investments had been 5.63 per cent. over the period from 1900 to 1914. That

"Under the Warfield plan, Congress is asked to direct the Commission to furnish a return from rates of not less than 6 per cent. When two-thirds of the excess earned by individual carriers over 6 per cent. upon their property investment has been placed in the excess earnings fund, there will remain to the carriers an average earnings of 5.63 or only .14 per cent. more than the commission found was not adequate to the public needs and for the railroad needs. The Supreme Court, in its last term held in the Lincoln gas case that the return of 6 per cent. on the property devoted to the public use was the minimum which the law would permit."

Had the Warfield plan been in effect during the three years ending June 30, 1917, there would have been excess earnings of $126,000,000. Mr. Walter told the committee.

"The corporations' earnings in excess of 6 per cent. would have received one-third, $42,000,000," he said, "but there would have been left to divide between labor and the public some $84,000,000. During that three-year period, had the Warfield plan been in effect, every customary dividend could have been paid. The only effect would have been to reduce the corporate surplus of carriers to whose earnings the plan applied."

Other advocates of the Warfield plan will appear before the committee tomorrow.

COTTON HAS DROP OF 75 TO 82 POINTS

Market Breaks on Initial Trading, Recovers Slightly, Then Slips Backward.

HIGH-COST INQUIRY NOTICED

Weather Conditions Almost Ignored —Liverpool Also Declines Throughout Day.

Mixed forces ruled in the cotton market yesterday, but the net result for the day was a decline that amounted to from 75 to 82 points. The weather map, which has been a factor recently, was almost, if not altogether, ignored or overshadowed. On the basis of weather alone prices might have been expected to advance, for the unfavorable crop conditions were still making themselves manifest throughout the eastern section of the belt.

The initial trading saw prices break from 24 to 36 points and, while there was a recovery after this, it was not spirited in the ordinary interpretation of the word, and quotations again began to slip backward during the afternoon with the close practically at the low for the day for the active positions.

A factor of influence in the situation was undoubtedly the belief that in the drive against high prices by the Government, wearing apparel would be included, which would make for uncertainty in the goods market and perhaps curtail commitments. Southern selling was also in evidence to bring about a decline but the major part of the selling pressure originated locally. This was made up of liquidation of long holdings and the putting out of short lines by the professional element.

The Liverpool market hardly was in accord with New York, declines of some 50 points being recorded at the opening, whereas to be in harmony with the local market they should have been nearer 40. Later the break was extended and Liverpool was reported late in the day to be a seller here.

The Census Bureau's report on cotton consumption for July might ordinarily have been construed as a bull argument. It showed that the American mill consumption was 509,793 bales, exclusive of linters, and that the exports amounted to 529,000 bales, as compared with 219,000 bales in July of last year. This means that there was a total of 1,038,000 bales taken for domestic and foreign consumption in July, or an amount much greater than was expected.

Guaranty Trust Denies Liability.

The statement that the Guaranty Trust Company is responsible for $538,000 due note creditors of the Seaboard Steel and Manganese Corporation, now in the hands of a receiver, was denied yesterday by the trust company, which explained that the company merely acts as the trustee under the indenture and that it has no other connection with the Seaboard Corporation.

To the Stockholders of the

Maxim Munitions Corporation and Maxim Corporation

BEING the individual holding the largest number of shares of stock of the above Corporation, I have carefully gone over its assets and affairs with the view of ascertaining what might possibly be now done to further the interests of its stockholders.

As you are probably aware, a creditors' committee has been formed and also a bondholders' committee to look after their interests, and it seems to me to be important that a stockholders' committee should be formed at this time to protect their interests. If such a committee is formed and action taken immediately, I believe that the stock holdings of the shareholders can be made of considerable value. In order for this committee to properly handle the matter, it would be necessary to place at their disposal a reasonable sum of money to meet the necessary expenditures to be incurred in connection therewith, and for this purpose it is suggested that the stockholders of the corporation contribute to the committee the sum of ten (10) cents per share of their respective stock holdings in the company.

The UNITED STATES CORPORATION COMPANY, at 65 CEDAR STREET, NEW YORK CITY, former transfer agent of the Maxim Munitions Corporation, has agreed to act as agent in this matter and upon a payment by the stockholders of ten (10) cents per share (said payment to be made to the order of G. Jason Waters, syndicate treasurer), the stockholders may deposit their stock with the said United States Corporation Company on or before August 26th, 1919.

The stockholders so depositing their stock will have the privilege of withdrawing said stock if they are not perfectly satisfied with the proposition of the stockholders' committee, which will be submitted to them at a later date so that there is no commitment on their part unless they are thoroughly satisfied and approve of the action recommended by the committee.

An immediate reply from you will greatly facilitate the matter.

August 14th, 1919.

G. JASON WATERS,
Care of The United States Corporation Company,
65 Cedar Street, New York.

LABOR BIG FACTOR IN CLOTHING COST

Investigator Finds Future of Industry Depends on Recruiting of American Workers.

FORCE SLOWLY DWINDLES

Manufacturers Report There Are Barely Toilers Enough to Supply the Demand.

An important factor in the present record prices asked for wearing apparel is the labor situation confronting clothing and garment manufacturers. The shortage of labor existing in various industries is especially acute in the needle trades, unable now to draw recruits from foreign countries and losing, in fact, skilled operatives who are returning to their native lands. In an interview Alfred Fantl, a resident buyer in this city representing over 100 prominent retailers throughout the country, explained that an investigation which he has conducted during the past month has proved to him that the future of the garment industry depends upon action taken to recruit the dwindling ranks of the needle trade workers with American-born operatives. Such action, he believes, could best be started by issuing a call for 500 ex-soldiers who are looking for training and employment in an industry where the wages are good, the work easy, and conditions the best to be found.

"I have obtained the views of the most important manufacturers in the city," Mr. Fantl said, "relative to the labor problem brought up by the circumstance that for the last five years skilled needle workers have not come to this country from Europe and that the doors of America will be closed to them for the next five years. From what I have been told it seems evident that, unless the trade organizations in the apparel and kindred lines take some action to recruit the industry with men and women of American birth at once, the garment industry will find itself ten years from now at a very low ebb. Large manufacturers of coats, suits, dresses, skirts and waists in New York City show a desire to meet the serious situation which has come up, but they feel that it would be better if some steps were taken to solve the problem by outside interests or interests indirectly affiliated with the industry. In this connection I might suggest that a bureau of employment be opened immediately under the auspices of the trade organizations in the apparel trades, and, through an elaborate and well-prepared publicity campaign, acquaint American-born men and women of the splendid opportunities open to them in the industry.

"As an initial step, it might be well for such a bureau to issue a call for 500 men who have seen service abroad and who are now looking for steady employment in work for which they might be specially trained. In this way the seeds might be sown for meeting one of the gravest problems affecting an American industry today.

"The present workers in the needle trades are composed chiefly of foreign born men and women who received their training in Europe. Each year they are dwindling in number, the men growing old and the girls marrying. The question arises, 'Who will make the wearing apparel of the country?' The manufacturers have never attempted to educate native-born Americans to come into their industry, and they admit now that clothing will reach unheard of prices unless another source of labor supply is opened up. As it is, they report that there are scarcely enough workers to meet the demands of the trade at the present time. This means, of course, that abnormal wages will soon have to be paid to obtain the services of the constantly diminishing number of skilled operatives. This means levying a tax for the shortage on the workers in other branches of industry, who will have to pay more for the clothes they wear."

In describing present conditions in the needle industry Mr. Fantl said that the manufacturers had not taken proper measures to clear the public mind of the old tradition of the "sweat shop."

"Even under normal conditions the garment industry," he said, "has been working too much under cover, and the associations have never seen fit to tell the American public how garments are made and where they are made. This has been a wrong course, and no one knows it better than the manufacturer. Sanitary conditions in the garment trade were never so well taken care of as they are today, and the general labor conditions were never as good, as far as hours and wages are concerned. The sweat shop days were ended some years ago."

Complaints Quickly Adjusted.

So far, the efforts of the National Retail Dry Goods Association to adjust cases where sellers have seen fit to ask increases over contract or order prices have met with success in every instance. The co-operation of several of the associations of manufacturers has been enlisted in the work and has proved valuable in reaching these adjustments. A number of complaints made by members have been taken up with the individual manufacturers, who have either withdrawn their demands for advances or have given sufficient reasons why the advances should be paid.

Credit Men Busier Than Ever.

Although the financial condition of most houses in the textile and ready-to-wear lines was never better than it is at the present time, the duties of the credit men have in no way been lightened. Trade may be in a prosperous condition, but the credit men are busier than ever, and the reason lies in the shifting about of customers. A buyer will find that he cannot place orders for his entire needs with certain houses, so he will have to try others. This means that he goes to concerns with whom he has never dealt and who must look up his standing. One credit association reports that requests for information have doubled in the last six months.

Bearing of Exports.

A number of rumors among local clothiers have it that one of the chief reasons for the small amount of goods that will be produced by mills for next Spring lies in the volume of export business that has been accepted. This view, however, does not find much open support among the mill agents, who explain that it is not exports, but slow and small production, coupled with the large amount of Fall orders taken, that will result in short supplies for the next season. Notwithstanding this, it is known that among the representative mills the feeling is that if an export business of respectable dimensions is built up the market will gain a good deal in the stability it has lacked when dependent upon the domestic demand alone.

Many Novel "Tams" Seen Here.

The "tam" is taking many different aspects at present. It is being introduced as usual for between-seasons wear, and is shown in many softly-draped varieties much on the order of a full turban. All-over embroidered duvetyn is regarded as exceptionally attractive in a "tam" of this type. This material is seen in all the modish dark shades, embroidered in silk floss and in pretty designs of gold and silver thread. One popular-priced "tam" is made of black panne velvet and is very "smart" with a band of silk floss inserted. This hat is lined with light-colored taffeta, which can be seen through the transparent silk floss banding. Another is made of velvet in a full shirred effect, with a plainly fitted rounded top. A long tassel of silk floss trims this hat.

Criticism May Go to Extremes.

What the thinking men in the wholesale and retail lines are afraid of in the present agitation against profiteers is that the public may be led to believe that all prices above pre-war levels are not warranted. The head of one of the largest distributors of underwear and knit goods stated yesterday that it is pretty generally known that most sellers today are getting more than their ordinary profits, but he mentioned further that in a number of cases the additional margin is put on goods in order to take care of higher production costs that may come up while the merchandise is in process of manufacture. The danger in the present situation, he said, is that criticism of present inflated prices may reach an extreme stage, so that the demands of the public and their representatives may wipe out even normal profits.

Labor Problem in Clothing Trade.

The labor problem in the clothing trade, which is engaging the lion's share of attention at present, is much the same as that which exists in the women's wear trade, namely, a shortage of help, with its accompanying evil, the competitive bidding for employes. A number of new shops have been opened up by contractors who were forced to seek their operatives from the shops of other manufacturers, thus causing a heavy demand for labor along with record prices. Those who have studied conditions in the industry believe that the only means of relieving the situation is to start the training of new workers in about the same manner as the Rochester and Chicago markets. It was pointed out that, with the Government putting forth every effort to obtain employment for returned soldiers, a concerted plan of action toward establishing a labor supply for the industry would yield the best results.

Raw Silk Prices Easier.

The week has brought a somewhat easier tone to raw silks in leading world markets, though this is not the case with all of them. The worst break was at Yokohama, where prices dropped early in the week to a basis of 2,160 yen for Sinshiu No. 1. Since then the poor cable service has left the local market more or less at sea as to how things are going. The Canton market is quiet, and reelers are a little more inclined to make some concession to attract new business. Shanghai is firm, with the demand light. Milan continues strong, with extra classical Italians quoted at 190 lire. Business with both American and European interests, however, is hardly more than fair. Lyons is firm and unchanged. Pending the settlement of labor troubles in the manufacturing centres, the local market is quiet. Prices are somewhat irregular, in sympathy with the break at Yokohama.

Gray Goods Break Again.

New low records for recent months were established in the local gray goods market yesterday, when some "distressed" 38½-inch 64-60s were let out by second hands at 15½ cents for spot delivery. This price, which was the Government wartime maximum for the construction in question, might have been shaded still further, it was intimated, by a really big buyer. Most first hands are reported willing now to sell surplus goods well under the prices they have been holding for, but any efforts in this direction, it is said, are promptly met by further slashing on the part of the speculative element among second hands. For 39-inch 68-72s, for quick delivery, second hands accepted 18¾ cents. In the sheetings were some 5.55-yard goods from the same sources at 13¼ cents. The clothing styles were described as being "fretful," in anticipation of possible labor troubles in that field.

NATION-WIDE DRIVE FOR BETTER STOCK

All Animal Industry Interests Join in Campaign for Pure Breeding.

FIND AMERICA LAGGING

Milk Production Per Cow Far Behind That of Denmark—States and Nation to Work Together.

Looking forward to the future food needs of this country's increasing population, the Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the State agricultural colleges and other agencies interested in live stock improvement, announces a national better live stock crusade, to get actively into motion on Oct. 1 under the slogan of "better sires—better stock."

The plan is to hasten the replacement of the multitude of scrub domestic animals in the United States with pure bred or high grade stock and also to improve the quality of pure breds themselves. It has been evolved through long and careful observation of the live stock industry in this country and after extensive consultation with specialists and breeders.

For many years this country has domiciled thousands of the finest specimens of live stock in the world, but in spite of that fact the quality and productive capacity of the average farm herd and flock is still low. For instance, the average dairy cow in the United States yields only about 4,000 pounds of milk a year, scarcely two-thirds the average production in some European countries, such as Denmark. The United States has thousands of cows which have milk yields of more than 12,000 pounds—double the Danish average—but on the other hand it has hundreds of thousands which are kept for milk and yet yield only a small fraction of the product of the best cows, although requiring nearly as much feed and care.

The difference in milk yield is due in large measure to a difference in breeding, but a herd of low production can be improved rapidly by the use of a pure bred sire from a family of high producers.

Among all classes of live stock a similar condition exists. Proper breeding of beef animals results in better and more uniform stock, having a greater percentage of desirable cuts of meat and a smaller quantity of bone, offal, and inedible parts. Likewise in swine, sheep, goats and poultry production, the kind of parent stock largely determines the quality and market value of the products. The crusade for improvement now to be undertaken is the outgrowth of investigations in genetics, of live stock observations in many countries, and a close study of public opinion. In most live stock regions of the world a gradual evolution toward better live stock has been taking place for centuries. The rapidity of these changes has an important bearing on world commerce and on the prosperity of the nations in which improvement has been greatest.

Individual and community efforts in many cases have resulted in marked live stock progress in small areas. The Islands of Jersey and Guernsey are familiar examples of this sort of accomplishment, but no large country so far has endeavored in an organized way to improve all its live stock simultaneously.

Officials of the Bureau of Animal Industry and others who have considered the problem from every angle are convinced that it is possible to hasten the natural course of live stock evolution with benefit to the nation. They are confident also that the live stock men of the country are eager to undertake the task.

The means of accomplishing most of the improvement—which affects about 200,000,000 head of live stock, besides poultry—will be through wider distribution and increased use of pure bred sires and dams.

Once the use of pure bred sires becomes general throughout the country, the process of grading up will be rapid. Many experiments and also practical experience, when good sires are used, show that within three generations most of the individuals in a scrub herd headed by a pure bred male resemble pure bred animals in appearance. In a few more generations, under skillful breeding, the former scrub stock is graded up to such an extent that for production of meat and other animal products, they are practically as useful as pure breds. The chief difference between a "high grade" animal and a pure bred is in the value for breeding. Only the latter can be used in producing pure bred breeding stock. Moreover only pure breds are eligible to registry.

The Department of Agriculture through its co-operative State agencies is preparing to supply live stock raisers with printed information that tells in popular language the best animal breeding methods and the advantages to be derived from their use. In addition the department is to furnish an official emblem, suitable for display, to every farmer agreeing to use only pure bred sires and in other ways to co-operate in the better live stock effort. To obtain the emblem a farmer or breeder will be asked to fill out a simple blank showing the number and kind of live stock he possesses and also to declare that all his male breeding animals are pure bred. From the number and nature of the blanks received the department will be able to measure the progress of the crusade, and at the same time obtain valuable statistical information which will be made public at intervals.

The betterment of the nation's live stock is by no means a new idea. The topic has been discussed at length from public platforms and in the agricultural press for many years. Agricultural colleges, breeders' associations, live stock organizations, banking and business interests, live-stock judges and experts—these and other forces are responsible chiefly for the progress already made and the sentiment for further development.

A general co-ordination of the work, however, now seems desirable, with a minimum of red tape and a maximum of red blood. So far as the activities of the department in the crusade are concerned, the Bureau of Animal Industry, in co-operation with the State colleges of agriculture, will be responsible for live stock policies, especially the breeding work and scientific problems. The States Relations Service of the department will work in co-operation with the colleges of agriculture for carrying the plan of action through the extension divisions to every live stock owner who can be reached. County agents and other field workers of the department and the colleges will be local sources of information and assistance.

While it is believed that stockmen of the country naturally look to agricultural officials to inaugurate a crusade of this kind, the problem primarily is one of adequate production and effective distribution. Responsibility for success depends accordingly on breeders and all live stock owners.

For several months the department has been making an analysis of live-stock sentiment as expressed in the farm press and in correspondence received in its various offices. Of all the topics discussed the need for a better quality of domestic animals has been pre-eminent. To make the crusade against scrub live stock most effective the department asks for constructive ideas and suggestions from all sources. The following classes of live stock are to be included in the campaign for improvement: Cattle, horses, asses, swine, sheep, goats, and poultry.

In spite of the conspicuous merits of the task about to be undertaken there are also a number of obstacles. It is recognized that sentiment in favor of pure-bred sires, while strong, is by no means unanimous. To win the support of those who, through lack of interest or opposition, fail to take their part in the crusade against scrub live stock is one of the problems to be met.

The cost of desirable pure-bred sires is another important factor which has long been an obstacle to live stock improvement. Co-operative ownership divides the expense considerably, and the increased value of the young stock raised also helps to overcome that objection. In addition the campaign is expected to stimulate a greater production of pure-bred breeding stock of good quality.

The question of controlling the spread of live stock diseases when animals are transferred from one herd to another or are used in community circuits, is still another problem. This matter, however, can be handled by vigilance in field inspection and by the adoption by breeders of well-recognized preventive measures.

There are other problems also more or less knotty, but not presenting difficulties of an insurmountable character. In connection with the drive on scrub sires there will also be waged a campaign against the "scrub pure bred," as it is called, in the endeavor to eliminate, as breeding animals, pure breds of inferior quality. It will be observed that the plan in no way interferes with any work in live stock improvement now being conducted, but instead it is expected to make all the work more definite and effective by providing official recognition for progressive breeders, including members of boys' and girls' clubs. Friendly competition is expected to spring up among communities and entire States, each of which will seek to excel in the rate of live stock progress.

The following authenticated incidents are cited by the department in its "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign to show what American farmers and stockmen may expect through improved methods of breeding and handling animals:

A New Jersey boy was influenced to buy a high-grade cow for $155. The cow on freshening gave 24 quarts of milk, and kept it up for a long period. The father owned five cows, average cows for the neighborhood. They were fresh in the Spring. Their product did not equal the product of the cow owned by the son—five times the labor and five times the feed, in comparison with one good cow.

An Oklahoma farmer had two registered Shorthorn yearling bulls that he priced at $100 each for breeding purposes. A butcher saw the bulls, asked the price, but learned that they were registered and that it would take $100 each to buy them. He bought them, turned them into beef, and stated that they were the cheapest cattle he had bought in a long time, because they cut the better kinds of beef, and more of it.

In several counties of North Carolina more pure-bred live stock has been purchased during the last year at the higher prices which have prevailed than in any other year. Hogs were never so high, and yet hundreds of boys bought pure-bred pigs at high prices with the expectation of selling their offspring. Through the county agents many hundreds of pigs bred by the boys have been sold at good prices, and this is stimulating the extension of pure-bred hogs.

In a Southern community, following the introduction of well-bred poultry for breeding, there was noticeable improvement in the size of the next generation of the fowls. The average weight of the birds marketed was 25 per cent. greater than previously, according to the observation of an experienced poultry buyer.

SHOWS EX-KAISER WEAK AND VAIN

Admiral Foss, in a New Book on the German Collapse, Tells of Wilhelm's Freaks.

PROGRESSIVE ABSURDITIES

By JULIAN GRANDE.

BERNE, June 25.—Admiral Foss, in his book "Revelations Concerning Our Collapse," devotes a long chapter to the fallen German Emperor. He is very anxious to explain that he is not kicking a man who is down, because in 1902 he held and has since expressed, both verbally and in writing, views about the ex-Kaiser precisely similar to those which he now sets forth. In many respects Admiral Foss merely confirms the opinion already formed by most impartial persons about William II.—that he is an abnormal and very mixed character, quick in the uptake, and fascinating when he chooses so to be, but morbidly vain, very superficial, and very ungrateful, with an inordinate idea of his own importance, and convinced that he is capable of a great deal of which he is wholly and constitutionally incapable. Always highly nervous, not to say neurotic, so much so, indeed, that more and more persons competent to judge consider him as having long been not quite in his right mind, he has suffered greatly during the latter part of the war from convulsive attacks.

After reading Admiral's Foss's chapter on William II.—a chapter, which it must be admitted is not embittered—it is impossible not to reflect that pomp, publicity and ceremony were as his very life blood to the ex-Kaiser, and that no one could less easily endure the quiet life of a private person, whether at Amerongen or elsewhere. He has not, according to the Admiral, perseverance and diligence enough to master any study, not to speak of so delicate a matter as statecraft. He has always been profoundly interested in something for a time, but only for a short time; then he must needs fly off to something else. Such a man could hardly console himself by absorption in any subject.

Failed at Critical Moments.

As Admiral Foss reminds us, the ex-Kaiser went through life thumping his fist, often metaphorically but sometimes literally, on the table, and saying, "I will have this" or "I must have that," or "This, that or the other must be done." Yet when the time came for taking prompt, firm decisions, he was invariably found wanting—a deficiency which the ex-Admiral primarily attributes to William II.'s lack of nerves. Moreover, he could not bear the thought of others doing things and getting the credit therefor, and could not believe that any technician or expert might know more about something than he did himself.

For instance, Admiral Foss relates that when the German Admiralty Office asked for plans to be submitted for the construction of a battleship, the ex-Emperor immediately wanted to send in his design. A technical expert was deputed to help him, who very unfortunately had not been engaged in practical work for some time past, and consequently was "rusty." Thus when the ex-Kaiser's plan for the battleship was examined, it was found that, had the vessel ever been constructed and launched, she would immediately have toppled over. Again, two learned experts were one day summoned to the ex-Emperor to advise him about some important work in progress. He received them charmingly, but what was their astonishment when he delivered them a lecture lasting two hours, and then they had to leave without having been able to get a word in edgeways. In the anteroom, as they were leaving, one looked at the other and said aghast: "We might have saved ourselves this expedition."

Admiral Foss, however, is far too much distressed by the straits to which Germany has been reduced, largely (as he thinks) owing to the obstinacy and self-sufficiency of her ruler, to have any inclination to laugh or to see the humorous as well as the serious side of William II.'s escapades and tactless speeches. The old Admiral quotes a long series of his former imperial master's sayings, beginning with 1888 and continuing until far on into the war, and it is only when these speeches and sayings are read thus, one after the other, year after year, steadily progressing in foolishness, that their arrogance, provocativeness, we might almost say craziness, is fully brought to light. They were, of course, largely destined to irritate Britannia, who, however, sat quietly by, looking on smiling, and only once made a remark. This was when Wilhelm II. sent a telegram to the Czar of Russia, in which "the Admiral of the Atlantic" sent his best wishes to "the Admiral of the Pacific." Britain then gently but officially reminded the ex-Kaiser that not he but Lord Fisher was Admiral of the Atlantic.

Admiral Foss says he remembers that, after a long series of these fulminating discourses, a French-Swiss observed: "Your Emperor is threatening the whole world." I believe this French-Swiss was none other than a well known and charming old Genevese professor, still alive, and much absorbed since the war in Red Cross work.

Attitude Toward Americans.

The ex-Kaiser is also accused by Admiral Foss of having run after American and other money kings, and of having shown scant courtesy to a certain American Ambassador to Berlin, who, not being very well off, had to live simply, and could not make a great display.

Again, the Admiral tells us that when Prince Henry visited the United States and was received very courteously, not, however, as the brother of the German Emperor, but as the grandson of Queen Victoria, the ex-Kaiser did not perceive this distinction with a difference, and took all the attentions for himself. Similarly, when the late Colonel Roosevelt visited Germany the ex-Kaiser was very anxious to do him reverence, and even named a battleship after his daughter; but he did not see that Colonel Roosevelt took his measure, as was proved by his anti-German attitude during the war.

Admiral Foss does not hesitate to accuse the ex-Kaiser of continually interfering with the plans of the German General Staff, at any rate during the first year or two of the war, and this because he feared that a victory might be won with which he could not and would not be credited. The German people and their representatives, he admits, however, were mainly responsible for the ex-Kaiser and his follies, much more than the German Constitution with its insufficient restrictions on the power of the monarch. The German people and their representatives, until almost the very last, applauded their Kaiser's actions, and made him constantly mistake his folly for wisdom. After a time, therefore, he could never be brought to believe that he was not infallible or that he was often very unwise.

When matters in Germany were becoming very serious, we are told, and becoming so largely owing to William II.'s ill-judged interference, the then King of Bavaria took upon himself to make representations to his fellow-sovereign of Prussia, and an extremely lively conversation resulted, apparently in the presence of a considerable number of courtiers and other witnesses. It ended by the Bavarian monarch exclaiming: "You'll have to answer to history for that," leaving the room, and banging the door behind him. As matters did not improve, a number of anxious, patriotic Germans waited upon the ex-King of Bavaria in Munich, and their spokesman told him plainly that no improvement could be expected unless his Bavarian Majesty would thump on the table with his fist and shout: "This damned dirty business must stop!" to which the old King answered, smiling: "But I've done that already." At present ex-King Ludwig is ending his days in German Switzerland, his mind quite unhinged, owing to all that he has gone through.

Admiral Foss assures us that the ex-German Emperor was the incarnation of most of the chief faults of the German nation. He was a weak man, indeed; the only strong thing about him was his language. It would have gone better with him had he remembered the famous saying: "It is not the anointing oil which makes Kings. Kings make themselves, or else they remain scoundrels, the most evil of all brewers of strife."

PROVES HE IS A DIPLOMAT.

Peruvian Attache's Polite Note Wins Dismissal of Charge.

A charge against the Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy, J. Alvarez de Buenavista, was dismissed in the Traffic Court yesterday as the result of a diplomatic letter he wrote, raising the question of lack of jurisdiction. Mr. de Buenavista had received a regulation summons to appear to explain why he had failed to stop his automobile at the signal of a traffic policeman. The letter, which Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb made a part of the court record, read:

Consulate General of Peru, New York.

The Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy presents his compliments to his Worship, the Chief City Magistrate, and with reference to the summons to appear at the Magistrate's Court on the 12th inst., hopes that his absence will not be construed as wanting in respect to the Court, but as being due only to arrangements for leaving the city which could not be delayed, and due, further, to the belief that Mr. de Buenavista's presence was not required, since such matters are usually effected through the State Department.

The Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy wishes to assure his Worship that it is always his practice, as must be apparent from his official position in Washington, to scrupulously comply with all regulations, but in the present instance, the police officer, Edward Collins, raised his hand so suddenly that the machine, which was already at the corner with required speed to effect a crossing, could not be brought to a standstill within the prescribed limits.

J. Alvarez de Buenavista takes advantage of this opportunity to tender the expression of his highest consideration.

New York, Aug. 11, 1919.

Magistrate Cobb disposed of 150 cases, dismissing many because of insufficient evidence. He announced that no further leniency would be shown to taxicab chauffeurs charged with trying to create a taxi monopoly at stands in the theatrical and hotel districts. All taxicab men convicted yesterday received jail sentences of from one to five days and were fined. Three chauffeurs, who admitted substituting for applicants for licenses, were sent to the Workhouse.

Rose Williams, 21 years old, a milliner, of 160 West Ninety-eighth Street, was fined $10 for driving a car without an operator's license. Her automobile collided with an elevated railway column at 200th Street and Tenth Avenue, injuring herself and damaging the car.

ENJOINS TRIAL OF PRISONER

Lawyer of Accused Man Obtains Writ Against Judge McIntyre.

Judge McIntyre, in General Sessions, was served with a writ of prohibition yesterday to prevent him from trying immediately Peter Regan, a brother of a police lieutenant, charged with grand larceny and forgery as a second offender. The Judge had notified William J. Fallon, the attorney for Regan, that the trial must proceed, although Fallon insisted he was engaged in another case in the Federal Court.

Supreme Court Justice Richard P. Lydon signed the writ, which ordered the trial suspended until the prisoner's counsel could appear for him. Judge McIntyre said he had intended to assign counsel for the accused.

At the request of Judge McIntyre Assistant District Attorney Robert S. Johnstone was sent to explain the case to Justice Lydon. Later it was said at the District Attorney's office that the Justice would vacate the writ, and the trial would go on today. Judge McIntyre said the application for the writ was of such unusual procedure that he desired the District Attorney to refer the subject to the higher authorities, to determine if it was not "contumacious conduct."

Regan was arrested two weeks ago charged with operating the so-called "match game" on R. G. Hamilton of San Francisco. He is said to have obtained five traveler's checks, amounting to $250, which he attempted to cash. It was alleged that Police Lieutenant Martin Regan, a brother, tried to induce Hamilton not to prosecute. Assistant District Attorney Waugh said some of the witnesses had been subpoenaed to appear at the Police Department after the trial, when the charge against Lieutenant Regan will be heard.

URGE ROOSEVELT IDEALS.

Westerners Want Part of Memorial Fund Used to Spread Them.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The "Western idea" of a fitting memorial to Theodore Roosevelt was voiced here today at the first of ten regional meetings to be held by the Roosevelt Memorial Association. This idea, backers of which are delegates from West of the Alleghenies, is that not more than half of the $5,000,000 fund to be raised for a memorial should be used at Oyster Bay and that half or more should be used to establish a Roosevelt foundation dedicated to advancing the ideals for which Roosevelt stood. At the meeting, it is said, there was some opposition on the part of the men from the East, who characterized the Westerners' plan as "nebulous."

Governor Lowden presided at the meeting, which was held in the Blackstone Hotel. The principal speaker was William Boyce Thompson of New York, President of the association. Among those who attended were Governor Goodrich of Indiana, and James R. Garfield of Ohio.

"This collection of funds is not to be a 'drive' in the sense in which the Liberty Loan campaigns and similar war time enterprises were 'drives,'" said Mr. Thompson. "We do not desire to exert pressure on any person who is unwilling to contribute to the fund. What we intend to do is to have our system so complete that not one person in all the land may lack the opportunity to participate in this movement."

PROTECTS ALIEN WORKERS.

Chicago Federal Judge Cautions Packers Not to Slight Them.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Federal Judge Samuel Alschuler in the packing house wage arbitration hearing today advised the packers that they should not discriminate against non-citizens in employing workers. The ruling was made after union leaders had charged that American basic industries were favoring American citizens.

The Judge's action, which was temporary, followed the admission of E. J. Elliott, Employment Manager of Libby, McNeill & Libby, that in hiring workers preference was given to American citizens.

Union representatives had declared that following walkouts of workers last week, the packing firms had failed to re-employ a number of Polish and other foreign workers who were not citizens. They believed that basic industries generally were following that procedure.

Judge Alschuler also said such a course of discrimination might lead to international complications. He said the Government supervised immigration and that such foreign citizens as had come to this country were entitled to equal opportunities with American citizens.

Attorney James Condon, representing the packers, said he wanted time to prepare an argument on the question and a recess was taken.

Domestic Dyestuffs Are Active.

The strong features among the intermediate colorstuffs at the moment, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, are aniline oil, aniline salt, and beta-naphthol. The market for domestic colors is active. The volume of business in vegetable oils is shrinking and prices are easier, especially in the case of cocoanut and soya bean oil, though linseed oil is slightly easier for nearby delivery. Essential oil prices, on the other hand, are higher, with the demand steady. In heavy chemicals the features include a big demand for arsenic and a marked shortage of muriatic acid. The market for drugs and fine chemicals has been fairly active this week. There is quite a little buying for advance deliveries in anticipation of possible labor troubles among workers in drugs and chemicals.

Outlook Worries Cutters-up.

Things are dark these days for the cutters-up. While most of them have all the business in hand they can possibly attend to this season, they are having all kinds of trouble in getting their goods out to the retailers. Coupled with the scarcity of workers in their shops and the "touchy" attitude assumed by those they can get, which makes for slow manufacture of the garments, the cutters are now the victims of still poorer deliveries of fabrics from the mills. The freight embargo put on by the leading New England railway system is holding back already delayed shipments of Fall woolens from that section, and the strike of the silk workers is producing a similar situation in respect to broad silks. On top of all this, makers of suits, coats, and cloth dresses are facing the possibility of getting only limited allotments of the goods they will have to cut for next Spring.

GIGANTIC MONSTERS ONCE ROAMED HERE

FOLLOWED GLACIAL EPOCH

Some Extinct Animals Believed to Have Been Contemporary with Primitive Man.

From time to time bones appearing to be those of ancient and prehistoric animals are unearthed in New York and vicinity by workmen excavating or by farmers working in the fields. Such relics are not infrequently taken by amateur collectors to our museums for identification, where, upon examination, they usually are found to belong to some modern animal.

More than one layman who has stumbled upon them has learned later with disappointment that his supposed great find was nothing more valuable than a fragment of a dead horse or cow. The discovery, nevertheless, of such relics is a never-ending source of interest and amusement to many persons, and visitors to the museums constantly ask if remains of extinct animals are ever found in this part of the country.

Although they have not been found in this vicinity in great abundance, yet a sufficient number have been unearthed to prove that such animals once existed here, as they did in other parts of the New and the Old World. That more relics have not been found is probably due to the great ice sheet which once covered pretty much the entire northern part of the country. In sections which were not affected by this vast glacier sweep their remains are more abundant.

Several excellent skeletons of the mastodon were discovered in the past in peat bogs near Newburg, N. Y. One was found by Dr. J. C. Warren of Boston years ago, and a more recent acquisition, which is regarded as a particularly fine specimen, is the property of the Brooklyn Museum. Others were found in Ulster and Orange Counties, N. Y.

As these ancient beasts traveled to and fro they sometimes wandered into soft swamps or bogs, where they were caught fast until they perished, or perhaps they lost their lives by breaking through the ice. It is believed they appeared in New York later than the glacial epoch, and many scientists think they were contemporary with primitive man.

As to the mammoth, Dr. W. D. Matthew, Curator of Fossil Vertebrates at the American Museum, said that only its teeth had been found in New York, although a few remains had been discovered elsewhere. His size, Dr. Matthew said, was about that of the average elephant. He had a thick coat of hair and a hoss of hair on top of his head. A few years ago the remains of the platygonus, which was related to the pig, and was contemporary with the mastodon and the mammoth, was found near Rochester. He was a larger animal than the pig and had a longer snout.

Relics of ancient and now extinct animals have been discovered at different times in central and southern New Jersey. The cervalces, an animal which was a combination of moose and elk, was found not far from Princeton. At Port Kennedy a deposit was discovered in which were embedded the remains of fifty or sixty different animals, among which was an extinct ground sloth, the sabre toothed tiger. He was about the size of the lion and possessed enormous upper tusks, flattened into a curved sabre-like weapon five or six inches long. Instead of grasping his prey as the lion does, he would strike and tear him to make him bleed to death.

There was also in this deposit a specimen of the ground sloth megalonyx. Thomas Jefferson discovered this animal. He described it as a large extinct creature of the clawed variety. It was the size of a cow, heavy and clumsy, and a plant-eating mammal. It was covered with a heavy coat of hair.

A more recent find in New Jersey was the bone of the megatherium, which was related to the sloth, but was a gigantic beast, as large or larger than the largest living elephant. A foot bone of this animal was picked up on a New Jersey beach years ago, and his skeletons have been found in South America. Bones of a giant beaver have been found in bogs in New York State. This animal was about the size of a black bear.

Bullard and McAndrews Give Views to Military Committee.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Senate Military Affairs Committee, in its consideration of a permanent military policy for the nation, heard today the first representatives of the American Expeditionary Forces in Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, who commanded the Second Army, and Major Gen. James W. McAndrews, who formerly was Chief of Staff overseas.

Both officers, although expressing disagreement, indorsed the leading features of the War Department's Army Reorganization bill providing for three months of military training for all nineteen-year-old youths and for a peacetime army of 576,000 men. Their testimony was regarded as in some degree reflecting the views of General Pershing and a majority of the other officers in France.

While General Bullard was inclined to give a blanket indorsement of the bill, General McAndrews frankly indicated to the committee that there was not complete agreement between the views of the General Staff in Washington and American Army officers abroad regarding a future military policy.

General McAndrews told the committee that, in his opinion, a military peace strength of 300,000 officers and men would be sufficient under the plan for universal military training when the latter became effective.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Fifth Avenue figured prominently in yesterday's realty market when a quick resale at a substantial profit of 85 Fifth Avenue was effected by a syndicate headed by Walter M. Wechsler.

The property, which consists of a thirteen-story loft on the northeast corner of Sixteenth Street, was sold to Max N. Natanson, operator. It was held at $900,000 and shows a gross annual rental of about $90,000. The sellers purchased it from the Greenwich Savings Bank about two weeks ago.

Operator Buys Park Avenue Apartments Held at $650,000.

Daniel H. Jackson, one of the most active operators in the present realty market, who heretofore has confined his large deals to the upper west side, made his first venture in Park Avenue property yesterday when he purchased from the Waters Farm Corporation, Benjamin Blossom, President, the nine-story Hanover apartment house at 981 and 983 Park Avenue.

The structure, which occupies a plot 77 by 110 by 102 by 110, on the northeast corner of Eighty-third Street, has accommodations for twenty-seven families, three on a floor, and shows a gross annual rental of $65,000. It was held at $550,000. Theodore Tenney negotiated the sale.

On the west side Mr. Jackson recently purchased and resold the following properties: 855 West End Avenue, the St. Andoche; 752 West End Avenue, the Dorothy; 524 Riverside Drive, the Lyndon Arms, and 90 Morningside Drive, the block front from 119th to 120th Streets.

Union News Company Buys on Dominick Street.

The Cruikshank Company sold for Mary E. Hart to the Union News Company, the property 27 and 29 Dominick Street, two three-story brick buildings, on a plot 41.1 by 75. This property adjoins the plot 75 feet on Varick Street by 99 feet 10 inches deep on Dominick Street, which was recently acquired by the same buyers from the Trinity Corporation. It is the intention of the purchaser to improve the property in the near future.

Resale of the Palmerston.

The Rosmor Realty Company, Isaac Zimmer, President, purchased from Irving Judis, operator, the Palmerston, a six-story elevator apartment, 100 by 100, at the northwest corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 184th Street. It contains thirty-seven apartments, with seven stores. The property rents for $38,000 and was held at $260,000. The seller recently acquired the proprty from William J. Daniel.

Lower Maiden Lane Deal.

The five-story commercial building at 123 Maiden Lane, on plot 22 by 65 feet, between Water and Pearl Streets, has been sold by Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd, and Frederick Southack & Alwyn Ball, Jr., to Richard S. Elliott.

West Harlem Apartments Resold.

James H. Cruikshank, operator, resold to Abraham Rothkrug the Ferncliff, located on the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and 120th Street, a seven-story fireproof elevator apartment house, on a plot 50 by 100, valued at $130,000. The buyer has taken in part payment the two five-story double flats at 104-106 West Eighty-ninth Street, on a plot 50 by 100, valued at $85,000. Sigmund Simon and Osterweil Brothers were the brokers.

The Union Chemical Glassware Company has resold the Tacoma, an apartment house on the southwest corner of Claremont Avenue and 122d Street, plot 100 by 100, to a Mr. Broderick. It was purchased a few days ago from the Hyams estate. H. Cutler was the broker.
